THERE is indeed something wrong with radio. We wish it would do more to entertain rather than carry dull speeches for the supposed enlightenment of listeners. Good music is the form of entertainment in which it has least competition. Its often futile playlets can hardly compete with the theatre. But instead of making itself supreme in the providing of high-class music, radio appears to skimp that department of its usefulness. As a matter of fact, some of the best music heard over the radio is from records. A good recorded program is much to be preferred to a poor program coming direct from the performers. But a recorded program is not permitted after 7.30 p.m.—Toronto Star.

LESSON IN PUNCTUATION

A SCHOOL MANAGER paid a visit to a school which he had visited only a little while before, and was therefore not expected by the head teacher, who was annoyed at being caught unprepared. "What does the old ass want here again so soon?" he murmured to his assistant, and the manager overheard him. So he suggested a lesson in punctuation. Calling out one of the boys, he told him to write on the blackboard, "The head teacher says the school manager is an ass." The words were written, and the inspector added, "Now put a comma after 'teacher,' and another after 'manager.' This was done, and the whole school read the result.—Montreal Star.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them....

When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer.

For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord: and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee.—Deut. v, 1; xviii, 9-14.

HON. PETER HEENAN, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, is said to be slated for appointment to the Dominion Senate. When that takes place, only one of the five men who campaigned with M. F. Hepburn to gain victory in the 1934 Ontario election and later entered the Hepburn cabinet cabinet will be left with Mr. Hepburn—Hon. H. C. Nixon, the old reliable. Of the others, Arthur Roebuck and David Croll were kicked out of the back door and Duncan Marshall was beaten in the 1937 election. A seat was later provided for Mr. Marshall in the Senate. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

CAN MARRY SOLDIERS

GIRLS in the employ of the province can marry soldiers and still retain their jobs, according to a Queen's Park ruling. This is an amendment to the regulation banning wedded women from the civil service.

The decision is a just one. Girls who wish to marry their sweethearts before the men go overseas should not be deprived of the privilege of doing so without losing their jobs. It would be a cruel policy that would take from a girl her position just because she wedded a man who has offered himself to his country. She will have sacrificed enough without giving up her employment.—Windsor Star.

Market Clerk Discussed By Aldermen

On Alderman Gordon's suggestion, the Board of Works Monday night decided to notify the bondsmen of James Brown, market clerk, that he had not made any payment on his account with the city since the end of June.

Alderman McCannan, chairman of the market committee, said Mr. Brown told him he had the money to pay the city but he was delaying until an adjustment was made regarding his claims for losses resulting from the market arcade fire last June.

According to Alderman McCannan, Mr. Brown was concerned about getting his account "straightened out."

Immediately after the market fire and at least once since then Mr. Brown waited upon the council in committee regarding the effect of the fire on his interest. He said he had owned some of the tables and trestles that were burned or otherwise damaged and also that the attendance at the market when the tent was rented declined from the average Saturday numbers.

In that early stage Mr. Brown was told by the committee to go ahead in the emergency conditions and when the building was restored "they could get together" and adjust the account. The market hall has been reopened, and it was suggested last night that because Mr. Brown was in arrears in his monthly payment to the treasury that his bondsmen should be apprised of that fact.

Mayor Hamilton seconded Alderman Gordon's motion. Alderman McCannan reported that Chief Gimblett had ordered Mr. Brown last Saturday to clear the two entrances entirely of vendors, but the clerk refused to do so, contending that the rental space at the side of the stairways did not interfere with the means of exit.

Eddy Superintendent Ludington, Laid to Rest

OTTAWA, Nov. 28—(CP).—Funral services will be held today for Charles P. Ludington, 51, superintendent of the specialty mill of the E. B. Eddy Company, who died Saturday.

Recognized as a specialist in varied branches of paper manufacture, he was widely known in the industry in Eastern Canada and the United States.

He held office in several paper organizations and at the time of his death was chairman of the New York-Canadian division of the American Pulp and Paper Superintendents' Association.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons and a daughter.

Mothers should never neglect the child's cough or cold, but on its inception should procure a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is so pleasant to the taste the youngsters take it without any fuss.

German Patrol Boat Blows Up

BERLIN, Nov. 28—(AP). — The German high command reported a lull today on the Western front, its communique saying that except for minor "artillery annoyance fire," there was no noteworthy fighting.

German officials yesterday announced 16 men were missing after the German advance patrol boat 301 sank following an explosion at the southern exit of the great belt, a channel separating the Danish Islands of Fuenen and Zealand.

Whether the vessel hit a mine or what its mission was in Danish waters was not disclosed.

(A 300-ton German trawler was reported in Copenhagen to have sunk today after striking a mine off the Danish Island of Langeland.)

Foresees Canada Link Between U.K. And States

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 — (CP). — Foreign policies of Great Britain and the United States might be kept on common ground through Canada's influence in the British Empire, Lord Marley, Deputy Speaker in the House of Lords, said here last night.

Addressing the Montreal People's Forum, Lord Marley said "Canada is the link between the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations, and it is Canada's task to continue as such."

Lord Marley said Canada could influence Great Britain in international affairs, particularly in Britain's relations with the United States.

Lack of funds and outbreak of war have been a handicap in resettling European refugees but the work still is going forward, Lord Marley said.

"Canada can offer its most helpful contribution to Great Britain at present by assisting in the re-emigration of refugees who now are in transit in the British Isles," he said.

He stressed particularly the need for training refugees in agriculture or industry, "for charity alone is a bottomless pit, to which one can go on forever and ever, and only succeed in temporarily alleviating suffering and want."

Looks For Aid In U.S.

Lord Marley looked toward North and South America for help, particularly to the United States where, he said, "there still is great wealth and sympathy."

Two main centres were being considered in placing the refugees—the Philippine Islands and the Dominican Republic.

"We are trying to raise money for the settlement of 500 families in the Dominica, and the government there has given us every assistance," he said.

Lord Marley referred also to British Guiana, another country "the possibilities of which strike me." Climate of the coastal region there was bad, he said, but the hinterland was healthful and an ideal place for settlement.

Settlement in Guiana, however, was in abeyance because of the war.

There are approximately 45,000 enemy alien refugees in England at present, Lord Marley said, and only 1,000 to 1,500 of these have been interned. This, he described as "a remarkably low percentage."

Millbrook Bazaar Proves Attraction

MILLBROOK, Nov. 28—(ENS)—An enjoyable event of Saturday afternoon was the annual bazaar and service of afternoon tea, by the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Presbyterian church, held in the community waiting room from 2.30 to 6 p.m. and continued through the evening hours until practically everything had been disposed of.

Fall flowers added to the attractiveness of the large room, the cosy atmosphere indoors, and the warm greeting given all comers.

At the counter where fancy work was displayed in tempting array, were Mrs. Milton Fallis and Mrs. I. W. Larmer; at the adjoining homebaking counter, where the wares also were of a decidedly attractive character, Mrs. S. E. Eakins attended to the wants of the many customers. The tea table was lovely with baskets of 'mums on the central reflector. Mrs. A. Raeburn-Gibson poured, and assistants included Misses Mina Gibson, M. Raeburn-Gibson, Jean Syer, and Mrs. M. Kinsman.

At the 'white elephant' table, where mysterious parcels tempted the dimes and nickels from the purses of those who stopped to 'look and feel,' Mrs. Alex Miller and Mrs. E. L. Armstrong presided. Mrs. R. J. McMahon made the tea, and from the popular event a substantial sum was added to the society's treasury.

Dutch Liner Sunk In Thames Estuary

The 8,857-ton Dutch liner Spaarndam was sunk in the Thames estuary outside London on November 27th when it struck a mine thought to have been one of the ones dropped from German bombing planes. The Spaarndam carried a general cargo and had left New Orleans September 22nd. Four members of the crew and a woman passenger were killed by the explosion. This picture of the Edam, sister ship of the Spaarndam, was transmitted by phonephoto from New York.

DOROTHY DIX

Look Into The Background Of Your Future Husband Or Wife Before Taking The Fatal Step—It Might Halt You Before It Is Too Late.

One of the things that boys and girls who are contemplating marriage do not consider sufficiently is each other's background. Somehow they seem to regard this as negligible and to believe that the wedding ceremony is some sort of magic that will wipe out all differences of race and heredity and customs and make them one soul with but a single thought and the same tastes.

If you should say to any engaged lad: "Yes, I know Mary is pretty and has eyes like violets and naturally curly hair, but does she come from the same sort of people that you do? Does her mother go to symphony concerts or hang out the back window gossiping with the neighbors? Does her father sit around home of evenings in his stocking feet and no collar or dress for dinner as your father does? Has Mary been reared on good food or something brought in from the delicatessen?" Why, John would laugh and say: "Well, I'm not marrying the family."

And if, when Mary came to show you her ring and tell you that she and Tom were going to be married, you should say: "Tom is a grand lad and he is a go-getter, but have you considered that you have been brought up in an austere home, where everything was prim and decorous and where everybody read improving books; where the food was plain but nourishing and nobody even smiled aloud, while Tom has grown up in a gay and boisterous home that was always overflowing with company and it mattered more about people being entertaining than their pedigrees where there was plenty of drinking and much highly spiced food?" If you should say that to Mary, and add: "It is as hard to mix oil and water as it is Puritanism and gay living," she would reply: "We love each other." As if that ended the matter.

But it doesn't end it, for no matter how much a man and woman love each other there can be very little happiness in their marriage if all their ways of life, all of their likes and dislikes are in continual conflict and they must be forever walking on eggs to keep off of the other's prejudices and sacrificing themselves for the other's pleasure.

Irvin Cobb once said that the Civil War was not fought over the issue of slavery, but over the question of hot bread versus cold bread, and that battle still goes on in virtually every household in which a Northerner and a Southerner are mated.

The idea that the happiness of a marriage depends upon the two contracting parties possessing all the standardized virtues is more or less of a fallacy. The success of a marriage depends almost altogether upon little things, upon the husband and wife liking to step out or stay at home, upon their enjoying the same kind of movies or both being golf hounds, and particularly upon their liking the same kind of cooking. Garlic in a salad can either make or break a home.

Among the many tales of matrimonial woe that I listen to every day at least half of them stem back to the fact that a husband and wife are miserable together because they were brought up with different tastes and habits. A man who was reared in a happy-go-lucky, scrambled sort of a household is nagged to death by a wife who has been raised to scrupulous order and who has a fit if anybody drops a paper on the floor. A man who has always loved dogs and who feels like the Scotsman — undressed if he hasn't one at his heels—marries a woman who won't let him have a pet.

A woman who has been brought up in a nonsmoking household torments her husband over every cigarette. A wife who likes boiled potatoes can't stand a husband who likes them fried, and so on and so on.

So the moral is, considering that there are always plenty of things for husbands and wives to disagree about, to look well into the background of the man and woman you are thinking of marrying and get one that matches your own as nearly as you can. Strangers may be glamorous and attract us for the moment, but they don't look so good when we have to change all of our ways to meet theirs.

The happy marriage is the one in which the husband and wife can always yes-yes each other.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 20 and have been engaged for four years to a boy who is 21. We would like to get married, but cannot on account of his parents, who think that he should pay them board for a year in which they took care of him when he was out of work. They do not object to his marrying me, but they think that he should pay them before he does, and this would put off our wedding. Should we run away and get married or should we let nature take its course? —SHIRLEY.

ANSWER:

If the boy's parents are poor and need the money I think you should be willing to put off your wedding until he can pay them back what he cost them during the year he was out of work. You mustn't forget that they stood by him in his time of need and kept him from the heartbreaking experience of having no place to lay his head at night and no food to eat.

But if the parents are well-to-do I think they should have a heart and not make you two young lovers wait any longer to be married.

A great deal of the happiness of every marriage depends upon the wife being on good terms with her husband's people, and I urge you not to jeopardize that by falling out with them at this crucial time. It will pay you so much in happiness to agree to their plans. You are both so young that you can well afford to put off your marriage for another year.

DOROTHY DIX.

Cliveden Hospital Is Being Organized

LONDON, Nov. 28—(CP Cable)—Dr. F. W. Routley of Toronto said in an interview today he was in London to cooperate with the Canadian Red Cross committee in getting services established.

"My particular mission is to go over plans for the hospital at Cliveden," he said, referring to the country estate which Viscount and Viscountess Astor have provided as a site for a hospital for Canadian soldiers overseas. He added a survey had been made and that the hospital would be ready in three or four months.

Dr. Routley said a Canadian is expected shortly to take charge of the actual administration but did not mention any name. Actual setup at Cliveden is similar to that of the last war, when a Canadian hospital was based there. The question of establishing warehouses for supplies is receiving attention at present.

U.S. Extends Probe Of Communism

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—(AP).—The Congressional Committee probing "unamerican" activities turned its investigation today toward charges of communist infiltration into United States colleges, universities, and public schools.

The committee called as the first witness William Nowell, who Chairman Dies said is a Negro laborer in Detroit and a former member of the communist party.

At least three professors, the chairman said, will testify this week about teaching of communist doctrines in higher educational institutions. Other witnesses, he added, would offer testimony that communists have written some textbooks in public school use.

Robert Stripling, committee clerk, said that dozens of parents had submitted information about "red propaganda" in their children's studies.

Clean Out BIG BOWEL!

Move Jammed-up Waste Those Last Few Inches For Direct Constipation Relief

When you're dull, draggy, headachy because of constipation, your trouble is usually in the big bowel (marked X). So why seek relief with calomel, salts, oil or any other laxative that works somewhere else in the bowel tract first? It's far wiser, as thousands have discovered, to depend on a laxative which acts directly on the big bowel, where body waste has jammed! That calls for CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS.

Because they contain cascara, said to give "nearest to natural action" of any cathartic, CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS concentrate their help on the big bowel. They act gently in from 10 to 12 hours—move sluggish waste those last few inches—bring blessed relief overnight. And do it without upsetting the rest of the bowel tract.

You'll like CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS—for their mildness and their fine, chocolaty goodness. Each foil-wrapped tablet a dose. All drugstores. For free sample, write "Cascarets," Windsor, Ont.

Hollywood Bowl Doodlebug Treasure Hunt Turns Up Loot At 6-Foot Level—Rusty Watch

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—(AP) — A hole eight feet deep and a rusty watch stood out today as tangible results of Hollywood's bowl's treasure hunt.

The hole represented the combined labours of a half dozen men. The watch turned up at the six-foot level.

It apparently was of fairly recent origin but how it got there no one would guess.

Using an excitable device called a "doodlebug" and defying a legend which says a curse has killed eight other searchers, the shovellers dug below the bowl's parking lot. They are looking for $200,000 which a frightened Mexican sheepherder buried somewhere in Cahuenga Pass 74 years ago.

Henry Jones, Seattle mining engineer, is directing the hunt. Frank Hoekstra operates the "doodlebug," a complicated collection of wires, electrodes, dials and a big needle which supposedly agitates in the presence of buried metal.

It "doodled" frequently as the hunters pressed deeper, and at times seemed barely able to contain itself.

"We're coming closer," Hoekstra announced.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, November 29.

Affairs move at a highly-accelerated pace on this day under the impulse of greatly-stimulated forces and faculties. Particularly are new projects and interests advanced under the high pressure of progressive planetary urges. It is a time to move forward with initiative, courage and by means of the keen impetus of practically constructive abilities and talents. Group action in such enterprise seems encouraged. But do not overdo through excessive zeal or wilfulness.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of definite accomplishment, especially in the direction of putting over new propositions or gaining important objectives in which some manner of group co-operation may be advantageous. The energies and initiative will be spurred to high tension, but be careful not to overdo with enthusiasm, reckless determination or impetuosity.

A child born on this day may have excellent ability for fine creative work of a practical and dependable nature. These it may develop with courage, determination, and head-strongness, the latter to a degree of obstinacy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28 —(AP) —The Quaker line steamship Peter Kerr broadcast a general call early today asking ships to "please stand by us."

Globe wireless said the Peter Kerr messaged she had a "hold full of water." Her position was given as 44.33 north latitude, 152.16 east longitude—about 600 miles east of Hakodate, Japan. The weather was clear but the sea rough, the message said.

The Peter Kerr, a ship of 4,093 tons net, sailed from Los Angeles Nov. 4 for Vladivostok.

Globe wireless said the call from the Peter Kerr was picked up at 1:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EST).

Belmont Pioneer Mrs. J. Woods Passes 93 Mark

Never seriously ill during her lifetime, Mrs. Woods is still enjoying good health, attributing her longevity to a temperate living. Possessed of nearty appetite she looks forward to her three daily meals, which she insists must be served at the regular time. Although her hearing has partially failed her, she has retained use of her sight and other faculties. She enjoys listening to the radio, the Gospel singers being her favorite program, but her horror of the war has caused her to dispense with the daily newscasts.

Mrs. Woods was born at Healey Falls near Campbellford on November 28, 1846. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Munroe, her maiden name being Salinda Munroe.

When she was just 17 years of age she moved to the Oak Lake district, fifteen miles north of this village, where she remained a resident until she came to Havelock a few years ago to live with her daughter. At 19 she married James Woods, who with her parents were the first settlers near Oak Lake. The log house which her husband built at this time is now owned by her son, John Woods, who still lives on the family homestead. Her husband died in 1932.

Her family includes three daughters, Mrs. A. Nicholson, Havelock, Mrs. R. Aulthouse, Deer Lake, Mrs. A. Aulthouse, Healey Falls, and five sons, James of Havelock, Daniel of Deer Lake, and John, Herbert, and Howard, all of Oak Lake.

Oxen Are Used.

She recalls that when she first moved to Oak Lake with her parents, the only mode of travel between there and Healey Falls was walking. A few years later oxen were used for this journey, which took over a day and a half to cover. They would travel from Healey Falls to Round Lake, a distance of 18 miles the first day and then cover the remaining six miles the next day.

She remembers quite clearly also that Indians frequently were seen near their homestead at Oak Lake. During her earlier years she used to make the material for their own clothing — picking, carding, spinning and weaving the wool into cloth.

Suspect Arrested For Clover Theft

MILLBROOK, Nov. 28—(ENS).—Working in close co-operated, Chief E. C. Richards of Millbrook, and Provincial Constable Sutherland of Port Hope, on Saturday arested a man named Dixon, of Peterborough, and lodged him in Cobourg gaol, charged with stealing seven bags of clover seed from Stuart Donaldson, Provincial Highway 28, the offence occurring about one month ago.

Dixon will come up for trial at Cobourg on Thursday morning, before Magistrate Campbell.

Millbrook

The fire company responded to an alarm about 7 p.m. on Thursday, a small blaze, of unknown origin, having broken out in the woodshed back of J. Foster's residence, King street east. The fire was soon extinguished, practically with water thrown upon it from pails, and without need of the chemical engine which was taken for the purpose.

Police are investigating the loss of 26 bags of wheat, and 2 cords or more of good dry maple hardwood, taken from H. A. Earle's farm yard within the past two weeks.

The junior L.O.L., recently organized on the Fallis Line, is attending divine worship in the United Church of that community on Sunday, November 26, at 2.30 p.m. when Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D. will preach. The local Orangemen and Black Knights are also invited to join with the juniors for this special service.

It is expected that the local Red Cross drive, for which canvassers have already been appointed, will get under way this week, Millbrook and Cavan being the territory to be covered.

Ex-Warden Percy Stinson, township clerk, J. N. McGill, Postmaster T. H. Collins, and Councillors R. A. Ford, D. Sheppard, and H. D. Higelow motored to Cobourg on Wednesday and attended the annual banquet to the Warden, T. A. Reid, of Clarke Township. An interesting feature of the closing session of the Counties' Council on Thursday afternoon was the presentation of a silver sandwich tray to Reeve Roy Whittington, of South Monaghan, in recognition of his recent marriage. Reeve W. E. Ball of Millrook, read the address, and the gift was presented by Reeve Wilson, of Port Hope.

Local volunteers who have passed their medical examination and are awaiting the call for military service include B. L. Richards, Bill Kerr and Bruce Freelove.

Only 26 Picked Up

BERLIN, Nov. 28—(CP-Havas).—Reich warships which sunk the armed British merchant cruiser Rawalpindi off Iceland Thursday saved only 26 men accordingto today's communique from the German high command.

"German naval forces, commanded by Vice-Admiral Marschall executed scouting operations in the North Atlantic between the Faeroes and Greenland, near Iceland," the communique said. "They met the British auxiliary cruiser Rawalpindi, which was destroyed after a short fight.

(Eleven men were picked up by the armed merchant cruiser Chitral, reports from London said. The full complement of the Rawalpindi was about 300).

The communique reported "minor patrol and artillery activity in some sections" of the Western front. "Aviation confined itself to reconnaissance flights near the frontier because of bad weather," it was added.

A Seaman's Version

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(CP)—A seaman rescued from the British armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi, sunk off Iceland last Thursday by the German pocket battleship Deutschland, said today that the Nazi ship fired "without warning."

"They battered the Rawalpindi, whose guns were ineffective against the superior arms of the Germans," said the seaman, one of the 11 rescued by the armed merchant cruiser Chitral.

"Several of us escaped in a lifeboat.

"By this time, the Rawalpindi seemed on the point of sinking.

"We were tossed about in the high seas, the Deutschland put on full speed and passed the lifeboat, almost swamping it. We were extremely bitter about this because we felt it was deliberately done. We later managed to rescue a man from an overturned lifeboat. All the others were drowned when the boat capsized."

The Chitral, which picked up the Rawalpindi's wireless call for aid, arrived on the scene as a snowstorm churned the icy waters, but managed to rescued the boatload of men in the gathering gloom.

(An admiralty account of the naval engagement said the Deutschland fired a warning shot before opening fire on the Rawalpindi.)

Captain in Great War

LONDON, Nov. 28—(CP)—Captain E. C. Kennedy, Commander of the armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi, sunk in a battle with the German raider Deutschland, was in command of the British warship Cassandra when it was sunk by a mine in the Baltic Sea, December 5, 1918, after the last war.

He left retirement to re-enter the navy when the present war began. Whether he died in the Rawalpindi wreck is not yet known.

is no reason to remove troops from the frontier in the manner you suggested."

Erkko added that Finnish frontier guards had seen shells bursting on the Soviet side of the border, and suggested there might have been "an accident on the Russian side in connection with exercises which unfortunately claimed a loss of life."

"Therefore it is my duty to deny your protest and to establish the fact that from the Finnish side no hostile actions have taken place," he said.

Offer An Opening.

Diplomatic observers viewed the note as offering Russia an opportunity to resume negotiations which were broken off November 13 when Finland declined to grant Soviet demands for border revisions and military concessions.

These observers interpreted the message, however, as reiteration of Finland's refusal to any one-sided proposals which might affect her vital interests.

Despite growing tension occasioned by the alleged "border incident" and reports of mounting resentment in Russia, Finland as a whole appeared calm.

Tass, the Russian news agency, reported that in Russia "a storm of the people's wrath and indignation" had been stirred by the "incident" and told of mass meetings of soldiers, farmers and workers at which the Soviet Government was urged to take "strictest measures."

In his reply to the Moscow protest, Erkko expressed "satisfaction" with Molotoff's "intimation that the Soviet Government does not intend to exaggerate the importance" of the reported incident on the frontier.

The Premier added that the armed forces on the Finnish side of the border consist "mainly only of frontier guards," and that there is no artillery on the Karelian Isthmus with a range extending across the frontier.

(In Washington, a spokesman for the Finnish legation said that the frontier guard numbers only about 2,000 men and is not a part of the army. Military units in the border area consist mostly of small forces of infantry, the spokesman said.)

The introduction of tungsten carbide powder created a minor revolution in industry. It is now possible to produce eight times the number of armaments from the same type of machines. It is possible to produce shells in minutes, as against hours in the last war.

No Glossy Finishes.

The ministry of Supply aids factories to obtain the necessary machine tools. To speed up production it has been made compulsory for factories making these tools to eliminate glossy finishes. Elimination of this process in one factory meant the freeing of 4,800 square feet of floor space for other necessary work.

Because of the necessity of getting all machine tools to work, Mr. Rowse often has to interfere with their allocation and where a machine is idle have it moved to another plant.

Commenting on the presence of foreign machines, such as those made in the United States, in factories here, Mr. Rowse said there was no reason to be despondent over the British machine tool industry.

"We had not started until other people had showed their hand and then we had to move quickly," he said.

British supplies of foreign currency gave the country a big advantage in the purchase of such tools, he added, and his department was obtaining as much as possible of the huge production of the United States.

Polish Luxury Liner Sunk By Mine

One of the largest merchantmen to be sunk during current hostilities, the Polish luxury liner Pilsudski, pride of the Polish merchant marine, was sent to the bottom after she struck a mine in the North Sea while under an Admiralty charter. All but seven of the Pilsudski's crew were reported rescued. Captain Mamert Stankiewicz, INSET, commander of the ill-fated liner, was the hero of the tragedy. Although severely injured, he stayed with the ship until the last lifeboat had been lowered and then plunged into the icy sea, where he clung to a raft for more than an hour until rescued by a British destroyer. He succumbed to his injuries and exposure soon after being taken aboard the rescue vessel. The Pilsudski is shown here on her maiden voyage to New York in 1935.

Extra Policemen Guard Car Firm At Detroit

DETROIT, Nov. 28—(AP).—Extra police stood guard at Chrysler Corporation's main Dodge plant yesterday to forestall a possible repetition of Friday's outbreak of violence.

Events of the week-end, following on the heels of that incident in which several persons were injured in a picket line melee, served to heighten tension in the automobile industry's longest labor dispute as it entered its 52nd day.

The Dodge plant, where the quarrel over a production "slowdown" began Oct. 6, remained the storm center of the tie-up which has affected an estimated 150,000 workers. Picket lines manned by members of the CIO United Automobile Workers were enlarged after the dispute officially became a strike at that plant Saturday.

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, charged yesterday that a "back-to-work movement of negro laborers" was being organized, and asked the corporation to close its plants lest "serious riots" result. The corporation replied that the plants would remain open as they have since the dispute began, and disclaimed sponsorship of "any back-to-work movement."

Negotiators seeking a peace formula to end the tie-up resumed their conferences today after a week-end recess. Still to be settled were the questions of wage schedules and the unionization of shop foremen and supervisory workers.

The 1940 program will offer more opportunity for soil conservation than did this year's, officials said, largely through revised rates of payment designed to encourage practices not normally carried out on many farms. Common practices, such as seeding alfalfa, will be given less credit.

Enough for Reserve.

At normal yields, officials said, the 1940 program would provide ample supplies for all domestic needs, export requirements, and an adequate reserve.

Payments for wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and rice will be supplemented by parity payments from a special $225,000,000 appropriation if the 1939 average price proves to be less than 75 per cent of parity. Those payments are designed to lift farm purchasing power to the level it occupied before the Great War.

The national goals for 1940 are: wheat, 60,000,000 to 65,000,000; corn, 88,000,000 to 90,000,000; cotton, 27,000,000 to 29,000,000; rice, 880,000 to 900,000; peanuts, 1,550,000 to 1,600,000, and potatoes 3,100,000 to 3,300,00.

Four Reeves Out In Victoria Warden's Job

LINDSAY, Nov. 28—(ENS)— A contest for the Wardenship of Victoria in which at least four reeves will participate is assured as a result of announcements made at the closing session of the County Council on Saturday. Those who are definitely in the field are Reeve C. Benson, of Eldon; Reeve G. Parkin, of Fenelon Township. These two were elected by acclamation at the nomination held last week. Reeve LeCraw, of Digby, Laxton and Langford, and Reeve W. Short, of Mariposa, are also in the field, providing they are returned at the municipal elections. Reeve P. McNamee of Carden, was also re-elected last week.

Frank Roach of Ops Township, has suffered the loss of three cows recently, and it has developed that the three animals were shot. Mr. Roach discovered the carcass of a dead cow on Saturday. The hide and meat had been taken from the body. The other two had been shot, as the bullet holes could be seen quite plainly.

Two cars were badly damaged in a collision on the Downeyville road on Saturday night. W. J. Thurston, of Dunsford, was on his way to Lindsay when he collided with another driven by Edward Curtin, of Downeyville. The occupants escaped unhurt.

Belmont Pioneer Mrs. J. Woods Passes 93 Mark

Never seriously ill during her lifetime, Mrs. Woods is still enjoying good health, attributing her longevity to a temperate living. Possessed of nearly appetite she looks forward to her three daily meals, which she insists must be served at the regular time. Although her hearing has partially failed her, she has retained use of her sight and other faculties. She enjoys listening to the radio, the Gospel singers being her favorite program, but her horror of the war has caused her to dispense with the daily newscasts.

Mrs. Woods was born at Healey Falls near Campbellford on November 28, 1846. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Munroe, her maiden name being Salinda Munroe.

When she was just 17 years of age she moved to the Oak Lake district, fifteen miles north of this village, where she remained a resident until she came to Havelock a few years ago to live with her daughter. At 19 she married James Woods, who with her parents were the first settlers near Oak Lake. The log house which her husband built at this time is now owned by her son, John Woods, who still lives on the family homestead. Her husband died in 1932.

Her family includes three daughters, Mrs. A. Nicholson, Havelock, Mrs. R. Aulthouse, Deer Lake, Mrs. A. Aulthouse, Healey Falls, and five sons, James of Havelock, Daniel of Deer Lake, and John, Herbert, and Howard, all of Oak Lake.

Oxen Are Used.

She recalls that when she first moved to Oak Lake with her parents, the only mode of travel between there and Healey Falls was walking. A few years later oxen were used for this journey, which took over a day and a half to cover. They would travel from Healey Falls to Round Lake, a distance of 18 miles the first day and then cover the remaining six miles the next day.

She remembers quite clearly also that Indians frequently were seen near their homestead at Oak Lake. During her earlier years she used to make the material for their own clothing — picking, carding, spinning and weaving the wool into cloth.

Suspect Arrested For Clover Theft

MILLBROOK, Nov. 28—(ENS).—Working in close co-operated, Chief E. C. Richards of Millbrook, and Provincial Constable Sutherland of Port Hope, on Saturday arested a man named Dixon, of Peterborough, and lodged him in Cobourg gaol, charged with stealing seven bags of clover seed from Stuart Donaldson, Provincial Highway 28, the offence occurring about one month ago.

Dixon will come up for trial at Cobourg on Thursday morning, before Magistrate Campbell.

Millbrook

The fire company responded to an alarm about 7 p.m. on Thursday, a small blaze, of unknown origin, having broken out in the woodshed back of J. Foster's residence, King street east. The fire was soon extinguished, practically with water thrown upon it from pails, and without need of the chemical engine which was taken for the purpose.

Police are investigating the loss of 25 bags of wheat, and 2 cords or more of good dry maple hardwood, taken from H. A. Earle's farm yard within the past two weeks.

The junior L.O.L., recently organized on the Fallis Line, is attending divine worship in the United Church of that community on Sunday, November 26, at 2.30 p.m. when Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D. will preach. The local Orangemen and Black Knights are also invited to join with the juniors for this special service.

It is expected that the local Red Cross drive, for which canvassers have already been appointed, will get under way this week, Millbrook and Cavan being the territory to be covered.

Ex-Warden Percy Stinson, township clerk, J. N. McGill, Postmaster T. H. Collins, and Councillors R. A. Ford, D. Sheppard, and H. D. Bigelow motored to Cobourg on Wednesday and attended the annual banquet to the Warden, T. A. Reid, of Clarke Township. An interesting feature of the closing session of the Counties' Council on Thursday afternoon was the presentation of a silver sandwich tray to Reeve Roy Whittington, of South Monaghan, in recognition of his recent marriage. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, charged yesterday that a "back-to-work movement of negro laborers" was being organized, and asked the corporation to close its plants lest "serious riots" result. The corporation replied that the plants would remain open as they have since the dispute began, and disclaimed sponsorship of "any back-to-work movement."

Negotiators seeking a peace formula to end the tie-up resumed their conferences today after a week-end recess. Still to be settled were the questions of wage schedules and the unionization of shop foremen and supervisory workers.

Laymen's Euchre Jolly Affair

MARMORA, Nov. 28.—(ENS)—Under auspices of St. Paul's Laymen's Association a euchre party was held on Monday evening in the parish hall with ten tables in play.

The winners were Don McInroy and Mrs. Donovan, the former breaking a tie with Clayton Burkitt and the latter with Mrs. Don McInroy. Mrs. Harry Phillips received the door prize.

The drawing for the gold watch and quilt resulted in John Cochran obtaining the watch and Lem Lung the quilt. Refreshments were served at the close of play.

The 1940 program will offer more opportunity for soil conservation than did this year's, officials said, largely through revised rates of payment designed to encourage practices not normally carried out on many farms. Common practices, such as seeding alfalfa, will be given less credit.

Enough for Reserve.

At normal yields, officials said, the 1940 program would provide ample supplies for all domestic needs, export requirements, and an adequate reserve.

Payments for wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and rice will be supplemented by parity payments from a special $225,000,000 appropriation if the 1939 average price proves to be less than 75 per cent of parity. Those payments are designed to lift farm purchasing power to the level it occupied before the Great War.

The national goals for 1940 are: wheat, 60,000,000 to 65,000,000; corn, 88,000,000 to 90,000,000; cotton, 27,000,000 to 29,000,000; rice, 880,000 to 900,000; peanuts, 1,550,000 to 1,600,000, and potatoes 3,100,000 to 3,300,00.

Four Reeves Out In Victoria Warden's Job

LINDSAY, Nov. 28—(ENS)— A contest for the Wardenship of Victoria in which at least four reeves will participate is assured as a result of announcements made at the closing session of the County Council on Saturday. Those who are definitely in the field are Reeve C. Benson, of Eldon; Reeve G. Parkin, of Fenelon Township. These two were elected by acclamation at the nomniation held last week. Reeve LeCraw, of Digby, Laxton and Langford, and Reeve W. Short, of Mariposa, are also in the field, providing they are returned at the municipal elections. Reeve P. McNamee of Carden, was also re-elected last week.

Frank Roach of Ops Township, has suffered the loss of three cows recently, and it has developed that the three animals were shot. Mr. Roach discovered the carcass of a dead cow on Saturday. The hide and meat had been taken from the body. The other two had been shot, as the bullet holes could be seen quite plainly.

Two cars were badly damaged in a collision on the Downeyville road on Saturday night. W. J. Thurston, of Dunsford, was on his way to Lindsay when he collided with another driven by Edward Curtin, of Downeyville. The occupants escaped unhurt.

City Restricted From Buying Factory Building

The city council was restricted by law from buying the old Auburn plant of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited to prevent its demolition, Alderman Glover, chairman of the Manufacturers Committee, declared at last night's meeting of the Board of Works.

"We did all we possibly could," Alderman Glover said. "The council expressed itself as being willing to spend $25,000 to lay a sewer to the plant if a company we were negotiating with in Toronto would take over the property and locate there. We went as far as we could within the law."

This reference to the experience of last summer when both the city and its council had to stand by and see the walls that had housed its oldest industry disappear stone by stone was elicited in a discussion of a letter from J. W. Gravestock, manager of the Canadian Crayon Company, Lindsay, advising that if they cannot dispose of the building they had occupied here, near the corner of George and Romaine streets, it would be torn down.

The Crayon Company wishes to sell the property for $3,500, and when it was suggested by several members of the council that the city buy it they were reminded that they were prohibited from taking that step by the same restrictions that had tied their hands in the face of the ultimatum that the stone buildings of the Auburn mill were going to be razed.

Criticism Heard

It may be that Alderman Glover was nettled by the repetition of criticism that was rather generally directed at the council in connection with the loss of the buildings of the woollen mills, because there was unwonted sharpness in his tone that seemed to indicate resentment that had been repressed while public opinion was borne in silence. His assertion was enlarged and explained by several of the members and City Solicitor Huycke. The substance of the explanation of the restrictions placed upon the council by the Legislature was to the effect that the city is not permitted to spend the people's money in speculative purchases.

The council may buy land for a park site, it was stated, as was done in acquiring the McDonald's Point property, now well advanced in improvement; it could buy the Crayon building for a fire hall in the south end of the city; but, Mr. Huycke said, that purchase must be "bona fide," it must be in good faith. In other words, the council must actually intend to use the building as a fire hall, rather than buy it ostensibly for that purpose, but actually to own the building in the prospect that some day it might attract a new industry to locate in it.

Personally Liable

Alderman Gordon said that if a speculative deal of that kind was made by the council the members could be held personally liable for the sum of $3,500.

Alderman McCannan remarked that it would be a shame to see the former Crayon Company building torn down, especially after all the talk there was about the loss of the Auburn plant.

Alderman Bradburn said something should be done about it, and moved that Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Glover and McCannan be a committee to see whether it could be purchased.

"I'm not in favor of asking them to do something that we have been told is illegal," Alderman Dutton stated.

Alderman Gordon said: "I'll move that Alderman Bradburn go on the committee as chairman."

"Sure, I'm willing to go on it," Alderman Bradburn replied. "There must be something we can do."

"Leave me off it," Alderman Glover requested. "I don't think anything can be done."

Aldermen Dutton and McIntyre said they wouldn't vote for a motion of that kind.

Alderman Gordon suggested that possibly the council might obtain special legislation to acquire the old factory building.

"That's what I had in mind, that we try to find out if there is anything we can do," Alderman Bradburn agreed, and in that spirit the motion was clarified and broadened.

As moved by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman Glover, the committee is composed of Alderman Bradburn as chairman, Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Glover and McCannan with instructions to enquire into the possibility of buying the building by means of a private bill in the Legislature or otherwise.

C.N.R. Revenue

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Increase of $9,910,595 was reported yesterday by Canadian National Railways in net revenue of $12,106,202 for 10 months ended Oct. 31, compared with $2,195,607 in the corrresponding period a year ago.

Operating revenues increased $13,916,505 to $164,189,092 from $150,272,587 and operating expenses advanced $4,005,910 to $152,082,890 from $148,076,980.

October net revenue was up $802,987 at $5,453,848 against $4,650,861 in the like period a year ago. Operating revenues increased $2,008,002 to $21,943,155 from $19,935,153 and operating expenses were up $1,205,015 at $16,489,307 from $15,284,292.

Buttermakers Win Trophy

Members of the Kawartha Buttermakers' Club of the Lindsay and Peterborough district gave a good account of themselves at the Ontario Creamerymen's Association convention held in the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

C. A. Davies, creamery instructor for the Lindsay and Peterborough district and also Durham and Northumberland counties, selected three buttermakers from his group of creameries to enter the annual cream and butter judging competition in Toronto, and were successful in winning the grand championship trophy donated by the S. F. Lawrason Dairy Supply Company of London. Mr. Davies' team also won the highest award for butter judging which was a very fine silver cup donated by the Canadian Vegetable Parchment Company of Merritton, Ontario. The member of the team were: Glen E. Hogg of the Harwood Co-operative Creamery Company, Alex. McKessock, superintendent of the Lindsay Creamery Co., and Thomas Lonergan of the Sutton Creamery, Sutton, Ontario.

Glen Hogg was successful in obtaining the very high score of 99.5 for his individual scoring in the butter section which resulted in winning the John H. Scott trophy, which is a presentation of all the instruction staff. Mr. McKessock and Mr. Lonergan each were successful in winning other valuable prizes for their individual work in judging. Mr. Davies will hold both silver trophies for next year, when they must be returned for another competition.

Plan To Improve McDonald's Point

"And don't plant them so thick you won't be able to see across the lake," Alderman Stocker advised last night in reference to the planting of trees on the city's rapidly transforming property at McDonald's Point.

Alderman Dutton commented that the plans of the improvement of the point, a beautification scheme that has appealed especially to Mayor Hamilton and received a great deal of his attention, were now taking form, and the public could appreciate what the final development would be like.

It is suggested that a border of trees be planted, and a walk laid parallel with the bank, and other embellishments be carried out when the present grading is finished.

Alderman Glover advised that a curb should be built on the inner margin of the Crescent Street pavement to prevent motor cars from cutting up the ground that was graded and seeded in grass this fall.

"And something should be done about the rubbish that is thrown down the stone wall to the lake," Alderman Bradburn said.

"There's lots of things to be done down there yet, but we will have to be content with getting around to them gradually.

Road Along Canal Cost $8,880.86

The new black top road along the east bank of the canal from McFarlane avenue to the C.P.R. cost $8,880.86, Alderman Wilson, chairman, told the Board of Works last night.

The Dominion Government agreed to pay the city $6,000, the estimated cost of this job, in an arrangement by which the city undertook to build it and assume its future upkeep. That means the care of this road now passes from the hands of the government.

Apparently the excess cost of $2,880.86 will have to be charged to the city treasury. The work included the projection of the road in a straightening deviation south of the C.P.R.

Battle Of Modder River Fought In Beer War Forty Years Ago

One of the few Canadians who took part in the memorable engagement, Tom Miller, 123 Maude street, former regimental sergeant-major of the 93rd Peterborough County Battalion in the Great War is thinking back today to a river in faraway South Africa where 40 years ago he participated as a young Guardsman in one of the outstanding battles of the earlier stages of the South African war.

Four decades ago on November 28, 1899, the battle of Modder River was fought between a British column under General Lord Methuen and a strong force of Boers as the British army, started to smash their way through to the relief of Kimberley.

Tom Miller, born in Peterborough, wanted to be a soldier when he reached manhood's estate and some time before the South African war broke out he had journeyed to England and enlisted with the Scots Guards. When hostilities opened the Guards brigade was among the first troops sent to Africa and with a Highland brigade, formed the greater part of the army under Methuen which was sent north on the western flank to relieve Kimberley, besieged by the Boers from the beginning of the war. Methuen's forces which also included artillery and auxiliary troops numbered about 10,000 men.

Forty years ago yesterday, the column, which had come into contact with the enemy twice before in the previous week, at Belmont and Graspan, reached the bank of the Modder River where they found the Boers strongly entrenched on the far side of the stream. Next day the British attacked and although held up for some time by a strong force under the Boer general, De La Rey, finally drove the foe from their stronghold in the hills when a detachment under General Pole-Carew turned the enemy flank.

"There were very few Canadians with the Methuen column" former Guardsman Miller said to The Examiner. "There was one, I remember with the Grenadier Guards and possibly a few other scattered around but I was the only one from this part of Canada. The Canadian contingent had not got up there at that stage of the war."

The battle of Modder River, paved the way for a British triumph in February of the following year when Cronje's army was surrounded at Paardeburg and forced to surrender.

New Monaghan Sewer Annoys Alderman

"Have we no say about it?" was Alderman Bradburn's query in protest that a sewer was recently laid on Ann street in North Monaghan, opposite the end of King street, without a report on the project as asked for by the Board two months ago. "This Board was entitled to a report, and it has never been given."

Alderman Bradburn refused to be led off at a tangent by conversation about the city's agreement with the township in regard to the charge for such sewer services, eight dollars a year to residents of the township. When the discussion got back to the Bradburn grievance as to why the report was not received before the digging of the sewer was begun, Alderman Wilson replied frankly—"I can't answer that."

City Engineer Parsons told the Board that examination of the river bed above the Quaker Oats dam had revealed a condition that would require some extra cost in footings for the proposed foot bridge. He also said it was unlikely that the work could be carried on from an ice surface because the water level was changing two and three feet every day. A big raft or a scow would have to be provided for workmen. Footings will have to be set in broader pediments of concrete.

Alderman McCannan suggested that in view of present conditions the residents of the north end of Ashburnham might be content to forego the bridge for a little longer, but Alderman Dutton pointed out that if that course was adopted as a general policy things would come to a stop.

Soil Test Made On Proposed Airport Site

Information required by aviation engineers of the Federal Government relating to subsurface soil and other conditions of six hundred acres in Otonabee township contemplated as suitable for one of the fields to be laid out for the training of airmen for war service will be completed by Thursday evening City Engineer Parsons told the Board of Works last night, and will be taken to Ottawa on Saturday.

"I expect to have the plans and blue prints ready in another few days," Mr. Parsons told the Board at this special meeting which Mayor Hamilton said he had called for the purpose of submitting to the members a progress report together with correspondence he had received from J. J. Duffus, M. P., who is in Montreal this week, and will meet the council's deputation in Ottawa Saturday morning.

Between fifteen and twenty test pits have been sunk to a depth of six feet showing the soil to be mostly sandy clay under eight to ten inches of top soil. Mr. Parsons said he understood this was the type of land the engineers desired. They had examined ten properties, and decided that the six hundred acres about a mile south of the city, part of it used years ago as a landing field was the most promising.

Alderman Wilson said that recent press news indicated that the government was planning to select six more sites for training fields for the air force in Ontario, and it was important that fullest information should be placed in the hands of the engineers as soon as possible.

Mayor Hamilton reported that the council's efforts to obtain an air field had received constant attention, and with the prospect that all the details asked for by the government's engineers were almost finished he had called the meeting of the Board in order that all the members should know what was being done and also should be consulted about the next step.

It was moved by Alderman Glover, seconded by Alderman Juby, that Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Wilson and City Engineer Parsons should go to Ottawa meet Mr. Duffus, and deliver the plans as promised. The opinion was expressed that there was nothing else the council could do in assisting the government in this matter, and they would simply have to await the decision as to whether Peterborough is to become one of the chain of fields across Canada in the Empire's co-operative effort of training a new air force to meet the German menace.

Gay Notes Touch Met Opening

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — (AP). — The Metropolitan Opera settled down today for another season of arias after a brilliant first night that had some unexpected notes on the bill.

One woman fainted in the crush of ermine and mink during the intermission promenade down the grand stairway.

A happy opera patron who came in topper and tails stood on his head in the bar and turned cartwheels.

The opera itself, Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra," with a cast that included Lawrence Tibbett, Giovanni Martinelli, Elisabeth Rethberg and Ezio Pinza, went off without a hitch, but at one moment the thud of heels doing a clog in the foyer sounded—to those in the back of the house—over the music.

It was just a gay operagoer who added a few dance steps and somersaults to the Opera's 55th opening. One of the special officers of the house finally accompanied him to his car.

Satorically, it was one of the prettiest opening nights of recent years. Many women turned out in white, and many wore pink camellias, roses, and pink carnations in their hair. Lavish white furs and pale, lacy dresses stood out against the red plush of the "Golden Horseshoe."

The presence of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. August Belmont and Mrs. Paul Pennoyer, daughter of J. P. Morgan, made it a four-star evening socially for New York. Edward Johnson, native of Guelph, general manager of the Metropolitan, mingled with the first-nighters.

Chief Of Police Is Reported Ill

Because of the receipt of a certificate from Dr. J. M. O'Brien to the effect that Chief Constable Samuel Newhall is ill and will not be on duty for some time, a special meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners has been called for 4.30 o'clock this afternoon.

"I suppose we will appoint an acting chief to carry on", said His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke, chairman of the Board when asked by The Examiner today as to the reason why a special meeting of the commission had been called.

3 Marmora Truckers Lend Helping Hand To Bewildered Doe Having Fence Trouble

MARMORA, Nov. 28.—(ENS)—Drivers of G. B. Airhart's three trucks which left Marmora about 7 a.m. on Monday for Glanmire had an unusual experience on No. 7 Highway near to the C.N.R. crossing about two miles east of Marmora village. The leading truck was driven by Wesley Cuddy Will Lavender was driving Truck No. 2 and Will Bishop brought up the rear. They noticed a doe about two years old making four vain attempts to pass through the fence on the south side of the highway, so the three drivers alighted from their trucks to head it off to where it could get a better clearance. The doe did the unexpected.

It passed under the stationary middle truck and then got into difficulties in trying to force its way through the other fence. Messrs. Cuddy and Lavender rose to the occasion. They grabbed the animal by its hind legs pulling it free of the fence and then gave it a start in the right direction, where it could vault the fence and make up for lost time.

Army Hut Drive Is Organized By Knights Of Columbus; City-Wide Canvass Is Planned

A mass meeting of the local council of the Knights of Columbus was held in the club-house Sunday evening last, when general organization for the K. of C. Canadian Army huts campaign December 3rd to 11th was launched. The purpose of the drive was outlined by Grand Knight Ernie Wolfe, who is calling upon all to enter into the campaign wholeheartedly, stressed the urgent need among the soldiers at home and those who will be going abroad soon and pointed out that, as before, the Knights of Columbus Canadian Army huts and welfare work will be for all soldiers, irrespective of class or creed, and the K. of C. motto will be "Everybody welcome—everything free."

Dr. E. M. Crough was unanimously elected general chairman of the drive. In the course of his remarks he referred to the work of the Army Huts in 1917-1920, and drew attention to the fact that over $2,000,000 was raised throughout Canada in the previous drive which was expended in welfare work among the soldiers of Canada at home and abroad. The need, he said, has arisen again and the Knights are once again appealing to the Canadian people. The drive will be held from December 3rd to December 11th, which is the time allotted by Brigadier Foster, president of the Auxiliary Service under the War-times Measures Act, 1939, to the K. of C. for their war effort. The drive has been given the official approval and a certificate issued by the Secretary of State of Canada.

Honorary officers were chosen headed by His Excellency Rt. Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., and His Worship Mayor James Hamilton, together with Lt.-Colonel Hicks-Lyne, Colonel of the local Regiment; Chief George Gimblett, president Canadian Legion; V. J. McElderry, K.C., honorary treasurer, and J. R. Corkery, K.C., honorary secretary.

The work of the Knights in the last war covered many fields and it would take considerable space to render a brief account of operations. Suffice to say for now that the Knights operated some forty spacious huts, including 17 at various points in England, 16 in France and some 20 in Canada. These huts were well furnished with equipment and supplies to ensure comfort and rest for the soldier boys. Relief to soldiers' families also was an important work and in this sphere thousands of Christmas hampers were dispensed at Christmas.

This drive is worthy of the financial support of all, both Catholic and non-Catholic. The Knights are willing and ready to go forward again in this self same work, and if the enthusiasm of such great military men as Sir Arthur Currie and Brigadier-General Turner for huts in the last war is any criterion, than this work is a necessity once again.

Many in civil ranks, men and women alike either through business necessities or other reasons will be unable to render service in the ranks of the army, but they can do their share by working for the success of this drive and contributing generously to this noble work.

Godolphin Honors Her Soldier Sons

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28. — (ENS).—Godolphin honored four of her sons who have signed up with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at an informal affair held in the Community hall there on Friday evening. Privates Clarence Dainard, Stanley Wilson and Dudley Smith were each presented with a wrist watch and Private Fred Hand a signet ring by their friends in the district.

Peter Fairman made the presentation and Aaron Anderson read an address. A miscellaneous program was given during the evening which opened with a vocal solo by Miss Carlyn Archer; a reading by George Seeney; vocal solos by Mrs. Louis Dainard; tap dance by Cozette Archer; and a vocal solo by Bill Warren. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, after which lunch was served.

Summer Hotel Is Destroyed At Healey Falls

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28 — (ENS).—Fire totally destroyed the main building at "Rest-a-While," popular summer resort eight miles from here at Healey Falls. The hotel, which was a landmark on the Trent River, was built 65 years ago by Rod Keller, father of its present owner, Fred S. Keller. The damage to the building and contents was estimated at $6,000. Cause of the blaze was not immediately known, though Mr. Keller suggested that it originated in the chimney on the second floor, for it was from that part of the house that flames were first seen by Mrs. S. Keller, who lives a mile and a half farther up the river.

She notified Mrs. Fred Keller, who was attending her son Gerry, who was ill in one of the smaller cottages along the river where the Kellers spend the winter. At noon Mrs. Keller had gone over to the hotel to put away some linen for the winter and her husband had kindled a fire in a small stove in the dining room. She left the building shortly after three o'clock to be notified only a few minutes later that it was on fire. Mr. Keller was in the woods half a mile away, and on seeing the smoke returned in time to assist in removing the piano, a cook stove and a chair from the veranda which was all they were able to rescue.

A northeast wind which swept the flames away from the smaller cottages was all that saved them from destruction. With the assistance of neighbors who formed a bucket brigade, they managed to save the drive shed located fifty feet west of the main building. The heat was so intense that the only way the fire-fighters could get into the building to pour water on it was by ripping boards from the back. Apart from the building the principal loss was to contents, including bedding, linen, furniture and about five hundred jars of fruit. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Sarah Couch Dies In Toronto

In poor health for some time, Mrs. Sarah Couch, widow of Rev. Isaac Couch, a former pastor of George Street Church, died on Saturday in Private Patients' Pavilion, Toronto General Hospital. Born in June, 1866, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson, founders of the village of Laurel, Ont., which in its early history was known as Richardsonville.

Mrs. Couch was widely known as a result of her activities in church work in various centres where her husband held charges as minister of what is now the United Church. He had served in Toronto, Quebec, Ottawa, Peterborough, Hamilton and other places. In the advancement of foreign mission work, she was president of missionary societies in several of these places. Since her husband's death she had resided in Toronto and was a member of St. Clair Avenue United Church.

Surviving are two sons, Dr. John Harold Couch, surgeon on the staff of Toronto General hospital, and Prof. Herbert Newell Couch of Brown University, Providence, R.I.

Lower Back Pains
Pain and distress across the lower part of the back and hips may be the result of a strained condition of the lumbar or sacro-iliac joints. There will be tightness and stiffness of muscles, lack of freedom of movements of the joints and marked irritation of nerves.
Jars, slips, twists and strains all play a part in the development of these discomforts and it is a proven fact that manipulative treatments have been beneficial in bringing comfort to many suffers.

Silent Massucci "Good Guy" Record Shows

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 28 — (CP). — Most of the seers are saying that Ottawa Rough Riders will keep marching over Sarnia Imperials in their Eastern senior football final here this Saturday, so maybe this is the time to get in a plug for the coaching job silent Art Massucci has done at Sarnia.

It takes a time to warm up to Art, the dead-panned, close-mouthed guy who learned his football under Gus Dorais' tough system at the University of Detroit. But even the long-retired quarterbacks who chew the football fat in the Sarnia tobacco shops and pubs are crazy about Maasucci, who this year has accomplished more than in any of his five previous seasons in tunnel town.

Around Sarnia they declare Art never said three words in public at one time until the boys found out, several months after the knot was tied, that he was married. Then he asked drily: "Who told you?"

He beat that by one word in answer to congratulations when the Massucci first-born came along this year, replying: "Thanks. have a cigar."

Knows His Stuff.

But under the shell is a thorough knowledge of sound football and an inspirational ability that has made Sarnia youngsters more football-conscious than boys anywhere else in Canada. For the second straight time Sarnia has turned out the Ontario Union Junior champions. There, largely, lies the secret of Massucci's success.

How many Canadian coaches in all time have lost 12 players and then, without combing the highways and byways for material, have built up winning teams the following season? That's just what Massucci has done in 1939.

Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, Alex Hayes and Mike Clawson went into retirement this season and Tony Golab and Arnie McWatters commuted to Ottawa. Put that down and think about it, if you recall what those five players alone meant to Sarnia.

Eleven youngsters new to senior ball turned out for spring practice, among them Hank Galloway and Ralph Perry who may be called the freshman finds of the year. Massucci took the group, barked at them from the corner of his mouth and welded Sarnia's ninth straight O. R. F. U. championship club.

Amazing Results.

Art put a good crop of juniors beside such veterans as Hi Living, Red France, Pat Butler and Fat Parsons and such younger stars as Bernie Moroz, Mike Hedgewick, Jimmy Shanks, Trip Trepanier and Ike Norris. The results, slow to come, may now be regarded as amazing.

This isn't a great scoring machine, mind you. The Imperials made only three first downs the day they eliminated Toronto Balmy Beach.

But put a team with a weakness against the Imperials and they will kick the weakness all over the field. They blocked three kicks in the first game of Ontario Union finals with Montreal Westmounts and turned two of them into touchdowns. The Westmounts fumbled three times in the second contest and Sarnia made each mistake count for a touchdown.

So tell your Rough Riders about how soundly Art Massucci has drilled the Imperials in the fundamentals, Ross Trimble. If you don't, and if the Riders err a couple of times, tears may pour down Parliament Hill.

No one expects any surprises or dramatics from the Imperials Saturday. That should be all to their good.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

EARL SEIBERT,
Chicago Black Hawks.
By Central Press Canadian.

Ace of Chicago Black Hawks defensive staff, although out of the line-up at present with injuries, is Earl Seibert, a product of Kitchener, Ont., where he was born 28 years ago, come Dec. 7. Earl is in his ninth N.H.L. season and his fifth with the Hawks, to which team he went in a unique deal made just after the start of the 1935-36 campaign. The previous year, as a member of the Rangers, he had been chosen on the all-star team, but he gave Lester Patrick constant holdout trouble and was traded for Art Coulter, who had made the alternate team. The deal turned out to be an even-Stephen proposition, as both players have continued to star. Seibert had joined Rangers in 1931-32, after two years with the minor league Springfield team, a condition his father had demanded when Ranger scouts sought him. A great rushing defender he's teamed with Art Wiebe at the Hawks blue line for the past couple of seasons, and his consistent effectiveness is shown by his selection for the past four seasons a the third or fourth best defenceman in the league. Most goals in a season, 13 most points, 25; most penalties, 92 minutes. Totals for his career 51 goals, 77 assists, 128 points and an even 500 minutes in various penalty pews up till the begining of this season.

Schmeling-Galento Fake Probe Dec. 11

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Key figures in Harry Thomas' fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento soon will receive invitations to appear before the Illinois State Athletic Commission to discuss charges that the two fights were 'faked."

Chairman Joe Triner said yesterday the commission had decided to hold a public hearing Dec. 11 to investigate Thomas' charges, first published by the Chicago Tribune. Thomas said the outcome of both bouts was fixed long before the fights were held. He lost the bouts.

The commission said it would invite to the hearing three fighters, Promoters Mike Jacobs of New York and Herman Taylor of Philadelphia; Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling and Galento; Nate Lewis, manager of Thomas, and seconds, judges and referees.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

With so many quiz contests on the air nowadays—and also nowanights—we might be permitted one miserable little question. The radio is plumb polluted these evenings with such questions as: "What is the name of this song—'Dum dum south dum dum border'?" And so forth. All we're popping up with is: What teams won the O.H.A. championships last winter? And no "dum, dums," either, plizz! Here's the list: Senior "A"—Goodyears; senior "B"—Niagara Falls; intermediate "A"—Collingwood; intermediate "B"—Acton; junior "A"—Oshawa; junior "B"—Niagara Falls; junior "C" Aurora. Peterborough had four teams in O.H.A. competition, two of 'em winning their groups and later being eliminated. Other pair felt the axe as early nearly as the luckless turkeys in the States observing the premature Thanksgiving Day.

* * * * * *

Our senior "B" Petes yodelled their way through their grouping, consisting merely of Trenton Fliers and the bouncin' bhoys of Bella Villa. Knocked the Airmen for a loop in group playoffs and then did an 18-5 chore on Kingston on the round, winning 6-4 in the Limestone City and raging through the Kingstons like six women scorned for a 12-1 smirk here. It was their first provincial playdown round and they peppered that visiting goalie like he was Hitler himself. Only trouble was the Petes nigh exhausted their ammunition and were using pea-shooters at times in later efforts—or so it seemed to onlookers. Not that they did badly in the round-robin Ontario semi-final series, but they didn't make the finals—the Falls rubbing out Waterloo for the trophy, the Falls really being more of a senior "A" club.

* * * * * *

And Now Let's See

Well, no use crying over sour milk, butter luck—no, no, we mean better luck next time. (Dear Dairy—no, gosh, dear diary, you're getting us all balled up like a mystery serial!) Next came the Aces, who played at Omemee and won their grouping handily to enter intermediate "B" playdowns. In the first round, the handful of Aces took the pot, tying 5-5 in Markham and raking in a 6-3 decision here for an 11-8 total. They drew a bye in the second round and then waltzed into the third sawoff against Whitby. Aces dropped a 7-3 affair under Whitby's sputtering little rink lights but came home and won a 7-6 nod. Giving Whitby the round decision by 13 to 10. A very good showing by a pickup band of orphaned Aces, yes, indeedy.

* * * * * *

Too many cooks spill the broth, or spoil the gossip. Or something similar. Anyway, we had too many junior clubs here last semester, it seemed. Our Colts were in a junior "B" setup and our Monarchs played as a junior "C" team. Yet they were both in the same grouping—a sort of mixed-up "C" plus "B" equals baloney arrangement. With nobody making any dough or headway. The Colts played and lost to Oshawa in group playoffs, whilst our Monarchs went the way of all fleshy people and Lindsay's large Midgets took the decision. Neither Oshawa nor Lindsay saw much of the world in travelling after that, either. There'll be but one junior club here this season, a "B" gang, under auspices of the senior "B" squad—so these teams may click even better ere 1940 license markers are too common. Dunno about the Aces yet.

Spare That Hatchet

Petes practice tonight in Oshawa again, getting away at 5.30 by the market timepiece. Wouldn't floor us with surprise if Coach Frank Buckland took along his hatchet this p.m. and lopped off a couple of heads. And we don't mean poultry! Squad will have to be whittled down shortly to a reasonable size and several—probably suspecting—guys are on the spot. Not bad players, mind ya, but there is a big turnout of promising material this year, and only so many berths. Likely an exhibition joust in Oshawa next week.

President Joe Dunkerley of the Church Hockey League is calling that loop's annual meeting for Monday, Dec. 11th, at seven p.m. in the "Y". Officers will be elected, reports made and general plans for the coming season discussed. Retiring ossifers—last four to be elected—include: Hon. Pres., Rev. F. W. Craik; past prexy, Lloyd Parnall; president, Joe Dunkerley; vice-president, Gordon Clegg; secretary-treasurer, Don Charlton; assistant secretary, George Beauclerc. There were 20 teams in four sections last season, with Murray St. Seniors, All Saints Juniors, Mark St. Juveniles and St. John's Bantams winning out. The circuit usually starts operating right after Xmas, and last year's long drawn out junior playoffs betwixt St. Paul's and All Saints lasted till March the middle. Entries will not be taken at this meeting but a line on teams may be expected. Each church is permitted two delegates, and others interested are invited.

One Of Those Days

Some of the P.C.I. senior school gridders, knocked off in the Cossa final Saturday, state the Port Colborne crew was just a so-so squad. Not that they're trying to swing the hammer on their victors, but the boys believe both Bowmanville and Lindsay had better teams. However, the Garnet and Gray lads lacked some of their swish of preceding engagements, didn't click so well on passing, and finally had a kick blocked which cost 'em the duel. An a.m. dispatch today says Runnymede and Hamilton clash tomorrow and Saturday in a playoff serial for the O.R.F.U. title—apparently Port Colborne, like the Wossa and Eossa (aren't these screwy designations?) clubs, deciding against continuing on the rocky and ice-bound trail of a provincial pennant this semester.

Sarnia Imps play Ottawa Rough Riders a sudden-death fray in Toronto on Saturday for the Eastern Canada senior grid crown. The winnah — six will get ya one it's the Riders — then tackles Winnipeg in the east for Dominion honors. If Ottawa wins, the final will be in Bytown, whereas a startling Sarnia upset would toss the final in the Toronto fans' laps. The Imps make no predictions, whilst the burly Riders are cocky. Incidentally, Westmounts must have looked as wobbly as a nervous, knock-kneed gee on stilts last Saturday, and again they had internal trouble. Baz O'Meara of Montreal writes that the fiery Tommy Burns was demanding loudly that Coach Foran take Buddy Atcheson out of the game before 'twas over. Nice fraternal fellows, eh?

Robinson Hurt

MONTREAL, Nov. 28—(CP).—Montreal Canadiens suffered their first severe casualty of the National Hockey League season yesterday when Earl Robinson, speedy right winger, broke his jaw in practice. He probably will be out of action for two weeks.

Robinson was struck in the face by a hard-driven puck and an X-ray examination revealed the fracture. George Mantha, utility man, or veteran Johnny Gagnon are available as replacements.

Rod Lorrain, another right winger, missed Saturday's game here against Detroit Red Wings, in which Canadiens were beaten for the first time this season, but is expected back for Thursday's game against the Americans in New York. He is suffering from a bruised hand.

Clinton Hodgins Pilots Eleven Winners

TORONTO, Nov. 28. — Skilful Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., gave rival drivers at Dufferin Park a real mark to blaze away at when he drove to victory in eleven of the twelve dashes in which he participated over the week-end.

The withdrawal of Dorothy Direct from the fourth heat of the Class "B" event was probably the one thing that stood between Hodgins and a clean sweep. Hodgins had piloted Dorothy Direct to three straight successes in this event. In addition, he had driven both Todd Britton and Hollyrood Puck, trotters from Hamburg, N.Y., to four straight victories in their respective races.

With Dorothy Direct out of the final dash of the Class "B" and with high hopes of stretching his remarkable streak, Hodgins decided to try his luck with Adrian Grattan. But Adrian Grattan, even with Hodgins edging her on, couldn't cope with the pace as Rip Harvester came down in front with the victory that wrote "30" to the success string of the Clandeboye driver.

Hodgins has been a Grand Circuit driver for Henry Warwick of Cleveland for the past two years, but come back each fall to participate in the Dufferin trots. His able handling of Todd Britton, Hollyrood Puck and Dorothy Direct, plus the fine performance of Barran Grattan in the Class "E" division, made yesterday's racing strictly a favorites' day.

Driver Vic Rowntree, charged with deliberately rushing the McNamara Barrier in the third heat of Saturday's free-for-all, was given a two-week suspension, dating from November 25.

Three Score and Ten For Ball Boss

Drillon Is Leading With 11 Points

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—(CP)—National Hockey League standings were reflected last night in the league's official scoring statistics showing players from Toronto Maple Leafs, Montreal Canadiens, and Detroit Red Wings holding the first nine positions. These are first, second and third respectively, in the standings.

Gordie Drillon, seeking to regain the title he won two seasons ago, remained in first place with 11 points, made up of seven goals and four assists. The dark-haired Leaf winger's two goals against New York Americans during the week-end kept him in front.

Syl Apps, who makes a lot of the plays for Drillon, shared second place with veteran Cecil Dillon of Detroit Wings with 9 points, while Bob Davidson of Toronto and Hector (Toe) Blake of Canadiens were tied in the next position with 8.

Drillon's seven goals placed him first among the goal-getters, but Blake was right behind with six. Davidson's seven assists made him tops as a playmaker.

Alex Shibicky of New York Rangers, with a ten-minute misconduct penalty included in his total, has spent the longest time in the penalty bench—18 minutes. Another Ranger, Babe Pratt, has drawn 16 minutes in penalties.

Rules Formed In 1891 Changed Little

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 28—(AP).—Dr. James A. Naismith, Canadian-born inventor of basketball, died today of heart disease following a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 78 years old.

Dr. Naismith, professor emeritus of physical education at Kansas University, suffered a critical hemorrhage November 19 but rallied and returned home from hospital last Wednesday. He was stricken again Friday, with a heart attack. He had been in a coma since noon yesterday.

A native of Almonte, Ont., and a graduate of McGill University, Dr. Naismith was credited with originating basketball in 1891 as a winter sport for youth at the Springfield, Mass., Y.M.C.A. training school. In the first game two peach baskets were used as equipment.

Baskets On Floor.

There were nine men on a team and baskets were on the floor. Later he elevated the baskets, reduced the number of players and established rules which have been changed but little in the intervening years.

He gave up the ministry for Y.M.C.A. and physical training work. He joined the University of Kansas staff in 1898 and in a few years become head of the physical education department. He retired from active teaching in 1937. Oddly, Kansas became one of the most noted basketball schools in the country. Its great teams were developed and coached by Dr. F. O. (Phog) Allen, friend and associate of Dr. Naismith. The two disagreed good-naturedly over many rules and rule changes.

He once told Allen 'basketball is just a game to play. It doesn't need a coach."

Despite the fact basketball was his brain child, Dr. Naismith preferred other sports, such as wrestling, for exercise.

Went To Olympics.

In 1936 basketball games over the country defrayed expenses of Dr. Naismith for a trip to the Olympic Games at Berlin, where basketball was played for the first time.

That was "the happiest moment" of Dr. Naismith's life. He addressed the players after they had filed out on the floor behind the flags of their own nations. His eyes, he said, were misty at the sight.

At Springfield, Dr. Naismith married Miss Maude E. Sherman. She died in March, 1937. They had three daughters and two sons. Dr. Naismith married a second time, June 10, 1939. His bride was Mrs. Florence M. Kincaid, Signa Phi Epsilon Fraternity House mother here.

He was born in Almonte, Nov. 6, 1861. When he was eight he was left an orphan and went to live with an uncle. He was graduated from McGill University in 1887.

Served In France.

During the last war Dr. Naismith served 19 months with the Y.M.C.A. in France. He spent four months on the Mexican border in 1916 as chaplain of the 1st Kansas Infantry.

He wrote three books, "Basketball Rules, 1891; "The Modern High School" (section of athletics) in 1911 and "The Basis of Clean Living" in 1918.

He was honorary president of the International Basketball Federation and of the Basketball Coaches' Association and honorary chairman of the Basketball Rules Committee.

LOS ANGELES LIGHTWEIGHT IS OUTCLASSED BY MONTREALER

Dave Castilloux Stops Hally Easily In Ten

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—(CP)—It won't be long before enthusiastic fight followers of Dave Castilloux will be clamoring to get the French-Canadian scrapper from Montreal a crack at Lou Ambers, lightweight champion of the world, and Joey Archibald, featherweight titleholder.

After every one of his fights, Castilloux seems more on his way for a match with the best in the business. A large throng thinks he can do all right against them.

Last night, Castilloux, Canadian featherweight and lightweight champion, disposed of Wally Hally of Los Angeles, winning an unanimous 10-round decision despite the fact that at 135 pounds he was giving away three pounds. He has yet to lose in a Toronto ring.

Castilloux, after a slow start in which he left jabbed Hally for two rounds, suddenly smashed over hard rights in the third to Hally's head that had the Californian wobbly. Hally weathered the attack for the remainder and in the fourth kept away. In the sixth Castilloux again caught him with hard blows that nearly sent him to the canvas.

O.H.A. Has $10,000 In Cash And Bonds

The O.H.A., while dropping a little money during the past hockey season, still has approximately $10,000 in cash and bonds. The detailed financial statement for the 1938-39 season was presented at the annual O.H.A. meeting in Toronto on Saturday, and the following is a summary of the treasurer's report:

To the Members of the Ontario Hockey Association:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit the annual financial statement of the affairs of the Association showing in detail the receipts and expenditures from October 1, 1938, to September 30, 1939.

At the end of last year we had a cash balance to our credit in the bank if $4,105.64 and $6,000.00 in bonds. I am pleased to report we just about held our own on the year with a cash balance in the bank of $3,931.49 and $6,000.00 in bonds.

GEORGE S. DUDLEY, treasurer.

Summary of receipts and disbursements for the year ending 30th September 1939:

Receipts
Cash in bank, 1st October, 1938	$ 4,105.64
Entrance and annual fees	1,230.00
Receipts from play-offs as reported to treasurer	5,508.08
Canadian Amateur Hockey Association—grant	1,000.00
Sundry receipts	90.15
Total Receipts	7,828.23
	$11,933.87
Disbursements
Executive and sub-committee meetings	$ 1,411.20
Advisory committee meetings	341.00
Office expenses and honorariums	3,184.98
Presentations, grants, etc.	1,870.58
Entertainments of delegates, etc.	358.75
Affiliation expenses	146.95
Miscellaneous	751.92
Total disbursements	8,002.38
Balance, cash in bank, 30th September, 1939	$ 3,931.49

STRIKE PROFITABLE

WORKINGTON, England—(CP).—One of the shortest strikes on record was the 12-minute holdout staged by six professionals of a football club here, who wanted another $1.12 for the game. Rather than hold up the match, the management gave in.

SPORT'S CONTRIBUTION

LONDON — (CP).—The Football Association has given $2,336, and the Marylebone Cricket Club $2,004 to the St. John Fund for the sick and wounded of the war.

Standouts On College Gridirons

Closest to a unanimous vote for all-stardom in the eastern intercollegiate grid loop this year were Joe Krol and Harry Szumlinski, the two shifty-hipped, kicking, passing and running backs with the unconquered University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who carried off the college crown in record-breaking fashion. The entire Western backfield had a wide margin over any other in the rah rah circuit, but Krol and Szumlinski stood out even in such company and are already being compared with the great combinations of the past. Not bringing any cheer to Queen's McGill or Toronto is the fact that they'll be back again next fall. Krol is the one shown here in action.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(AP)— A Yale-Minnesota grid series is cooking....Henry Armstrong is down with the grippe and may not be able to fight Lou Ambers Friday night ....Vanderbilt players say if Tennessee and Tulane were out there tomorrow they'd spot Tulane six points and load up....Coach Potsy Clark's departure on a scouting expedition coincided with a wave of reports that the football dodgers are about to give him the old heave-ho.... Tom Packs is dickering for a Gunnar-Barlund-Bob Pastor bout in St. Louis, January 9....If the Texas Aggies are invited to a bowl game it is believed they'll promise to send only two guys, figuring they'll be enough.

The Fort North Star Telegram reports that fullback John Kimbrough of the Aggies hit the Texas Christian line so hard the ends were knocked out of bounds.

Luke Hamlin, the only Brooklyn pitcher to win 20 games this year, is on the W. K. block....Jockey Mack Garner's son, Mack Jr. is playing football on a high school team at Covington, Ky. since the kid weighs 142 he isn't apt to follow in his pop's bootsteps.

Bruins Ramping To Even Leafs' Beating

(By the Canadian Press.)

The Bruins from Boston, who have shown little so far in this National Hockey League season of the greatness that brought them the Stanley Cup in the 1938-39 campaign, get the chance tonight to regain some lost prestige.

As much as anything, the comparatively drab showing of the Bruins this season probably can be traced to the fact that in their first start back in November they absorbed a terrific 5-0 lacing at the hands of Toronto Maple Leafs. Something of the lustre of the wonder-team faded with that defeat and gone was the awe with which other N.H.L. clubs once eyed the Bruins.

This year's Boston edition is in the embarrassing position of being in a tie for second to last place with New York Rangers. In seven games, the Bruins have won only two, tied three and lost two, and the club which had the most goals in the league last season hasn't even scored as many this season as the opposition has marked up against it. The Bruins have 12 goals and have allowed 15 scores.

At Home Tonight

However, the Bruins entertain the Maple Leafs at Boston tonight in one of two scheduled N.H.L. games and a victory undoubtedly would get the "second guessers" back on the Bruin band wagon again for the Leafs at present are riding in first place. In the night's other game Detroit Red Wings play the Rangers at New York.

The Wings are hoping for a Boston victory for this, and a victory for themselves over the Rangers would put them in a tie for first place with the Leafs. The Detroiters, however, have played two more games than Toronto.

Blanchard Whips Bill Commodore

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 — (CP). — Jerry Blanchard, Canadian amateur flyweight champion from Cornwall, gained a five-round decision over Bill Commodore of New York in an exhibition boxing bout here last night. Two other New York fighters also dropped decisions to Canadians.

Blanchard led all the way against his wiry opponent. Both fighters were cautious, with the Cornwall boy's jabs to the jaw piling up points for him.

Sixteen-year-old Johnny Greco of Montreal, fighting at 126 pounds, pounded out a close decision over Orlando Monteil of New York. Greco was on the receiving end for two rounds, but led all the way through the last three heats and won by a nod.

Arnold Hayes of Montreal gave the visitors their third defeat, punching his way to an easy five-round decision over Joey Brown in the middleweight class.

In a free swinging bout Leo Maher of Montreal beat Hec Latreille of Cornwall by decision. The fighters weighed 160 pounds.

Sniffles Upset Hennery So Fight's Off

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—What with weddings and colds, it's hard to say just when Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers will meet for the world welterweight title.

The fight is billed at the moment for Friday night in Madison Square Garden—but Hammerin' Hennery put a kink in those plans yesterday when he notified the New York State Athletic Commission he had the sniffles.

The commission dispatched three doctors to investigate Henry's condition and they are to report today—but that made little difference to Eddie Mead, his manager.

"I don't care what they say about Henry's condition. He's too sick to fight and that's all there is to it, he said. "They can't tell us to go ahead and fight. If Henry's sick, he won't fight in spite of what anyone says."

Mead sounded as though he meant business, and appparently Promoter Mike Jacobs thought so; in announcing that the fight "might" be postponed again, a substitute card featuring Pete Scalzo of New York and Allie Stolz of Newark, N.J. was put forward as the "fill-in" for the Friday date in the Garden.

The fight was originally scheduled for Nov. 1—but Ambers was determined to get married and he refused to accept that date. He asked and was granted a month's delay.

Little Miss Dempsey Takes To Ice

Shown here is that blood-thirsty ring warrior that was, Jack Dempsey, now almost as famous for his fireside and home-loving scenes as he once was for devastation in the ring. He is helping daughter Joan, going on for six, with some of the rudiments of skating at a New York indoor rink, but neither appears any too steady on the blades.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

CAN YOU LOSE ONE?

HOW TO play a particular suit depends frequently on whether you can afford to lose a trick in it or not. If you can't, then there is usually some one best way to play it. That way would not necessarily be sound if you could afford to lose one trick, but not two. In this case, you must use every means to prevent the loss of the second trick.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

This deal in a duplicate game produced small slam contracts at both Spades and No Trump, but presented exactly the same playing problem at either declaration. That lay in the way to play the Spade suit. Twelve tricks could not be made except by limiting the Spade loss to one trick.

When the spade jack was led for a finesse on the first round the contract failed, because of South's bunched spades. The only declarer to make the contract was the one who led the spade 6 from his own hand and then came up with the ace, leading a small spade back and finessing the 9 when South played small. That plan of play was the only one which would prevent two losers, no matter how the opponents' spades were divided.

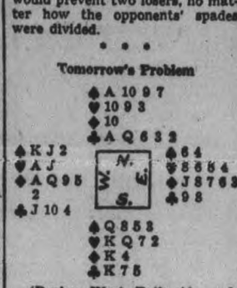
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

Springbrook WI To Serve Warden's Dinner

BONARLAW, Nov. 28—(ENS)—The regular meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held on Nov. 22, one week earlier than the usual date owing to the preparation for the warden's banquet which will be held on December 4 at the Orange Hall, Springbrook. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Storms, Spry's Settlement with an attendance of 35 members and nine visitors present. The president, Mrs. J. F. Baker presided. The report of the Hallowe'en party was given.

Forms for the registration of women were distributed; two booths will be opened for registration on Tuesday, Nov. 28 at Fitzgerald's store, Springbrook with Mrs. Thos. McKeown, Mrs. Walter Heath in charge and at Bell and Barlow's store with Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. W. J. Barlow in charge.

Catering Arranged

It was moved by Mrs. George Eastwood, seconded by Mrs. Fitzgerald that the W.I. cater for the Warden's banquet and the following committees were named: Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. George Williams, Mrs. Fred McKeown, Mrs. George Eastwood, Mrs. W. Bateman; Mrs. Thomas McKeown, Mrs. Dave Wellman, Mrs. A. Burkitt.

Moved by Mrs. George Bailey, seconded by Mrs. George Williams that each give 25 cents for the war work instead of exchange of gifts at the next meeting. The relief report was read and each member was asked to piece a crazy quilt block 18 by 18 inches. Mrs. George Eastwood thanked the members for all the cards and letters she received while ill in hospital.

The roll call: "What can women do to help the cause of peace," was fairly well responded to after which Mrs. A. P. Williams gave the motto which was in every way a well-prepared paper. Mrs. Morley Barlon read a comic poem "Just A Married Woman"; Mrs. Sarmen Sine sang in her sweet voice, "Love's Old Sweet Song" and the meeting closed with the National Anthem. The next meeting will be held on December 27 at Mrs. Mel Neil's.

Cummiskey Is Named Clerk Of Manvers

BETHANY, November 28—(ENS)—Chris Cummiskey, reeve of Manvers, was named acting clerk and treasurer of the township at a special meeting of the municipal council held on Saturday. Mr. Cummiskey's appointment follows the death of W. A. Jakeman for years township clerk and treasurer. Mr. Cummiskey is one of the veterans of the council of the United Counties, having served for a period of eight years either as deputy-reeve or reeve. W. J. Boggs, present deputy-reeve, has been appointed reeve.

London's Lord Mayor Takes Office Without Show

Events on the home front move on in their customary—if, at times, somewhat subdued manner—while the static war on the continent continues, and here we see Sir William Coxen, CENTRE, new Lord Mayor of London, with his attendants as he left the Mansion House en route to the law courts to be sworn in. An elaborate procession is the usual accompaniment to the installation of a lord mayor in the Empire's capital, but this year a quiet line of 12 cars served as a war-time substitute. Even during the war of 1914-18 the Lord Mayor's show was maintained, this year's cancellation being the first since 1830, when it was feared hostile crowds might be aroused because of agitation over the famous Reform Bill.

German Slovak Army Is Too Weak To Raid Rumania

PARIS, Nov. 28—(CP-Havas).—With planes grounded by continued bad weather, only minor patrol expeditions to "warm the toes" of chilled soldiers were reported from the Western Front today.

Last night's official French communique mentioned "reduced activity by contact elements and artillery." This morning the high command announced there had been "nothing important to report during the night."

Only evidences of life on the battle-line were a brush east of the Moselle, where the German command has tried two unsuccessful thrusts in two days; minor activity between Bitche and the first slopes of the Vosges, and an exchange of hand-grenades by French and German patrols threading their way through the vastness of No Man's Land. After tossing their grenades, the opposing forces withdrew.

The unsuccessful German attacks 10 miles east of the Moselle River were so nearly identical that military quarters here could explain the second only as punishment to German troops for their failure in the first.

Information reaching the French general staff indicates that nothing more than an army of occupation, insufficient for a drive through southeastern Europe as was rumored after last week's interruption of German-Rumanian trade negotiations, remains in Reich-occupied Slovak and Polish territories.

Editor's Homing Pigeon News Specials Work Best When Maried Birds On Job

HORNELL, N.Y., Nov. 28—(AP).—The homing pigeon as a news carrier may cause some fuss and feathers, but it's a bird of an idea—when the homer goes straight home.

Beginning a third winter with the pigeons carrying the daily news from regional correspondents to editorial rooms, the Hornell, N.Y., Tribune is convinced the system is no fly-by-night venture but a time and money saver.

Louis Buisch, Tribune assistant manager, installed the system, he bought a pair and tried it out—from correspondent to the editorial room.

Since then, the Tribune's special pigeon delivery bureau has grown to 50 pigeons. They are delivered by the paper's delivery truckman daily to 20 correspondents covering localities up to 30 miles from Hornell.

Buisch, however, has had some difficulties.

The correspondents took to the new communication system but also to the pigeons with the result that they were so well fed and comfortable some refused to fly to the Tribune "home." Buisch issued a no-feeding edict and the birds started coming back again.

The assistant manager discovered early that a few of the homing pigeons with families were the most dependable. Accordingly, he wants only married birds on the job and encourages large families.

Canadian Clothes Sent Evacuees

LONDON, Nov. 28—(CP-Cable)—Great Britain was given evidence of the way Canadian women respond to an appeal today when more than five tons of clothing for women and children evacuees were unloaded in the building normally used for Canadian trade exhibits during exhibition time.

The clothing was sent by the Daughters of the Empire to the Women's Emergency Committee of the Women's Canadian Club which was asked to arrange distribution. Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian high commissioner in London, is chairman of the committee.

Distribution is expected to start in a day or so. The work will be done in conjunction with the London county council, but some clothing is going to Scotland and a few individual requests will be considered where known cases are Canadians.

Two more shipments are expected.

Hohenzollerns In The Army Now Total 13

BERLIN, Nov. 28—(AP).—One son, eleven grandsons and one grand-nephew of former Kaiser Wilhelm II are serving at the front, according to data supplied by the high command.

Prince Oscar's oldest son, Oscar, 24, a lieutenant in the 51st infantry regiment, was killed in Poland Sept. 5. Two other sons, Burchardt, 22, and Wilhelm Karl, 17, are respectively first lieutenant in infantry regiment No. 9 and sub-lieutenant with an artillery regiment.

Of the four sons of former Crown Prince Wilhelm, three are in active service, while the youngest, Friedrich, 27, was working in a London bank when the war started.

(Authoritative informants in London said the Prince was living "under surveillance" somewhere in Britain.)

Prince Wilhelm, 33, the former Crown Prince's oldest son, is reserve captain in the first Infantry Regiment. He took part in the battle of Kutno in Poland in September.

Prince Louis Ferdinand, 32, a first lieutenant in the Hindenburg bombing squadron, is a member of the air force's teaching staff at Rangsdorf near Berlin. Since Prince Wilhelm married a commoner, Ferdinand is the future head of the family.

Prince Hubertus, 30, also a first lieutenant in the air force, is in a bombing squadron at the front.

Prince Wilhelm Viktor, 20, only son of Prince Adalbert of Prussia, is a corporal in an infantry regiment.

Prince Alexander Ferdinand, 26, only son of Prince August Wilhelm, is a first lieutenant in the Air Force Signal Corps. His father, a Nazi Storm Troop leader, is distributing food ration cards in the Potsdam City Hall.

Students Present Short One-Act Play

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28.—(ENS).—Fifth form students provided the initial program of the High School Litrerary Society which held their first meeting of the year on Thursday afternoon. President Joe O'Sullivan was in charge of the meeting, for which Joe Kelly was elected critic.

Feature of the program was an amusing one-act play with a cast of six, including Madeline Lisle, R. Russell, G. Elmhirst, J. Jarvis, J. O'Sullivan and Constance McKelvie. Opening number of the afternoon was a chorus by the fifth form girls "South of the Border." B. Hoey, G. Nelson and R. Russell presented a gripping pantomine in which one of the members of the team was operated upon by the others, "Scatterbrain" was the title of a boys chorus. Fourth number was titled "The Haymakers' Jamboree" in which five talented members of the form contributed several musical numbers on an assortment of instruments including guitar, mouth organs and piano. In the quintette were G. Nelson, R. Russell, J. O'Sullivan, D. Redden, G. Elmhirst and M. Lisle. D. Redden gave a guitar solo and R. Rutledge and G. Elmhirst gave a piano duet to conclude the program.

Smiles That Say: 'All Goes Well'

The outlook could not have been too foreboding when this picture was taken in Paris, showing Premier Edouard Daladier of France, LEFT, and Major Anthony Eden, British Secretary of State for the Dominions, leaving the French Ministry of War building, apparently in high spirits, after a recent conference. No official announcement was made of what took place at the meeting.

Germany Favors Russian Demands On Finlanders

BERLIN, Nov. 28—(AP).—Nazi sources, commenting on Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech, spoke of "idle prattle about a new pan-European order of things" which they said is "utopian and has no connection with realities."

The Prime Minister is "getting very old," these Nazis said, adding that "we can anly laugh at the assertion that the British government truthfully informs the public."

Germany sympathizes with Soviet Russia's demands upon Finland, according to the information service Dienst Aus Detuschland, which often reflects foreign office views.

"The opinion prevails here," said the service, "that a first-class power of the rank of the Soviet Union had the undeniable right to secure for itself access to the sea and by an amicable arrangement with its neighbors to safeguard vital defence interests."

Previously authorized quarters had stated that Germany was officially disinterested in the dispute between Russia and Finland except to "read with extaordinary interest that Russia regards England and France as responsible for Finland's unyielding stand."

Expect Session To Open Jan. 11

OTTAWA, Nov. 28 (CP)—A series of important announcements probably will be made by the government this week, giving Canadians more detailed knowledge of the progress of the war effort.

The draft agreement of the Empire air training scheme is now in the hands of the British, Canadian, Australian and New Zealand governments and the plan probably will be endorsed and made public withing a few days.

Observers here are predicting that the project will involve Canada paying the bulk of the cost to train up to 25,000 Empire airmen a year, being compensated by the other governments for every airman trained.

The Canadian treasury, in the ultimate settlement, is expected to get back either in aircraft, quipment or cash, sufficient of its investment to leave the total cost fairly evenly divided between the countries participating.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King soon will announce the date for the opening of parliament and it is generally believed it will be Jan. 11. The whole progress of the war will be reviewed at the session which is expected to be followed by a general election in the early summer.

The War Supply Board, which purchases war supplies for Canada and acts as an agent for the British Government, plans a number of announcements about its work during the week.

The government might take some steps to establish a publicity committee, as intimated by the Prime Minister at a press conference last week.

Another Peterborough Man Praises Syntona Highly

Convincing proof of the excellent results that are to be had by taking a treatment of Syntona is found in the many sincere reports received from local men and women who have used this pure herbal compound. Hundreds of former sufferers are delighted at the way Syntona goes to the root of their troubles and soon has them feeling like different persons. Some of these have given public statements so others might read them and be benefitted also. Here, for example, is the experience of Mr. Patrick Curran, 169 London Street, Peterborough, as reported recently:

"My system was badly rundown. My appetite was poor enough, but the little food I did eat only soured in my stomach and caused gas, bloating, belching and heartburn. There were awful gas pains in my side and chest that kept me awake nights and made me feel unrested and miserable right from the beginning of each day. I was subject to frequent headaches and a dull ache and lame feeling in my back.

"That is the condition I was in when I began taking Syntona and I was surely glad to find that my system responded to this medicine almost from the first few doses. It settled my stomach so my food digested well without all that misery after eating and my bowels became regular. Then, gradually the soreness and lameness left me. I sleep well now and I arise mornings feeling rested and ready for the day's work. It is a great relief to feel this well again, so I am only too glad to recommend Syntona to others."

Every ailing, rundown, nervous person in Peterborough or vicinity is cordially invited to call at Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George Street, and learn the plain, truthful facts about Syntona. Make up your mind to begin taking it to-day. See how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Make This An Electrical Christmas

THERE'S NO more satisfying gift to give or get than an Electrical Gift—the gift that keeps on giving. Wonderful appliances, hostess helps, intriguing gadgets and labor saving conveniences certainly do make everyday life more efficient and hence more enjoyable. The newest 1940 models are presented in this section of today's Examiner by Peterborough merchants. Make your selection now of the Electrical Gift to be put under your own and every Christmas tree on your list.

Electricity—the Unseen Servant in Every Home!

Peterborough's Main Street For Fifty-Five Years Been Lighted By Electricity

(By Fred D. Craig)

In this imperturbable age when such wonders as radio and talking pictures are accepted as commonplaces it is not surprising to find that the present abundance of electric energy and the miracles we can perform with it are taken for granted, as if they had always been part of the scheme of things.

The truth is, of course, that the use of electric power is comparatively a new thing. There was no electric light used in Peterborough until a little more than half a century ago. And it was just about half of that period when power became a publicly-owned utility.

As a former well known governor of New York used to say, "Let us examine the record."

In doing so we find that the first mention of electric light in Peterborough was on May 9, 1884, when a company was organized and a charter granted to the concern to embark in the electric power business. The directors of the new company were A. P. Poussette, T. G. Hazlitt, Richard Hall, William Davidson, William Walsh and H. E. Irvine, all well known citizens of Peterborough except the last named, who was connected with the Royal Electric Manufacturing Company of Montreal.

The First Power Pole

The new company lost no time. Orders were placed for generators and cables and the generators were placed in a mill on the Dickson raceway. The first power poles were erected on George street on May 13, five miles of wire were used and on May 23, the citizens of Peterborough saw electric light used for the first time when seventeen street lights on George street were turned on. The outlook for the new concern was so good that in the following month another generator was ordered.

Up to that time Peterborough's streets had been illuminated by gas lamps and the same method of lighting was used in the stores and some of the larger residences. The remainder of the citizens depended upon coal oil lamps.

The new method soon made a hit and in 1888 we find the council deciding to extend the blessing of electric light to outlying streets. In October of that year sixteen new electric lamps were ordered at a cost per lamp of $60 a year and at the same time 24 of the existing gas lamps were scrapped. Peterborough's street lighting at that stage consisted of 39 electric lights and 37 gas lamps, the total cost of which was $3,480 a year.

Companies Amalgamate

Two years later came an important development when the local power company and the gas company were amalgamated under the name "Peterborough Light and Power Company" with capital stock of $200,000. The directors were T. G. Hazlitt, James Stevenson, Thos. Bradburn, Richard Hall, George A. Cox, William Davidson and William Walsh. Simultaneously with the announcement of the amalgamation was the statement that the new company proposed to go into the field of domestic lighting and so for the first time incandescent lamps for stores and residences were introduced here.

By this time the council had decided that the new system of illumination had come to stay and accordingly it was thumbs down for the gas fixtures. It was decided to order more electric lamps to burn 300 nights in a year up to 12 o'clock at night at a cost of $60 a year and 40 additional lamps to burn all night at a yearly cost of $90 each.

In 1891 30 more street lights were ordered.

By the following year it began to look as if the Light and Power Company had something. Naturally opposition began to bob up and George Hilliard applied through his solicitors, Dumble and Leonard, for permission to erect poles and string wires for the purpose of supplying electric light. Appparently nothing came of that particular proposal. In the same year the Peterborough papers triumphantly declared that Peterborough's street lights were the cheapest in the Dominion, thus paving the way for the city's nick name of the "Electric City."

Opposition Develops

Three years passed without any startling developments in the power field and then in March of 1895 John Carnegie, R. M. Dennistoun and several others announced that they were prepared to bring into being a new company to supply electric light and power.

In spite of that offer, however, and several other proposals the council entered into a seven year contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company to provide 85 lights of 2,000 candle power at a cost of $65 a year each and the company in turn to pay $400 a year rental for the use of the town streets.

Public Ownership

In 1897 came the first whisper of public ownership when a bill introduced by J. R. Stratton allowed municipalities to acquire water power sites and to develop power. Two years later another private bill was passed by the Legislature authorizing Peterborough to develop power anywhere on the waters of the Otonabee River below the Nassau dam. It was set forth that if the town wished to go into the street lighing it would have to buy out the plant of the private company supplying such light at the time.

Nothing was done to take advantage of this legislation and in 1902 permission was given the Otonabee Power Company to erect poles to carry the wire lines of the company across the Hunter Street bridge and along the bank of the river to Charlotte street.

Bylaw Quashed

The following year when the council passed a bylaw to enter into a ten-year contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company to supply 120 or more street lights at $50 a year the company to pay $400 rental for the use of the streets, the bylaw was quashed at Osgoode Hall because it was claimed that the Peterborough Light and Power Company was being allowed $1,400 a year more than the Otonabee Power Company had asked. Later the council got out of the quandry by referring the question to the ratepayers, who endosed a contract with the Light and Power Company.

Pressure for municipal power was however constantly increasing. In 1906 Mayor Best came forward with the suggestion that the town should buy the Auburn dam and W. H. Moore with the proposal that the water works dam be raised to permit of the development of power there. In the same year the council decided that the old arc lamps that had been in use for street lighting should be replaced by closed arc lights.

In 1907 came an offer from the Otonabee Power Company to sell the town a block of 500 hp. at the rate of $15 per h.p. per year in order that this cheap electric energy might be used as a bait for manufacturers. The joker in the offer, however, was that it was conditional upon the company securing a lease of Dam No. 4 at $600 a year. Later in the year Chairman Arthur Stevenson of the special power committee reported that the light and power plant and the gas plant could be purchased for $207,500.

An interesting feature of 1907 was a report from the Inland Revenue Department which showed that in that year Peterborough had in use 25,000 electric bulbs and 220 arc lamps, 15,000 of the bulbs and 200 of the arcs being the property of the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the remainder belonging to the Otonabee Power Company.

The real beginning of the movement to bring electric power into the sphere of municipal ownership was seen in 1911. Early in that year Sir Adam Beck paid two visits to Peterborough and discussed the power situation at public meetings, at the second of which he said power from Healey Falls was available for Peterborough if the city wanted it. In July of that year the council took an option on the Dickson Company dam at Lakefield but let it expire.

At the January election in 1912 a vote was taken on the question "X Are you in favor of a suppply of Hydro power" and the voters said "Yes" with a majority of 1295. That was a mandate that the council could not ignore if it had wanted to and so 1912 was taken up with power matters.

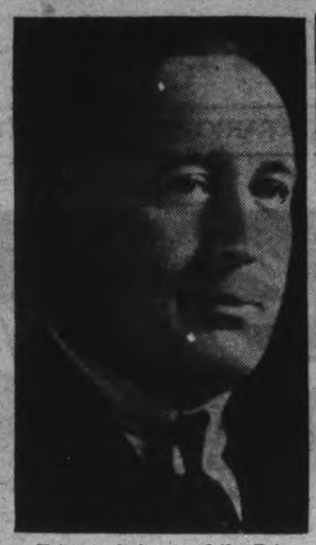
A Decisive Vote

There were negotiations with the Peterborough Light and Power Company that did not get anywhere in particular and finally the council decided to deal directly with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, to install a distribution plant at an estimated cost of $120,000, the Hydro Commission to bring power to the city limits. Sir Adam Beck spoke at a mass meeting in the Opera House shortly before the vote on this bylaw was taken in January, 1913, and the result was most decisive, being 1,696 to 196 in favor of the council's plan.

The public demand for public ownership of power was unmistakable and Hydro power for Peterborough was assured. During that year proceedings to expropriate the plant of the Peterborough Light and Power Company were lanuched and the council refused to extend the franchise of the Otonabee Power Company.

On December 17 as a Christmas present for the citizens of Peterborough the streets were lighted for the first time with municipally-owned power. Mayor Bradburn pressed the button at Charlotte and George streets that turned on the lighs and at the same time ushered in a new era in the field of public utilities. Hydro had come to stay and the system as we now know it had been started toward its goal.

Chairman and Commissioner Hydro Rates Are Found Attractive



Veteran chairman of the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

E. R. Shirley, member of the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Providing adequate reserves are maintained, the actual cost of Hydro service to the citizens, as represented by their monthly bills over a period of years, is the best criterion of the success or failure of an electrical undertaking in relation to the social and economic interests of the community.

Acting upon the principle of service at cost, the Commission early applied scientifically designed rate schedules (tariffs) which reflected in a practical manner, customer costs, demand costs and energy costs. Years before the term "promotional rate" was in general use, the Commission was employing tariffs which, because they were based upon service at cost, were promotional in form and equitable as between classes of service and individual consumer requirements.

These promotional rates, which encourage greater use of electricity because the average cost per kilowatt-hour to the consumer decreases with increasing use, can be made more favourable with hydro-electric plants because the cost of operation is not materially increased when the energy output of existing equipment is increased.

The early application of such rate schedules resulted in a remarkable increase in the use of electricity, especially for domestic purposes. In the year 1938 the average annual consumption per domestic consumer in Ontario urban municipalities was 1,980 kilowatt-hours.

Low average costs per kilowatt-hour are largely a function of use. This is especially true with respect to distribution costs for domestic service. Under the guidance of the Commission many of the municipal utilities of Ontario have been able to reduce the cost of distribution for domestic service until it is substantially less than one cent per kilowatt-hour.

With such attractive rates the Commission believes that Ontario's citizens will continue to find still greater use for the plentiful supply of low-cost power available throughout the Province.

Low average costs, however, are by no means confined to domestic consumers.

Extra Radio Is Necessary Dad Finds To His Dismay

It's a hint that a bunch of husbands thought up themselves. Grouped about the editorial room of the Examiner they pondered what they would like best to receive for Christmas. And out of all their pondering came the answer to the perpetual grouse stay-at-home husbands have.

Here's their complaint: They like to listen to a baseball game in the summer, a football game in the fall, a hockey game in the winter, a boxing or wrestling or tennis match any old time. They settle down for a solid evening of entertainment when young Mary decided she wants to hear a jitterbug band, or Tommy's following to a cereal-sponsored serial, or intellectual young Harry (3rd year Collegiate) wants to hear President Roosevelt. Bang goes fond parent's entertainment. For even if he refuses to turn the dial, he's in for some unpleasantness. And then his wife, who thinks she wants to listen to the same program—it's really a feeling of loyalty—launches into conversation just as the referee reaches the count of eight, or Foster Hewitt screams "They're in front of the goal!" or Ted Husing suavely tells that Glen Cunningham is breaking into his famous last quarter sprint.

Radio for the Den.

So, out of all these complaints, the man of the house has decided on the Christmas present he would like best. It's a small, electric radio that he can have tucked away in his den or his bedroom for emergencies like these, or when Mrs. Jones calls to discuss Red Cross work.

This problem of what to buy for the man of the house, is not really a hard one if wives and mothers and daughters will just drop into any electrical shop in the city. The first thing they'll hit anywhere is an electric razor. There's many a husband or son or brother who casts longing glances at them all through the year, and would be mightily pleased to find one waiting for his whiskers on Christmas morn this year.

There are spotlights for his car, reading lamps for his desk, electric fans for hiso ffice and car—there are a hundred and one comforts he would appreciate. Even take an electric bottle-warmer. Who is it gets up in the middle of the night to heat the baby's milk? Who shivers and is bored waiting for water to heat on the stove—only to find the milk has become too hot and has to be cooled, then is too cool and has to be heated, over and over again? Not the wife, certainly. Ah, but in any store you can find an inexpensive electric bottle warmer that automatically shuts itself off when the milk is at the correct temperature. Fond husband can read to his heart's content while he waits for Junior's bottle to heat by this gadget.

Those are just a few of the things fathers would like to have this Christmas from an electrical store. A slow jaunt through any electrical store in Peterborough would find their number added to at every step. Everything's there waiting for you.

50,000 Farms Use Hydro

"The Hired Man That Works for Pennies" is an apt and true expression of the service of Hydro-Electric Power on the farm.

More than 50,000 farms in Ontario are today using Hydro power, the province - wide electrical system which the people themselves own. There are also slightly more than that number of people living in hamlets and villages who are also in this power "hook up."

Electrical equipment never eats, never sleeps—never quits or goes off the job when properly kept up—and less than three cents' worth of Hydro power can do as much mechanical work as a man can do in a full eight hour day!

Electricity can do practically everything that a man or an animal can do in the way of farm work—and when it comes to the cost, it is a matter of pennies against dollars.

Japan is trying to trace housewives and dealers who hoard sugar.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. LIMITED

Water Power Watched For Sabotage

With Canada at war, authorities realize the tremendous importance of this country's water powers and are taking every precaution to protect them against sabotage. To the average citizen these precautions may seem a little extreme, but pause a little to consider how vital they are in a country one of whose chief duties will be to provide munitions and foods for warring Allies, and you will realize with them the tremendous responsibility that faces the government in affording such protection.

For Canada's water powers constitute one of her greatest natural resources. Their development has not only facilitated the growth of industry, but has resulted in giving value to marginal products, which, without low-cost power provided by water, would have remained unmarketable. This low-cost power has also resulted in the creation of entirely new centres of population for the manufacture of raw materials imported from abroad. So general and widespread is its advisability that all but the most isolated hamlets enjoy the amenities of electric lighting, radio, cooking and domestic appliances which in many countries are associated only with the larger urban centres.

Canada's water powers have an estimated capacity of almost 34,000,000 h.p., which, under average conditions of use, will provide for a turbine installation of about 43,700,000 h.p. of which the installation, as at January 1, 1939, represents only 18.75 per cent., notwithstanding that it provides 730 h.p. for each thousand of her population. These water powers, developed and undeveloped, are found from the Maritimes to British Columbia in proximity to all industrial centres, the largest mineral deposits and pulpwood supplies. Widespread transmission networks distribute the power from developed sites to consumers within radii of hundreds of miles.

Provincial Distribution

The water powers of the Maritime provinces, while small in comparison with the sites in the other provinces, are a valuable economic resource which is augmented by abundant local coal supplies. Quebec has the largest known resources of water power and the greatest development, her present installation representing 50 per cent of Canada's total. More than 89 per cent of her total installation is operated by central electric station organizations distributing electricity for public use. Ontario, which, like Quebec, is without local coal supplies is second in both power resources and development.

Here the Hydro-Electric Power Commission operates plants aggregating more than 65 per cent of the total installation of the province, while an additional 21 per cent is operated by other central station organizations. Of the Prairie provinces Manitoba has the largest power resources and the greatest development, 75 per cent of the total hydraulic development of the three provinces being installed on the Winnipeg river to serve the city of Winnipeg and adjacent municipalities and, over the transmission network of the Manitoba Power Commission, 96 cities, towns, and villages in southern Manitoba. In the section of the Prairie provinces containing least water power, the southern portions of Saskatchewan and Alberta, there are large fuel resources. British Columbia, traversed by three distinct mountain ranges, ranks fourth in available water power and her hydraulic development is exceeded in only Quebec and Ontario. The water powers of the Yukon and Northwest Territories, while considerable, are so remote as to limit the present development to local mining uses.

The significance of this distribution of Canada's water power is evident when it is stated that 60 per cent of the available power and 81 per cent of the developed power are found in the highly industrialized provinces of Ontario and Quebec which contain 61½ per cent of her total population and which, because of lack of known fuel deposits, would otherwise be dependent upon imported coal for production of power.

Time Saving Big Factor With Ranges

In this modern day when the time element has become almost as important in the home as in the office, hours spent in the kitchen have been cut to a bare minimum by many modern home-makers who know through experience that the fastest and best way to cook today is by means of an electric range. This fact is proven by the increasing number of women who have replaced other methods of cooking, with electricity.

According to T. J. Cavanagh, local Frigidaire Electric Range dealer, "Time has taken on a new meaning to the housewife of the present generation who finds herself with a full social calendar each day and less time available for kitchen work. Whereas her grandmother spent the better part of her day in preparing meals, today's wife has other obligations to meet. This is more than made possible for her by Frigidaire's electric ranges which assure fast and efficient cooking with a minimum of effort."

Automatic controls, which do away with the old clock-watching type of baking, assure satisfactory results at a fraction of the time formerly necessary. In addition, these controls which turn the range on and off at specified times can be used safely to cook a meal while the housewife is busy in other parts of the house, or is away from the house entirely. Fast-heating cooking units with variable speeds provide for increased precision which formerly was not possible without constant supervision.

"Cooking the modern electric way," says Mr. Cavanagh, "is more than attractive to the modern housewife whose daily schedule is no longer centred around the long hours spent in the kitchen. More time is available for extra duties and pleasures when the presence of an electric range in her kitchen assures fast and efficient cooking with a minimum of effort."

Good Coffee Requires Care To Make

Good coffee should be clear and sparkling, should have a tantalizing aroma and a rich full flavour.

Of course you cannot get the best results from the cheapest coffee, but there are many good coffees at reasonable price. Your own favorite bend is no doubt one of these so we shall assume that you start out with a good coffee. A level or rounded tablespoon of ground coffee should be used for each cup, depending on the strength you prefer. The water should be fresh. In the brewing process, the water should be in the neighborhood of 200 degrees temperature when it comes in contact with the coffee. Below that temperature there will not be sufficient heat in the water to extract all the good flavor of the coffee and over that temperature, especially above boiling (212 degrees), it will extract in addition to the desirable flavors, a bitter tannic acid as well.

The hot water and coffee must agitate with each other for the correct period of time. If too long, the coffee will be bitter due to the release of tannic acids. If too short, all of the true goodness will not have been extracted. The correct period of agitation is between three and four minutes. Once coffee has been brewed, it should immediately be removed from the grounds and should not be permitted to cool below drinking temperature, about 170 degrees. If coffee is let cool, then re-heated it cannot be as good as it originally was, because once out of the original solution, re-heating will not break up the oils into the same fine solution as in the original brew.

There are several processes of brewing coffee. The old-fashioned coffee pot, which boils the brew and does not separate the grounds from the made coffee. The drip process, wherein boiled water is poured over the grounds and allowed to drip through to the container below. The newer vacuum principle as done in the glass type of coffee maker. Also, there is the percolator which circulates the boiling water continuously through the grounds.

These methods all have advantages and disadvantages. The ideal process would be an appliance that would automatically control the temperature to about 203 degrees; control the brewing time to three or four minutes and then automatically switch from the brew temperature to drinking temperature, 170 degrees, and in the same operation separate the beverage from the coffee grounds. Such an appliance would remove all the guess work from coffee-making and result in good coffee every time. That appliance is now on the market and is known as the "Coffeemaster." Really this appliance seems uncanny. All you have to do is to put coffee in the top part and water in the lower part, turn on the current and forget it. You go about doing other things and when you return in a few minutes or a few hours you will find your coffee all ready for you, at the correct drinking temperature. Coffeemaster has automatically brewed the coffee at the correct temperature for the correct time, and then set itself to keep the coffee a drinking temperature (not boiling) until wanted.

Financing

The total plant assets of the Eastern Ontario Hydro system utilities amount to $8,789,985.03. The totals assets, including an equity in the H.E.P.C. of $1,956,360.34, aggregate $13,180,818.72 The reserves and surplus accumulated in connection with the local utilities, exclusive of the equity in H.E.P.C., amount to $9,102,617.17, an increase of $571,908.72 during the year 1938. The percentage of net debt to total assets is 12.3, a reduction of 1.7 p.c.

The total revenue of the municipal electric utilities served by this system was $3,536,559.56, a decrease of $28,937.31 as compared with the previous year. After meeting all expenses in respect of operation, including interest, setting up the tures, the total net surplus for the standard depreciation reserve amounting to $226,373.00 and providing $106,983.15 for the retirement of instalment and sinking fund debentures served by the Eastern Ontario system amounted to $243,365.46 as compared with $290,449.54 the previous year.

Four Systems All Enter Into Hydro

From time to time, in accordance with provisions in The Hydro Power Commission Act, various groups of municipalities have been co-ordinated to form systems for the purpose of obtaining power supplies from convenient sources. In some cases these small systems grew until their transmission lines interlocked with those of adjacent systems and it proved beneficial to consolidate the transmission networks and the financial and administrative features. In the well settled parts of the Province known as Old Ontario, this process has now reached a more stable condition and the municipalities of the southern part of the Province are now combined in three systems: the Niagara system, the Georgian Bay system and the Eastern Ontario system. One other system of partnership municipalities is known as the Thunder Bay system.

The Niagara System is the largest and most important system. It embraces municipalities in all the territory between Niagara Falls, Hamilton and Toronto on the east, and Windsor and Sarnia and Goderich on the west. It is served with electrical energy generated at plants on the Niagara river, supplemented with power transmitted from generating plants on the Ottawa river and with power purchased from Quebec companies.

The Georgian Bay System which is a consolidation of four systems previously established by the Commission, comprises municipalities in that part of the Province which surrounds the southern end of Georgian bay and lies to the north of the territory served by the Niagara system. It includes the districts surrounding lake Simcoe and extends as far north as Huntsville in the Lake of Bays district and south to Port Perry. Its power supplies are derived chiefly from local water-power developments.

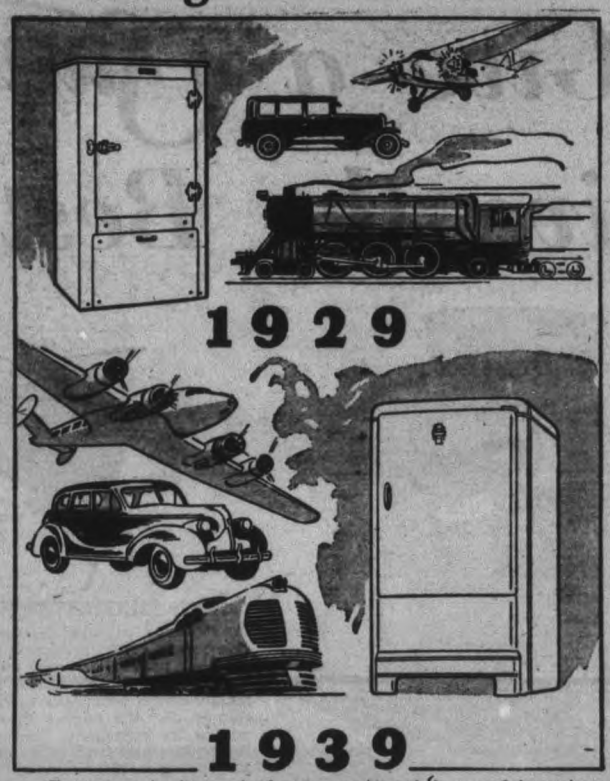
The Eastern Ontario System serves all of Ontario east of the areas served by the Georgian Bay and the Niagara systems. It includes the districts of Central Ontario, St. Lawrence, Rideau, Ottawa and Madawaska; formerly separate systems. Its power supplies are from local developments supplemented by purchases from other sources.

The Thunder Bay System comprises the cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, adjacent rural sections, the village of Nipigon, and the mining district of Longlac. Two developments on the Nipigon river supply power.

MUNICIPAL UTILITIES

All municipal "Hydro" utilities have current expenses to meet similar to the expenses of the Commission and have adopted the same financial procedure with respect to their operations. In others words, concurrently with the creation of funds to liquidate their debt to the Commission and to provide the necessary reserves to protect generating, transforming and transmission systems, the municipalities are taking similar action with respect to their local "Hydro" utility systems.

Changes In Ten Years



Compare trains, airplanes, automobiles, refrigerators and other objects of 10 years ago with their today's counterpart and an amazing contrast is immediately apparent. Because development of these things has been gradual, most of us take even startling improvements more or less for granted. For example, we find that 10 years ago an electric refrigerator had at least 25 fewer features than it has today.

Initial Connection, Wiring Require No Outlay Of Cash

Not only are the rates for Hydro-Electric service considerably below the average for the North American continent, but the initial connection and wiring costs require no outlay of ready cash.

Under the Rural Power Districts Loans Act of Ontario Government, wiring and many items of electrical equipment can be obtained without a down payment—the most being financed at a low interest rate over a period of years, if required.

The conveniences of the Rural Loan Financing Plan are available the farmers of good standing owning their own property. Under the plan, no down payment is required . . . you have years to pay . . .

These terms apply to the cost of wiring the farm—and to the purchase of electric washing machines, milking machines, motors, grain grinders, water pumping apparatus, cream separators, milk coolers and other electrical equipment.

Hydro "budget" plans enable you to enjoy to the full the electric standard of living and working, without digging into your savings. For only two or three dollars a week, you can have the electrical equipment you need to take drudgery out of work on your farm.

Radio Plays Vital Role

It is hard to realize that during the last war there was no such thing as a radio in the home—no advantages of short-wave broadcasting for military or police use, etc. Now, however, with the principal capital of Europe all broadcasting war newscasts in English daily—everyone can listen in direct to these programs providing they possess one of the newer 1940 type of console radios which has the new feature of "Short-wave Station Expansion."

Old type of radios which have the five foreign short-wave meter bands all jammed together on one "band" cannot hope to get good —principally because the stations clear short-wave foreign reception are too hard to separate, the tuning is "tricky" and they are difficult to bring in easily.

The new 1940 Rogers Radios now on display at Childerhose Radio Sales and Service with the latest advancement of "Short-wave Station Expansion" separates and brings Foreign stations in almost like local stations. Tuning is 17 times easier because the stations have been separated by expanding the dial and devoting an individual channel to each meter band.

There are, at the present time, 12 war news bulletins broadcast over short-wave in English every day—direct from the capital of Europe.

Ontario Hydro Is In The Van In Engineering Achievements

In addition to the eminence Hydro has attained in the design and construction of hydro-electric plants, the Commission has pioneered in the art of public utility engineering in many ways. For example, the co-ordinated supply of power to many municipalities, the "superpower" idea, was early put into practice, and centralized technical supervision has contributed greatly to the success of the enterprise.

In high-voltage transmission, the Commission has operated 110,000-volt lines since 1910 and 220,000-volt lines since 1928. It contributed substantially to the design of suspension type insulators and was among the first to adopt and apply to whole transmission net works wide-scale high-speed protective methods. Much of its engineering success is due to the fact that it maintains well-equipped laboratories and fully co-operates in research work with other engineering organizations.

A prominent factor in the early success of the Commission was the employment of scientific rate schedules (tariffs). These rate schedules, based upon service at cost, and greatly stimulated the use of electricity, especially in the domestic field.

Today, with a highly experienced technical staff, the Commission is continuing to pioneer in all branches of electrical public utility practice in order to provide the best possible electrical service in Ontario at still lower cost.

Cent's Worth Hydro Power Will Cook A Dinner For Two

HERE'S what one cent's worth of Hydro power does:

Light a 60-watt lamp for more than 10 hours.

Run an electric washer for one hour.

Operate an electric refrigerator for 12 hours or more.

Operate a vacuum cleaner for 1½ hours.

Operate the family radio for six hours.

"An Electrical Gift for Every Purse and Every Person!"

Power Plants On Trent Numerous

Power plants in the Trent Canal system from Cameron Lake to the Bay of Quinte are located as follows: Fenelon Falls, 1,000 h.p.; Bobcaygeon, a small plant on one of the branches of the Bob River, supplying the village with power as a municipal enterprise; Young's Point, 700 h.p.; Lakefield 2,300 h.p.

At Lock 24 south of Lakefield the Hydro-Electric Commission owns a plant they bought from the Canada Cement Company. It has been reconditioned, and according to information is ready for use at any time. Its turbine, a former William Hamilton product, is rated at 1,000 h.p.

Then there's the C.G.E. Company's dam at Nassau. The Hydro dam at Auburn; the Quaker Oats Company dam at London street in the city.

Healey Falls Largest

The Healey Falls plant with an operating head of 74 feet of water is the largest producer of power in the system. Its three turbines have a total capacity of 16,800 horse power.

The Ranney Falls station below Campbellford was constructed by the Hydro-Electric Commission and came into operation in August, 1922. It has an average operating head of 47 feet, and its two turbines a combined capacity of 10,000 h.p.

The power plant at Hague's Reach, 2½ miles below Campbellford has a head of 22.5 feet and is rated at 3,500 h.p. The Meyersburg plant, two miles further down stream, has an average operating head of 32 feet, and its three turbines a joint capacity of 6,600 h.p. The Commission's plant at Frankford contributes another 4,800 h.p. through its turbines. The Sidney generating station has a total capacity of 5,600 h.p.

These brief facts relating to the production of power in the Central Ontario system indicate that its most important section is south of Rice Lake.

METEORITE RAIN SEEN

During an electrical storm over Palmerston North, New Zealand, a bursting meteorite numbed many people. Following a blinding flash many pieces of a white-hot substance rained on streets and burst into smaller pieces. A geologist states that the substance is metallic, having the hardness of quartz and the color of copper. When scraped, it was of a silvery color.

Where Power Comes From

All along the Trent Canal Waterway dams have been erected and from these large quantities of power are derived to drive the wheels of industry in Central Ontario. The above scene is a typical one of the water rushing over a dam on the Otonabee River.

Programs Are Being Well Planned

TORONTO, Nov. 28 — —(C.P.)— Radio in Canada is travelling down the middle road toward "something distinctively Canadian," according to E. L. Bushnell, general supervisor of programs for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Television is making good progress in Britain, but Mr. Bushnell thinks it is too expensive at present for Canada. The B.B.C. puts on television programs five and six hours every day—about two hours each afternoon and three to four each night. The subjects televized range from cricket games to drawing-room dramas. The Cesarewitch was a recent notable project and cricket games are often picked up for the visual enjoyment of British fans. The programs are sent from London and can be received within 40 to 50 miles.

In Britain, with all B.B.C. stations giving the same programs through each day there is no need for the split-second methods that characterize radio in Canada and the United States. Here a program must end right on the dot because an individual station may be under contract for a program of its own that is to immediately follow.

In Great Britain, however, if a program runs a minute or two over it doesn't much matter. If a play ends before the half-hour or hour, they just fill in with a spot of organ music or a phonograph record. Even a few seconds of silence is no disgrace.

Two Million Horsepower Used Yearly

The Hydro enterprise was initiated by purchase of power by public tender in 1909-10 from existing companies with plants already operating at Niagara Falls and at two other points in Ontario. The small initial load of less than 1,000 horsepower in 1910 grew in five years to 100,000 horsepower in the area supplied from Niagara, and had to be supplemented from time to time by purchases from other plants.

In the meanwhile, a policy of construction of new hydro-electric plants to supply other parts of the Province, and the purchase of existing plants, was initiated as early as 1914. Following the war a tremendous increase took place in the general use of electricity, and by 1920 the load reached 476,000 horsepower.

The Commission constructed the great Queenston-Chippawa development of 525,000 horsepower, which started to deliver power in 1922. Today, the Commission operates 46 hydro - electric developments and purchases large blocks of power to meet what appears to be an ever-increasing demand which, by the end of 1938, totalled nearly 2,000,000 horsepower.

Special Rate Long Hours

In 1934 the commission made available for rural consumers a special energy rate for long-hour uses of power by rural consumers. This particularly affects under - earth heating (hot-beds) and heating of water. Where the extra use of energy may be obtained from the present equipment, a third follow-up rate per kilowatt-hour of 0.75 cents gross is given in all districts. The first rate remains unchanged, except that as pointed out above it is subject to a maximum of 6 cents per kilowatt-hour, and the kilowatt-hours to be charged at the second rate varies both with the class of service and the first kilowatt-hour rate.

Rural Loans Under Act

Under 8he Rural Power District Loans 9ct, 1930, authority was given to The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario to finance the installation of wiring and the purchase of specified electrical equipment by rural farm consumers.

To October 31, 1938, 1,696 applications have been received and of these 1,229 loans have been completed, involving an outlay of $249,412. As all applications for loans are governed by regulations made subject to the provisions of the Act it will be seen from the above that quite a number fail to meet the requirements of these regulations.

To October 31, 1938, 325 loans had been repaid in full either through the maturing of the loan or because of the improved financial position of the borrower.

A Christmas Present For "Her" That Saves You Money

You can't afford, at the present high cost of food, to waste or throw out left overs from the table. Little amounts of meats, vegetables or desserts ordinarily thrown out can be saved indefinitely in a new Kelvinator and be just as appetizing after 3 or 4 days as when first put on the table. Quantity buying of perishables such as meats, vegetables, etc. often saves money. You can do this if you have a Kelvinator. Some food actually tastes better after being chilled.

YOU CAN BUY THE NEW

Kelvinator

ON TERMS AS LOW AS 25c PER DAY

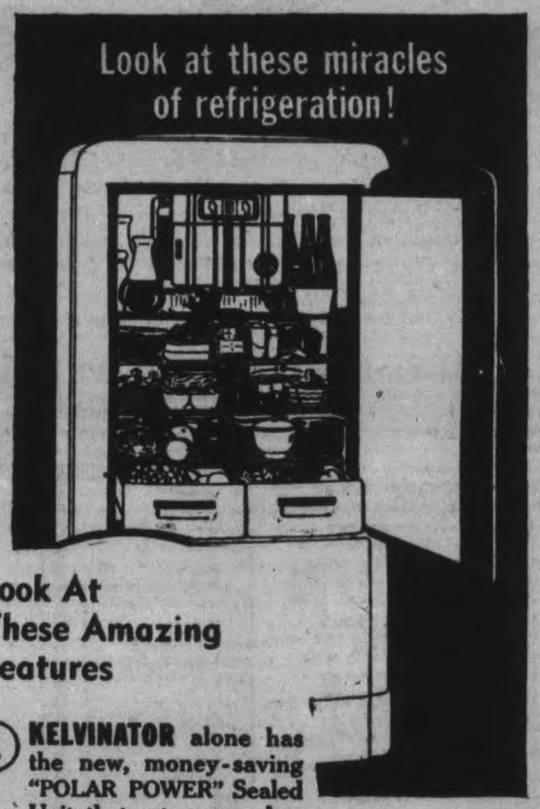
Look at these miracles of refrigeration!



Look At These Amazing Features

1. KELVINATOR alone has the new, money-saving "POLAR POWER" Sealed Unit that sets a new low for operating costs—yet has enough reserve to keep FIVE refrigerators cold!
2. KELVINATOR is never-failing... the new sealed unit will always give you all the refrigeration you'll ever need... as much as you'd get from 1,050 pounds of ice a week, if necessary.
3. KELVINATOR makes ice faster... makes MORE ice... at amazingly low cost... And makes frozen desserts surer, quicker.

Growth Made By Hydro Remarkable

The province of Ontario has an area of about 400,000 square miles. Its extensive agricultural areas, its vast forests and its rich mines, supply raw materials for diversified manufacturing industries of growing importance. Most of its settled population, however, is concentrated in the southern portion of the Province, being in general the area south of lake Nipissing and the Ottawa river. In this territory there is an assessed area of approximately 40,000 square miles.

At the beginning of this century it was recognized that the southern portion of Ontario was destined to become an important manufacturing area provided that some means could be taken to lessen or remove the growing dependence of the Province upon outside sources for its fuel and power supplies. It was moreover believed that with an adequate supply of power, Ontario could and would take a prominent place in world commerce, and this belief has since proved correct.

Meantime, adjacent to this power-using territory, Niagara, one of the greatest water powers in the world, was largely unutilized. Public spirited citizens applied themselves to the problem and finally, following the reports of investigating commissions, the Provincial Government in 1906 provided by special Act for the creation of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. In 1907 The Power Commission Act was passed, amplifying and extending the Act of 1906, and this Act,—modified by numerous amending Acts which now form part of the Revised Statues of Ontario, 1937—constitutes the authority under which the Commission operates.

In 1909 work was commenced on a comprehensive transmission network and by the end of 1910 power was being supplied to several municipalities. At the end of 1938, the Commission was serving 821 municipalities in Ontario. This number included 26 cities, 102 towns, 285 villages and police vilages and 408 townships.

To provide this service the Commission operates several widespread but co-ordinated systems of generating plants and transmission networks, interconnected where advisable. All told the Commission owns and operate 46 generating stations, having a total capacity of 1,519,400 horsepower. In addition the Commission in 1938 purchased 540,005 horsepower, making a total maximum capacity of 2,059,405 horsepower, with an energy output exceeding 7,500,000,000 kilowatt-hours.

TRENT TOTAL 60,000 H.P.

Chairman

T. H. Hogg, B.A.Sc., C.E., D.Eng., chairman and chief engineer of Ontario's Hydro-Electric Power Commission

Water Power Supplies All Services

Ontario's "Hydro" undertaking is a co-operative municipal enterprise administered by The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. It has successfully demonstrated how the development and application of power resources can be efficiently co-ordinated to the social and economic interests of a large population occupying an extensive territory.

Broadly, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is entrusted with the duty of supplying the electrical needs of the citizens of Ontario at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound economics. Its field is province-wide. It has been supplying electrical service for nearly 30 years, and during this period the costs of electricity to the consumer have been substantially reduced, while the finances of the enterprise have been established on a secure foundation.

Fundamentals that have been insisted upon from the beginning are: that business principles must be strictly followed in all phases of operation and of finance; and that government participation in the undertaking be limited to that degree of supervision of general policies necessary for the protection of the guarantees of the Province in connection with the enterprise.

It is of interest to note that all the power resources of the undertaking are entirely derived from water-power developments, including both the power generated in Commission-owned plants and also the power purchased for redistribution.

Heavier Loans Reported

The normal increase in power sold on the Eastern Ontario system continued during the year 1938 and all except five of the cost contract municipal utilities increased their load. In the five municipalities referred to, the load was practcally stationary. The total amount of power sold to cost contract municipalities and rural power districts increased from 87,806 horsepower in 1937 to 101,000 horsepower in 1938, an increase of 15 per cent.

The Eastern Ontario system took delivery of the last block of power under th e Gatineau contract on October 1, 1938. Under this contract the Gatineau Power Company is obligated to deliver a total of 60,000 horsepower. Up to October, 1938, 42,000 horsepower was being taken by the Eastern Ontario system. On this date the system took delivery of the last block of 18,000 horsepower which will take care of the estimated increase of load for 1939 and will act as a reserve for the system.

Visit To Electrical Store Solves For Many People Big Christmas Gift Problem

By FLORA

"Do your Christmas shopping early," the familiar annual slogan leaps out at us from newspaper advertisements, from billboards, from our radio sets.

The number of shopping days that remain before the holidays are blazoned forth on every hand. We glance at the calendar with the remark, "can it really be so soon?" and start drawing up our lists.

Faced with the same shopping problems as yourselves, our wandering footsteps were drawn towards a George Street electrical shop yesterday by an attractive window display that fairly gleamed Christmas cheer. What better way to start off the happy Yule morning, we thought, than with a cup of the most delicious coffee in the world—made in the new electric glass percolator mother discovered under the Christmas tree. Perhaps to make that breakfast extra-special, there would be crisp, golden toast—we saw such a clever toaster on a handsome walnut tray with two colorful jam and marmalade dishes to go with it. All you do is drop in the bread, the shopkeeper told us, and when your toast has achieved perfection it just pops up and tells you so! By the way, they would be kind of handy gadgets to have around for after-skiing or skating parties, too, don't you think?

Many Other Things

Of course there are lots of other things that would delight mother at Christmas time—we were shown a waffle baker that clicks out full-size golden waffles two at a time; an electric mixer that is almost a kitchen maid in itself; handsome floor lamps and table lamps in a variety of lovely designs—everyone knows what good lighting and the charm of exquisite, well-chosen lamps can do for any room; electric roasters that look more like a piece of jewelry, and carpet sweepers that will prove a double blessing when it comes to clearing away the holiday debris left from the cracking of Christmas nuts and the unwrapping of countless parcels. But these are only a few of the electrical treasures with which one may furnish a home these modern days.

Of course if you want to make the lady of your household grateful to you for the rest of her housekeeping days, there are porcelain electric refrigerators that are a dream of perfection; there are washing machines that might fittingly grace the parlor, so beautifully appointed are they, and the stoves—well, seeing is believing, and if you really want to experience a thrill, just go in and have a peek for yourself, then order one for mother, have it tied with a huge red satin bow and a sprig of holly, and thus assure you and your household of the happiest Christmas in history!

For the Bachelor Girl

But supposing your mind is occupied with buying a gift for the business girl who has her own snug little apartment—then the electrical store will solve this problem, too. There are portable ovens in which roast beef, flaky biscuits, cake and pies may be baked, and steaks broiled; as well as roasting dishes that will plug in to do several vegetables at once—what a boon to the girl who has been bravely serving meals from an electric plate! The coffee percolator or toaster would be a thrill for her, and you can purchase little radios now for almost a song, and they can be had in several shades of bright enamel, white or brown to match the color scheme of her apartment.

For dad or big brother, a radio for his own room might be a good idea, then he can listen to the hockey game or boxing match just as long as he pleases without receiving murderous glances from the rest of the family. There are electric razors, too, and some extra special numbers in clocks with electric alarms that remind one its time to get up in such a soothing way it makes one actually feel happy about it!

Commissioner Northern Ontario Properties Are Operated For Province

SINKING FUND

Sinking fund statement gives the accumulated total of the amounts paid by each municipality as part of the cost of power together with its proportionate share of other sinking funds.

In addition to Hydro's operations on behalf of the partner municipalities, the Commission, under an agreement with the Province, holds and operates the Northern Ontario Properties in trust for the Province. Although widely separated geographically, these properties for the purposes of financial administration are treated as one unit. The various divisions of the Northern Ontario Properties lie in the portion of the Province north of Lake Nipissing and French River areas, between the Manitoba and Quebec interprovincial boundaries, exclusive of the territory served by the Thunder Bay system.

The principal areas in this vast territory at present receiving service are: the Nipissing District centering around the city of North Bay on the short of lake Nipissing; the Sudbury District, which contains the largest nickel deposits in the world, comprising the city of Sudbury Basis; the Abitibi District which includes the well-known Porcupine and Kirkland Lake gold mining areas and which are served by 25-cycle power from the Abitibi Canyon development over a transmission line 190 miles long, with branches to all important mining areas now being actively exploited; the Patricia District comprising the territory within transmission distance of the Ear Falls development at the outlet of lac Seul on the English river, including the Red Lake and Woman Lake mining areas; and St. Joseph District in the territorial district of Patrica serving the Pickle Lake area with power from a development at Rat Rapids on the Albany river.

Since about 1930 there has been a phenomenal growth in the mining industry of Northern Ontario. The provision of low-cost power by the Commission has made possible the development of the great ore deposits in the pre-Cambrian shield which is exposed through the whole of Northern Ontario. At the present time more than 50 operating mines are being served by the Commission and the rate of load increase is steadily upwards. This growing activity, particularly of the gold producers, makes necessary the constant enlargement of existing, and the construction of new, generating stations, transmission lines and transformer stations.

Given Service At Cost To Consumer

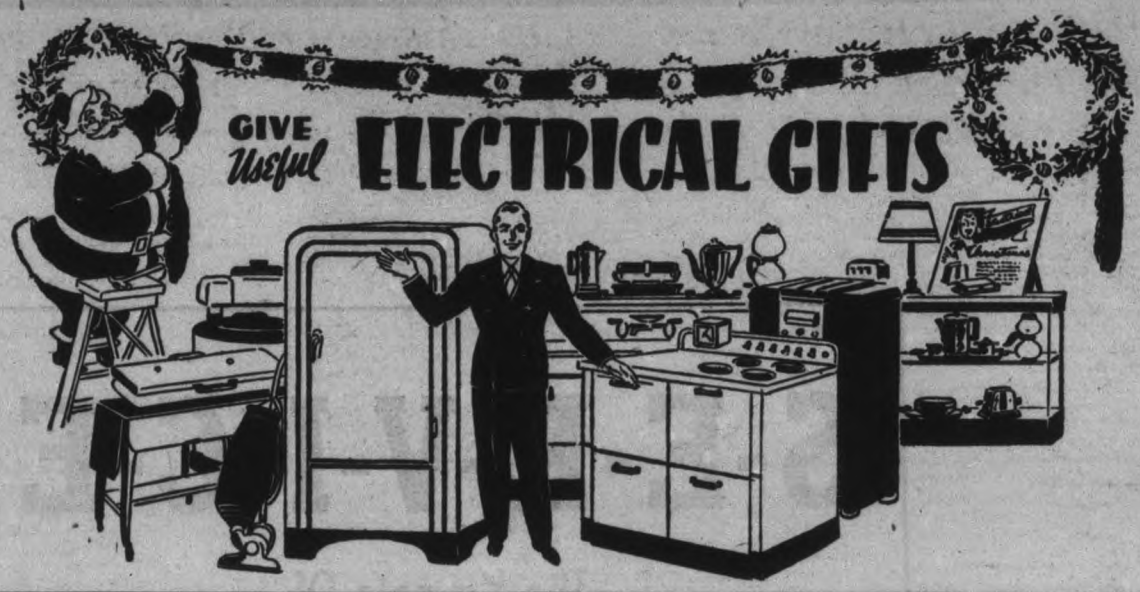
The basic principle governing the financial operations of the Hydro undertaking is that electrical service be given by the Commission to the municipalities and by the municipalities to the ultimate consumers at cost. Cost includes not only all operating and maintenance charges, interest on capital investment and reserves for renewals or depreciation, for obsolescence and contingencies and for stabilization of rates, but also a reserve for sinking fund or capital payments on debentures.

From its inception the undertaking has been entirely self-supporting and no contributions to revenues have been made from general rates. In connection with the distribution of power in rural areas, assistance is given by the Province.

The undertaking as a whole involves two distinct phases of operations as follows:

The first phase is the provision of the electrical power—either by generation or purchase—and its transformation, transmission and delivery in wholesale quantities to individual municipal utilities, to large industrial consumers, and to rural power districts. This is performed by The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario as trustee for the municipalities acting collectively in groups or "systems." Each system of municipalities, as provided in The Power Commission Act, forms an independent financial unit.

The second phase is the retail distribution of electrical energy to consumers within the limits of the areas served by the various municipal utilities and rural power districts. In the case of rural power districts, which usually embrace portions of more than one township, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission not only provides the power at wholesale, but also—on behalf of the respective individual townships — attends to all physical and financial operations connected with the distribution of energy at retail to the consumers within the rural power districts. In the case of cities, towns, many villages and certain thickly populated areas of townships, retail distribution of electrical energy provided by the Commission is in general conducted by individual local municipal utility commissions under the general supervision of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.



Busy Roads Are Lighted

At the request of the Department of Highways of Ontario the Hydro Commission installed a system of modern lighting on the four-lane highway which is under construction between Toronto and Burlington.

In general there is a center boulevard, 30 feet in width, separating the pavements and the poles which support the luminaires are erected in the center of the boulevard. On tangents the poles are 200 feet apart, this spacing being reduced to 150 feet at curves. The poles are 35 feet in length of western cedar, stained green and treated at the ground line to retard decay.

The brackets supporting the luminaires are of welded tubular steel, galvanized, 18 feet in length. Two are mounted on each pole, 180 degrees apart and extend 3 feet over the edge of the pavement. The light center is 25 feet above the surface of the pavement.

As there are already some mature trees on the boulevard, and others will be planted, the wires to serve the lighting units have been placed underground, two feet below the surface of the boulevard. The circuit is energized at 230/115 volts.

55 Years Of Service Given

In 1907 the first of the Coast-to-Coast chain of twenty-one branch offices and warehouses of the Northern Electric Company Limited, was opened in Winnipeg, to render available to the new settlements of the West that complete service in electrical merchandise which today is typified in the Northern Electric Catalogue with its nine hundred and sixty pages, describing over seventy thousand separate items of electrical merchandise; these seventy thousand items cover all phases of the electrical needs of industry, business, sport, education, religion and home life of this Dominion.

Among the products distributed by Northern Electric, are such household names as: Northern-Hammond Electric Organ, Mirrophonic Radio, Leonard Refrigerators, A.B.C. Washers and Ironers, Royal Vacuum Cleaners and Gurney Electric Stoves. These spell increased comfort and efficiency in the home.

Throughout its fifty-five years of service to the electrical needs of Canada, Northern Electric has been on the frontiers of development helping to build the new places and to maintain improved conditions of living in the more established districts from Halifax on the Atlantic to Victoria on the Pacific, and from the border to the Arctic Circle, thus earning for itself the title—A National Electrical Service.

LOCAL POWER CONSUMERS

Peterborough had 6,659 consumers of electric energy during the year 1938. Of that number 5,590 were listed in the domestic service, with a consumption of 11,965,265 kilowatt-hours, and the revenue was $146,900.81. In the commercial light service the number of consumers was 910, the revenue $79,392.37 and the cosumption 4,747,510 kwh. In the power service there were 159 consumers, the revenue $110,471.15, and the monthly consumption in horse power 6,210.2.

Rural Electrical Service Is Fast Becoming Symbol Of Agricultural Progress

The advent of electrical service, and the construction of transmission lines in the rural districts of Ontario have become symbols of agricultural progress. During the past year the mileage of primary lines approved for construction in rural power districts of Ontario reached a new high record of 2,660 miles to serve more than 14,000 additional customers. The previous records were 2,300 miles in 1937 and 1,894 miles in 1930. Most of these lines were actually constructed during the year, or were under construction at the year's end.

The lowering of the service charge and the reduced requirements respecting the number of consumers per mile of line has in the past two or three years resulted in a phenomenal growth in the extension of service in rural power districts. The aggregate load supplied to all rural Hydro consumers in the Province increased during the year 1938 by 17.3 per cent. This substantial growth indicates an extended appreciation of electrical service, and an ability to install equipment to utilize this service.

During the period that the regulations respecting service to rural consumers required a minimum of three farm contracts per mile of primary line the Commission made surveys in various parts of the Province and estimated that approximately 75,000 standard or large farms would comprise the probable ultimate total of farms that could be served on this basis. Since that time new regulations have been made permitting service on the basis of two farms per mile, which necessarily has increased the number of additional farms that may be served.

There are 178 operating rural power districts in Ontario, and power is delivered to approximately 100,000 rural consumers, comprising farms and dwellings in various groups. The consumers are situated in 398 townships and 98 police villages, and are served over networks of rural primary lines which aggregate more than 15,700 miles. In addition to the 398 townships served by rural power districts, 10 townships are served jointly by rural power districts and voted areas.

Uses For Electricity.

As a result of the continued efforts of the Commission and other kindred interests the farming communities now have a better knowledge of the many uses to which electrical service may be applied. The progressive farmer, through information obtained and through his own inventive application, now finds many new uses for electrical service. It would be impossible in this report to describe these at length, but they may be classified under the following heads:

Lighting Service—Electric lighting is safe, convenient and time saving. It adds to the comfort and attractiveness of the farm home and reduces fire hazard to a minimum. Against the cost of energy for lighting may be set the cost of coal oil or candles. Even at 6 cents per kilowatt-hour, a 40-watt lamp can be operated nearly 24 hours for 5 cents.

The progressive farmer is using controlled lighting for increasing the production of eggs and, what is more important from the viewpoint of financial returns, obtaining a greater proportion of the annual egg yield during the months when prices are high. Special forms of lamps, such as the infra-red or heat lamps, can be used to prevent rheumatism, etc., in litters of pigs, while ultra violet lamps have proven effective in preventing rickets in young pigs and chicks, eliminating losses and providing a more rapid and sturdy growth.

Power Service—Next to lighting, the energy used for mechanical purposes gives the most valuable service for the money expended for electricity.

In the farm home washing machines, vacuum cleaners, fans and furnace blowers contribute to making the farm home equal in comfort to one in the city. Motor-driven pumps supply water for sanitary systems and general house and farm use.

In the barn, dairy and workshop of the farm, electric motors may be employed for chipping feed, wood cutting, hay hoisting, milking, cream separating, churning and the many purposes of the farm workshop. Electric milking machines reduce labor at milking time to one-half and their regular use increase the milk flow and fat content.

The cost of electricity for operating small motor-driven appliances such as washing machines and pumps for the use of water under pressure for sanitary purposes, is very small. With energy at the 2-cent per kilowatt-hour rate, a ¼-horsepower motor can be operated at full load for three hours for 1 cent. As actually used in motor-driven appliances, the motors frequently operate at less than full load, or, under automatic operation as in pumping and refrigeration, for only 25 to 50 per cent of the 24 hours.

Electric Refrigeration— This is a special application of power service. Its use promotes health and comfort and reduces food losses. Ice obtained from neighbouring ponds is frequently contaminated and has endangered the health of many farm dwellers. Electric refrigeration is of special assistance in connection with dairy operations. The farmer can accumulate his separated cream for a few days with safety and can improve the marketing quality of his milk by cooling. It is also useful in egg storage.

Heating Service—Under this head come: the minor appliances of hand irons, ironing machines, toasters and hot plates, which owing to their intermittant use consume relatively small quantities of electricity per month; the major heating appliances of ranges and water heaters which need relatively large quantities of energy for their operation, and the special applications of electricity for incubating, brooding, etc., and for soil heating which only becomes economically profitable when the current used is available at specially low rates.

The electric range, although a heavy user of current, is efficient and the cost of operation is more than offset where the farmer can more advantageously employ his time than in hauling and chopping wood for the stove. It is safer and in summer provides cool cooking in comfort for the farmer's wife and also leaves her free to undertake more useful work.

Entertainment Service — Radios provide entertainment, general information and a familiarity with current events and market prices which have done much to make life on the farm more attractive and profitable. The many applications of power in a farm workshop will provide countless hours of valuable recreation and pleasure.

Miscellaneous—The miscellaneous applications of electricity seem only to be limited by the ingenuity of the farmer in adapting this modern flexible agent to his various needs. It is used when spraying against insects and to paint the barn, for incubating, brooding and for the control of humidity and ventilation in connection with poultry raising, to prevent the freezing of vegetables, to cook supplementary food for hogs and in countless other ways.

Remarkable Progress Made In Rural Electric Service

Rural electrical service has been studied by The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario since the earliest years of its existence, and remarkable progress has been made over the past 18 years.

Based upon the co-operative investments made by the cities and towns, rural electrical service in Ontario starts with the favourable feature of its wholesale supply of power provided at cost, determined in a manner precisely the same as for the wholesale supplies for the larger cities and towns. In connection with distribution costs, however, the rural consumer receives special consideration. In this case the Province, in pursuance of its long established policy of assisting agriculture, assists extension of rural electrical service by a grant-in-aid amount to 50 per cent of the capital cost of distribution facilities.

May Serve 75,000 Farms

In the southern part of the Province there is an assessed area of approximately 40,000 square miles containing 22,000,000 acres of which 75 per cent is land cleared for agricultural purposes. The total rural population in this area exceeds 1,100,000. Within reasonable transmission distance of existing lines and stations more than 75,000 farms may be served. At the end of 1938 about two-thirds of these farms were receiving electrical service.

In the settled rural areas of Ontario, rural power districts are formed. Their boundaries are not arbitrary geographic limits, but each district covers an area which can economically be served from one or more points of supply. There are 178 operating rural power districts, and power is delivered to approximately 100,000 rural consumers situated in 400 townships and 100 police villages. They are served over networks of rural primary lines which aggregate more than 16,000 miles.

The total capital investment in distribution lines and equipment in rural power district is about $29,000,000, of which the Province has contributed in the form of grants about one half, thus relieving the districts of the interest and sinking fund charges for one-half the investment in distribution facilities, or about one-sixth of the total yearly cost of operation including the cost of wholesale power.

Every year when I pack my big Christmas bag, I noticed how Electrical Gifts have come down, down in price. And that's only half the story. At to-day's low cost for Hydro service, it's so cheap to operate them. For example—

"... this beautiful new Electric Range uses amazingly little current to cook the most delicious meals you ever sat down to. Thanks to the steady reduction in Hydro cost—you can cook an entire full-course meal electrically for less than half-a-cent per person! And here's another electrical gift that saves money, as well as work—

"... the complete Electrical Laundry! The modern Electric Washing Machine saves clothes, saves time, saves strength—and it's so economical that it saves many dollars on the family budget. One cent will pay for the Hydro current used for an hour's washing ... and a full hour of "workless" ironing on the modern Electric Ironer costs just one cent for current, too.

"And most other Electrical Gifts cost even less to use! One single penny will operate the average family's Electric Radio for six hours! One cent will run the Electric Refrigerator for 12 hours or more! One cent is all it costs to do 1½ hours of house-cleaning with the Electric Vacuum Cleaner! And one cent will light a 60-watt lamp 10 hours!

Yes, Santa Claus is right! Electrical Gifts permanently add to better living ... and they lead to lower living costs! To-day, due to Hydro's consistent cost reductions, the average Ontario family can use and enjoy nearly Eight times the amount of Hydro power service for only twice the monthly bill of twenty-five years ago! That's why electricity is your biggest bargain.

Lighter Iron Is Found More Useful

The most interesting development since electric irons were first made—and the most important development from the point of view of the person who has to use her time and energy at ironing—is the recent change to light-weight irons. The old sad irons (how well they were made!) were, of necessity, very heavy in order to have sufficient bulk of iron to hold the heat for some time. Also, as the heat failed, the sheer weight of the iron was effective in removing wrinkles, etc., and so at the time that type of iron was thought quite efficient. It is natural then that when electric irons were introduced they were made of almost the same weight as the solid irons, for the idea was still firmly fixed that considerable weight was necessary for good ironing. The laundries however, soon found that the most valuable feature of the electric iron was the fact that, while the power was turned on, the iron didn't get cooler and cooler as the old solid irons did, thus making the work harder and harder until a fresh hot iron was brought into use. Further experiments showed that irons were used continually on one class of work, the flow of electricity could be regulated to compensate exactly for the amount of heat drawn from the iron, and under those conditions, the weight of the iron could be reduced considerably, and as long as the heat was maintained the ironing was done as well as if great weight had been applied. Experiments in laundries were continued with the idea of increasing the speed of ironing and lessening the fatigue of the workers, and to accomplish this, further reductions in weight were made, for there was ample proof that heat, and not weight, really does the ironing job.

Leading makers of irons co-operated and construction was greatly changed, so that now the average wife can attain fine laundry speed and efficiency with her iron that is sufficiently versatile to take care of everything from the daintiest to the heaviest pieces found in the household wash.

The modern iron is built to accommodate as much as 1,000 watts of electricity, yet it is more economical than the old type electric iron because it comes to ironing heat much more quickly, and the positive controls shut off the current when the required heat is reached, and keep it off until the iron cools below the desired temperature. These new irons do a better job of ironing because they remain evenly at the desired heat all the time, for when the dampness of the clothes cools the iron as little as only one degree, more heat rushes in from the big 1,000 watt reservoir like a flash. But with all this heat available there is no danger of scorching any clothes, because the controls are sensitive, quick-acting and the shut-off complete the instant the heat is back to the desired degree.

Another very real improvement to be found in the most modern irons is the heat control regulator switch at the tip of the thumb, right up in the handle away from the heat. This means there is more room for the hand below the handle, and much less chance of burning the knuckles. Moreover, instead of the old style markings for "low," "medium," "high," etc., the regulator button is marked for "linen," "cotton," "wool," "silks," "artificial silks," etc., which is, of course, far more simple and definite.

Triple-Thrift Refrigerators Acclaimed For Efficiency

Incorporating many new and exclusive features, Canadian General Electric Triple-Thrift refrigerators for 1939 are acclaimed for all-round convenience and efficiency, while their glistening beauty and modern hardware appointments at once command attention.

Among the outstanding features are the glass-topped vegetable drawer which reveals at a quick glance just what fresh foods are on hand; gliders which facilitate movement and protect floors; separate dessert tray in one of the super freezers and special cold storage compartment.

With no metal against metal contacts, and only three moving parts, the new refrigerators offer, with the aid of the exclusive G-E acoustic muffler, a pleasing, unmarred silence.

Seals The Cabinet

All-steel construction, and Thermocraft high-efficiency insulating material, afford many years of care-free service at a constantly low operating cost. Attention is also directed to the G-E rubber door-gasket which seals the refrigeration cabinet as thoroughly as the rubber ring on a fruit-jar seals goodness and flavour into freshly preserved fruits.

Separate zones for cold and humidity are provided for the absolute protection of all varieties of foodstuffs. The "super freezing zone" makes ice cubes and frozen desserts with previously unequalled speed. The new "cold storage zone" keeps meat, fish, and game in proper condition by supplying proper humidity as well as the right temperature. A "cold beverage zone" is designed specially to maintain the temperature that is exactly right for milk, cream, ice-water, ginger ale, or other beverages. For general food storage the "food protection zone" provides constant safeguarding below the 50-degree danger point. In the up-to-date "fruit and vegetables zone" even the tenderest and most perishable foods will maintain their garden freshness for weeks if necessary. As a further safeguard the handy Thriftometer tells at a glance that all foods inside are at the temperature best suited to preserving their goodness.

Release Ice Trays

A special triple-purpose lever releases ice trays instantly from the super freezer and continues its usefulness by releasing the cubes from the tray two at a time whether only a few or a whole tray full are needed. In some of the models the necessity for holding the tray under the hot-water tap until the cubes were removable has been done away with. As the third part of its triple duty, the tray lever serves as a bottle opener.

Under the super freezer a reserve ice cube storage tray and large chiller tray combine to meet extraordinary demand on the cube supply. On special occasions when more than a normal supply of ice is needed, the reserve tray meets the emergency quickly and easily with its added store.

Adjustable sliding shelves in some General Electric Refrigerators accommodate larger than usual food items easily and present the food supply to the eye quickly with a single pull of a finger.

Instant automatic interior light when the door is opened, one piece stain resisting interiors with rounded easy-to-clean corners, roomy door shelves, space-saving dishes that help to preserve natural flavours in foods, and a convenient water-bottle for cooling drinks, are all features of some of the new G-E refrigerators that the modern, thrifty housewife will appreciate. In addition there is a removable evaporator shelf which assures flexibility in the storing of frozen desserts.

Stainless Steel

The G-E super freezer is built of stainless steel throughout and, as a result, it resists chipping, tarnishing, and corrosion. There is no coated surface to chip off under the punishment of corroding juices or to wear off with rough usage.

The modern G-E refrigerator requires no attention of any kind while it is in use—not even oiling. General Electric engineers take pride in the achievement that has resulted in this long-life assurance of trouble-free performance. The vacuum, sealed-in-steel mechanism is cooled through its lifetime by a permanent supply of pump-forced oil. The high-pressure lubrication system supplies a large quantity of oil under pressure to every moving part. And just as it is unnecessary for the present-day motorist to stop while his motor cools, it is unnecessary for the owner of a G-E refrigerator to "rest" the motor of his his cooling system. This vacuum-sealed mechanism, General Electric engineers state, is built to last many, many years even though each one runs more hours in a year than the average automobile runs during its life-time. It is pointed out that the hermetically - sealed mechanism which was introduced 12 years ago by G-E has stood the test of time so satisfactorily that the trend of the industry is to adapt this principle.

Food storage capacities of Canadian-made General Electric Refrigerators range from 4.2 to 8.1 cubic feet, with an ice-making capacity of from 4 to 12 pounds, while in all models, the all-steel construction, insuring strength, durability and long life, is a constant factor. Overall dimensions vary from 52 5-16" high, 23½" wide, and 25½" deep, to 60" high, 33" wide, and 27 1-16" deep.

Engineers emphasize the fact that Canadian labour and material content of General Electric refrigerators is very high- placing them in the category of the few refrigerators which can be strictly classed as "made in Canada". Every year, it is pointed out, large consignments of Canadian General Electric refrigerators are shipped to many of the British Dominions.

Sharing Cost

Peterborough's share of the capital cost of the Eastern Ontario system is $1,511,920.88, in third position to Oshawa's $2,717,850.58 and Kingston's $1,530,742.20. The share borne by Ottawa is $931,993.89 and Belleville $830,668.31. Lindsay is charged with $473,373.48, Lakefield $65,984.19; Norwood $20,597.38; Hastings $25,489.91; Havelock $47,982.53. The total amount charged to the municipalities comprising the system is $12,864,367.93. Rural power districts, companies consuming power and other outlets bring the grand total to $19,041,983.81.

Nature Found Unable To Protect Food

Contrary to what many people believe, outside temperatures during fall and winter do not supply protection from food spoilage, according to T. J. Cavanagh, local dealer and authority on the subject of food preservation.

"Cold or hot temperatures," said Mr. Cavanagh, "do not cause food spoilage, but they do permit, within certain limts, the development of the agencies which do the actual spoiling. Scientists have classified them as yeasts moulds and bacteria, and they live and act like little plants. They can flourish only in temperatures above 50 degrees.

"Since the contaminating agents apparently are able to do their work only in temperatures above 50 degrees, it becomes easy to understand the function of an electric refrigerator for winter preservation of foods. For instance, every Frigidaire refrigerator assures constant tempeatures that are always below the 50 degree line, and such temperatures retard or prevent entirely the growth of the tiny organisms which damage food.

Scientists have discovered that the safest zone for food protection is between the temperatures of 32 and 50 degrees and within this narrow span of 18 degrees foods must be kept at all times. Realizing this, it is easy to understand why Nature cannot be depended upon to protect food during the winter months. Freezing weather may be followed by a warm spell; outside temperatures vary too much. A survey of the Weather Bureau reports show that there are only 19 days out of the average year which provide safety-zone temperatures below 50 degrees and above 32 degrees. But what is more important, records show that these safety-zone temperatures are seldom maintained throughout any single day in any part of Canada. Not only is there danger in temperatures going above the 50 degree mark and thus permitting harmful bacterial growth, but there is also the danger of vitamin loss in many types of food when the temperature goes to an excessively cold degree.

"That is why Frigidaire is ideal for the preservation of food over a long period of time. It makes its own cold, which is always in the safety-zone, regardless of how hot or cold outside temperatures may be. It requires no attention on the part of the user for everything is operated and controlled automatically."

Battle At Sea Raging Off Norway

Nazi Plane Downed Off England; Mine Gets Steamer

OSLO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Norwegian admiralty reported today a battle was in progress off the west coast, just outside territorial waters, between warships and bombing planes.

A station south of Stadt reported heavy gunfire in the engagement which began about 10.30 a.m. (4.30 a.m. E.S.T.)

Steamer Sunk

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)— The 1,023-ton British steamship Rubislaw sank off the southeast coast of Britain yesterday within two minutes after striking a mine, it was announced today. Thirteen members of the crew were killed.

Nazi Raider Downed

LONDON, Nov. 29—(CP)—A German plane was shot down this morning near the Northumberland coast, the Air Ministry announced.

When the German plane was sighted off the coast British fighter planes roared up, fought a battle over the sea and brought the enemy down.

Raid Over France

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(CP-Havas)—A five-minute air raid alarm was sounded in Western France today. The alarm, given at 11.33 a.m.,

Dikes Blasted

Zeebrugge, Belgium, Nov. 29.

EXTENSIVE damage was caused yesterday to dikes along the Belgian and Netherlands North Sea coast by drifting mines.

At the Belgian resort of Wenduyne, south of here, a powerful mine exploded, blasting away more than a third of the sea wall. Other mines washed ashore and exploded at Knocke, near the Netherlands frontier, and at Le Coq, midway between Zeebrugge and Ostend.

Sub Crew Laughs As Victims Are Set Adrift

LONDON, Nov. 29. —(CP)— A vivid tale of 38 hours in an open boat after their fishing trawler was sunk by a U-boat was told by a survivor today.

"We were fishing northwest of Ireland when the submarine appeared and fired a warning shot," he said. "She came very close and her captain shouted to abandon ship. We hoisted out our two 20-foot lifeboats. The skipper and four hands went in one boat. I was in the other with five others.

"The boats were provided with lugsail. I didn't hoist mine as I thought the weather was too bad. I saw the other boat make sail and that was the last we saw of our shipmates. As we got clear the U-boat men laughed at us.

"Soon after leaving our ship we saw another trawler sunk and later passed a lifeboat with 13 men in it. We waved but did not get within hailing distance.

"The weather was very bad. We had to bail incessantly and several times I thought the boat was going under. We had a keg of fresh water and some biscuits but no lantern and no compass. Two of the men collapsed before we made land after 38 hours in the open boat in a southwesterly gale."

Finnish Troops Reported Backing From Russian Border As Reds Say Army Forced To Fire On Invaders, And Ultimatum Rumored Due Finland Within 18 Hours

Buried With Kings

The body of Jose Primo de Rivera, founder of the Falangists party in Spain, was exhumed and taken for a 10-day, 284-mile funeral march to the famous El Escorial monastery near Madrid, where it was interned alongside Spain's dead kings. Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator, was executed by a loyalist firing squad after he was captured in 1936.

Helsingfors Drafts Another Note; Deny Mobilizing

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 29—(CP)—The Helsingfors correspondents of the newspapers Berlingske Tidende and Politiken of Copenhagen both reported today that the Soviet Government would issue an ultimatum to Finland today demanding a 15-mile withdrawal of Finnish troops from the Soviet border on the Karelian Isthmus with 18 hours.

A Finn Reply.

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Finland—accused by the Soviet Union of menacing Leningrad and actually trying to invade Russian territory—prepared a reply today which may determine the next turn in the war of nerves and notes.

A draft of the answer to the Russian charge of "profound hostility of the Government of Finland towards the Soviet Union," which Moscow cited as grounds last night for denunciation of the Finnish-Russian non-aggression pact, was completed.

Officials denied Finland had mobilized her full military strength. They declared on the contrary that many reservists recently released had not been called back to the colors.

However, there was no inclination to minimize the precarious situation on the Russo-Finnish frontier, where incidents or alleged incidents were multiplying. Border patrols at various points were ordered to move back so as to avoid the possibility of clashes with Russian troops.

2 Patrolmen Missing.

Two members of a Finnish border patrol near the village of Pummang at the northern tip of Finland, were reported still missing at noon despite long search.

Million Reds Ready, More Naval Reserves Called

MOSCOW, Nov. 29. — (AP)—Hope of a peaceful settlement of the Russian-Finnish dispute increased today with receipt of reports that Finnish troops had been ordered withdrawn from the Russian border.

The reports of Finnish troop withdrawals came after the Soviet government had reported fresh border clashes in which the Red army was said to have repulsed with machine-guns Finnish troops attempting to cross the frontier.

As a result of the reported clashes, in which Finnish artillery was accused of sending shells across the border, new Russian troops were said to have been dispatched to reinforce frontier garrisons already estimated by observers at almost 1,000,000 men.

Reports from Helsingfors indicated that Finland has approximately 400,000 men under arms—more than one-tenth of the nation's population.

At the same time, the Communist party newspaper Pravda disclosed that new classes of naval reservists had been called up for training and service in the Baltic fleet, which has been conducting manoeuvres from bases recently obtained from Estonia and Latvia.

Press In Full Blast

While the press made new attacks upon Finland, workers and soldiers staged mass meetings which adopted resolutions containing such phrases as "it is time to exterminate the pung bug which dares to threaten the Soviet," and "the Red army will exterminate the bandits and give a lesson to the scoundrels."

(In Helsingfors, the Finnish government, calling the situation "most critical," denied the clash-

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)

RECEIPT of $150,000 from an anonymous Toronto donor raised the total collected to date in the Dominion-wide campaign of the Canadian Red Cross Society to $2,988,799, Chairman Norman Somerville announced Tuesday. Objective of the drive when it was opened Nov. 12 was $3,000,000.

The $150,000 was received at the Toronto office, Mr. Somerville said, and was specifically donated as the cost of hospital buildings being erected at Taplow, Bucks, England. The Toronto branch now has raised $825,000.

TORONTO, Nov. 29—(CP). —Sir Frederick Banting, who arrived in England Monday, will do his war work in Canada, supervising medical research, it was officially stated at the University of Toronto today.

A report from London today said the Sir Frederick, the co-discoverer of insulin, was believed planning to take up an important medical appointment in connection with the war effort in England.

University officials here said Sir Frederick's present visit to London will be a brief one. In London Sir Frederick declined to discuss his plans.

It was announced from Ottawa a few days ago that the Banting laboratories here, under the direction of Sir Frederick, are concentrating on production of anti-gas material, especially problems concerning prosgene, and also scientific work in connection with aircraft and medical problems concerning air warfare.

Twin-Engined Oxford Is Wrecked Outside Trenton

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 29. —(CP).—Four members of the Royal Canadian Air Force were killed today when a twin-engined Oxford bombing plane crashed a half mile north of the Trenton air base, near here.

First reports of the crash said the four killed were: Pilot Officer Lalonde, Flying Officer Clemens and Pilot Officer Lee, and Aircraftsman Stemple.

First names and other details regarding the crash victims were not immediately available.

The bomber crashed about 12.50 p.m. near the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks outside Trenton. Military officials took charge immediately afterward and the public was not permitted to view the wreckage.

The bomber was said to have been travelling 150 miles an hour when it went into a spin and crashed in a section of bush. Airport firefighters rushed to the scene, but there was no fire.

Eighteen Injured

Detroit, Nov. 29 (AP)

EIGHTEEN PERSONS were injured in a collision between a motorbus and a street car here today.

Seven were believed seriously hurt. All were bus passengers, mostly office workers enroute downtown.

DETROIT, Nov. 29 (AP) — The longest and costliest labor dispute in automotive history, a 54-day deadlock between Chrysler Corporation and the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Automobile Workers, ended today with agreement on terms of a new working contract.

Only ratification by union locals was needed to put the contract into effect and start 58,000 Chrysler hourly employees and an estimated 92,000 others in sales departments, automotive parts plants, rubber and glass industries affected by the long shutdown of Chrysler operations, back to work tomorrow.

Chrysler spokesmen said automobiles would be rolling off their assembly lines by Friday and that all plants would operate Monday.

Informed sources said the new contract, supplanting one which expired Sept. 30, provided:

A general wage increase of three cents an hour for all Chrysler workers an added increase for employees in Chrysler's Marysville, Mich., and Newcastle, Ind., plants, the total increase estimated to be about $5,000,000 annually.

4 Man Review Board

Establishment of a four-man review board, two members from the U.A.W.-C.I.O. and two from the corporation, to settle any grievances incapable of adjustment through the routine procedure, with a provision that an impartial mediator mutually agreed on by the four members may be called in as a last resort.

Standards of production to be set by the management, with the workers permitted to carry objections through the grievance procedure.

Agreement by the Congress of Industrial Organizations that its foremen's union will not renew a request for bargaining and will not organize Chrysler foremen during the one-year term of the contract.

No union shop in any form, but the U.A.W.-C.I.O. is recognized as

First Australian Troops Sail Early In 1940

CANBERRA, Nov. 29.—(CP-Reuters)—The first contingent of Australian troops will leave for Europe at the beginning of the year, and will take up their positions on the front in the spring after further training overseas, Prime Minister Robert Menzies told the House of Representatives today.

Australia is cooperating with Great Britain, Canada and New Zealand in the project for training aviators, which eventually will give Allied aviation incontestable superiority over the Germans, the prime minister added.

Having received adequate assurance as to the capacity and availability of the Royal Navy, Mr. Menzies told the House, the commonwealth "is therefore of the opinion that it is most desirable to send a special mission abroad."

Germany's Answer

"This will, hope," he went on, "afford a most eloquent answer to the broadcasts of German propaganda, which is hoping daily that the British dominions are not as one with Britain. Once more the answer to that foolish hope will be made by Australian soldiers in Europe, by thousands of Australian airmen and by the Australian navy, which is cooperating fully with the British navy."

While the protection of Australia itself is of primary importance and the first aim of Australian defence policy the second aim is to make the best possible contribution toward the victory of the Empire and the Allied cause whenever that contribution is needed, he said. It would be 'over-optimism," he added, to imagine that the minor nature of the present fighting would continue indefinitely.

(Asked in the House of Commons in London today whether Australian troops being prepared for overseas service would be "well protected on the way," Prime Minister Chamberlain said "you can trust the navy to look after that.")

Nazis Force Slav Pre '14 Debt Paid In Goods

BELGRADE, Nov. 29.— (AP)—Yugoslavia agreed today to ship goods to Germany as payment of interest on debts incurred before the First Great War by Serbia and Bosnia, which subsequently became part of Yugoslav kingdom.

The agreement was reached after a 14-day discussion between the Yugoslav Government and a German commission. There had been reports of German pressure.

The Yugoslav government had contended the debts were wiped out by the Versailles treaty Interest has been unpaid since 1914 on two loans totalling approximately $15,000,000 negotiated by Serbia in 1895 and 1909. The Germans agreed to cancel the interest up to 1924 on condition the Yugoslavs pay the remaining interest.

Yogoslavia also agreed to begin paying interest on Bosian debts after a commission decided on their amount, tentatively estimated at $35,000,000.

Red Cross Drive Tops 3 Millions

TORONTO, Nov. 29—(CP).—Canadian Red Cross headquarters here today announced the organization had gone "over the top" in its first war drive for $3,000,000.

Exact figures are not available, but word of additional donations was received from Alberta headquarters today carried the Dominion-wide total above the objective. National Chairman Norman Somerville announced last night that $2,988,799 had been subscribed at that time.

The drive was aided yesterday by a donation of $150,000 from a Toronto man who refused to let his name be published.

Vancouver citizens have contributed $541,427 to the joint campaign of the Vancouver Welfare Federation and Canadian Red Cross Society, it was announced officially last night. The quota for the 10-day campaign ending yesterday was $600,000.

868,000 Italians Held In Army

ROME, Nov. 29.—(AP).— Italy still has 868,000 men under arms, "sufficient" for the country's defence, notwithstanding extraordinary winter leaves recently granted a number of army reservists, it was announced officially to-day.

A communique said that in addition to this force, Italian defences now are favored by snowfalls in the Alps and new defences in Libya which make difficult any advances into Northern Italy or from territories adjoining Italy's South African possession.

"The situation in our frontiers is assured," the communique concluded.

Sunday the government announced that leaves would be granted to the reservists class of 1913 and to some officers and men of the classes of 1902, 1903, 1904, and 1905. The length of leaves was not announced. Observers believed 300,000 men would be affected.

Decision Reserved

RENFREW, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP).—The Board of Transport Commissioners reserved decision here last night on an application by the Canadian National Railways for an order allowing abandonment of a 38-mile portion of track between Arnprior, Ont., and Eganville, Ont.

A. D. McDonald, C.N.R. solicitor, said a yearly saving of $104,000, divided equally with the Canadian Pacific Railway, would be gained by abandoning the section.

Blockade Breaks Law Says Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 29—(AP)— The German Government announced today it "reserves all measures" to meet the new British blockade against German exports which becomes effective Monday.

A communique said:

"Extension of the economic war to German export goods on neutral ships with neutral destinations signifies a new violation of international law by England.

"It stands in clear contradiction to recognized fundamentals of international law, especially the Paris maritime law declaration of 1856.

"This new breach of international law effects neutrals as well as Germany. The German Government takes cognizance of the new situation created by England and reserves all measures."

The high command acknowledged that British aircraft yesterday had attacked a German aviation base on Borkum Island, at the mouth of the Ems river, but claimed they had been beaten off without inflicting damage.

Thief Gets 3 Months

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—William Cartwright of Malloytown was convicted yesterday of a charge of chicken theft and was sentenced to three months in county jail. Police charged Cartwright stole 84 chickens from the farm of Richard Paddle of Pittsburgh Township and sold them in Brockville.

Australia Will Send Canada But 6,000 Fliers

SYDNEY, Nov. 29 (CP Cable) — Australia's part in the empire air defence plan has been changed momentously by the negotiations proceeding at Ottawa, it was learned from an authoritative commonwealth source today.

Australia's part in the scheme will be of larger proportions than previously anticipated. It is understood the commonwealth has decided to provide 26,500 pilots, gunners and observers, and 50,000 men for ground staff.

It is presumed here that the Canadian effort will be porportionately greater.

Partly owing to the Canadian winter and partly due to Australia's desire that her contingent retain its separate identity, only 6,000 Australians will go to Canada. The remainder will receive their whole training here, for which Australia will import many of the latest type bombers and fighters from the United States and Great Britain.

Needle Stabber Attacks 2 Girls

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Two High School girls reported to police that they were each stabbed in the hip with a needle in the hands of a swarthy-looking youth while on their way to the East-end High School of Commerce to-day.

Marjory Rutherford, 16, said she was walking along Casti Street when the youth ran alongside of her, jabbed the needle in her hip, and fled. The terrorized girl screamed for help.

Jean McMahon, 14, said she was attacked while walking on Hanson Avenue near Rhodes Avenue. The attack was similar to that reported by the other girl.

The girls reported the attack to their teacher at school, who notified the principal, and who in turn, called the police. The principal sent the girls home, where they were later interviewed by detectives. The parents were advised to call their family physician for examination.

Ontario Survey Shows Work On The Increase

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP). —In his weekly review of labor and industrial conditions, Hon. Norman Hipel, Minister of Labor, said today that the strike of automobile workers in the United States had considerable affect on Canadian parts factories.

A summary of the Minister's report follows:

Belleville reported a large shoe factory in that area had hired apprentices and mechanics for their machine shop.

At Brantford, indications point to increased production and staff level in manufacturing concerns. There was considerable increase in the number of men employed in manufacture of agricultural implements. War orders have not yet reached anticipation.

The strike at the Chrysler plant in Detroit which ended to-day has affected factories and business in Chatham. Tobacco factories are expected to open within a week or so now purchasing prices have been completed.

Demand has decreased for loggers in the Fort William area. Movement of grain is quite brisk and is expected to remain so for the next few weeks. Many boats are clearing with storage cargoes.

Textile firms at Guelph are running night and day and report a shortage of experienced power sewing machine operators.

Shortage of material in iron, steel and textile trades is reported by some Hamilton industries, with progress being delayed until materials can be received. Transportation by railway is quite brisk, with many railway men called back to work. Much coal is being brought in by water.

Steel Plants Busy.

London manufacturing concerns, particularly in iron and steel, are reported busy. All textile factories are very busy.

Scores Foodless Cleveland's Relief Serious

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—(AP). — Mayor Harold Burton to-day appealed to the city's manufacturer's to employ relief recipients wherever possible in a desperate effort to ease the relief crisis.

The situation remained tense, with police and firemen watching crowds demanding food at the city's six district relief stations. Three jammed stations closed two hours early yesterday.

Mayor Burton, declaring Cleveland faced a $70,000 deficiency in aiding the needy through December, has promised to curtail regular city services for relief funds if necessary.

The city has slashed its 800-person administrative staff 25 per cent., cut all relief orders 33⅓ per cent., and reduced the rolls from about 90,000 to 46,000 by refusing to aid 6,500 single persons and another 3,500 childless couples, except in cases of sickness. A family of six is now receiving 73 cents worth of groceries a day.

Bricks Begin To Fly

An angry man threw bricks through two windows at one station. At another a woman fell down in a crowd and was trampled, but not injured seriously.

Relief was being refused to adults with no children, and to all unmarried men. A worker at the Broadway relief station estimated 25 to 30 per cent of the applicants were being turned away. One woman cried: "Seven people. Two dollars and four cents (for five days' food). What do they think I am?"

A man promised coal next week, exclaimed:

"No, no, coal this week! I want coal. I got kids at home."

Mayor Harold Burton, meantime, was exploring the possibility of issuing $2,000,000 in bonds against delinquent taxes.

LIENSE IMPORTERS.

OTTAWA. — Effective date of licensing of importers and exporters of coal and coke has been extended to December 15, it was announced today.

Rationing Closes Scores Of Berlin Stores, Profiteering Rife In Curbed Goods

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 29.—(CP-Havas)—A dispatch from the Berlin correspondent of De Telegraf, influential Netherlands newspaper, today said Germany's rationing and control measures had resulted in closing of scores of Berlin shops.

Late last week, the correspondent said, more than 100 shops, mainly candy stores, had closed because of an order calling for new inventories of stocks on hand.

In the big Berlin stores many departments are empty or closed to the public. Thousands of employees have been made temporarily idle, but since it is forbidden to discharge personnel they have been given the status of war industry workers.

Despite police measures, observers in Berlin report, there are many clandestine sales of requisitioned and rationed articles—primarily shoes and textiles—at prices far higher than those established officially.

Government officials are increasing their appeals to the people to follow the textile rationing plan. Dr. Jakob Reichert, one of the heads of the government scheme, wrote in the Reichsarbeitsblatt.

"The first impression that the holder of a clothing card gets is that it gives very little, and that is true. We can permit ourselves clothing luxury only insofar as we have the goods. In the future luxury will disappear more and more."

Dr. Reichert said 50 per cent of the clothing industry is now devoted to production of work clothes.

Germans have received instructions to use old clothing as much as possible. The winter "fashion" show at Cologne had as its theme "how to transform old clothes into new."

Last Minute News Flashes

HELSINGFORS—(AP).—Finland today sent Soviet Russia a soberly considered reply to Russia's denunciation of the Soviet-Finnish non-aggression pact, which accompanied grave frontier tension between the two powers. Officials declined to comment on the Finnish reply's nature or tone pending delivery to the Kremlin. Government leaders conferred most of the day on the note.

BUCHAREST — (AP). — Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu today rejected a Hungarian suggestion that Rumania come to terms with Hungary over Transylvania as a prelude to formation of a neutral bloc in Southeastern Europe. Hungary lost Transylvania to Rumania in the Great War settlement and recently has redoubled agitation for its return.

Bottling Russia Up, Wrong Germany Now Confesses

BERLIN, Nov. 29—(AP).—Nazi sympathies are on Russia's side in the dispute with Finland, but officially Germany is neutral and disinterested, informed sources said today.

The Nazi view is that Russia has an unquestionable right to access to the Baltic Sea, and that Finland is so placed strategically that she could prevent this access. Hence it is held that in fairness to Russia's rights as a powerful nation Finland should yield strategic islands at issue. The view is that Russia's demands in no way threaten the integrity and independence of Finland.

Informed quarters said wrong was done Russia in "bottling her up" without an unhampered outlet to the Baltic and admitted this was made possible by Germany's earlier support of Finland against Russia. When the attention of the sources was called to the fact that Germany showed great interest a few months ago in the question of fortification of Finland's Aaland Islands, they replied the political situation was entirely different now. They said that with the defeat of Poland the entire eastern situation had come into a state of flux.

LONDON, Nov. 29.— (CP). — Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day gave expression to Britain's sympathy for Finland as a crisis approached in that country's quarrel with Russia.

Speaking at a luncheon, Sir John noted the presence of the Finnish minister to Great Britain, G. A. Gripenberg, "at this dread hour in the history of his country."

They say Russia in denouncing her non-aggression pact with Finland yesterday apparently had ignored a provision of the treaty calling for six months' notice of such denunciation.

British sources also asserted that the treaty provided for conciliatory procedure. There also was a protocol, they said, providing that denunciation of the agreement would not limit the signatories' undertakings under the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war.

R.A.F. Raiders Attack German Base

Machine-Gun Three Mine-Laying Planes At Borkum

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)— Cryptic radio instructions from the Admiralty put warships on the alert today for the scheduled start of a new phase of the blockade against German Monday.

The instructions were issued as the Air Ministry announced that all its planes had returned safely after machine-gunning three mine-laying Nazi seaplanes yesterday at Borkum, an island base off the nothwestern coast of Germany.

The Ministry also denied German charges that Royal Air Force planes had crossed the Netherlands Monday night after a reconnaissance flight over Northern Germany and that one British plane probably was lost in the North Sea.

"The R. A. F. planes met adverse weather, thick clouds, electric storms and ice conditions," the statement said. "Our aircraft encountered resistance from anti-aircraft defences. Despite these conditions and the face of strong enemy opposition, the operation was successfully concluded."

The mining of British waters, with numerous recent allied and neutral shipping losses resulting, prompted Great Britain's decision to seize German exports as well as imports.

In conjunction with France, the Royal Navy was instructed to remove from any ship cargoes of German origin or ownership. Heretofore, the blockade has been aimed only at goods destined for Germany.

Goods Up To Nov. 27 Safe

The starting date of the export ban was set for Monday to permit neutral readjustments. It was understood that goods bought in Germany before Nov. 27 would be exempt, even though not yet at sea.

The Times said the blockade would be applied "with the greatest possible regard for the interests of neutrals—which in the long run are also British interests."

Sunny November Setting Record

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Every hour of sunlight during the remaining days of November boosts the month toward a weather record in Central Ontario for fair, mild weather.

The string of bright days will be lengthened to-day with the forecast for fair, mild weather, with temperature rising from a low last night of about 34 to a high to-day of 50. Prospects are that Thursday will see similar weather.

November normally has 84½ hours of sunlight, according to the near-century average carefully recorded at the Meteorological Bureau in Toronto, but not including Monday or Tuesday, there were 106 hours of sunlight. A more detailed check will be necessary before it is known how close this month is to an official record for maximum hours of sunlight.

The temperature has been near normal, on the average, but the precipitation so far this month is about one-eighteenth of normal. The recorded rainfall was less than one-third of an inch—.32 inch to be exact—compared with an average November rainfall for the first 27 days of the month of 2.17 inches. In addition, there have been only scattered snowflurries this month, but the normal snowfall for the first 27 days in November is 3.8 inches, a total normal precipitation of 5.97 inches for 27 days of November.

The weather has been fair and comparatively mild not only throughout Ontario, but also in the Prairie Provinces, where temperatures in the 50's and upper 40's have been recorded several days this week in Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, and other centres.

PARIS—(AP).—A French scouting patrol, operating east of Bitche, was reported today to have advanced between two and three kilometres (between 1¼ to two miles) into Germany before encountering enemy outposts. The scouts were said by military sources to have brought back valuable information.

Toronto Woman Sees Fortune In O'Dea Will

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29—(AP)—A 48-year-old will be which the late Michael Francis O'Dea bequeathed half his $5,000,0000 estate to a woman to whom he paid court in Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1891 was filed in Superior Court yesterday.

Her attorneys here gave this account of the will:—

At the age of 20, she met O'Dea while he was on a business trip to Grand Rapids. O'Dea was then in his 40's and because of the differences in their ages and his distant residence (in California), she rejected his proposal of marriage.

But he wrote a will leaving Miss Blevins half of his property. Some years later she married Joe Dunham and they moved to Toronto.

A few weeks ago, Mrs. Dunham advised the attorneys, she was placing fresh newspapers on her pantry shelves when her eye caught an advertisement for O'Dea's heirs. She then got out the will.

O'Dea died here in 1938, apparently in modest circumstances, without leaving a known will. When it was disclosed his estate approximated $5,000,000, a flood of 465 claimants stormed the court. That number has been reduced to 87 and their claims are to be submitted to a jury early next year.

Called to Toronto.

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Mrs. Pansy Dunham, who believes she may have the last will of Michael F. O'Dea, real estate developer who left a $5,000,000 estate, was summoned from California to her home here yesterday where her husband, Joseph, is seriously ill. She is expected in Toronto within a few days.

Relatives of Mrs. Dunham here have little doubt that the O'Dea who left the fortune on his death at

Larry O'Connor Is Awarded Memorial Cup

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 29 — (CP). — Larry G. O'Connor, outstanding Toronto hurdler and sprinter, was awarded the Norton H. Crow Memorial Trophy at the 52nd annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada here to-day. He was the nominee of the Central Ontario branch for the trophy which is given annually to the amateur athlete judged to have been outstanding during the year.

Other candidates for the honor were William H. Dale, member of the Victoria Y.M.C.A., one of the fastest half-milers in America, nominated by the British Columbia branch; John Loaring, Windsor, student at University of Western Ontario, Olympic hurdles star, nominated by the South-western Ontario branch; and Joe Gagnon, Montreal amateur boxer, nominated by the Quebec branch.

O'Connor's record dates back to 1935 when he won the Canadian intercollegiate title in the 120 yards, high hurdles, in a record 15 seconds. He was a member of the Canadian Olympic team in 1936, and the Canadian Olympic team in 1936, and the Canadian British Empire team in 1938.

Asheville Dark In Power Strike

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 29—(AP)—A three-hour long strike that followed refusal by the Carolina Power and Light Company to accede to union demands for a closed shop plunged this resort city of 55,000 into almost total darkness last night.

C. S. Walters, the company's vice president, later announced that the workers who walked out, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, had asked and been granted permission to return immediately to their posts.

A conference of union spokesmen and officers of the power company was arranged.

As the lights flickered and went out throughout the city, surprised citizens groped about for candles and lighting devices, the fire department turned on its emergency batteries supplying current to alarm boxes, and firemen patrolled the city with lanterns and flashlights.

Power flowed continuously to hospitals, and had it failed, attendants were ready to turn on their auxiliary plants.

Minor fist fights were reported in scattered sections and four men were arrested and charged with throwing ropes over electric wires in an attempt to pull them from poles.

Battle At Sea

was ended without incident at 11.38 a.m. by an all-clear signal.

Northumberland coast dwellers lined the shore to watch the air battle. After the German craft fell into the sea a lifeboat put out but was unable to find a trace of the plane's occupants.

Aerial activity also was reported in three Scottish areas. Planes were seen over the Firth of Forth, an air engagementw as reported over a southwest Scottish town, and a plane seen over another town was identified as German.

No air raid alarms were sounded. The plane shot down off Northumberland was the 23rd enemy plane brought down in Britain or off her coasts since the German raid on the Firth of Forth October 16.

An Air Ministry communique related that the German Heinkel engaged by the R.A.F. off Northumberland "dived vertically into the clouds towards the sea." Another authoritative account of the engagement stated the Heinkel dived into the sea "with clouds of smoke trailing behind and both guns silenced."

Refuse To Salute

Edmonton, Nov. 29 (CP)

A NUMBER of public school children here have refused to salute the Union Jack and recite the pledge on "religious grounds," a report made last night by the Edmonton Public School Board said.

G. A. McKee, superintendent of schools, said he did not know on what "religious grounds" the pupils refused to salute the flag or take the pledge. "Embarrassing situations have developed in connection with it," he said.

Alberta Denies Urging Force With Enlisting

EDMONTON, Nov. 29—(CP). — Mayors of Calgary and Edmonton accused the Alberta Government yesterday of having suggested all able-bodied relief recipients in the two cities be "forced" to enlist for military service. The charges were denied by government officials.

Mayor Andrew Davison of Calgary launched the controversy at a city council meeting there Monday, and reiterated his charges yesterday as he released texts of letters which he said supported his contention.

Mayor John Fry of Edmonton said no such suggestion ever had been made to him personally, but that it had been conveyed to a city relief official, unofficially, shortly after the war began and was turned down by himself and city commissioners.

Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, Alberta Minister of Health, in charge of relief, said: "I don't know a thing about it. We never have taken that stand, and I can certainly say that it would not be to my liking."

Only One Case.

A. A. Mackenzie, Provincial Relief Commissioner, said the accusation was "absolutely untrue, to my knowledge." Later, he was informed Mayor Davison had quoted to the press the text or partial text of letters reportedly written by Mr. Mackenzie and his assistant, A. H. Miller. The relief commissioner then declared the reference mentioned by the mayor had been to only one specific case, and that the Government never had intended to open any discussion on the general question as to whether relief recipients fit for military service should be cut from the relief rolls.

Mr. Mackenzie said that neither in that one Calgary case nor in any other case anywhere in the province, as far as he could find out, had the Government refused to give relief or contribute to the relief of any man on the ground that he was fit for war service.

"This has not been proposed or even contemplated in any way, and that statement still holds good," Mr. Mackenzie said.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Hospitals, charities and public institutions will receive approximately $3,500,000 from the estate of Sir Charles Lindsay, announcement of the will of the blind philanthropist, revealed yesterday.

Chairman of C. W. Lindsay and Company, Limited, Sir Charles, who died early this month, left cash bequests of $491,000 to 40 Montreal institutions and societies. Fifteen of these beneficiaries will participate in permanent endowment grants from the remainder of the estate, estimated by his executors at more than $3,000,000 following deduction for death duties and bequests to individuals.

Employees of the company will shore in a $100,000 bequest. The Perkins Institution for the blind at Watertown, Mass., where Sir Charles was trained as a piano tuner, received $10,000 while he gave $5,000 to the American Foundation for the Blind.

Chicken Stealing In Tyendinaga Believed Solved With Arrest

TWEED, Nov. 29—(ENS). — Culminating widespread investigations looking into the theft of chickens throughout the Township of Tyendinaga for the past two months, Provincial Police on Tuesday arrested Everett Beer, 6th Concession of Tyendinaga farmer, and Glen Milligan, who resides on the 4th Concession. Beer was taken into custody on his own farm and held in custody by Provincial Police, while Milligan, who was found in Beer's home, was allowed his liberty. Both men will be charged with the theft of 17 chickens, the property of Percy Badgley, a neighbor of Beer's, at County Police Court.

Early Tuesday morning, Badgley heard disturbances in his chicken coop, and upon investigation found 17 White Leghorn birds missing from his flocks. Provincial Police were notified and later tracks were found in the freshly gathered frost which led directly from Badgley's hen coop across the field into another person's property.

Further investigations by the police resulted in 17 hens being found in three hags secluded in a corner of Beer's barn. One of the birds was dead. When questioned by the officer, however, Beer laid claim to the birds, stating they had been taken from his flock yesterday and bagged ready for shipment to a wholesale poultry concern.

Provincial Police immediately took possession of the poultry and placed Beer under arrest. Milligan was found sitting in Beer's home and charged with a similar offence.

Fully 200 birds have been reported lost during the past two months, Provincial Police stated.

Held For Theft.

James Parm, Tweed, was arrested in Toronto on a charge of theft from his employer. Chief Hayes journeyed to Toronto to bring Parm back to face the above charge in county police court to be held at Tweed this week.

As a sequel to the above charge, Chief Hayes revealed another warrant had been issued against a Belleville woman, charging her with receiving stolen goods. The second charge arose out of Parm's alleged thefts, Chief Hayes stated, as he declined to reveal the woman's identity prior to her appearing in open court.

Chief Hayes also issued a warrant against Neil Stevens, formerly of Thomasburg, charging him with the theft of a motor car, the property of Ray Spicer, Tweed. This case will also be heard in County Police Court. There is some contradictory evidence in the above case, Stevens having been said to have sold the motor car in question to Spicer.

Dairy Products Up In Value 3 p.c. For 1938

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP)—Total production of the dairy factory industry in 1938 was valued at $140,849,356, an increase of $4,366,478, or three per cent, over the 1937 production, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Creamery butter production contributed 47 per cent of this total.

Dairy industry exports totalled $16,219,789, of which cheese accounted for $11,874,223 and evaporated milk $2,199,179. Exports declined $1,361,288 from 1937. Imports were valued at $1,788,308, compared with $462,098 the previous year. Butter imports totalled 5,231,838 pounds, against 65,916 in 1937.

Creamery butter production totalled 267,347,271 pounds valued at $66,534,568, compared with 20,290,525 pounds worth $2,317,236 in 1937. Ontario produced 32.8 per cent of the total, Quebec 29.8 and Alberta 11.7.

Output of factory cheese totalled 123,971,306 pounds valued at $16,809,861, compared with 130,625,838 pounds in 1937 worth $17,966,123. Ontario produced 71 per cent of the factory cheese and Quebec 23 per cent.

Value of all items of concentrated milk was $11,844,817, compared with $10,066,749. Comprised under the 1938 figure were various items under the head of "concentrated whole milk," amounting to $9,373,002, and items classes as concentrated milk by-products, worth $2,471,815.

Miscellaneous dairy factory products, including ice cream, cream and milk, were valued at $45,660,110, compared with $43,933,674 in 1937.

The number of dairy factories in operation was 2,582, including 1,344 creameries, 988 cheese factories, 196 combined butter and cheese factories. This was a decrease of six from 1937.

Canada's Export Gains By War

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 29 (CP). —Canadian manufacturers may benefit considerably by the cessation of trade between the British Empire and Germany. Scores of commodities which previously were supplied to Australia by Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia are now being requested from Canada, and every day sees the Trade Commissioner's office here besieged with inquirers.

Among products and manufactures requested are artificial grass, tinfoil, hurricane lanterns, monotype paper, eyelets for shoes, pottery and glassware. The requests have been sent on to Ottawa for reply, but the Commissioner's office is not hopeful that all those inquiring will be supplied. It points out that one difficulty is the restriction of shiping space and another the fact that Britain may have purchased all available Canadian supplies of some of the commodities.

Shipping restriction is perhaps the greatest problem. This resulted already in stopping the important timber trade between Australia and Canada and the recalling of some Australian representatives of Canadian lumber firms to Canada. Many of the normal Pacific cargo and passenger ships have been commandeered by the British Admiralty, and munition and food supplies naturally take precedence of space among the ships remaining.

Even so, Canadian manufacturers may gain since already they have started supplying Australia with munition machinery and foodstuffs considered essential. One machinery firm in Toronto is supplying not only Australia but the rest of the empire with a certain type of munition machine which is twice as speedy as any previously possessed.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Good commission house and domestic mill buying, tobether with light offerings, boosted wheat futures prices 1 to 1¼ cents in active trading on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. December wheat finished 73⅜, May 78⅛ to ¼ and July 79⅜ to ½ cents.

In the cash wheat market all offerings of the lower grades were taken in a general buying splurge. In addition, mills were credited with fair purchases of Nos. 2, 3 and 4 Northern.

Oats and barley were given excellent support by export interests in the coarse grain pit, while Southern houses bought substantial amounts of rye. Crusher buying brought good gains to flax.

New Phase In Boys' Work Opens At Y.M.C.A.

An entirely new phase in boys' work opened Tuesday evening at the Y.M.C.A., when eighteen boys, under the leadership of Darcy Windsor, assisted by Gordon Patterson and Hamilton Gosse, boys' work secretary, began an eighteen-week course in Y.M.C.A. work.

The boys, all from East City, were enthusiastic about their first evening's program, which consisted of calisthenics, floor hockey and swimming. Any boy in the group who is unable to swim will receive special lessons during the course.

The East City Gang's Tuesday Night Club, as it will probably be called, is an effort by its leader to interest an ever-increasing group of boys in the more worthwhile things. Wolf Cubs, Boy Scouts, Sunday school classes, Y.M.C.A. work and boys' camps are the things that these boys have successfully organized and carried out. A small weekly fee enables any boy to be a member of this group, which meets at seven o'clock Tuesday evenings in the Y.M.C.A.

Emphasizes Importance Of Citizenship

The importance of citizenship in the British Empire was emphasized by Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman when he addressed a meeting of the St. Andrew's Young People's Union on the responsibilities of citizenship. He told the story of a British subject in Ethiopia who was imprisoned in a tower. The British Government sent one of its naval vessels to his rescue and a large contingent of men launched into the interior of the country to rescue the prisoner.

By the illustration of a British passport, issued to the speaker a year ago, Col. Ackerman pointed out that the resources of the British Empire would support its subjects when travelling in any part of the world. He narrated a thrilling story of General Smuts, who had once fought against Britain in the Boer war in South Africa, and who today is one of her most foremost supporters. Desiring to give practical help to the Union, the speaker presented them with a book to be circulated among the members.

Mr. James Harvey was in the chair for the meeting, for which the program was based on citizenship. Miss Frances Clark read the Scripture. Solos were given by Miss Dorothy and Miss Margaret Emerson, with Miss Margaret Patoine at the piano.

Announcement was made that St. Andrew's would compete with George Street Y.P.U. in the debating contest which is to be held next Tuesday evening in George Street Church.

Delegate Gives Report Of World Conference

One of the two official delegates from the Bay of Quinte Conference to the World Conference of Christian Youth at Amsterdam, Holland, from July 24 to August 2 of this year, Mr. Robert Spence, brought an interesting picture of this inspirational gathering to members of the Young People's Union of George Street United Church at their weekly meeting, which was opened with a sing-song led by Miss Loretta McDougall.

Miss Helen Wellman, assisted by Miss Helen McGee, Miss Clara Nisbett, Miss Grace Hunt and Miss Loretta McDougall, conducted the worship service. A short period of recreation and a Friendship Circle closed the meeting. The thanks of the Y.P.U. and the Citizenship group, who had charge of the meeting, were extended to the guest speaker.

A feature of the meeting next week will be a debate between St. Andrew's Y.P.U. and the George Street Y.P.U. The Christian Culture Group is in charge.

Mission Band Children Present Fine Program

The annual open meeting of St. James' Mission Band, held Tuesday night in Wesley Hall, was an unqualified success on the part of the children and their leaders, Miss Constance Wagar and Mrs. H. F. Doig.

With "Good Neighbors" as their theme the program was built up around it throughout and opened with a worship service with Mrs. Doig at the piano.

The president, Paul Meeks, was in the chair and gave the "call to worship," "Tell me the stories of Jesus" was followed by the scripture reading, The Good Samaritan, by Ruth Hess.

A beautiful responsive service led by the president was responded to by the children singing "O Come Let Us Adore Him," at the close all repeating the Lord's Prayer and singing, "Our Mission Band Purpose."

Jack Harris, a senior member, delighted with his violin solo. An exercise called "Missionaries" by Beverly Littlefair and Robin Wright made an appropriate prelude to the reception of the offering, presented at the table by Jack McMahon and the offertory prayer led by Paul Meeks.

During the program, Elva Sollitt and Ernest Lee contributed pleasing piano solos and the reading, "Trees" by Robin Wright and "Being Good Neighbors" by Wilma Deyell were true Mission Band stories. "World Friends" was made a stronger message by Mary Morrison, as she appeared dressed in a coat made of the little Mission Band paper. The vocal solo, "Holy, Holy, Holy" by Joey McMahon, in sweet treble voice concluded this part of the program.

Miss Wagar, as leader, thanked the audience for their support and their fine interest in missions as presented by the band, especially thanking the senior societies of the W.M.S. on behalf of Mrs. Doig and herself.

The pageant, "Good Neighbors" was a presentation of the conclusion of the study for the year, which had evidently made a worthwhile impression upon these young workers who included Arlene Morrison, Betty Freeman, Freda McMahon, Elva Sollitt, Muriel Adams, Helen Bullied, Paul Meeks, Dick Plunkett, Ernest Lee, Alan Lee, Joey McMahon. 'Keep on Working For Missions," was sung as a rousing chorus by the whole Mission Band, with Ernest Lee giving the closing prayer.

Holy Season Of Advent Explained To Sodalists

Preceded by the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, a meeting of the Sodality of the Sacred Heart Parish was held in the club house Tuesday evening. Miss Edith Mattucci presided, and the meeting opened with prayer led by the director of the Sodality, the Rev. J. C. Maloney, who also addressed the Sodalists on the Holy season of the Advent, explaining its meaning and purpose as a time of special prayer and solemnity of four weeks' duration in preparation for the feast of Christmas, and commemorative of the four thousand years before the coming of the Redeemer.

A letter to Sodalists from Sodality headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., was read by Miss Marion McCarthy, relative to a tridium of masses and the reception of Holy Communion by all members for the intentions of the Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, and which will be sent to His Holiness, in the form of a spiritual bouquet, for Christmas.

Miss Mary Clancy gave a reading on "The Mass," by Cardinal Newman, and Miss Pauline Gilbert's reading was on the Immaculate Conception. Miss Loretta Girardino sang a delightful number, "South of the Border," accompanied at the piano by Miss Ethel Armstrong. An encouraging report from the recent sale of tickets was outlined by the treasurer, and in her financial statement. Plans for a Christmas party were also discussed.

The reception of new members into the Sodality will take place Friday, December 8, at the evening service at seven-thirty. All members were earnestly requested to attend.

FASHIONS

The military air of the newest fashions is reflected in the double row of buttons down the front of this dress. Softness is introduced by slight fullness at the shoulder line and darts that make the dress fit snugly at the waist. Gores in the skirt give it a nice, comfortable flare. Checked woollen is tailored enough to wear anywhere. When accented by removable collar and cuffs of snowy white, it will be one of the most useful frocks in your wardrobe.

Style No. 2961 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Home and School Association News

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

Boy Scout night was held at the King Edward School under the auspices of the Home and School Association. Mr. J. Hornsby, Scout Commissioner, who was introduced by Mr. B. Cutmore, spoke on scouting, giving a history of the movement organized by Lord Baden Powell with the thought of making better citizens of the youth of the country, and which had grown from a small band of twenty boys to approximately three and a half million all over the world.

A brief regime of the day's current events was given by Mr. Dearborn.

Rover crew from All Saints' scout group gave three delightful songs, "Always Fair in All Kinds of Weather," "Gone Are the Days," and a negro spiritual, "I Grieve My Lord No More.' Mr. George Brooke, one of the Rover crew, sang two fine solos, 'Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and "Will You Remember." Two violin solos were given by Jack Harris.

The meeting opened with the Lords Prayer and "O Canada." Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read. It was decided there would be no evening meeting during December, but there will be an afternoon meeting. Announcement was made of a Home and School play to be held on the 12th of January. A report from the Local Council of Women was given by Mrs. Murray.

Small Jack Berwick and Vernon Dunbar, cubs of St. James' pack, were ushers. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, November 30.

Despite many tenacious obstacles and impediments to cope with this day should be one of notable achievement, with very high ideals and ambitions moving along in productive and progressive channels. Hard work, ceaseless application, novel or original methods, as well as the support of strangers or of others in powerful places, may culminate in removing difficulties and frustrations. But be cautious with writings and documents and adopt diplomacy rather than contention in tight situations. Aim at high goals

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of outstanding accomplishments in spite of many complishments and fulfillments in spite of many tenacious obstacles, delays and disappointments, although these, if managed with ingenuity, application and determination, will assist in giving stability to the future and its destiny. Attention to detail and practical plans may attract the substantial support of either strangers or others in power, whose promotional endorsement is needed.

A child born on this day may be industrious, practical and clever at devising new ways with old systems, thus promoting its plans, fortunes and personal standing.

Gaiety Is Abridged In Society Of Capital City

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—"The season" is in full swing in Canada's capital but there are new wartime notes on the social calendar—sewing and knitting dates, first-aid, home nursing and motor mechanics classes—in addition to the general round of teas, luncheons and dinners.

At least two or three times a week, wives of diplomatic representatives of foreign powers and the British dominions, with wives of politicians and civil servants fill the rooms at Government House to do their bit knitting socks, cutting and sewing pyjamas and the like.

There are plenty of parties too, but they differ slightly in wartime— invitations lists are not so long and dress is not so formal. "Black tie" is the call for most of the evening engagements.

Ottawa women are taking their war work seriously. There are groups specializing on the needs of the army others favoring the navy and still others directing their efforts toward the air force. And the 1,500 soldiers stationed at Lansdowne Park, the big football field, are all getting attention. Women's clubs take turns looking after the entertainment and extras for these men, the scheme supervised by the Young Women's Christian Association.

Aid French Troops.

There's a special parcelling and bundling day scheduled at the French Legation every two weeks. Socks, helmets, wristlets and sweaters knitted at home by the French women of the capital, are brought in to be packed off to Red Cross headquarters in Paris. Mme. Henri de Lageneste, wife of the French charge d'affaires, is directing since Countess Robert de Dampierre, wife of the Minister, left for Paris shortly after war was declared, with her son Count George de Bulloche, who was called to service. The Countess is actively engaged at Red Cross headquarters there. Youthful Ann de Dampierre, daughter of the Minister is Mme. Legeneste's right hand assistant in Ottawa.

Meanwhile in a convent the Mother Superior is quietly doing her part. Since her days are filled with classes of students, her duties are many and her time for knitting short, she sets aside fees from one afternoon's teaching weekly to buy wool and materials for the French women's war work.

First Aid Classes.

Home nursing and first aid classes arranged by the Red Cross and St. John Ambulance Society are full and many women are waiting their chance to begin fitting themselves to be of use should the eventuality arise. More mechanically minded women, many wives of air force officers, are struggling with the workings of motor cars and motorcycles at technical school night classes. And hundreds of women are volunteering their services through the channels of the government registration committee and the offices of the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

There's not much time to think about new clothes. It is not expected there will be a drawing room or a state dinner when parliament begins its yearly work, but there is one "dressing-up" date assured—women will still color the opening of the next session of parliament with their gowns.

TORONTO, Nov. 29. — (CP) — Full of surprises, more than 5,000 "ditty" bags will swing from hammocks on Canadian naval ships on two seas or Canadian harbors on Christmas morning. These junior-size hold-alls in heavy blue cloth will be filled with knitted things and interesting oddments for the sailors' Christmas cheer by women across the Dominion.

Packing the bags, distributed by the Ontario Division of the Navy League of Canada to members and individuals, will be supervised by the women's committee of the league. Individual trinkets may be sent to headquarters here to be included in the Christmas "boxes" and the committee asks that all donors add a cheery note to their merrily-wrapped parcels.

There may be some socks, a muffler, cap, sweater, or a pair of pyjamas for the bulk of the bag. Suggested addition "surprises," include such things as a mouth organ, pack of cards, pad of notepaper, pencil, puzzle, game, dominoes, nuts, chewing gum, hard candy, chocolates, raisins, towel, wash cloth, tooth paste, tooth brush, handkerchiefs, pipe, cigarettes, tobacco, book of fiction and "essentially" a pocket Bible.

Feminine Touch

Because "there's something about a sailor," the women's committee has appealed to the fair sex to take on the job of filling these "ditty" bags and making them as attractive and appealing as possible.

Each bag is marked with sailor's name on the outside and attached to the draw string is a label giving the sender's name and where the recipient can send a letter of thanks. Through this added personal contact, it is hoped that throughout the year the "ditty" bags will be kept filled and the senders continue to see that their "special" charges are supplied with the extras.

There are heavy readers in the navy and Ontario headquarters are seeking 50,000 books and magazines as donations so there will be plenty of reading matter waiting for the sailors afloat and ashore. Biographies are favorites with seafarers as well as mystery yarns, adventure stories and illustrated magazines or periodicals for lighter reading moments. Books from the prairies should be sent direct to the Pacific coast.

Already some 300 pairs of socks and more than 100 sweaters have been sent to England by the Navy League of Canada in co-operation with the Red Cross Society.

You Can Be Proud of a Well-Trained Dog

Give Easy Course in Manners

Rex is the neighborhood pet. A lovable, well-mannered dog, welcome everywhere! His mistress trained him wisely.

A dog quickly responds to teaching if he is praised for good work. If he gets confused during a lesson, a rest and a little encouragement straighten him out. A stubborn dog should be handled with diplomacy and a whip should be used rarely—if ever.

Lessons should be given by one person only—and you should use the same tone of voice for each command. Here are the important commands:

1. Praise—"Good dog!" 2. Reproof —"Shame!" 3. Taking his place— "Place!" 4. Approach—"Come!" 5. Lie down — "Down!" 6. Bark — "Speak!" 7. Heel — "Heel!" 8. Sit down—"Sit!" 9. Retrieve—"Seek!" or "Fetch!" 10. To surrender an object—"Give!"

What should you feed your dog, what to do for doggish ailments? Our 32-page booklet describes right diet, grooming, tells how to recognize and treat distemper, other ailments. Gives step-by-step lessons in teaching a dog manners, clever tricks.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for HOW TO CHOOSE AND CARE FOR YOUR DOG to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Do You Know?

If windows, pictures and mirrors are not so dirty as dusty, soak a rag in coal oil and after it is dry use it for dusting. Not only will it remove the dust more effectively than an ordinary duster, but it will leave a good polish behind.

You can be consistent with color and design in the kitchen. Shelf paper and edgings and lining paper for cupboard and table drawers in bright shades and motifs cut in convenient widths, all to match, are inexpensive materials that will add a gay charm to kitchen and workroom.

Next time you are making a cushion for your pet dog's basket, make it of cretonne and fill it with crumpled newspaper. There is a great deal of warmth in newspaper, and fresh paper can be used each time the cover can be moved for washing.

And Then After All The Husband Pays

ALBANY, N.Y., Nov. 29.—(CP)—A husband who will not leave a bar when his wife calls from outside is equally responsible with her if she tosses a brick through the window, police justice Edward Kampf ruled.

Kampf made the decision when the woman in the case pleaded guilty to breach of the peace after the brick slightly injured the leg of another woman inside the bar. He suspended sentence, reprimanded her husband, and ordered him to settle for the damage.

"Owing to Hitler, your fish will be littler," reads a sign in a London fish store.

Finland's Clever Answer

When it comes to diplomacy and common sense Finland actually makes Russia look silly. Unfortunately the world's critical situations are not today settled on that basis. Russia has something like 180 million population and Finland some three and a-half.

Russian newspapers have all been saying the same thing; meetings held in its cities have been passing the same sort of resolutions. They all urge action against Finland because that country is defiant and is a dangerous place; it insists on placing a patrol on its borders and it has shot off a canon.

Finland's answer is remarkably good; nicely done. It merely sets forth that no gun has been fired from Finland. Then it discusses the demand of moving its troops back from the Russian frontier. That is something which Finland considers might well be done, but in order to accomplish the best results this withdrawing should take place on both sides of the line. Finland would back up and Russian would do the same thing, and that would leave a nice wide strip between them which would make for safety and good feeling. But unless Russia would agree to engage in this withdrawal movement then Finland can see no good reason why it should do so. And the intimation is quite plain—unless Russia is willing to enter into the spirit of the thing then Finland intends to leave its frontier forces exactly where they are.

Possibly Finland's effort at clean diplomacy and reasonable suggestion will be wasted on Molotoff and his chief Stalin. They understand nothing which is decent because decency is not their stock in trade. Fairness is not listed in their assets and consideration for a lesser nation has never entered their thick skulls. For what it is worth Finland has given an exhibition of sportsmanship in the face of impending danger.

When News Is Censored

Evidently the business of censoring news is easier than keeping it from circulation. Advices from London indicate there is a leak. One of the most recent examples had to do with an attack made on the British cruiser Belfast in the Firth of Forth. The ship was damaged but not sunk, and the Admiralty was anxious that no information should be sent out because it was considered as something which would be of value to the enemy. One can appreciate that such desire might well be founded on sufficient reason.

The attack referred to was on a Wednesday and the report was sent to United States and appeared in several papers there; it was also on at least one radio station. The same day the Examiner, in common with all papers on the Canadian Press service, received a confidential message stating that on the request of the press censors the story would not be available for use in Canadian papers. On Saturday following the story was released, and that means it must have been passed by the censors.

So London is now looking for the leak of what is termed secret naval information, and it would be more profitable to find the leak than seek to cover up the effects of the leakage afterward. Newspapers know they are expected to provide all available information, and it is not always possible or desirable to explain why certain events, of which readers may have heard elsewhere, are not published in the paper. The one safe rule is to take it for granted that the newspaper is trying its utmost to work in co-operation with the censors.

Scapa Flow Has Seen Much

How a German submarine was able to penetrate Scapa Flow on October 14 and torpedo the British battleship Royal Oak has not lost its attraction as a point of speculation. The reason is that those who best understood the situation were firmly convinced it was something which could not be done. But it was done. Of all the explanations offered the best so far advanced is by a seaman who claims the German sub was waiting outside and followed the course of a British vessel as she crawled through the mine fields.

Scapa Flow in the Orkney Islands at the North of Scotland, is at best a dreary place, and weather is none too good as a rule. Scapa is a great basin about 15 miles long from north to south and some eight miles wide. It can shelter the largest fleet afloat and is surrounded by fortified islands, and at the moment is mined as it has never been before.

Admiral Jellicoe it was who decided that Scapa Flow was the ideal naval base. He preferred it to Cromarty Firth on Scotland's northeast coast, which was the previous base of the Grand Fleet. Jellicoe believed it gave better command of the North Sea and patrol of the Channel and coastal waters.

Lonely as Scapa Flow may be, it has seen history being made. It was there in 1918 that the German high seas fleet steamed in order to surrender. It was in June of 1919 that the rest of this episode was enacted. British patrols noticed unusual activity and the German ensign was run up on each prisoner vessel, and the janitor crews were preparing to take to the life boats. There was nothing then which could be done about it. The entire German fleet of battleships cruisers and destroyers had been scuttled. They staggered and they sank—every last one of them. Many of them were afterward raised and taken to pieces for their metal. But the Germans had cheated Britain out of a rather nice fleet of sea-going war vessels. A lonely spot is Scapa Flow, but it has seen its full share of excitement.

May Be Confusing

Charles McDonald of Chatham shot his wife, Adeline, who operated a beauty parlor in Chatham. He was arrested and tried and the answer of the jury was that McDonald was guilty of murder, but added to that verdict was a plea for mercy. McDonald was to have been hanged, but word comes from Ottawa that the sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment and he will be taken to Kingston Penitentiary.

Earlier an appeal against the conviction had failed, and the appeal was based on the circulation of an American crime magazine in the district prior to the trial which, without mentioning names, described the crime and pinned the guilt on an individual whom readers in the Chatham district would recognize as McDonald.

The final decision rests in the hands of the Minister of Justice, and he does not make decisions without having all the evidence before him. He may even have representations at his disposal which did not come before the jury in the presentation of the evidence. Counsel for such defendant might find after the trial there were facts of which he was unaware at the time which would have strengthened his case and he is at liberty to present these for consideration.

At best, though, the process is one which the public may find it difficult to follow or even fully appreciate. In our land we have confidence in the system of trial by jury, even if some of the results are difficult to understand. In the case at Chatham the jury said "guilty" and at the same time added a plea for mercy, which would be the same as saying "we find him guilty but do not wish to see him executed for the crime." And right there a degree of confusion would enter, particularly as no explanation was given as to why mercy should be extended.

The reasons for changing the sentence from hanging to life imprisonment have not been stated and probably never will be. One has only to conclude that the Minister of Justice had reasons which he considers sufficient to justify the change. If the public were made aware of the reasons it might clarify the situation. In the absence of such clarifying process one is forced back on complete confidence in the judgment and considered opinion of our Minister of Justice.

Win The Distinction

Attorney-General Conant says there will be no K.C. list issued this year. There are more serious things to be considered this year, particularly war matters.

There are 2,663 lawyers in the province, and of these 716 have the right to affix K.C. after their names. Within recent years additions have been made to the list this way:

We doubt if the legal fraternity itself has ever been fully satisfied with the process of designating who shall bear the King's Counsel distinction. For the most part it has been done on political lines, although it is not exactly a present for the recipient. There is $100 which has to be paid over to the Government.

It would be much better for the legal profession if there were a more restricted approach to the K.C. standing, and that approach ought not to be political at all, but based on the eminence which the recipient has attained and the fitness he has exhibited in his record. By such method K.C. would be a more prized possession than it has yet been in this province.

A Strange World

Toledo in the state of Ohio is hard up, and so is the state of Ohio itself. Toledo is so hard up that schools have been closed for the remainder of the year, and these schools have an attendance of 45,000 pupils. It is claimed that $400,000 will be saved in salaries. Toledo's relief deficit for the year is about $800,000. The city of Cleveland has but a thousand or so dollars for relief and says it needs at least a million.

The state of Ohio receives its chief revenue from a 3 per cent. sales tax, and communities get their income chiefly from real estate taxes. Years ago there was provision made to keep taxation from going too high, and property taxes cannot exceed $1 on every $100 of assessed valuation. There is no way in which this law can be changed without a vote of the people, and it is certain they never would do away with what they consider their greatest safeguard against high taxation.

In Cleveland there are 60,000 people dependent on direct relief, but that city has discontinued anything except emergency relief and at the same time discharged one-quarter of the personnel in its relief organization.

The cities want the state to act, but Governor Bricker is doubtful if the state legislature would sanction any appropriation. He says rural members have not much sympathy for the troubles of cities and would probably refuse to have the state match dollar for dollar with the cities for relief purposes.

Meanwhile Washington adds another billion or so for strengthening protective forces of army and navy and air. Truly we live in a muddled world and people in Cleveland and Toledo must realize it now to a greater degree than in previous times.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Russian papers are featuring a desire that the Red army should attack Finland. Before they press the fight they fight in the press.

Hamilton man stole a $325 coat from a clothes line and when arrested said he had done so because he was hungry. Very hungry one might conclude.

Woman from Sarnia was arrested for dangerous driving, not having a permit and being in possession of wine in the car. Otherwise she was getting along all right.

The Nobel Prize committee has decided not to award a peace prize for 1939. First inclination was to make some comment on that, but second thought was it was not needed.

When you read about merchant vessels being sunk by mines, it is well to bear in mind that between 800 and 900 continue to arrive safely each week at British ports.

From advices coming from Rome we learn that Italy's neutrality is to be regarded as the militant variety. So militant neutrality is probably where one feels like fighting but doesn't.

Four persons were injured when an automobile struck a locomotive at Hamilton, and in the interests of a correct recording of such an event we mention that all those injured were riding in the car.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald reports a turkey hen which is at present nesting near Willow Grove and people are dusting off old signs to see what it means. It might be well for the folk on that farm to hang up a calendar on the barn door.

President Roosevelt announces it will be necessary to spend an added $500,000,000 for defence purposes, and the money will be raised by a new tax. We can understand the 500 millions, but where the man is going to find a new form of taxation is a puzzle at the moment.

WEE ANGUS

¶ Wee Angus stayed in after four, and he was feeling somewhat sore, I asked him what he'd done; had he been fighting with the boys, or making some outlandish noise, or bent on having fun?

¶ Wee Angus said his work was good, done everything like what he should, of errors he had none; the teacher looked across at him, and saw a motion on his chin, for he was chewing gum.

¶ And that's against the rule he said, he should have parked it home instead. and get his habits straight; but he was caught so sudden there, he couldn't hide it anywhere, his planning was too late.

¶ I know the spots around our place, where Angus sits why one can trace. you'd easy spot his chair; for when he hastens to his meals, he takes his hand and slyly feels, and then he parks it there.

¶ It's not a very pleasant sight, stuck on the bed post over night the flavor's apt to ooze; I mildly scolded Angus too, as not the proper thing to do, but when he wakes he chews.

¶ He should have swallowed it is school, instead of breaking up the rule, and not stay after four; Wee Angus says he thought of that, but he'd been left there cold and flat—he didn't have no more.

Carrier Boy In Royal Air Force Via Cattle Boat

A YOUTH in London, Ont., had an ambition to become an aviator. That was several years ago, and his parents did not share his dream. Possibly other parents might have taken the same view. They might know little enough of airplanes or the progress which has been made within recent years. They would prefer to have their son stay home and do something else.

The London, Ont., Free Press tells the story of this young man who is now with the Royal Air Force and on active service:

"Where there is a will, there is a way" is so old a saying that it is almost trite. But the truth within it still holds. It is still true that a young man, by sheer courage and strength of purpose, may accomplish those things on which he has set his heart's desire—if he has the will.

Bruce Forbes, former Free Press carrier boy, and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Forbes, 668 Talbot street, is one such young man. Bruce, though only 22 years of age, has kept the vision of his youthful ambition—to be a flyer—ever bright before his eyes. He has struggled to overcome handicaps of time and certain parental opposition (since withdrawn), and is today Lieut. Bruce Forbes of the Royal Air Force, veteran of several flights over Germany territory and scouting and photographing flights over foggy wastes of the North Sea. He took part in the leaflet raids over Germany at the beginning of the war.

This ambitious young man's present duty is piloting his plane from a certain Scottish aerodrome out across the mirky waters as far as the coast of Norway, a 1,000-mile trip, amid ice-cold rain and mist, a test for any young man's health and nerves. It's his war-time job. He's glad he knows how to do it.

When Bruce was a youngster, he made up his mind to be a Free Press carrier boy. He saw in it a way to earn extra money for himself, money which he carefully put away. That money he used to buy himself lessons in fling at the London Flying Club. By sticking to his carrier work and his flying, he was able, at 19 years of age, to pass his tests. Before he was 20 he had arrived in England and made application for entry into the R.A.F.

He had more to overcome, however, than these tests. Though he knew the answers to the questions, though he could fly solo, he found he had failed to pass his physical tests. Stuck? Not a bit. Off he went to Ottawa, hitch-hiking his way up to the capital, where he was able to convince federal authorities he was fit to fly. They gave him his final O.K., and he came back to London, as a jumping-off place on his way to England.

MEETING with considerable opposition from his father (who admits it now, quite happily, but points out that he and his boy are reconciled about flying as a career, and that he is intensely proud of Bruce), the former Free Press carrier boy hitch-hiked to Montreal, got a job on a cattle boat, and after an exceptionally rough trip, during which he lost 14 pounds, arrived at his destination. Looking at himself in a mirror, in London, young Bruce felt he would be a poor prospect for the R.A.F. He was thin, gaunt, tired. He took a few weeks to himself, spent most of his savings to buy big meals, ate them and recaptured that 14 pounds of flesh and muscle.

After that, the R.A.F. liked the look of him, liked his examination papers, his mental energy and obvious ambition. They signed him on. Today, as a lieutenant in the air force, Bruce is not only fighting his country's enemies, but fulfilling the ambitions of his youth—he is a fully-fledged pilot.

Years ago, when he was a well-known member of The Free Press carrier boy hockey team, later when he refereed their games, he was a "live wire," full of ideas, whether for selling papers or devising new hockey play. It is no surprise, therefore, to his old friend to know now that he is still interested in the ice game, and that, as he writes to his father, "I've got a chance to play on a team here, and, if I get the time, I intend to play with them."

Bruce Forbes is "good" in many ways. The first Christmas after he had been taken on the R.A.F. he sent his father a check for $25 "to give the children a good time."

ONLY A STONE'S THROW

THE master of ceremonies at a Detroit night club, noting the presence of a number of Canadians among the patrons, drew a great round of applause when he referred to this country in complimentary tones and added: "Only a stone's throw from the United States and no stones being thrown."

The relations of Canada and the United States, though sometimes beset by minor difficulties, such as money exchange, customs and immigration relations and the fact that our country is at war, continue to be happy. There is a bond between us that nothing can sever. We like the Americans and they like us.—Windsor Star.

HE WAS NEVER LATE

(Wellington Jeffers in Toronto Globe and Mail)

The late Thomas Bradshaw was never late in his life, I am told. It is a misnomer to call him "the late" now, because if any man lives on in his works and in a continuing influence on others, it is Thomas Bradshaw.

RECOGNIZED

"Excuse me, weren't you the end man in the Brightbeach Minstrels this summer?"

—London Opinion.

• Heard No Person Laughing

WHEN Premier Hepburn made an address in which he said people in United States are laughing at the size of Canada's war efforts the Ottawa Journal was not properly impressed. Neither were a good many other papers, including the Examiner. Mr. Hepburn had been in the States just a short time before. The Ottawa Journal says:

These thoughts of Mr. Hepburn are not unlike the sudden inspirations that come to New Year's Eve celebrants. At 2.00 a.m. under full sail it appears an obviously splendid thing to telephone a friend in Kansas City. At 2.00 p.m. the next day, in possession of the telephone bill, it isn't nearly as amusing and seems infinitely less necessary.

And so with his American friends who told him Uncle Sam was laughing at Canada. We're not questioning the honesty of his statement. But because a few people may have told him something surely doesn't justify his restatement of their opinion as though it were fact. It is fortunate, apparently, that the premier wasn't talking to Father Divine before his speech. If he had we'd now be warned of the impending descent of eight thousand negroid angels.

Canadians who have been in the United States recently, as has this writer, will tell a tale of American opinion of our war efforts that is quite contrary to that passed on by Mr. Hepburn. In the main, U.S. opinion is most laudatory of Canada's immediate and whole-hearted co-operation; the newspapers have written analytical editorials of the extent and wisdom of our activities and the ordinary citizens have marvelled at what is to them the strange sight of a people rushing into war 3,000 miles away.

The premier, it appears, has been led down an alley; an alley he should know by now because he's been led there before; an alley he should determine to keep away from, even if it means he must sit down every night and write out one hundred times: "I must not go down alleys, I must not do down alleys, I must not go down alleys."

• More Out of Work Than In Uniform

LONDON.—There are more persons without work in Britain today than there are men in the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force combined. Dislocation of trade at the outset of the war has meant that even the immediate transfer of several hundred thousand men from industry to the fighting services has not lowered the jobless figures, which now total 1,400,000 "workers" and more than 250,000 persons of the salaried class.

This fact illustrates the magnitude of the task—or of the opportunity—which now faces the Government here in its efforts to get Britain's war machine working full pressure. Much depends on the way the problem is viewed.

From the viewpoint of the parliamentary Opposition the unemployment situation is a serious challenge to the Government's planning abilities and a possible source of danger in a war in which economics are so important; from the Government view it presents an opportunity to get the industries and fighting services ordered in the most efficient manner. This latter view is based on the belief that nationally speaking a labor surplus at the outset of war may be beneficial.

The Government is working on the theory that with industry, finance, and overseas trade controlled in the national interest, and with the state expenditure mounting — it is now £6,000,000 a day—the problem of the jobless, however immense it may look on paper, will soon take care of itself.

• Parents Who Are Too Ambitious

WHEN it comes to the handing out of home truths, Principal F. W. Danby of the Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute takes second place to few men. The parent, says Mr. Danby, is the child's worst enemy. Then he goes on to explain that he means those parents, and apparently there are a very large number of them, who have their children's futures all cut and dried by the time the youngsters are five years old.

His criticism, says Kingston Whig-Standard, was directed specifically at the familiar parental practice of deciding that little Johnny is going to be a minister and little Jimmy is going to be a corporation lawyer and that both of them will have to climb right to the top of their respective professions and earn large incomes. It may be all right for parents to have hopes in definite directions, but if they are the wisest parents they probably will never mention them. Many parents not only have hopes but they spend a great deal of time actively creating in the mind of little Jimmy or little Johnny the feeling that he will be the world's greatest failure if he does not become an outstanding corporation lawyer or a noted minister. So little Johnny or little Jimmy strive their hardest to fulfil the parental ideal although their only aptitude for the selected profession may be in the parents' minds. They do become great and unhappy failures, yet they might have been very happy and competent carpenters, astro-phsicists, farmers, manufacturers, salesmen or novelists if they had been permitted to discover and fit themselves for their proper vocations.

It is a mistake to think that every child must earn a high salary or he will not be happy, says Mr. Danby. People are made unhappy by shoving them into positions they do not want. People are happier if they like the work they do.

These are home truths that may have needed saying more a generation ago than they do now, but they still need to be said every so often and perhaps always will so long as parents will be parents. If they had been said oftener a generation ago there might have been fewer irritable, depressed and nervous people in the present generation.

DOCTORS' HIGH STAND

NEARLY unanimous refusal of the 1,000 physicians of New Zealand to accept a State-guaranteed annual income of $7,500 provided they cooperate with the Government's socialized medicine law, illustrates the attitude toward compulsory sickness "insurance" of many doctors in every country. The sum offered the New Zealanders is more than the average doctor there earns.

Motives of doctors in the United States who have opposed the compulsory "insurance" plan have been questioned by some skeptics, who appear to think the medical men are afraid their earnings will be reduced. Many thousands know of the philanthropy of the better class of physicians. Some estimates of the annual amount of free service given by American physicians place it at more than $300,000,000 a year.

Obviously the current opposition of organized medicine to the interference of government is based on higher than mere monetary grounds. As the American Medical Association declares, compulsory sickness insurance may be harmful to patient, physician and state.—Christian Science Monitor.

ON THE WRONG SIDE

Friends of the Morrow family are telling this story—of the differences between Mrs. Dwight Morrow and her son-in-law, Col. Lindbergh, differences which flared into the open recently, when she opposed him in connection with the neutrality bill. Mrs. Morrow first became annoyed at her son-in-law when, riding in a car he was driving, she had to caution him repeatedly, because Lindbergh insisted upon passing cars—at the right.—Leonard Lyons, in New York Post.

WEEKLY PRESS OPPOSED

(London Free Press)

The Provincial Government's proposal to extend the term of municipal elections for two years and possibly for the remainder of the war has not met with much enthusiasm from the press of Ontario. The weekly press is close to the feeling of the people of rural Ontario and it is almost unanimous in its opposition.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid: for the Lord JEHOVAH is my strength and my song; he also is become my salvation....For the Lord will have mercy on Jacob, and will yet choose Israel, and set them in their own land: and the strangers shall be joined with them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob....

And it shall come to pass in the day that the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve, that thou shalt take up this proverb against the king of Babylon, and say, How hath the oppressor ceased! the golden city ceased! The Lord hath broken the staff of the wicked and the sceptre of the rulers.—Isaiah 12.

Pleasant Clerk

A pompous and impatient woman was having a prescription made up. When the preparation was nearly ready she said: "I really cannot wait any longer. I will send my little girl to fetch it." The chemist hesitated, and, looking dubiously at his customer, remarked: "This stuff is deadly poison, madam. I think you ought to take it."

Passing The Time

A girl and an elderly woman were waiting for the other members of the party to arrive.

"Have a cigarette?" asked the girl, offering her case.

The older woman looked at her in extreme annoyance.

"Smoke a cigarette!" she cried, indignantly. "Good gracious, I'd rather kiss the first man who came along!"

SUCCESSION DUTIES..

Succession Duties raise three important questions. How much will they be? — will my estate have the money or liquid assets to pay them within the time set by law? — what effect will this tax have on my plans? ¶ We invite you to consult our officers who have a practical knowledge of the working of Succession Duty Acts in the various Provinces of Canada. They will be glad to estimate the amount of Duty for which you should make provision, and to discuss your estate plans, as they may be affected by this tax, in the light of this Corporation's long experience as executor and trustee extending over half a century. ¶ Your inquiries will receive prompt attention: they will place you under no obligation.

War Fast Closing Germany's Universities

BERLIN, Nov. 29—(AP)—War has reduced higher education, except in technical schools, to a minimum in Germany while some student doctors are stepping into the positions of physicians and surgeons called to the front.

In the first days of the war, as the number of men called to the colors mounted, most classrooms had to be closed because of a lack of teachers.

On the university level only a half dozen schools remain open—all others including the famous old universities of Heidelberg and Frieburg, lying close to the French border, are closed.

Those students who have not been drafted for army duty—a very small number—may pursue their studies in so far as professors are available.

Boys drawn out of upper grades of the German equivalent of high school go to war and having only a few months to go to graduation were presented with diplomas without taking examinations.

The technical schools—there are only two open out of more than a dozen—are jammed with lads being hurried through studies in all types of engineering, chemistry and related subjects important to the Reich and the war.

A handful of students from the New World registered for doctorate work were advised to continue their studies in Switzerland because the laboratory space was needed for German students.

Tweedsmuirs Call For T.B. Aid

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir and Lady Tweedsmuir have issued the following appeal to the people of Canada on behalf of the Christmas seal campaign which opens today:

As Patron and Patroness of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, we appeal once more to our fellow-Canadians to support the admirable work which is being carried on throughout the Dominion to fight tuberculosis. Now that the country is at war, it is all the more incumbent on us all to maintain a high standard of public health, for this is one of our first lines of home defence.

The Canadian Tuberculosis Association was established nearly forty years ago and has a wonderful record of unremitting toil in its war against one of the most virulent scourges of mankind.

The purchase of Christmas seals is one of the most practical ways in which all of us can contribute to this great cause, and we ask the Canadian people to give their generous support at this critical time.

Tea exports from India and Ceylon are to be controlled by the two governments.

Farmers Plan Big Rally At Court House

Peterborough farmers will have the opportunity Thursday afternoon at the Court House of hearing H. S. Arkell, former trade commissioner for Canada, who made an extensive study of marketing problems during two years travel in many countries of the world, and since his return has delivered notable addresses in Montreal and Toronto proposing a broad outline of a national policy for agriculture.

Presumably Mr. Arkell will review the advances in the co-ordination of production and marketing as he observed them in Australia, New Zealand and European countries, and by contrast show the lack of progress in raising Canadian agriculture to a corresponding level of efficiency.

"There is one basic principle that applies equally as well to external as to internal trade but regarding which only passing comment will be made. Reference is to the standardization of product. The time has come when it needs no brief to make clear that the grading of products on the basis of quality has become the foundation of our whole farm sales program"

"Since our needs must have regulation and organized direction of export as a matter of plain business common sense, why should we not face the inevitable and make a real job of it?"

"Nationalize the losses on export and then we can deal with the price at home. I mean that such losses should be paid out of a fund created by the assessment of a levy on all hogs marketed."

"A high price for cheese supports the price of both milk and butter just as a low price drags them down."

"Create a stabilization fund by a levy against all cattle marketed as the foundation of this scheme and producers would find themselves in such a position of security and independence as they have never yet enjoyed."

The meeting Thursday afternoon at the Court House has been sponsored by the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. This is the first county in Ontario which Mr. Arkell is visiting, and it is understood that five or six others are watching the outcome of his visit here this week.

Moscow Reports

es and framed a new message for delivery to the Kremlin.)

The Alleged Incidents.

According to the Moscow radio, the latest alleged border clashes took place at isolated points on the long frontier.

The most serious incident, the radio said, occurred near Vidlitczk (Vedlitsa) near Lake Ladoga, where small troops of Finnish infantry were reported to have crossed the border after artillery had hurled two shells 500 yards into Soviet territory.

The Finns were driven back by rifle and machinegun fire, the radio claimed.

Earlier, according to the broadcast, five Finnish soldiers crossed the northern frontier on the isthmus between the peninsulas of Rybachi and Sredni.

A Soviet patrol opened fire and drove the Finns back across the border, taking three prisoners, the report said.

An hour later, two Finnish soldiers sent five shots across the border near "Hill 204.2" which was not specifically located by the broadcaster. Soviet troops did not return the fire, he said.

Foreign observers saw little cause for optimism in the note in which Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff yesterday scrapped Russia's non-aggression pact with Finland.

Molotoff said that Finland's refusal to withdraw border garrisons as a guarantee against repetition of Sunday's alleged clash reflected the Helsingfors Government's "profound hostility toward the Soviet Union."

He rejected in uncompromising terms Finland's suggestion that the Red Army simultaneously withdraw from the frontier, declaring that the Soviet troops "do not menace vital centres of Finland because they are removed from those centres for hundreds of kilometres."

INSPECTS TORONTO UNITS.

TORONTO, Nov. 29—(CP)—Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General, today inspected Toronto units of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force on parade at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds. In full battle kit, with bayonets fixed, were the 48th Highlanders, the Toronto Scottish Regiment and the No. 2 Field Workshop of the Royal Canadian Engineers.

(Netherlands ships will continue to operate, government sources in Amsterdam said, despite the new restrictions and the sinking of seven Dutch ships by German mines or submarines. It was announced the Netherlands ships would be equipped with paravanes, devices on the bows to fend off mines.)

British and French sources estimated that from 20 to 40 German submarines had been sunk since the war began Sept. 3.

French naval units were credited with having sunk probably 10, the Royal Navy with two or three a week. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, said in the House of Commons Nov. 8 that the Allies must expect to combat "100 U-boats in January, less whatever sinkings have occurred."

Deny Cruiser Sunk

The Admiralty said a German statement yesterday that a U-boat had sunk a British cruiser of the London class off the Shetland Islands was "devoid of truth." Naval circles said the German report may have been intended to "cheer up the people" or elicit information on the position of British warships.

The French high command reported seizure of the German freighters Santa Fe and Trisels, ships of 6,000 and 4,627 tons, respectively.

The air ministry published a new casualty list for the war to date, showing 60 men killed in action, 244 who died or were killed on active duty, which includes training, 81 missing, and 15 taken prisoner.

MORE ABOUT—

Toronto Woman

Los Angeles is the same person who 48 years ago pledged his love to Mrs. Dunham, then Pensy Blevins, 20-year-old candy store clerk at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Though both witnesses to the purported will are dead, both have relatives who could testify to the friendship of the former Miss Blevins and O'Dea and who could produce handwriting to support the validity of the signatures, relatives of Mrs. Dunham believe.

The relatives said that they believed Mrs. Dunham still possessed a faded photograph of herself and O'Dea. Mrs. Dunham went to Los Angeles when the O'Dea estate first came before the courts last June. She has been visiting with friends in suburban San Gabriel since that time.

Mrs. Dunham has two sons by a previous marriage. They are Allan Brown of Schomberg, 10 miles north of Toronto, and Robert Brown of Drayton, Wellington County.

Bush Fire In New York

GANANOQUE, Ont., Nov. 29 — (CP)—Residents of this district last night watched a serious bush fire in New York State across the International bridge south of here. The blaze began in grass and spread to wooded country.

Fifty Havelock Women Turn Out For Red Cross Knitting Session

HAVELOCK, Nov. 29—(ENS).—Fifty women assembled Monday afternoon in the local council chamber, which is being used as the Red Cross Society's work room, and were busily engaged in knitting, sewing, and the many othe rtasks related to war service work.

They listened with much interest also to a few remarks made during the meeting by Mr. T. P. Lancaster, honorary chairman of the executive committee, who emphasized that the Red Cross Society is the only channel by which war service efforts may be effectively conducted, since it is the only recognized international body. "As the national war fund campaign of the Canadian Red Cross draws to a close, he said, there are hundreds of men for whom the work of the Red Cross has aroused special memories."

"Their story is told in the thousands of letters which the Society received during and immediately after the last war and in surprising numbers during the past two months. The story of the men who spent months or years as prisoners-of-war and who subsisted only as a result of the machinery set up by the Red Cross to carry food, clothing, comforts and tobacco to them.

Throughout the Red Cross volunteer organization, of which the male personnel is predominately war veterans, former prisoners-of-war are numerous. The man who wraps parcels for outpots hospitals was formerly seaman J. C. Agnew who spent four years in a German coal mine. And he echoes the message sent by a clergyman, Rev. E. L. Wasson, who said, "I can say that I would certainly not have survived had it not been for the parcels sent by the Red Cross."

During the war, a task first undertaken by two women in one room of the Canadian Red Cross offices in Cockspur street, London, became a tremendous work, forwarding 472,511 parcels of food, 57,745 parcels of clothing and regular bread rations to the Canadian men imprisoned in Germany.

Parcels Always Arrived.

No other means existed for reaching the men. Alive, they were as far removed from their families as if they had died in action. But the Red Cross, the only neutral agency in war, was able through its international offices to organize a system of communication and transportation which brought six parcels of food every month to each man. Sometimes men were moved to different camps, but always the parcels were forwarded.

Already in the present war, parcels have gone forward to the two Canadians imprisoned in Germany: Alfred Burke Thompson, of Penetang, and Robert Coste of Toronto. Both young men captured when their planes were shot down during flights over Germany. Both were promptly the subject of Red Cross attention after their capture. Cables from Hon. R. B. Bennett, chairman of the British committee of the Canadian Red Cross report that clothing and food parcels have been sent to them.

As the war continues, and after Canada's forces engage in action, once again the task will become greater, but once again the Red Cross will be prepared to assume the work that no other organization in the world is permitted to undertake. And when exchanges of prisoners are arranged, the preparation of details and the actual transfer of prisoners is carried out by the same organization, the only group of persons in the world who know no frontiers."

Reporting upon the results of his personal canvass of the village's prominent business and professional men, Mr. Lancaster stated that the contributions now totalled $108. These men who are now honorary members of the local Red Cross committee, will later be organized to conduct a general membership campaign. Mr. Lancaster advised that the house-to-house canvass be left until January.

Several matters of business were discussed during the meeting with Mrs. Andrew McLauchlin, president, as chairman. Expressing pleasure at the large attendance, Mrs. McLauchlin, said that everyone should work shoulder-to-shoulder in co-operation, now that the need has arisen.

It was decided to purchase $50 worth of wool from the Toronto branch of the Red Cross. Several accounts were passed and ordered paid.

The executive announced that the patterns had been received for cutting pajamas, hospital garments, etc., and that this work would proceed as soon as materials were obtained.

The secretary, Mrs. Charles Taylor was instructed to inquire from the Toronto headquarters, if arrangements could be made to have a course in first aid conducted here. A letter of appreciation will also be sent to the Jr. Women's Institute for their donation.

Committee Named.

A purchasing committee was appointed composed of Mrs. P. Colquhoun and Mrs. T. Easterbrook. The offer of four sewing machines for use in the Red Cross work room have been received from Mesdames George Rigby, J. Holdcroft, Wiggins, and L. Weese. A large chest to be used for the purpose of storing Red Cross materials was donated by Mrs. (Dr.) Joseph Holdcroft.

The president reported that organizations in Belmont, Trent River and Rush Point had all expressed the desire to work in co-operation with the Havelock Red Cross society.

The Home and School Association intend to donate the proceeds of the candy sale, to be conducted during intermission at the motion picture show here on Friday evening, to the local Red Cross committee. The Red Cross posters will be distributed by Billy Copp, Douglas Wrightly, and Glen Price throughout the village. The three boys will receive Red Cross membership buttons for their contribution to the work.

SAXON CHURCH IN USE

Used by the Saxons as a royal burial place, Lady St. Mary's Church in Wareham, England, has just returned to use after 1,000 years.

Fraserville

Mrs. Croft of Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Finlay.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Atchison, Joyce and Allan of South Monaghan, were Sunday visitors of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Holden.

Mr. Percy Hutchison, formerly of Seattle, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Clarke.

Mrs. Byran Wood has returned to her home here after having spent a few weeks with relatives in South Monghan.

A change has been made in the time of Sunday school and church service here. It will be every Sunday afternoon, commencing at two o'clock for, the winter months.

Rev. Max Parr of George Street church, Peterborough, will show his pictures of the British Isles in Fraserville church on Thursday, Nov. 30.

Time For Change

OMAHA, Nob., Nov. 29—(AP)—Police Chief J. J. Pszanowski has decided it's about time to revise the "book of rules" which guides Omaha policemen. The chief says he doesn't know the age of the book, but it refers to wooden sidewalks and horse-drawn vehicles.

Germans Unable To Fulfill Argentine Deal

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 29—(AP).—Officials of the Argentine State Railways said yesterday a 14,500,000 peso ($4,350,000) deal to barter wheat and wool for German railway equipment had collapsed under the weight of wartime restrictions.

German firms, including Krupp and Thyssen, which had contracted to furnish 900 freight cars, thirty sleepers and sixty-six switching locomotives gave notice they would be unable to fulfill their contracts.

Railway officials said a 500,000 peso ($150,000) guarantee for delivery posted by the Germans with financial agents here would be returned.

Wheat already shipped to Germany under the deal is now paid for by German credits amounting to 3,500,000 marks (nominally $1,400,000) held in Buenos Aires. The contract called for 100,000 tons of wheat.

The German firms, after the outbreak of war, insisted they would be able to carry out the bargain by shipping through Italy, or the Netherlands.

To save gasoline, the Dutch royal family is using horse-drawn vehicles or bicycles.

Cavan Driver Is Acquitted In Non-Stop Case

"Dismissed" was the laconic judgment delivered by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court today after hearing the evidence in a charge against Herbert Bigelow, Cavan township, of not having come to a full stop before driving his car into Rubidge street at Sherbrooke street on the evening of November 4.

There was an accident at that corner on the occasion mentioned involving two other automobiles, the driver of one of which contended that it was through Bigelow not stopping at the stop sign that the collision occurred.

James Goodhew, the driver in question and Otto Mackey and Alf. Prout who were passengers in the Goodhew car were the crown witnesses.

Goodhew testified that he had been driving north on Rubidge street at 20 miles an hour and when fifteen feet away from the intersection saw Bigelow's car in the middle of the intersection. He had swerved his car to avoid hitting the Cavan man's machine and in so doing ran into the rear of another car that was pulling into the curb north of the crossing. Goodhew said that Bigelow had not stopped at the stop sign but in cross-examination said that he did not see the Bigelow car until it was in the middle of the intersection.

Mackey's evidence on that point was along the same line. Prout, the third witness, testified that Bigelow did not stop, at the sign but after he had first said that he first noticed it in the middle of the intersection. Prout said he did not see anyone but Bigelow in the latter's car.

Wilfred Miller, High street, called by the defence, testified that he was with Bigelow and that the latter had stopped at the stop sign and waited until several cars had passed before moving out into the crossing. As he did so witness said he noticed another car coming north on Rubidge street at a good rate of speed and warned Bigelow who stopped his machine.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for Bigelow and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted.

Magistrate dismissed the case with the remark that the evidence of the Crown had been indefinite. "Perhaps Bigelow may have been guilty of negligence but he was not charged with that here," commented the court.

Young Bancroft Boy Badly Hurt By Car

BONARLAW, Nov. 29.—(ENS). — Murray Walker, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Walker, Bancroft, had a narrow escape from being killed when struck by a car driven by Archie Eddy.

Murray along with some other boys were picking up some small stones on the roadway, throwing them at a duck under the bridge, and darting across the road for more stones did not notice the approaching car which was within a few feet of him. He sustained a fractured leg and suffered a concussion in the impact. He was taken to the Red Cross Hospital, but later taken to his home, where he is in a critical condition.

No blame is attached to the driver of the car.

Ottawa Approves Of Drive For Army Huts

The official approval and certificate has been issued by the Secretary of State of Canada to the local Knights of Columbus for their Canadian Army Huts Fund, whose drive for $200,000 takes place throughout Canada from December 3 to December 11, 1939.

Brigadier W. W. Foster, Director of Auxiliary Services, Department of National Defence, in a radio broadcast over a Canadian hook-up on November 21, described the work of the Knights of Columbus Canadian Army Huts and the other auxiliary service bodies. Brigadier Foster's concluding remarks were as follows:

"No reference has so far been made to the provision of these services when the troops go overseas. Suffice it for the persent that by the Minister's direction a program has been arranged so that wherever the men may find themselves in the service of The King, and in this fight for freedam, their comfore, their confidence and their esesntial dignities will be safeguarded so far as it lies within the power of the government to do so.

I have said that these auxiliary, but none the less essential, services can onl ybe made available through the generosity of the people of Canada. No one can foresee the extent to which all these activities may have to be expanded in the months to come. For my part, and on behalf of the Minister and the Department, I give you assurance that any services which are provided by you, the people of Canada, through the organizations working so splendidly together, will be utilized with efficiency and put to the most useful purpose in the cause for which they are intended."

CHOPIN HEART LOST

WARSAW—(CP).—The heart of Frederic Chopin, buried in the Holy Cross Church here, is believed to have been destroyed by the German bombardment. The composer's body is buried in Paris.

Acquit Driver Of Having Poor Brakes

Nelson McConnell, Ida, whose car was involved in an accident at the intersection of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, in which Charles A. Farnham was seriously injured, was acquitted in traffic court this morning on a charge of having driven with inadequate brakes.

McConnell was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C.

Evidence against the accused was given by three police officers.

Constable G. K. Hardy, who investigated the accident, told of measurements made at the scene and of noticing a skid mark which he said ran from the right rear wheel of McConnell's car which had stopped 13 feet east of the intersection to 50 feet west.. In cross-examination he told Mr. Carley that he had not measured the skid mark for its full length but had "stepped it off."

Constable W. A. Clarke testified that on the morning after the accident he had tested McConnell's car west of the market square, using a brake-testing machine and had found that when he was driving a little better than 20 miles an hour the service break took 66 feet to stop the machine. With the emergency and service brakes applied together the car stopped in 54 feet.

Constable Clarke said in cross-examination that there was no speedometer in McConnell's car so Constable McGillen had followed in a police car and when the latter was travelling at 20 miles an hour sounded his horn, whereupon witness had applied the brake-tester in the other machine.

Constable C. J. McGillen also testified in regard to the test.

Mr. Carley did not offer any evidence. He argued that no evidence had been given as to the conditions under which the test had been made and that the testimony in regard to the speed of the car at the time of the test was indefinite.

Magistrate Langley said there was too much element of doubt to register a conviction under the circumstances.

Drunks Given Three Months

Pleas of guilty to third offence drunken charges in police court this morning resulted in three months' jail sentences for John King, Peterborough, and James "Scotty" Maguire, more or less permanent transient.

The arrest of the two followed a scuffle in the rest room on the Market Square on Tuesday night.

Both pleaded guilty this morning and both admitted two previous convictions during the current year. Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., gave them the minimum sentence. "It's long enough," he commented.

"It's too long," said Maguire sadly.

A third man, Samuel Stewart, a transient, who was mixed up with the other two in the Tuesday night episode, went to jail for ten days in default of paying a fine of $10 and costs on a drunk charge.

The Queen's Clothes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(CP)—Elizabeth Hawes, unorthodox New York fashion expert who wrote "Fashion is Spinach," yesterday praised the evening clothes Queen Elizabeth wore on her North American tour last Spring.

She was more critical of Her Majesty's daytime clothes, however. She said she thought American women would have liked to have seen the Queen in little pald tweed jackets and woolen skirts, rather than in "the stuff she wears with fur all round it" for daytime appearances.

LIKES FORESTRY EFFORT.

"If the county can buy land suitable for reforestation at an average price of $1.03 an acre, as they have done, it might be advisable for the City Council to consider a similar investment,' 'a former alderman remarked to a reporter today. "There is no doubt a lot more available and suitable land for that purpose, cost of looking after the tract should not be much, and in time the property would become a real asset to the city."

Annual Santa Claus Parade Is Set For Friday Night

He'll be here Friday!

With whiskers bristling, cheeks a fiery red, a loud laugh on his lips, his huge frame quivering with good-will, he'll ride down Peterborough streets to make children happy and parents less worried.

For Old Nick is on his way. Away with the foul scowls of Hitler, the evil leers of Stalin, the pompous airs of Mussolini, the lewdness of Goering, the sadism of Goebbels. Beside the spontaneous gaiety, the fervent jovility of Old Nick, their figures shrink to tawdry cheapness.

He steams into Peterborough aboard the C.P.R. Friday at 7.50 and with him comes his army—not a drab-clad army with guns that bear death, but gay-clad troops of clowns hurling hand grenades of peanuts, bullets of candy.

It's a mechanized army he brings, an army that travels on fantaistic folats. Bands will march at its head, but their tunes will not be military, and people will line the streets in thousands, but not in dumb submission to a conquering war chief.

No, crowds here will not greet Old Nick in dumb submission, their eyes alone uncowed, as too many people in other lands have greeted parades. Old Nick's reception here will be as spontaneous as snow fall and as blanketing. From a thousand lips his name will be shrieked with joy.

Here's a chance Friday for parents to take their children to see a parade—a parade where no single tear lurks in the beholders' eyes. Take this one. It may not pass this way again.

Atop a special float Santa will proceed, with his great retinue, from the C.P.R. station north on George street to King, west on King to Aylmer, north on Aylmer to Charlotte, east on Charlotte to George, north on George to Murray, east on Murray to the Court House, where he will descend to take up a position on the Band Stand. There he will be welcomed by Civic, Provincial and Dominion officials and will himself deliver a message to Peterborough children.

Such is the route, and along that route wide-eyed children will see that Santa is being led by the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers, the Peterborough Citizens' Band, the Lions' Boys' Band. They will see close to a dozen floats and 50 clowns. These are the things the Peterborough Business Men's association, under President Al Sharpe, have arranged for children and grown-ups Friday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 — (ENS).—The English Line Egg Circle, one of the largest organizations of its kind marked the close of another record year at their annual meeting here Tuesday. Growth of this co-operative centred in Campbellford has been continuous since its organization more than a quarter of a century ago when it started with 16 patrons. Today, the report showed a record number of 182 members, an increase of 33 over last year.

Guest speaker at the meeting was F. H. Buker of Brockville, senior poultry fieldman for Eastern Ontario, who was manager of the egg circle here 25 years ago. He congratulated the members on their spectacular progress and suggested to them that if they put the same amount of effort into marketing poultry they would do equally well in that field. "Once a chicken is ready for the market, don't try to hold it over, and don't try to get rid of them when they are at their worst. There is no easier way of making money than by finishing off the birds properly before marketing." There is nothing that will bring down the poultry market more than filling it with birds of poor quality, he said.

Export Trade Lost.

He claimed the war made poultry raising difficult at the present time since it was difficult to get goods to Britain. The import quota on chicken has been cut to one-quarter of last year's importation, and no turkeys whatever are being sent to England. He suggested the present "eat more apples, drink more cider, eat more fish" campaigns would very probably be extended to turkeys.

Ian McLeod, district agriculture representative, Brighton, also addressed the members, offering to help them in anyway possible throughout the year. He congratulated the Circle on its splendid report and made a brief reference to disease among baby chicks which, he claimed, was becoming more widespread. "There is a small percentage of hatcheries which are not putting out a good product," he stated. The speaker also warned against buying an inferior type of chicks.

The financial statement presented by the manager, Thomas H. Rowe, indicated an increase of 48,624 dozen in the amount of eggs handled by the circle, which brought this year's total to 137,127 dozen, which was an all time high, and more than double the number handled just two years ago. Of the total number graded less than two per cent or 2,736 dozen were "C" grade. "A" large totalled 83,873 dozen; "A" medium 26,957; 'A" pullet, 16,253 dozen; Grade 'B", 7,308 dozen. Total receipts from sale of eggs were $30,732.75 of which members were paid $28,496.04. Expenses, including manager's commission, grading, repairs and new cases, etc., amounted to $2,245.57. The average selling price per dozen was 23.17c as against 24c last year.

E. J. Bonney, who presided at the meeting, was re-elected president; William McKelvie, secretary; Harry Barnum, vice-president. Directors: Mr. J. H. Stotts, Mrs. William Stephens, and Mrs. W. C. Todd.

Rangers Parade To Capitol Theatre

Life in the army is not all work, members of the Prince of Wales Rangers learned Tuesday night when they paraded from the Armouries to the Capitol theatre to see, as a unit, a showing of the picture, "The Lion Has Wings."

Behind their band the regiment swung in full strength down George street to the theatre, where they learned about their sister arm of the service and found the infantry is going to have a job on its hands to keep up to the air force in World War II.

They were the guests of the management of the Capitol theatre, as were the members of the 4th Field Battery on Monday night. Special showings for school children have been held in the afternoons.

Santa Claus Parade

The police department requests motorists to refrain from parking on the south side of Charlotte Street from George to Aylmer, and on the east side of George Street from Charlotte to Murray during the Santa Claus parade on Friday night.

Dr. J. H. Riddell To Address Leaders

The workers of the United churches in Peterborough city and county are called to rally in George Street United Church tonight at 8 o'clock to hear the Rev. J. H. Riddel, B.A., L.L.D., D.D., late principal of Wesley College, Winnipeg.

Dr. Riddell has gone across Canada with an inspiring message to the members of sessions, committees of stewards, boards of managers, official boards, Women's Missionary societies, women's associations, Sunday school workers, and all who are interested in the task of the church. He is the author of the booklet, "The Elder," which has had a large circulation in every part of the Dominion. He is a distinguished scholar and at the same time a popular speaker.

Post For Banting

LONDON, Nov. 29 — (CP Cable). —Sir Frederick Banting of Toronto co-discoverer of insulin, is believed planning to take up an important medical appointment in connection with the war effort here.

Sir Frederick arrived in this country quietly on Monday. He declined to discuss his plans, saying it would be premature to make any announcement at present.

Tom Moore's Injured Foot Propped On Chair Tosses Whole Labor Parley Into Turmoil

HAVANA, Nov. 29.—(CP-Havas.)—Tom Moore, Canada's delegate to the second American Labor Conference, arrived at yesterday's session with a sore foot and practically halted all proceedings.

The president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress hurt his foot while stepping off a bus. When he sat down at the head table he propped the aching member on a chair.

J. M. Zayas, Cuban employers' delegate, rose on a point of order to demand a more respectful attitude from the Canadian delegate and that he remove his foot from its "ill-mannered position."

Before Mr. Moore could offer explanation, Cuban delegates took exception and said Mr. Moore could sit in whatever position he pleased.

Several speeches intervened before Mr. Moore could explain. Then speeches began demanding apologies to the Canadian. The head of the Cuban employers' delegation was summoned to present formal apologies. The chair apologized. Cuban delegates apologized.

Mr. Moore said he really wasn't offended.

Fishing Season Next Year Stays Unchanged

According to C. G. Kingan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association the fishing season next year will be within the same time limits as this year. That means the proposal to advance the season for catching bass and lunge to June 21 as suggested by Perry Alexander isn't going to get a hearing. Mr. Alexander contended that to avoid the illegal fishing during the early weeks of the pickerel season that advanced date should be set back to coincide with the opening of the bass and lunge period. All fishing in the Kawarthas would begin on that longest day of the year, and resort owners would have the advantage of an additional nine or 10 days before July 1.

Mr. Kingan says the department will be asked to make permanent the appointment of Stanley Windsor as game warden for the Crown game reserve, and it is being suggested that a higher bounty be paid on wolves.

Speckled trout will be placed in the Little Ouse, Big Ouse, Cavan stream, Mount Pleasant, Archer's Creek, Eel's Creek,Talon Creek, Squaw River, Bear and Concession creeks and others. The season for catching gray trout will likely close on October 1, its spawning period.

Protect Beavers

Mr. Kingan issues a warning that Peterborough county is closed for beavers, and two game wardens and 10 deputy game wardens have been assigned the duty of a special effort to prevent the trapping and killing of these animals during the open season in Victoria, Hastings and other counties.

"People breaking this law will lose their traps, guns, furs, automobile, if found, and after that will be subject to the penalties of fines imposed by the courts," Mr. Kingan said.

"I believe the beaver is a very useful animal and deserves our protection. He dams up streams, keeps moisture in the land, stimulates the growth of trees, marsh hay and other vegetation, creates a reserve of water that is constant, because there is no company or other agency that can raise or lower it.

Beavers make smaller streams navigable, provide water for ducks, minks, muskrats and other game, and if they do cut down a few poplars there is little loss in that direction because those trees have little wood value."

Obituary

HARWOOD, Nov. 29—(ENS).—A gloom was cast over the entire district on Saturday evening, when it was learned of the sudden death of Charles Jibb of Baltimore.

Although he had heart trouble for some time he has been in better health during the past summer, and his death came as a great shock. As he and his wife listened to a broadcast over a radio he had purchased that afternoon he was seized with a heart attack and died before medical aid reached his home.

The late Mr. Jibb was a prominent farmer in Hamilton township, having retired and moved to Baltimore about one year ago. He was the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jibb of Coldsprings, and was in his 60th year.

He was a faithful member of Baltimore United Church and his passing is deply mourned by a large circle of friends.

Besides his sorrowing wife he is survived by a son, Milton, on the homestead, and a daughter, Evelyn, nurse-in-training in Oshawa hospital; also seven brothers: Norman, Edson and Herbert of Northern Ontario; Herman, Wallace and Leslie of Coldsprings, and William of Cambourne. One sister, Mrs. Douglas Redpath of Oshawa also survives. Another sister, Mrs. F. Talling of Fenella, predeceased him about four years ago.

The funeral was held from the family residence on Monday afternoon with interment at Baltimore cemetery.

War Bulletins

ISTANBUL (AP)—Turkish maritime authorities reported sighting a submarine of unknown nationality today at the southwestern entrance to the Dardanelles, near Tenedos Island in the Aegean Sea. They declined to speculate on its identity, or destination.

BUCHAREST (CP-Havas) — All German nationals living in Rumania were asked by the Nazi party today to send identical packages of food and other supplies to "friends and acquaintances in the Reich." A typical prescribed package was to consist of coffee, tea, chocolate, table oil, ham, lard, powdered milk, and fat. Another model package contained various kinds of soap, for toilet uses, for laundry, and for shaving.

BRUSSELS (AP) — The newspaper Derniere Heure reported today that 80,000 members of the German labor corps had been shifted from the Belgian frontier after completing work on an extension of the Westwall fortifications.

WASHINGTON — (AP). — The War Department disclosed an intention to-day to enlarge the United States Army's 14 cavalry regiments into units ready for any "M-Day" orders.

More men, horses, and speedy scout cars will be added to permit quicker transition from a peace to war basis.

LONDON (CP)—The ministry of economic warfare announced today that during the week ending last Saturday the British contraband control service seized and detained about 21,500 tons of contraband goods believed destined for Germany. Of this total, 11,600 tons were petroleum products. During the first 12 weeks of the war the contraband control organization detained nearly 463,000 tons of contraband, including more than 100,000 tons of etroleum products.

LEGHORN, Italy — (CP-Havas). —Il Telegrafo, a newspaper published here by the family of Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, in commenting to-day on the Russo-Finnish situation said that "if ever there was a time when the roles are clearly established, when the figure of the aggressor and that of th victim are unmistakably established, it is in the present instance."

WASHINGTON — (AP). — S. B. Rederaker, United States Consul at Frankfort-on-Main, advised the Commerce Department to-day that Germany is building a "gigantic" synthetic gasoline manufacturing plant at Stettin in North-east Germany. He said the plant would have an annual capacity of 350,000 metric tons of gasoline. The plant is expected to take two years to complete, he added.

Spiritual Author

Otto Strasser, pictured ABOVE, so-called leader of the anti-Hitler movement abroad, was named by the Gestapo as "spiritual author" of the bombing that wrecked the Buergerbraukeller in Munich, Germany, and almost claimed the life of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. Strasser is now in exile in Switzerland.

ArchbishopOwen Confirms Class At All Saints'

"I find it very difficult indeed to speak to you on this dreadful subject of war," declared Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen, Primate of all Canada in the Anglican Church, when he presided at a Confirmation service at All Saints' Anglican Church, Tuesday night. Thirty candidate were confirmed.

Archbishop Owen said he wanted to speak "a few words of encouragement to you in this time of stress," but said such words were difficult of utterance. He recalled the outbreak of war on September 3, at an hour when he was nearing Edmonton by train to preside at a Sunday service. On that day, when he rushed from the train to the church a few short hours after war had broken out, he asked his congregation, "How would you like to be a preacher to-day?"

"What I felt then, I feel now," he said, but declared that people have now had time to regain their point of view. He said it was an encouragement to him to see how the Canadian people have remained true to British principles, and asked his congregation to take a long view "of this situation—this sorrow that has come on the world." In God there is still hope, he said, if men will but turn to Him in repentance for their sins and ask His guidance. "He will give us those things for which we ask and bring good out of evil," he affirmed.

He called for special prayers for Allied leaders and for the men at war, especially for the Empire's sailors.

To the class being confirmed, he extended a welcome into full membership in the church, but warned that their membership carried with it a burden of responsibility, particularly in this age. "The Church of Christ has continued through 19 centuries, through all manner of upheavals of society, and is continuing today," he said. He said that survival was only made possible by the zeal of Christians and would only be possible in the future by such zeal.

He pressed on them the significance of the step they were taking, a step that was carrying them into the great fellowship of the church, and he called on the other members of the congregation to give the new members their full support.

Operated Car While Permit Was Suspended

"It would be as well for the public to understand that in these cases I have the power to impose fines up to $500," said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in traffic court this morning after a young man had pleaded guilty to operating a motor vehicle after his license had been suspended.

The accused, Harold Blodgett, who said that he had lost his license as the result of an accident in Oshawa, admitted that he had been driving his father to and from work.

Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure told the court that Blodgett had sold his car immediately after the charge had been laid.

Magistrate Langley made the fine $10 and $2.50 costs, warning the accused that he would not get off so lightly if he were convicted of a similar offence again.

John Faux, who entered a plea of guilty, through his counsel, W. B. Gordon, to a similar charge, was also fined $10 and costs.

John V. Leggett of Garden Hill, who pleaded guilty to careless driving, following an accident in which his car went into a ditch, was fined $5 and costs.

William Gannon, Ennismore, whose car was involved in a collision at Bridgenorth recently, also pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge, was also fined $5 and costs.

W. J. Irwin, R.R. 1, Lakefield, appeared in person, accompanied by T. J. Carley, K.C., to plead not guilty to a charge of careless driving, laid by Provincial Constable Silvester. The latter was not ready to go on today and there was an adjournment until December 6.

Stan. Blewett on a written plea of guilty to a charge of driving with inadequate brakes, was fined $10 and 75 cents costs.

Breaches of the city traffic bylaw brought fines of $2 and 75 cents costs to Clifford Emberson, Ruth Rutledge, William Woods, Lindsay; Cyril Lee, Joe Benoit, Lakefield; G. J. Elmslie, Lakefield; Norman Sanderson, Clarence Flaxman, Herb. Taylor and John Mervin.

Chief Is Given Month's Leave

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall has been granted a month's leave of absence from his duties because of illness.

In the interim, Inspector James F. Reid has been appointed acting chief constable and will have full command while Chief Newhall is off duty.

The Board of Police Commissioners decided upon this course at a special meeting Tuesday to consider the situation created by the receipt of a letter from Dr. J. M. O'Brien, Chief Constable Newhall's physician, stating that the Chief was ill and would be unable to attend to his duties for some time.

Judge S. L. Smoke presided at the meeting and the resolution giving the chief leave of absence and appointing Inspector Reid to carry on was moved by Magistrate E. A. Gee and seconded by Mayor James Hamilton.

CONTROVERSY OVER CANADIAN GRID RULE CHANGES CONTINUES

3 Coach Wizards Agree Rule Changes Needed

MONTREAL, Nov. 29—(CP) — College football coaches have tossed a forward pass to the rules committee and are waiting now to see if it will be completed.

Judging from the opinions of three of the East's leading coaches, football as played in the Intercollegiate Union is a good game but the rules can stand improvement.

Doug Kerr, McGill University mentor, who three months ago said the Eastern rules "are just a bit of all right," was willing to admit today that there should be some changes and joined Bill Storen of University of Western Ontario and Warren Stevens of University of Toronto in offering suggestions to the rules committee.

The coaches all agreed there should be a change in the ruling that makes illegal any interference three yards beyond the line of scrimmage.

Storen, whose Mustangs won the College title without a loss or tie, suggested teams be allowed running interference up to the second five-yard stripe from the point where the ball is scrimmaged— a miximum of 10 yards.

Limit It To The Linesmen.

Kerr concurred in this, with the reservation that the interference be limited to men on the line. There is to much chance for injury if backfielders are allowed to block up to a distance of 10 yards, he held.

Stevens, who figured minor rule changes could make the game "perfect," agreed the three-yard zone might be extended but thought out-and-out 10-yard interference would give too much of a lift to the ball carrier who already has a running start.

On a couple of points the coaches were in complete agreement. Forward passing should be permitted from any point behind the scrimmage line and the point for deadline kicks should be abolished.

The coaches agreed too that college teams should be allowed to carry more than eight substitutes.

A Sarnia Special

SARNIA, Nov. 29.—Imperial Athletic Association and the Canadian National Railways officials here yesterday did not know whether there would be a special train operating for Sarnia football fans to the Eastern Canada final in Toronto next Saturday.

Railway traffic men are reported to be contacting Sarnia in the matter and if the reply is favorable it is possible that a train will be made up here.

Definite announcement one way or the other is expected on Wednesday at the latest.

Yorkton Trucks Ice From Lake For Game

YORKTON, Sask., Nov. 29 — (CP). — Ice from a nearby lake is being moved into Yorkton Arena for the opening game here next Monday of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League.

Four trucks will be used for the ice moving and the new rink is expected to be made in a day. Warm weather has prevented freezing of a satisfactory ice surface inside the rink.

H. J. Gordon, who has guaranteed to supply a sheet of ice for the opening game, has taken exact measurements of the Arena surface and marked it off identically on Hopkins Lake, a mile away. He intends to saw the ice into squares and haul the cubes to the Arena, fitting each in its allotted place like a jig-saw puzzle.

Summerhill Called Back To Canadiens

MONTREAL, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Lacking two right wingmen, Coach Pete Lepine recalled young Bill Summerhill from New Haven Eagles yesterday to help bolster the forces of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Summerhill, a native of Toronto who made his first appearance in the N.H.L. at the tail-end of the playoffs three seasons back, will be used to help fill the vacancies caused by injuries to Earl Robinson and Rod Lorrain. He will join Canadiens in New York Thursday.

Robinson, struck by a puck during practice Monday, was found today to have suffered a triple fracture of the jaw. He was operated on and was expected to be out of action for two or three weeks.

Connie Brown Leads As Int.-Am. Scorer

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Connie Brown of Indianapolis won top individual scoring honors in the International-American Hockey League today after a week's scoring spree netted him eight points, bringing his season's total to 17.

Two Indianapolis teammates, Joe Fischer and Byron McDonald, were tied for second at 15 points with Max Kaminsky of Springfield, the league's weekly statistical summary disclosed.

Pete Bessone of Pittsburg, with seven minor penalties, two majors and one misconduct, remained at the head of the league's "bad man" division.

St. Paul Player Leading Hitter

CHICAGO, Nov. 29— Gilbert English, former major leaguer, who covered third base for St. Paul last season, was awarded the American Baseball Association batting championship for 1939.

English hit .343 through 139 games for the Saints, going to the plate 501 times during which he made 172 safeties, including 35 two-base hits, seven triples and 19 home runs.

Albert Wright, Minneapolis Millers' outfielder, wound up in second place with an average of .337 and won the honor of making the most hits, 196.

Storey Signed Up

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—Buster (Red) Storey, star half-back of the Toronto Argonauts football team and defense player in the Toronto Mercantile Hockey League, will join the London Mohawks of the Michigan-Ontario Hockey League, not later than Friday it was announced by officials of the local club. The Mohawks hoped to have Storey in the lineup against the Windsor sextet here yesterday but it was impossible for him to report in time for the contest.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

A short time ago, a dispatch out of Toronto appeared in a U.S. publication stating that members of the Montreal Royals, in the Big Four grid setup, are kicking because they didn't get the dough they were promised to play football for this club. Grid authorities may be called upon to clean up this mess of untidy linen, and also decide whether or not Joe Cicero of the Royals played pro football in the States. It is possible, of course, that Big Four officials will prove a bit hard of hearing—downright "deef" in fact—and no more will be heard of the matter. After all, it is not the first scandal that has rattled around in this Union, and not the first in recent years, either. We rather imagine the Big Four gees can look after themselves in these days of war and wages for amaturs and pros, but it might not hurt for the Royals Club to tidy up a bit and shine up their name-plate.

* * * * * * *

Without having as much proof as the hero in the first chapter of a mystery yarn, nevertheless we can well believe there must have been some odd goings-on down Mo'real way the past few months. Elementary, muh deah Watson, draw up a chair, light a stogie and give a listen. Royals had trouble getting a team together in the first place and a lot of good players left 'em early and went over to Westmounts of that city in the Senior O.R.F.U. Next thing we know, this guy Cicero blows in from somewhere to play for Royals. Then Westman quit the club cold in midseason, saying club ossifers hadn't lived up to an agreement. Bill Irwin of the same team told us weeks ago in Toronto that there was dissension on the squad. Finally, Coach Ted Reeve announced he was through coaching.

* * * * * * *

Pass The Miscroscope

It hardly takes a detective with side-wheelin' whiskers to deduct that all was not rosy recently in the Royals' camp. For that matter, there was some internal dissension—and nothing that a stiff dose of molasses and pine tar would cure, either—in the Westmount quarters. But Westmounts were well up in the race and pasted on a patch here and there to keep the gang together till Sarnia slipped them a Mickey Finn and a big hunk of elimination. Talk is general down Montreal way (where they don't say much about the clubs' troubles) that there'll be only one senior team in the Quebec metropolis next year, aside from McGill. We gather they hope to iron out some wrinkles and amalgamate the squads into one Big Four or Big Six team. And even then, we'll bet a buck when we get one, the players won't click like castanets. Must be the Montreal air.

* * * * * * *

While on the subject—there's a mean streak in the writer which makes him lick his lips when a scandal comes up! — we might say we haven't the slightest objection to a club paying a player, even a so-called amachoor. We don't blame the club for doing so, if necessary, nor can one blame a player for cashing in on his athletic ability. But it certainly is extremely bad taste to promise a gridder a few greenbacks and then give him a cold stare when payday rolls around. It is also bad business when an athlete gets a club on the spot—like a crucial contest coming up—and tries to hold the club up for blackmail. In either case, the glaring light of publicity should be tossed on the scene pronto—and then let nature take its course.

* * * * * * *

We're Innocent—Bosh!

Nor have local sports been lily white always. Possibly not in a year or two have athletes been induced here for anything more than a job, or maybe aided on their board bill till work shows up. But we can recall good athletes promised everything but a block of real estate on uptown George St. to sign on the dotted line. Most athletes nowadays get liberal expenses, a job and sometimes a split if the club makes money during the season. When ya start paying a star or two on the team hard cash or folding money, then you are gonna get a lot of similar requests from lesser lights on the team. And then trouble starts. Just as in Montreal now.

Girls' Cage Loop schedule has been re-arranged a trifle for the next week or so. Seems a Quaker dance Dec. 8th makes it impossible for the two Quaker teams to play that p.m. and the league executive is co-operating. Thus, games originally billed for Dec. 1st and Dec. 8th will be inter-changed and run off as follows: Dec. 1st—this Friday at the Y.W., starting at 7.45—Aces play "Y" Gym, Orfuns meet Westclox, and St. John's tackle the Debs. On Dec. 7th at seven p.m., Quaker Aces meet the Quaker Debs; and on Dec. 8th, Orfuns play "Y" Gym and St. John's clash with Westclox. Don't know what time these Dec. 8th tilts are. The pilots and players might run a pair of shears around this item for future reference, in case dates with the b.f. bump into scheduled cage contests.

Come Right In, Oshawa

Petes had a good puck practice in Oshawa last night and will trek down the highway for another on Friday. Boys are showing better condition all the time and fans will be surprised at the speed shown by the Buckland buccaneers when the first O.H.A. or exhibition tussle rolls around. Local officials were talking with the Oshawa gents down there last e'en and learned that the Motor City magnates are now seriously considering placing a senior "B" squad in with the Petes, Belleville and Fliers. A complete reversal of Oshawa opinion in a week. As today is the last date for entering the O.H.A., they even sent in an entry fee—so it's unlikely Oshawa will pass up the senior "B" setup now. Which was a tasty morsel to chew upon this morn, eh, youse hockey fans?

Frank Meyette, now working for the Bata Shoe Co. at Frankford—former local puckist—writes us an interesting letter. He likes the Czech people in that company and says some of 'em are interested in the ski club and ski jump in this district. Local Ski Club secretary is requested to write Mr. Backa, Bata Co. Clubhouse, Frankford, and kindly give 'em info on possible invitation meets up here, etc. The Bata bunch also hope to enter a hockey team this winter, perhaps in the Trent Valley League, and have a Coach Brybou, formerly of Aurora and Kingston, and Meyette will try out with the team. Mr. Bata—one of the Czech owners of this international shoe chain—is said to be a good skater and fair hockey player himself. The company is building up fast outside of Frankford, being a regular small town in itself. War conditions chased the firm out of Europe.

Wartime Soccer Has New Thrill In Old Britain

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Divided into local leagues, shorn of some of its peacetime glamor and dotted with anomalies, wartime football has plenty of "oomph."

Served up in fiery, appetizing chunks, it has been hailed on the sport pages with flattering adjectives and from the stands with lusty yells. It seems that the cold, calculating and cautious game which often marked prewar league football has been discarded for wide open play of local rivalry.

Sports writers, seeking an explanation for the change, say it is "psychological." They declare there is not great stake now, no scouts watching from the sidelines, and altogether less reason for caution and more opportunity of taking chances.

Besides, they point out, a player has little to lose now. The new maximum wage, of 30 shillings ($6.60) a match means the footballer is playing for love of the game rather than remuneration. At the same time there is ever present the knowledge he may suddenly be called up for military service. In the words of one writer: "They seemed to play as though they had nothing to lose and it was their last fling."

How It Works

At the outbreak of war league play was cancelled but later a scheme, meeting with the approval of Air Raid Precautions authorities and incidentally, club finance, was devised. This divided the country into eight regions with the object of confining teams to 50-mile trips as a means of economy and also to beat wartime transportation problems.

And economy was badly needed for ARP ruled attendance mustn't exceed 9,000. This meant that clubs usually playing before crowds ranging between 70,000 to 15,000 were forced to cut players' salaries from the usual maximum of £8 $35.60) a week to 30 shillings ($6.60) a match.

The 30-shilling rate was only to include a dozen players. But one club—Plymouth—decided to pool salaries and share it out evenly among the full roster. This meant a mere 13 shillings ($2.60) a player.

A notable football evacuee was Bryn Jones. This star, reputed to have cost the glamorous Arsenal aggregation £14,000 ($62,300) is now trying to make both ends meet on his 30 shillings from his native Cardiff City club.

Aldershot Profits

While a good many minor league clubs have gained by the wage cut there is one club—Aldershot—which is a wartime football profiteer of a different ilk. This military centre has more stars than it knows what to do with as a result of the calling up of players for military service. These include four "internationals"—Willie Cook and Jim Britton of Everton and Wilf Copping and Art Stephenson of Leeds.

The openers found restricted seating areas filled and in the 41 English regional games the attendance totalled 200,000 and the "kitty" £12,000 ($53,400). Further statistics reflected the brighter play with a total of 172 goals being scored compared to 142 for an average prewar 44-game program.

The football writer on the Daily Herald had this to say: "Regional Football made the grade on its first public appearance. There were goals galore, a pile of penalties and even mistakes by referees to give the Soccer an 18-carat appearance.

Bowling At Duffus'

Again the young people of the A.Y.P.A. League did some mighty nice pin-spilling Saturday evening at Duffus' Recreation Academy. Here are a few of the highlights: Ladies' high three: Miss Mary Kingsbury 602; ladies' single: Miss Grace Fallis 272; men's high three: Ken Gibson 801; men's single: Jim Watson 311. Other good scores: Mrs. Adkinson 572; I. Pearson 666; Mrs. Gibson 511; R. Pearson 617; Fred Willison 690; K. Gibson 645; Miss G. Hutchinson 420; Floyd Curtis 640; Ralph Mason 671; D. Weir 600; Nels Hewitt 600; Bob Dyer 600.

While scanning the score sheets today, the following scores were noted which we believe rate notice: Mrs. John Stuart, Jr. bowled five games for an average of 217 per game.

C.G.E. Draftsmen's League: B. Packenham 608; F. Hickey 607; K. McKay 649; C. Wiklund 615; W. Wright 601.

Westclox Shop League: Charles Evans 634; Hunt 610; Tully 685; J. Duffus 703; A. Leary 646; Law 627; Rightmeyer 624; W. Sharpe 737; J. Weir 748; E. Murary 632; T. Hotston 645; S. Vint 738; M. Starr 719.

Western Clock Ladies' League only bowl two games instead of three by other leagues, hence the totals for each bowler will be smaller. However, these young ladies compare favorably with any of the other ladies' leagues.

Ten years ago yesterday W. G. Shiner of the C.G.E. rolled a perfect score of 450 to take down the standing offer of the Duffus' Recreation Academy of $100 for a perfect game rolled in competition. Tom Curvin repeated the feat a few years later. Bud Weese has been knocking at the door repeatedly, and twice last year in the City League packed in eleven strikes in a row.

From three to five leagues roll every night and on Thursday night the cream of the bowlers perform in the major City League at 8:30. Quite a number of spectators turn out to see the boys in action.

Bombers Leave Next Wednesday

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29.—(CP). — Manager Joe Ryan of Winnipeg Blue Bombers said today the Western football champions will leave for Eastern Canada and the Grey Cup final a week from today after completing training in Winnipeg regardless of weather conditions.

Bombers had received invitations from the University of Western Ontario at London, the Hamilton Rugby club and Appleby College at Oakville, Ont., to use their facilities for training prior to the National final.

Winnipeg officials expressed appreciation of these offers but withheld definite replies pending a possible change in the weather which would make training here impractical. The weather has remained unusually mild for November in Winnipeg, however, and Ryan revealed the club has decided to finish practice here.

Bombers will arrive in either Ottawa or Toronto, which ever city is to stage the final December 9, the day before the game.

BRUINS DRUB TORONTO LEAFS—RED WINGS BOW TO RANGERS

Bruins Go To Town With Leafs Champs Trouncing Leaders 6-2 Minus Famed Shore In The Bargain

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

All the argument over Eddie Shore's hockey future took a new turn today after a demonstration by Boston Bruins that they can beat the strongest of National League opponents without the great defenceman.

Shore stayed in Springfield, tending his arena and hockey team, while the world champion Bruins sped to a 6-2 victoy over the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs before 12,000 customers at Boston last night. The Bears used only 14 players, one fewer than the rules allow, to administer the Leafs' second defeat of the season and pile up their greatest total of goals thus far.

If Shore supporters thought Eddie's name would be cried aloud by despairing fans, they were mistaken. The old cry of "We want Shore," that has rung through Boston garden when he failed to appear before, was missing.

Maybe the Boston public has grown sympathetic to Manager Art Ross' pleas that Eddie come back voluntarily and help the Bruins while Jack Crawford is out through injuries. Maybe the people realize that no matter how they shout Eddie is going to do his best to have his way. And the Alberta grain farmer wants to stick in Springfield where his money is planted.

Eddie Not Needed

Had the fans demonstrated on Shore's behalf, they soon would have been silenced by the way the Shoreless Bruins drove back their opponents of last season's Stanley Cup finals.

With Eddie in there—and so far he is under agreement to play in Boston's home games after Dec. 15—the Bruins may fly still higher. At any event, Ross knows that when he talks to his biggest problem again he has a background of performance by the Shoreless team to work on.

Herbie Cain, acquired from Montreal Canadiens this fall, scored twice for the Bruins in the first two periods against a goal by Murph Chamberlain of the Leafs. After that it was a rout until Chamberlain rallied the visitors by scoring the night's last goal with five minutes to play.

Roy Conacher, Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Gordie Pettinger scored in succession in the third period, blasting sky-high Turk Broda's great goal-tending record. Broda, with 13 against him, is tied now in the goals-against column with Dave Kerr of New York Rangers.

Kerr came close to a shutout as Rangers scored a 4-1 success over Detroit Red Wings at New York in the night's other contest. With only three seconds to play in the second period, chubby Don Deacon whipped past him the counter that prevented a perfect night.

Nell Colville gave the Rangers a lead after five minutes and they stayed ahead. Bryan Hextall scored in the second and Lynn Patrick and Shibicky nicked goals in the third.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Robust Health For Young People

What a common sight it is to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidence of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anæmic nature and require a preparation containing iron to help improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system, strengthening the nerves, and adding to your physical attraction.

Ex-Montreal Welter Auger Hurt In R.A.F.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29. — (CP) — Henri Auger, 25, former Montreal welterweight boxer and now a pilot-officer with the Royal Air Force in England, has been injured seriously, according to a cable received here by his brother. No details of the accident were given.

Auger joined the Royal Canadian Air Force in June, 1938, and left early this year for England. Prominent in boxing circles here, he turned professional in 1934 and fought 21 bouts, winning 12 by knockouts and three by decision.

Alex Shibicky, Rangers, scored a goal and assisted in two others as the New Yorkers defeated Detroit Red Wings 4-1.

Ross Back Tracks 30 Years For "All-Stars"

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)— Backtracking over his two score and more years as player, referee and manager the Boston Bruins' Art Ross today lined up his all-time, all star hockey team which, he insisted, must include six centres, two wingers, two defencemen and a goalie.

"This team could play any kind of hockey, with six or seven men on a side and under any rules that have been made in the game's history," Ross said.

"My greatest wingers of all time are Tommy Phillips, who played about 30 years ago with Kenora Thistles, and Bill Cook, who ended his competitive career with the New York Rangers not so long ago.

"I believe that Eddie Shore of the Bruins, and Hod Stuart, who performed for Montreal Wanderers around 1906, are the standout defencemen the game has produced and ou rown Frankie Brimsek the greatest goalie of them all.

"That quintet, in my opinion, would be invincible with any of the following centres, Cyclone Taylor, Frank Nighbor, Syl Apps, the late Howie Morenz, Russell Bowie, an amateur who played for the Montreal Victorias at the start of the century, and the Bruins' Milt Schmidt."

"I have not attempted to rank the centres in order," he explained. "Every one of them would be able to step out with Phillips and Cook and be the greatest scoring line in hockey's history."

Scoring Records Show Why Goodyears Click

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)—A major reason why Toronto Goodyears remain undefeated atop the senior "A" standing of the Ontario Hockey Association is shown in League scoring records released today. First three places are occupied by potent Toronto forwards.

Little Johnny O'Flaherty, who picked up seven scoring points in a game against Niagara Falls in Toronto last week, leads with 14 points on five goals and nine assists. One point behind is Eddie King and still another point behind is Johnny Englis. The fourth rung is occupied by Johnny Conick of the hard-hitting Hamilton Dominions with 11 points.

Leading goal-getter is King with 11, three more than Conick who holds second place in that division. Englis' 12 points are made up of four goals and eight assists.

Bill Mocha of St. Catharines scored three goals as his team defeated the tail-end Galt Moose club 5-1 in Galt last night to jump into a fifth-place tie with his teammate Pete Backer in the scoring race. Backer failed to improve his scoring average against Galt.

12 Points In 6 Wins

The team standing shows Goodyears with 12 points from six wins and St. Catharines, who have lost but one game this season, in second place with 10. Port Colborne Sailors are third with six points in five games played, while Hamilton, who also have played but five games, are fourth with two less. Niagara Falls have two points and Galt none.

Two Niagara Falls' defencemen head the penalty lists. Jack Astle continues to lead the penitents' parade with 28 minutes to his discredit, including a match misconduct penalty. Joe (the Horse) Desson has been thumbed to the sidelines for a total of 20 minutes, including a misconduct.

Another rearguard, Mac McGrattan of Galt, holds third place in the "badman" league with a total of 12 minutes with the timers.

Niagara Falls travel to Hamilton tonight in an effort to beat the Big Mountain city team and go into a tie for fourth place with Dominions.

Imperials' Coach Passed Up Offers

SARNIA, Nov. 29. — Art Massucci, coach of Sarnia Imperials since 1934, is loyal to the town that gave him his start in Canadian football.

Since Art commenced turning out championship teams in Sarnia he has been the target of clubs desiring coaching of the better sort.

Clubs reported to have been interested in the Sarnia mentor at one time or another include McGill, Queen's, and Western of the Intercollegiate. Hamilton Tigers and Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four are also reported to have cast longing eyes at the University of Detroit grad.

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Warren Stevens, University of Toronto's senior football coach, said to-day that various coaches, including himself, had been advocating increased interference in the playing code of the Canadian Rugby Football Union for years, but didn't think any suggestions emanating from coaches would influence the rule makers.

He said, however, that there was not much point in discussing suggested changes in the rules inasmuch as the rule makers evidently had decided that the present rules were in the best interests of the game.

At London, Ont., Coach Bill Storen of University of Western Ontario's champion Mustangs suggested several rule changes, including one which would allow a greater area of interference. The present intereference limit is three yards and Storen suggested a maximum of 10 yards. He also suggested elimination of the scoring point allowed for a kick to the deadline.

Stevens also said that major rule changes, to be proved effective or otherwise, would have to be tried out under actual playing conditions.

The Toronto coach said he was "100 per cent." in favor of Storen's suggestion that intercollegiate teams be allowed to dress and use 24 men in each game instead of the 20 allowed under the present College Union code. Other Eastern Canada Senior Leagues allow 24.

"I suggested this change five years ago, but it was turned down." Stevens said.

Imps To Be Eying Tiny Herman And His Big Toe

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 29. — (CP) — A blocking lineman who never carries the ball is usually the fogotten man of any gridiron but not Tiny Herman, the booting Bluenose of Ottawa Rough Riders. He is too much of a sure thing with that big toe of his.

So it may be taken as fact that Sarnia Imperials, champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, will be in no forgetting mood as far as toe-timing Tiny is concerned when they meet the crimson Rough Rider tide Saturday in the Eastern football final at Toronto.

By and large this 270-pound, non-plunging inside wing is probably the most consistent placement kicker in the country. Anywhere inside the 35-yard line old Tiny is a threat.

At 33 Tiny terms himself "the old man of the Big Four." But he didn't look so old as the Riders marched to the Interprovincial Union crown. He looked merely his portly self and not like a man who three seasons ago could scarcely boot a ball.

14 In His First Year

Abe Ellowitz' departure left Riders without a placement kicker in 1936 and it was then the mammoth Maritimer from Halifax and Sydney started rolling. In his first year he scored 14 points to rank fifth in the Big Four.

Next season he led with 23 points made up of five field goals, four singles and four converts, while 1938 saw him fifth with 20 points composed of 14 converts and two field goals. This season Tiny has 17 points—11 converts and two field goals.

That placed Tiny fourth but it was not because his shooting eye was off or his big toe wobbly that he "slipped" to 17 points. Rather the Riders now pack more power along the ground. Touchdowns come easier and field goals are not so necessary.

"Why in '36 and '37 about we had was a kick and a prayer," said Herman today. "This year one doesn't get as much chance for three-point field goals when the line keeps driving for touchdowns."

Herman, a fingerprint expert with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has been playing for Riders since 1933 when he was transferred to Ottawa from the Sydney detachment.

2 New Brunswick Recounts Loom

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Nov. 29. — (CP).—Talks of recounts in two constituencies was heard to-day while Liberals found themselves with one more seat in the New Brunswick Legislature than they had expected from unofficial returns in the provincial election Nov. 20.

Official figures announced yesterday, declaration day, meant election for Samuel Mooers, Liberal, previously thought defeated in Restigouche. Conversely, Henry Diotte, Conservative, whose election had been conceded, lost out.

Elected with Mooers was D. A. Stewart, Conservative, a former Minister of Public Works. Final figures gave Stewart 5,362 votes, Mooers, 5,356, Philbert Leblanc, Liberal, 5,340 and Diotte 5,339.

The change made the party standing: Liberals 23, Conservatives 20. In the previous provincial election Liberals won 43 seats and Conservatives five.

Upset In Restigouche.

Mooers and Stewart declared a recount was "assured" in Restigouche. It was the first time for that constituency not to return a representative of the French-speaking population.

A recount also was promised in Sunbury, by E. C. Atkinson, defeated Conservative candidate. "After the results of the recount are known, it will be considered whether action should be taken under the Controverted Elections Act to set the election aside because of such gross irregularities," he said.

Major W. C. Lawson and Dr. F. A. McGrand, Liberals, were declared elected in Sunbury with 2,014 and 1,973 votes respectively. Atkinson polled 1,932 and A. D. Taylor, Conservative, 1,929.

Restigouche was the only county to report an upset. In Albert, where the voting was exceptionally close, one Liberal and one Conservative also were returned. The figures: Russell Colpitts, Liberal, 2,066; Lewis Smith, former Conservative Minister of Agriculture, 2,043; H. O. Downey, Liberal, 2,022 Hanford Keirstead, Conservative, 2,008.

Armouries Barred Badminton Club

MILLBROOK, Nov. 29—(ENS). — The Millbrook Garrison Badminton Club, which has, since organization, had the use of the Armouries for play, recently received word from military headquarters that this privilege can no longer be granted since Canada is now at war.

Hence the final evening's play was held on Monday from 7 p.m. onward, with a large number of members in attendance, and a marked spirit of enthusiasm featuring the game. After eleven o'clock adjournment was made to the club lounge upstairs, where a social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. J. E. Allen and Mrs. J. W. Wright as hostesses.

Among those assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. Donald Tinney, Misses Mary Burnham, Vanita Ingram, Beatrice McDowell, Dr. L. J. Stuart, Ivan L. H. Gray, Ernest Nutt, H. A. Kerr and J. Whittington.

Following the social hour, the president, Howard Lancashire, took the chair and a short business session was held, the chief item for discussion being the securing of some other building, with adequate facilities and space for continuing the Badminton Club throughout the current season. Report will be made later if suitable premises can be secured, and failing this, it appears likely that the club will have to disband, or at least suspend play, until further notice.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAVOR TOPLESS SUITS

MORE AND more evidence piles up on the value of bidding suits without strong tops and having your principal honors on the side If you find your partner fitting the suit, with a high honor in his hand, you are likely to be doubled by an opponent who mistakenly believes his own honors have a positional advantage over yours. When he does this, he may be presenting you with some extra points.

Here is a duplicate deal on which the best scores came to the South players, who preferred to bid their spades before their hearts. In all cases West bid 1-Diamond and North 2-Clubs. Where South now bid 2-Spades, North went to three and South to 4-Spades, which West doubled because he thought his honors were well placed. Where South bid 2-Hearts over North's 2-Clubs, North then bid 2-Spades and South 4-Spades. The latter sequence of bidding made it appear as if North had the spade honors and therefore there was no double by West.

As it turns out, there is no earthly way for West to take more than one trick each in spades, hearts and diamonds, so that the people who got doubled profited thereby.

Operation To Let Chinese Women Walk

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29 — (AP). — A native Chinese woman, her feet bound in youth by ancient custom, recently underwent a rare operation here to restore them to normal.

Another Chinese woman, her feet also bound, at the same time began a series of treatments by a foot specialist.

The operation was one of the few to correct results of footbinding—perhaps the first—ever performed in this country. There have been many in China.

Dr. Frank Depke, podiatrist, who assisted a surgeon in the operation and then took over the treatment, said the women would be able to walk naturally within a few months.

The binding had bent the toes—other than the great toes, about which nothing was done—underneath the feet.

It was necessary to amputate three toes of Miss Chow. The middle joints of the others were removed and the first joints forced back against the third, by means of contracting the tendons. This process tends to pull the toes up into normal position.

In Miss Kiang's case, two toes were amputated.

OBITUARY

WALTER A. JAKEMAN.

BETHANY, Nov. 29—(Special). — The death occurred on Monday, November 20th, of Walter A. Jakeman in his 79th year. His sudden death was a great shock to the entire township of Manvers.

Mr. Jakeman was born in England, coming to Canada in his early twenties, and settled near Pontypool as a farmer, later becoming clerk and Justice of the Peace for Manvers township. He served faithfully in that capacity for over twenty-five years.

Mr. Jakeman was a Christian and a staunch supporter of the church he loved, and held many offices in the United Church. For years he was superintendent of the Bethany Sunday School and a Bible class teacher, secretary-treasurer of the church and honorary president of the O.R.E.C. He was also an elder and a steward. Many of the young people of the community prize the valuable books and Bibles that he presented for faithful attendance at Sunday school.

The funeral service was held at the church on Wednesday, which was attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives from far and near. The service was in charge of his pastor, Rev. C. H. Ferguson, assisted by Rev. J. E. Bechel and Rev. W. H. V. Walker, both of Stirling.

After a very impressive service, the funeral cortege proceeded to the Pontypool Cemetery, where interment took place. His wife predeceased him by five months.

Left to mourn are his two sons, Henry and Hector, of Parry Sound, and his grandchildren; a sister in Maryland, U.S.A.; a sister in England, and two sisters in Western Canada; also a host of friends.

Daladier Gives Accounting Of War Thursday

PARIS, Nov. 29 — (AP). — With scant activity on the war front today, the French are turning to long-term preparations on the home front.

Parliament has been called to meet Thursday in its first session of the war to approve the Daladier regime's conduct of the war, extend its power to rule by decree and vote on a civil budget to carry the war into 1940.

This morning's communique of the high command said merely:—

There were general expressions of confidence in Government quarters that the Daladier cabinet would win a strong vote of confidence and push through next year's budget before January 1. The cabinet will meet in a pre-parliamentary conference tomorrow evening with President Albert LeBrun.

Finances are expected to provide the major battle of the session, finance minister Paul Reynaud having drawn up an ordinary budget for 1940 calling for expenditure of 349,000,000,000 francs ($7,678,000,000) at current exchange rate). The total 1939 budget was only 162,364,000,000 francs ($3,672,008,000).

Premier Daladier, also Minister of War, National Defence and Foreign Affairs, has been prosecuting the war, armed with decree powers which expire Thursday, the day parliament meets. In connection with his request for an extension of these powers, he will give an account of his conduct of the war.

Stock Show Gets 13,000 Entries

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(AP).—The hoofbeats of heavy horses and the bellowing of many cattle to-day announced that another International Livestock Exposition was at hand.

When the doors of the International amphitheatre are opened at 8 a.m. Saturday for the eight day show, more than 13,000 head of cattle, horses and swine will be groomed for the 40th annual exhibition.

Purebred animals were arriving by truck and train to-day. More will come to-morrow—enough to fill the amphitheatre's 20 acres of floor space and hundreds of pens outside.

The war and two years of bumper crops in the United States, Manager B. H. Heide said, have combined to make this year's show the greatest in the history of the exposition.

The Royal Winter Fair at Toronto and other important provincial shows are not being held in Canada this year because of the war. Consequently, Canadian live stock men are sending a record number of entries—more than 500—to Chicago. Three provinces are represented in the $1,000,000 worth of blooded animals selected for competition.

Lothian Placing Magna Charta In U.S. Library

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(CP).—The Marquess of Lothian prepared today to take the Magna Charta to the library of the United States Congress to deposit the priceless paper there for the duration of the war.

Archibald MacLeish, the librarian, immediately announced the document would have the same 24-hour armed guard as that given the United States constitution and the Declaration of Independence, near which it will be displayed.

Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, arranged informal ceremonies for transfer of the Magna Charta. High government official were invited.

This Magna Charta is one of four—all the same in wording—which were executed at Runnymeade in 1215. The document drawn up by English barons, limited the powers of the king.

Two of the other Magna Chartas are in the British museum and the third is in Salisbury (England) Cathedral. The one which the library of Congress is getting came from Lincoln Cathedral. It was in the British Pavilion at the New York World's Fair during the summer.

Ont. King's Counsel List To Stand

TORONTO, Nov. 29. — Attorney-General Conant announced yesterday that the annual King's Counsel list—usually proclaimed in the form of Christmas or New Year's honors—would be dispensed with this year.

"I think," said Mr. Conant, "that we can get along very well without creating more King's Counsel this year. A large proportion of our lawyers are already K.C.'s, and to increase the number would only detract from the importance of the position. We have much more serious things to deal with in these war times without creating honors, merited or otherwise. In England the position of K.C. is one of great responsibility, prestige and importance. I hope we may yet attain a similar condition in Ontario."

At the present time there are 716 King's Counsel out of a total 2,663 lawyers in the Province.

Since and including 1933 the appointments have been as follows: 1933, 166; 1934, 84; 1935, 63; 1936, 73; 1937, 119, and 1938, 49.

Shippers See '40 Banner Season

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP). —Great Lakes shipping circles are predicting that the 1940 season will be a banner year, chiefly due to the increase noted during the closing season of this year because of the war.

The ore shipments this year reflect an increase of more than 100 per cent. There are 154 furnaces in commission at present that use Lake Superior ore, as against only 88 at the corresponding period last year. Plants have enough business to carry them well into the New Year.

Grain shippers plan to charter vessels to hold storage cargoes at Upper Lake ports as well as at Lake Erie ports. A fleet of 15 boats will hold grain at Fort William and Port Arthur for spring delivery. This number may be increased.

Two all-time highs for the amount of bituminous coal dumped into lake vessels were marked up in the seven days ended November 20. A total of 1,716,577 tons was poured into vessels at all Lake Erie docks and 532,419 tons were handled at Toledo.

Year In University Is Advised Before Going To Normal School

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29. — (ENS).—Some of the changes that have taken place in the schools and the teaching profession during the past twenty years were discussed before Rotarians by A. A. Martin, public school inspector.

One of the first things touched on by the speaker were the minimum qualifications for teachers. A few years ago a pupil just out of High school used to teach on a permit which he was granted by the Department of Education on recommendation of the Inspector. These were for period of from three to six months and were renewable.

The third class certificate was another popular form of license to teach for a period of three years, after which the teacher would go back to High school to complete his final year of study. Recently the trend has been to issue only first and second class certificates which are acquired at Normal school and four years ago qualifications were again stepped up when the Department decided no further second class certificates would be issued. "This doesn't necessarily mean that they are more successful," said Mr. Martin.

A few years ago embyro teachers received no training in rural schools and as a result were absolutely lost when it came to planning and organizing their work in a school of this type having received their training in graded city schools.

Must Take Five Courses.

Under present standards teachers are granted what is called an interim certificate on leaving Normal school. This permits them to teach for three years, during which they have to take five courses in an Ontario University. Emphasizing the amount of additional work this involves Mr. Martin said it was impossible for a teacher to get all five of these courses in one year, in fact "to get them in three years is a very difficult task." He recommended that all teachers should go to University for one year after leaving High school and then go on to Normal school from which they would graduate with a permanent certificate before they start to teach.

Touching on the new course of study particularly from the point of pupil interest the speaker told of a personal observation he had made of pupils in an ungraded school giving careful attention to a history lesson being taught in a lower grade. "Formerly, unless you were a book worm you paid no attention to the history being taught in a lower grade. The average pupil was thankful he had passed the necessary examination and could forget it."

Enlarge School Sections.

Another suggestion made by Mr. Martin was that the school sections should be enlarged. "The school section as it now exists is out of date. It is too small to do the things we woud like to do. He told of one instance in Northumberland near Roseneath where three rural school sections had been united this year. The larger unit he felt would be of considerable benefit to all concerned.

"The school attendance officer is sometimes unable to tell whether a child is sick or only foxing," declared the speaker, who expressed the wish that all boards could see their way clear to engage a school nurse. Often the attendance officer meets parents who tend to encourage delinquency on the part of their children by letting them stay home on the excuse that they are ill. A nurse is in a position to enter the home and is soon able to diagnose whether the trouble is real or imaginary. With grants from the Department based on attendance and the number of teachers in a school he felt that the Campbellford Board could save about one-third the cost of engaging the nurse by bringing up the attendance average.

Question: Do some people eat extra vitamins and not feel improvement?

Answer: Yes. Slow digestion may prevent their assimilating the vitamins completely.

Get your extra vitamins this EFFECTIVE WAY that offers more complete results than just vitamins alone

EVEN if you think your vitamin supply is good—slow digestion may be keeping you, like so many others, from getting full benefit from the vitamins you eat.

That is why eating extra vitamins in Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast can offer you more complete results than vitamins alone.

Richer in 4 Vitamins

This improved High-Vitamin Yeast now gives you richer amounts of 4 necessary vitamins—A, B_1, D and G—needed by everyone to help keep up good resistance to colds, for steady nerves, sound bones, healthy digestion and to help you feel splendidly well and full of pep.

Aided by Yeast's "Booster Action"

In addition, you get the remarkable "booster action" of fresh yeast. By helping to stimulate slow digestion, the yeast helps you make fuller use of the vitamins you eat. It "boosts" their assimilation.

Why not start now to get these extra vitamins in this effective way? Eat 2 cakes of Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast regularly every day—one ½ hour before breakfast, one ½ hour before supper—plain or in a little water or milk.

Two cakes of Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast supply:

Daladier Wins Decree Rule For War

Army Group Yields To Premier After Five Hours

PARIS, Nov. 30—(AP).—Premier Daladier to-day won acceptance by the Army committee of the Chamber of Deputies for his demand for powers to rule France by decree for the duration of the war.

In the committee's third vote of the day the Premier won by 17 votes to 13. At first, the committee had declined to approve the measure as it was presented to Parliament. Only after six hours of difficult negotiation, during most of which the Chamber was in recess, did Daladier win a complete victory.

The committee first voted down the original draft, 13 to 9. They drew up an altered version, and approved this 14 to 9. Daladier, however, refused to approve any modification of his original plan and the Army committee gave way when late in the afternoon Daladier conferred with a delegation from the committee.

As soon as the delegation returned to the committee and reported

Australia Calls Youths Of 21 For June, 1940

CANBERRA, Nov. 30—(CP-Reuters)—Brigadier G. A. Street, Australian army minister, today announced that unmarried men who have reached or will reach the age of 21 in the year ending June, 1940, will be called for compulsory military training. A proclamation to that effect will be issued immediately by the government, he said.

This is the second time Australia has had compulsory service. It was first instituted in 1910 and was in effect at the outbreak of war in 1914, after the peace it was abolished.

Australia, like Canada, now has one division (amounting to about 20,000 officers and men, including auxiliary units) for service overseas.

200 Reported Killed In Single Noon Raid Over Capital; Red Warships Begin Seizing Finn Islands As Troops Cross Border Under Heavy Artillery Fire

All Russia Is Quiet No Mention Made Of Invasion

MOSCOW, Nov. 30 — (CP-Havas). —The Moscow radio station had up to 1.45 p.m. (5.45 a.m., EST) today made no mention of the Soviet invasion of Finland.

The Soviet radio did not mention the announcement by the Finnish telegraphic agency that an attack on Finland had begun.

During its 1.45 p.m. broadcast, the announcer merely read the speech of Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff in which he announced breaking off diplomatic relations with Finland.

Vladmir Potemkin, Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, received without comment the United States' offer to mediate differences between Russia and Finland.

The offer was delivered amid disquieting foreign radio reports that Soviet war planes already had bombed the outskirts of Helsingfors, and the feeling here was that the move would prove futile.

In the absence of the United States Ambassador, Laurence Steinhardt, the mediation offer was conveyed to Potemkin by Walter Thurston, Embassy counsellor.

Finnish officials, preparing to return to Helsingfors after Russia's severing diplomatic relations with their country last night, said they probably would not be able to leave Moscow before tomorrow.

No Need For Haste.

It was learned that the Finns had inquired of Potemkin concerning the preparations for their departure and were advised that there was no need for excessive haste.

"It's a withdrawal— not a flight," Potemkin was quoted as saying.

The foreign radio reports that a Russian invasion of Finland already was under way came only a few hours after Molotoff had stated to the world in a broadcast address that Russia had no intention of infringing Finnish independence.

In a midnight broadcast, Molotoff asserted:

"The Soviet Goverment has no intention to take any territories from Finland and we are ready to meet it more than half way about territorial questions.

"Others state that we are against Finnish independence.

We consider and will continue to consider Finland an independent state."

Foreign observers had seen in Molotoff's assurance new hope for peaceful settlement of differences between the two countries. But this hope was tempered by Molotoff's announcement that the red army and navy had been instructed to hold itself ready for any action.

Bristling references to the "irreconcilable hostility" of the Finnish government with which Molotoff punctuated his speech also contributed to anxiety.

Brands Finns Insolent.

While denouncing the Finnish government as "insolent" and the tool of "Imperialistic powers," Molotoff sai dthat Soviet military preparations were intended solely as a safeguard.

"Our only aim is to guarantee the security of the Soviet Union and in particular Leningrad, with its population of 3,500,000," he said.

One of the grave differences between the two countries has been Finland's refusal to withdraw her

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP Cable). —Five German mine-laying seaplanes were strafed with machine-gun fire from Royal Air Force planes when they raided the Nazi air base on Borkum Island Tuesday.

The full story of the raid was told today by pilots who took part in the attack. They said that two of the minelaying seaplanes were believed to have been seriously damaged and that three machine-gun posts on the air-base's breakwater had been put out of action.

Described by one pilot as "a few glorious moments of low strafing," the raid was carried out by a dozen long-range aircraft skimming so low over the water that one actually flew through a gap in the harbor breakwater. Objectives were sprayed with a withering stream of bullets.

The attack was a complete surprise, and pilots described a mad scramble of men on the island airbase at the mouth of the Ems River to man the guns. The subsequent firing by enemy guns was of low standard, the pilots said.

"The Germans probably never thought they would have to hit anything so low in the air," declared one pilot.

The 500-mile flight was accomplished without a single scratch to the 36 crew men or planes.

Not a Man Nor a Plane Hit.

The raiders had flown through a storm, emerging from the clouds right over their targets— five seaplanes drawn up on slipways. The raiders dived at their objectives in threes, firing their machine guns at less than 100 feet.

Here is the result of the raid:

All the German seaplanes were machine-gunned and two were believed seriously damaged; three of four machine-gun posts on Borhum Mole were put out of action; German coastal patrol boats were riddled with bullets, valuable information on enemy fortifications was collected.

Helsingfors Gunners Battle Gamely Against Air Raiders

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 30—(AP)—(5.30 p.m. - 10.30 a.m. EST).—Russian bombing planes set the southwestern section of Helsingfors afire to-day in a sudden land, sea and air invasion of Finland.

After Soviet bombers roared over the capital in successive raids, the sky over Southwestern Helsingfors was red early to-night with the glare of burning buildings hit during the afternoon's bombardment.

Several bodies were recovered in the streets and the wreckage of buildings in the early evening. The number of dead and injured could not be determined immediately.

Soon bombing planes were dropping explosives on the port of Viipuri (Viborg), about 65 miles from the Soviet frontier, and Red warships had begun seizing Finnish islands in the Gulf of Finland.

Nation in State of War

President Kyoesti Kallio declared the country to be "in a state of war," issuing a decree "for defence and the maintenance of law and order of the Finnish Republic."

It was estimated that 10 Soviet planes were shot down, of which two fell in Helsingfors.

After a preliminary bombing of Helsingfors' Malm airport on the outskirts of the city, the Soviet bombers began attacking the city proper shortly after 1 p.m. (6 a.m. E.S.T.).

The Helsingfors Institute of Technology was wrecked and several apartment houses were blasted apart by bombs and set ablaze.

Southwestern Helsingfors, where most of the bombs fell, was red with fire. An area of 12 blocks was blazing, and windows were shattered over an area of a square mile.

The capital was completely blacked out tonight, but blazing buildings provided a beacon for enemy aircraft.

The population steeled itself for new attacks.

The triple attack came less than a day after Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Finland, less than two days after she had unilaterally denounced the Finnish-Russian non-aggression pact, less than two months after she had first made territorial demands upon her little neighbor.

Japs May Seize U.K. Ships To Even Losses

TOKYO, Nov. 30 — (AP).—Foreign Minister Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura was reported to-day by Domei, Japanese news agency, to have announced Japan's refusal to recognize Great Britain's intended blockade of German exports.

Admiral Nomura, announced the Japanese intention during an hour's conference with the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie, who assured the Foreign Minister that Britain would exercise care to prevent damage to neutrals.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi reported the Government was considering seizure of French and British shipping in the Far Eastern waters equivalent to the losses that Japan might suffer through the British blockade.

An earlier Japanese protest, delivered on November 25, said Japan might be compelled to take "appropriate counter measures" if Britain persisted in her plan.

British House Sorrows For Finland

Chamberlain Scorns Red Claims Protection Needed

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(CP Cable) —Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that the Finnish Government was willing to refer its territorial and strategic disputes with Russia to arbitration before the Soviets disrupted diplomatic relations as a prelude to the invasion of Finland.

The Prime Minister said the British Government "deeply regret this fresh attack on a small independent nation, which must result in fresh suffering and loss of life to innocent people."

William Gallacher, only Communist in the House, was howled down when he attempted to draw the Prime Minister into a discussion of Russia's claims.

As Mr. Chamberlain spoke, the Finnish minister in London, G. A. Gripenberg, issued a statement saying it was "quite obvious that Soviet Russia wanted to dominate Finland" and that the "Russian invasion is the most straightforward case of aggression there has ever been."

Export Campaign Britain's Next Big Task

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(CP).—Great Britain discussed to-day plans for expanding her own world trade as a complement to her decision to cut off the flow of German exports.

Development of this weapon of economic warfare was suggested by Liberal leaders in Parliament, who proposed that the government take adequate measures to increase Britain's financial strength by developing her export trade.

One commentator urged the nation to go after trade at all costs, outbidding and underselling Germany in countries which still would be accessible to her even if Britain's sea blockade were 100 per cent effective.

The blockade, which since the beginning of the war has been applied only to German imports, will be extended to exports on Monday under an order-in-council signed this week by the King.

(Tokyo dispatches said Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomura had advised the British ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie, of his government's determination not to recognize the export blockade. Sir Robert was said to have assured the foreign minister Britain would exercise care to prevent damage to neutrals).

Engine Failure Blamed In RCAF Crash

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP) —A military funeral service will be held at Trenton tomorrow for four of Canada's war birds killed when the Oxford bomber in which they were flying crashed in a Sydney township woods. The accident occurred yesterday five miles from the Royal Canadian Air Force base at Trenton.

Three of the four youths were pilot officers who received their wings in impressive services at the training grounds a week ago. The fourth was an aircraftsman. A board of inquiry will investigate cause of the crash.

The pilot officers were J. G. Lee, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Lee, Highgate, Ont.; G. T. Maher, 24, son of W. R. Maher of North Bay, and L. A. Clements, 22, son of Mrs. F. W. N. Clements of North Devon, N.B.

The other airman was leading Aircraftsman L. S. Stempel, 22, son of Wilfred Stempel, president of the Saskatoon Flying Club.

The twin-engined yellow bomber was returning to the airport from a reconnaissance flight when the motor sputtered, the plane lost altitude, dived and crashed into some trees. Officers in a companion plane flying a few hundred feet behind were the first to notice the machine was in difficulty.

Second Plane Brings Word

The companion plane sped to its base after the crash and its crew informed Commanding Officer C. M. McEwen. Medical aid, a crew of officers and an ambulance were sent to the scene where a number of district residents had gathered.

A group of railway section men working nearby were first to reach the wreckage and said the occupants were dead "When we arrived."

"We turned around in time to see the plane before it struck the ground," an unidentified section hand said. "It seemed to twist and

Halifax Easing Air Raid Precautions

HALIFAX, Nov. 30 (CP)—Relaxation of air raid precautions in Halifax indicates this city, regarded as a Canadian objective of an enemy force invading from the Atlantic, is over its first anxiety over possible bombardment and settling down now to quiet watchfulness.

Military authorities lifted their restrictions enough to allow merchants to illuminate their window wares, but the city still is vigilant. Residents stand ready to black out every light at the first whine of the air raid siren.

Ability to throw the city into complete and immediate darkness, as though at the flock of a giant switch, is the aim of air raid precautions officials now, where in the earlier stages of the war they tried to reduce permanently the intensity of light visible from the air over the city.

Stores at first were forbidden to light their windows after sundown. Now, window illumination is permissible where the source of light is not directly visible from the sky.

But Santa Claus still will have to make his Halifax appearance in a subdued atmosphere. For the gaily-lighted outdoor decorations that contribute much of the sparkle to the season have been banned.

However, storekeepers are making the most of what they are allowed to do, and the previous sombre air of the main streets is being relieved by splashes of brightness. Street lighting has been restored to full power, too, where previously the bulbs were dimmed through the night.

Russia Tips U.S. Mediation Offer Useless

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — (AP) —President Roosevelt and State Secretary Cordell Hull began a conference on the outbreak of the Russo-Finnish War to-day immediately upon the chief executive's arrival in the Capital from Warm Springs, Ga.

Hull, whose last-minute efforts to bring about a peaceful settlement of the dispute between the Soviet Union and the small Baltic nation; met the President at the station.

Almost simultaneously with the President's arrival, it became known that a Russian official had advised the United States Government that he saw no need for it to use its good offices for a peaceful solution of the dispute.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—(AP). —Word Russian troops had struck at Finland raised a question today as to whether President Roosevelt would invoke the Neutrality Act to govern the United States' relations with the two countries.

The Act provides that the President shall invoke it whenever he or Congress decides that a state of war exists between two powers and that the security of the United States requires that the statute be applied.

If the law is invoked in the case of Russia and Finland, as it has already been applied in the war between Germany and the Allies, American ships would be forbidden to enter Russian or Finnish ports. In addition, the Russian and Finnish

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP).—John Burdette, 33-year-old amateur boxer, who broke a soldier's jaw, was sentenced to 12 days in jail for assault in city court today. But as he had been held in custody since November 18, he was freed after the trial.

Magistrate D. B. Menzies agreed there had been "provocation" by Sergt. W. McGregor of the Royal Canadian Regiment, but he observed: "There is nothing to prevent a civilian from retreating."

Dominion Orders 125 Planes At 15 Millions

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 — (CP). — Orders have been placed for 125 aircraft by the War Supply Board and Defence Department since the outbreak of war, the Public Information Office announced to-day. These orders, valued at nearly $15,000,000, are part of the $45,000,000 purchases announced yesterday covering operations of the board from September 1 to November 21.

The aircraft orders include 40 purchased in Canada and comprise bombers, reconnaissance planes and trainers.

Classified war orders over the period were as follows:

Aircraft, $15,000,000; clothing and equipment, $8,000,000; foodstuffs, $4,000,000; construction projects, $10,000,000; fuel, $2,500,000; machinery, $1,500,000; motor vehicles, $450,000; miscellaneous, $5,000,000; total, $46,450,000.

Railway equipment orders total $25,000,000 in addition.

Construction projects involve such work as coastal defences, air stations, additions to existing facilities and changes and modifications in existing facilities to house the mobilized units.

Fuel purchases cover fuel for airplanes and for heating the various buildings and barracks, and for generating power in the industrial establishments of the Department of National Defence, and for shipping.

Finland Russia's In Nazi Split Of Scandinavia

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP-Havas).— As the heavy hand of Russia descended upon Finland, trustworthy diplomatic reports from Helsingfors, Moscow and one other northern capital appeared to confirm today that Russia and Germany have decided upon a demarcation of spheres of influence in Northern Europe.

Russia's attack on Finland and Germany's attack this week in mining Swedish territorial waters both form part of the new pattern apparently being woven.

These diplomatic reports suggest Russia had pledged to leave the rest of Scandinavia to Germany. Only upon receipt of this pledge, it is said, did Germany abandon its opposition to Russian designs on its Finnish neighbor—opposition which some quarters said had gone as far as the shipment of arms from the Reich to Finland.

In giving Russia a free hand in Finland, Germany has secured a free hand with respect to Norway and Sweden, according to these reports. This does not mean a German military campaign against these two countries is in the offing. It may mean that Germany can proceed with its campaign to bring the two Sandinavian states under its economic domination.

Paris, Nov. 30 (CP)

A Havas News Agency dispatch from Stockholm tonight said Sweden had begun calling civil airline pilots to the colors.

Swedes connected with civil aviation at the Kastrup airdrome, near Copenhagen, were instructed by wire to fly at once to Stockholm, where they will take up duties with the air arm of the Swedish defence forces, the dispatch added.

Last Minute News Flashes

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 30—(AP).— The Danish radio tonight broadcast a report from Helsingfors that 200 persons were killed in a new air raid on the Finnish capital at 7 p.m. (noon EST).

KIRKINES, Far Northern Norway, Nov. 30—(AP).—The Russian army has extended its air operations along Finland's short Arctic coast to the Norwegian border, it was reported today.

COPENHAGEN—Sweden, Norway and Denmark, thoroughly alarmed by the Russian invasion of Finland, looked to their own defences today but officially maintained a non-committal attitude of neutrality. Many Danes, Norwegians and especially Swedes were expected to go to Finland as volunteers unless their governments prevent it. Direct military assistance, however, seemed excluded.

Bombs Crash Outside On Finnish Crowds As Writer Phones Minister's Story Of Red Invasion, Snubbing Of Last Offers

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 30—(AP). —Fourteen Soviet planes were seen near Helsingfors early this afternoon, but no bombs were dropped at first.

Soberly thoughtful as his office received reports from various points, Finnish foreign minister Erkko made the following statement to the Associated Press:

(Here the telephone communication was interrupted by the crash of a bomb. "People outside are running for cover," said Heinzerling. "An air raid warning has not yet been sounded, and they were caught unawares. Now continue Erkko.")

"Despite the fact that we have shown to the last a willingness to try to find a peaceful solution of the difficulties which have arisen between Finland and Russia in the face of the Soviet demands and despite the fact we have tried all means possible to avoid any conflict on the frontier, we have been attacked today.

"As a reason for the attack the pretext was used that we invaded Russian territory and our troops threatened Leningrad.

"We haven't done anything of the kind."

STONEY POINT, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP)—Less than 48 hours after a $2,200 holdup was effected at the branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada here, an attempt was made early today to burglarize the bank.

An amateurish burglar, who gained entry through a window, knocked the combination from the vault but evidently was frightened away when Auguste Rondot, a bartender living next door, came to investigate pounding noises in the bank. Nothing was stolen.

The holdup on Tuesday morning was equally unsuccessful, for an hour after the gunman departed the $2,200 was recovered in a barn 100 yards away from the bank and Leonard Levesque, 21, was arrested on a charge of armed robbery.

Joseph LeFrambois, former village constable, said he was awakened about four a.m. and saw an automobile leaving the vicinity of the bank. Stoney Point is 30

Hero Baron 72, Bears Burden Of All Finland's Hopes

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 30—(CP) —Finland today looked for its defence against Soviet aggression to the commander of its armed forces, 72-year-old Baron Carl Gustav Emil Mannerheim, and to the line of fortifications named for him which cuts across the Karelian Peninsula from Lake Lagoda to the Gulf of Finland.

Of Swedish descent, like a large part of the more prosperous middleclass in Finland, Baron Mannerheim is a hero to his countrymen because he delivered the land from Soviet invasion during the 1918-20 war of independence.

Since then, devoting himself to the development of Finnish military resources and the building of permanent fortifications which cut off what is almost the only route from Soviet aggression, he has been called "the uncrowned king of Finland."

Scion of one of the most important of Finnish noble families, Baron Mannerheim served 30 years in the imperial Russian

Daladier Asks Extended Decree Rule

Needed To Win War; Red Leader Appears, Is Jailed

PARIS, Nov. 30—(AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier asked the Chamber of Deputies today to vote immediately an extension of his government's expiring power to rule by decree in order to "win the war."

All decrees adopted by the Council of ministers, however, would be subject to parliamentary approval within one month after being adopted.

Daladier declared that all debate on unrelated questions would be suspended and said he would interject a motion of confidence if objections were made.

The Premier's measure was introduced after he had said France's war aim simply was "to win the war," and had given a lengthy review of almost three months of the conflict.

Sharply contrasting with the present line-up of powers in Europe, it was to Germany the general appealed for aid in 1917 to meet the Soviet threat. Germany then supplied Finland with munitions and a force of 12,000 men.

With the successful conclusion of the campaign the Germans foisted a German prince on Finland as king but he never took the throne and in December, 1918, Mannerheim became regent.

Under the constitution adopted by the Diet in 1919, declaring Finland to be a republic, parliament chose its first president and passed over Mannerheim. He then retired to private life. Today he is back in the harness as the head of the Finnish defence council which directs Finland's army of 300,000.

Finland's history has been a struggle for independence, first from Sweden, later from Russia.

Finnish history begins in the eighth century, when the Finns settled their northern "land of lakes" after migrating, it is said, from the Volga River region.

In the 12th century the Swedes began a 100-year struggle with them, after which Finland became for 500 years a dependency of Sweden. There were long wars between Sweden and Russia in which Finland, lying between them, frequently was a battleground.

Since the Finnish frontier was only 33 miles from St. Petersburg (now Leningrad), the Russians long desired some of the Finnish territory for additional protection to the city.

By the peace of Fredrikshamm of Sept. 17, 1809, which followed a Russian invasion, Russia achieved this desire with cession of Finland, then a grand duchy, by Sweden. Until 1897 Russia guaranteed Finland preservation of its laws, constitution and religion. In that year there began a Russification of Finland.

At outbreak of first Great War a pro-German element gained strength in Finland. On Dec. 9, 1917, Finland proclaimed her independence from Russia. A German division of about 12,000 men helped the Finns fight the Russians. A Republic was established June 17, 1919.

Finland with signing of the armistice began to break away from Germany and orientate herself towards the Allies.

that Daladier had rejected their compromise, two further amendments were scrapped and the decree law was accepted in its original form. Details were not immediately available.

The premier announced he would make a nationwide broadcast at 8 p.m. (3 p.m. EST).

Lauds Roosevelt's Efforts

Daladier interrupted his prepared speech to declare, "The French parliament cannot stand the presence of traitors!"

Daladier earlier had referred to President Roosevlt's "noble efforts to spare Europe from the terrible test of a new war."

France's relations with Spain, Daladier said, have "improved in a sentiment of mutual understanding."

He blamed "Soviet aggression" for making "all resistance impossible" on Poland's part when that country was just about to make a come-back in its fight against Nazi invasion and mentioned the establishment of to spare Europe from the terrible army on French soil.

Hitting back at German propaganda, M. Daladier stressed that "at the present time the losses of men by Great Britain are higher than those of the French army."

"It is enough to mention the decision of all the Dominions of the British Empire whose soldiers soon will be on our battlefields and will fight for the common ideal."

The Premier then turned to the Anglo-French mutual assistance pact with Turkey, which he said contributed to the preservation of peace in Balkan Europe and encouraged Turkey in its policy of independent neutrality.

There was approximately $1,700 in the safe, according to J. B. Griffin, 67-year-old manager and sole employee of the bank. In Tuesday's holdup, Griffin was forced at gunpoint to open the safe and afterward was tied by the robber.

This morning he found the interior of his bank extensively damaged. When the burglar found he could not get access to the inside of the safe, he tried ripping the laths from the walls and cutting through about eight inches of concrete. He made a hole about 17 inches in diameter.

Failing in this direction, the burglar next tried the floor but halted after preliminary attempts to tear it up. The burglar was believed engaged in trying to cut a hole through the top of the vault when he was frightened away.

The burglary is the third crime against the bank since last summer when four men held it up and escaped with $1,700, speeding over a railway crossing in a motor car just before a long freight train passed, delaying pursuit.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30 — (ENS).—Following an illness of two weeks Clara Smith, wife of Robert S. Anderson, Rawdon township, passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Walker, Hoards, on Tuesday afternoon. The deceased, who had been a lifelong resident of this district, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Smith. She was born in Seymour Township 67 years ago.

Surviving her, besides her sorrowing husband are there sisters, Mrs. Thomas Walker, Hoards; Mrs. Frank Glenn of Seymour Township; Miss Evelyn Smith of town, and two borthers, Harry of Toronto and George of town.

The funeral service was conducted from the residence of Mrs. Thomas Walker this afternoon by Rev. Mr. Scott of Stirling. Interment was at the English Line Cemetery.

MRS. MARY MANLEY.

WESTWOOD, Nov. 30 (ENS). — The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary (Minnie) Manley was held on Monday afternoon from the residence of her son, Gordon, in Westwood, and was very largely attended. The service was conducted at the house and graveside by her pastor, Rev. J. E. Glover, who spoke comforting words from the 38th verse of the 20th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles: "Sorrowing most of all for the words that he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship."

The deceased was the daughter of the late Charles Lealtch and Mary Wood and was born in Asphodel Township sixty-nine years ago. Predeceased by her husband, the late John Wesley Manley, in 1898, and her elder son Charles Wesley ten years ago, she had made her home with a brother, Jams Lealtch of Asphodel, where she resided until her last illness, which was of a few weeks' duration.

Of a quiet, lovable disposition, the late Mrs. Manley had won for herself a wide circle of friends and the entire community grieves at her passing. She was a faithful member of St. Andrew's United Church and of the Women's Missionary Society of which she was a life member.

She leaves one son Gordon of Westwood, also three sisters, Mrs. David Breckenridge of Westwood, Mrs. Norman Breckenridge of Millbrook, and Mrs. Harry Fife of Otonabee, and two brothers, James and Alexander Lealtch of Asphodel.

The remains were borne to their last resting-place in Westwood Cemetery by Hugh Cameron, Melville Scott, James Sargent, Jeremiah Maloney, Stanley Douglas, and James Humphries, followed by the large cortege of friends and neighbors.

Relatives from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Mark Manley of Cobourg, Hilton Manley of Lindsay, Mrs. Emma Hales of Port Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Carr of Dartford, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Breckenridge and family of Millbrook, also Mr. and Mrs. James Manley, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Manley, Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, and Harry Manley, all of Otonabee, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Manley of Villiers.

Many beautiful floral tributes were a silent testimony of sympathy.

Export

one economic specialist contrasted Germany's present outlook with her situation during the First Great War.

At that time, he said, the neutral territory accessible to the Central Powers was limited to Switzerland, the Netherlands, and the Scandinavian countries. Germany now has access, he said, to the resources of the entire European Continent east of France, as wel las much of Asia.

The Times called for a drive to promote British exports and "where necessary, facilitate barter transactions."

Britain's exports, dislocated almost overnight by the outbreak of war, increased six per cent. in October over September, but still are little more than half the total for October, 1938.

A movement was started to simplify the complicated system whereby foreign business transactions might involve dealing with five separate governments. One trader recently complained: "It takes weeks to get a 'no' and months to get a 'yes.'"

Arson Suspected In Blaze At Fredericton

FREDERICTON, Nov. 30—(CP)—Two investigations will open today into a fire that swept the Fredericton Exhibition grounds after breaking out so quickly that Fire Chief Karl A. Walker said it was set. The blaze sent three soldiers to hospital and caused damage estimated at $75,000.

For five hours firemen, aided by soldiers who lived in buildings on the grounds, fought the flames last night. Later, Fire Chief Karl A. Walker described the blaze as a case of "incendiarism."

"The fire was set," he said. "I make that statement without any hesitation." He added that three minutes after the alarm was given the main building, built in three sections and started in 1867, was burning from end to end.

The soldiers taken to hospital were named Richard, Harrington and Dudley. Authorities declined to reveal the extent of their injuries.

Military authorities will hold a court of inquiry today while the Provincial Fire Marshal, H. H. McLellan, also will open an investigation.

Buildings destroyed in addition to the main structure included the transportation building, where troops were quartered, Sergeants' quarters and a military hospital, built recently after the Department of National Defence leased the property, and a private residence.

Soldiers were quartered for the night in public buildings, church halls and private homes.

British House

Chamberlain Scornful

With scorn in his voice, Mr. Chamberlain told the House that it was difficult to believe that Russia's strategic claims of Finland were necessary to protect the Soviet Union against such a small country.

All through the dispute the attitude of the Finnish Government was most unprovocative, the Prime Minister emphasized, and the Finnish note was of "most conciliatory character."

This note was delivered in Moscow a few hours before the Russians denounced the non-aggression pact. It announced Finland's willingness to submit the dispute to mediation and withdraw its troops from the Karelian isthmus.

Gallacher was greeted by shouts to "Sit down! Sit down!" when he rose to speak. He began by referring to Earl Baldwin's statement that "our frontier is on the Rhine," and the speaker of the House intervened with the remark, "You are asking questions about another part of the world."

A Changed Situation.

Asked by Gallacher if the Finnish Prime Minister early in the negotiations did not state the Soviet proposals did not interfere with the independent integrity of Finland and what forces had been in operation since to get the Finns to change their attitude, Mr. Chamberlain replied:

"I can imagine that the invasion of their territory might well constitute a complete change in the situation."

Referring to Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff's broadcast last night in which he was "officially reported as having denied a suggestion, which he attributed to the foreign press, that a Soviet attack on Finland was imminent," Mr. Chamberlain declared:

"Yet only a few hours after this broadcast, it is understood, Soviet forces invaded Finnish territory on several sections of the frontier and dropped incendiary bombs on an airdrome in the neighborhood of Helsingfors."

Members cheered this and other statements indicating sympathy toward Finland.

Welcomes Hull Offer.

Mr. Chamberlain said the government warmly welcomed the offer of good offices from Cordell Hull, Secretary of State of the United States, "since in their opinion the questions at issue between Finland and the Soviet Union are not of a nature to justify resort to war-like measures."

Asked by Mr. Attlee if the government had received any statement from Russia on its reasons "for what appears to be an indefensible act of unprovoked aggression," the Prime Minister replied, "No, sir, none at all."

Before the House met, the Finnish Minister to Great Britain, G. A. Gripenberg, had called at the Foreign Office and saw the head of the Northern Department.

Cheese Heads Cite Stirling Record

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 30.—(CP).— The Ontario Cheese Producers' Association to-day cited the 1939 cheese production of the Central cheese factory at Stirling, Ont., as an example of what can be accomplished by co-operation between cheese factory patrons, cheese-makers and dairy instructors in producing high quality cheese.

Of a total of 2,222 boxes of cheese graded, 1,302 boxes scored 94 points, 913 scored 93 and seven boxes 92. The Dominion government premium of one cent a pound for 93 score and two cents for 94 score netted the Stirling factory 3,252 for the season.

Reds Occupy Strategic Peninsula

2 Russian Planes Downed 1st Raid Upon Helsingfors

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP). — An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Helsingfors today said that President Kyoesti Kallio issued a proclamation declaring war on Soviet Russia.

The proclamation said that "with a view to maintaining the country's defence and the constitution of the Republic of Finland has declared a state of war."

The dispatch said Russian forces had occupied all the Fishermen's Peninsula.

Two Russian Planes Down

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 30—(AP).—The newspaper Extrabladet reported from Helsingfors today that two Soviet warplanes had crashed during the first air raid on the Finnish capital.

(Reuters, British news agency, said in London that the Finnish Ministry of Defence had announced at Helsingfors that two Russian

Ancient Viborg Set Ablaze By Red Raiders

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Sections of ancient Viborg were aflame, the island of Seiskari was occupied by the Russian fleet and many parts of the Finnish frontier were under bombardment today as Soviet Russia made war on Finland by sea, land and air.

The Diet, Finland's one-chamber parliament, was called for a session at 8 p.m. (1 p.m. EST) to receive a statement from Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko and to vote confidence in the government.

Officials said the session would show the unity of the nation in its gravest crisis in answer to Russian charges that the government has not got the support of its people.

Anti-aircraft batteries engaged in several battles with Russian fliers after invading warplanes had bombed the Malm airport outside the Finnish capital.

An air alarm sounded at 9:30 a.m. (2:20 a.m. EST) was ended at 2:18 p.m. (7:18 a.m. EST).

Hospital Burns.

Incendiary bombs dropped on Ensoe set fire to several buildings, including a hospital which was destroyed. Casualties were not immediately determined.

The Russian fleet, after taking Seiskari, was believed to be heading toward other Finnish islands in the Gulf of Finland. Seiskari is near the narrow neck of the gulf, just west of Kronstadt, port of Leningrad, Russia's second city.

The government has taken no step as yet regarding the removal of itself or civilians from Helsingfors. The capital is regarded as strongly fortified against naval attack.

Preliminary orders to the public have been drawn, however, and, as a precaution, some Government papers were burned in the basement of the capitol.

Viborg, on the northern shore of the Gulf of Finland, apparently was heavily bombarded from the sea.

Troops Cross Border

Soviet troops began crossing the frontier on the Karelian isthmus under protection of heavy artillery fire.

Early reports said Soviet troops occupied the Finnish part of the Fishermen's peninsula, where the border between the two countries reaches to the Arctic Ocean.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30 — (CP). — News of spreading warfare in Europe boosted wheat futures prices more than a cent on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as mills, commission houses and exporters made good purchases in the pit. Quotations fluctuated actively and at the finish were 1¼ to 1½ cents higher, December at 75¼, May 79¾ and July 81 cents.

In the cash wheat market exporters were credited with picking up Nos. 1 and 2 Northern, while mills bought fair amounts of Nos. 1, 2 and 3 and 4 Northern, Garnets and Specials. Export buying in oats and barley, together with light Southern purchases of rye, made up most of the transactions in the coarse grain pit.

A Pattern To Follow

The British government has already modified several measures enforced at the outbreak of the war to prevent activities prejudicial to the security of the nation. It is stated these were considered as being too drastic. Powers to control the press have been lessened and the power to appeal against detention orders has been instituted.

Britain has an advantage in attending to such matters as there is but one governing body. In Canada we have many, and in our own province the government is at times more prolific in making new regulations than our federal government.

There was one paragraph in the London Despatch telling of these changes which should be printed just as it came. This:

> The original extraordinary measures brought a wave of protest from members of the House of Commons and they were redrafted with the help of members of all parties.

There is a good feeling reflected in that statement. Members from all corners of the House felt that the original regulations had been too drastic. In seeking safety they had infringed upon that greater thing, the right of the individual. In seeking the cure the redrafting was done with the help of members of all parties.

And right there one comes into touch with something which tells in a few words how a government ought to operate during war time. (Or any other time for that matter). Any member who had an idea received a careful hearing and if his idea was sound it was accepted and received incorporation in the modified regulations. The result of such effort would be that the finished article would have the support and endorsation of all members of the House of Commons. And there is something right there which our own Federal Government might with profit to itself and the whole country accept as a model plan.

The Merchant Loses

A story coming from St. Thomas indicates two things: that people are doing their Christmas shopping early, and also that several of the shoppers have become annoyed when finding they have purchased toys made in Germany. The Times-Journal of that city tells of one husband who went down town to tell the manager of a store "where he got off at." His wife had bought some of the German goods and had not recognized their origin. In other stores it is stated that the German-made goods have been parked elsewhere for the present, and if sold they will have to go on the bargain counter later.

It is probably true that a merchant who has stocked goods made in Germany is simply out of luck for the present. Possibly it will do him no good to explain that he purchased his stock months ago when there was no war, and that the goods have been long since paid for and whatever good Germany got out of the deal is a closed incident. Whether the people in Canada purchase the goods or refuse to purchase them makes no difference to Germany.

The St. Thomas report leads to the belief that some of the merchants have found it advisable to remove any made-in-Germany goods from their shelves. They claim the report will gain circulation that they are persisting in trying to sell such goods when this country is at war with Germany, and they are not prepared to take chances with that feeling. The merchant in such a situation is running into something which he could not prevent and which he cannot cure, and he will probably have to take a loss where he anticipated that in a perfectly proper way he might make a profit.

He'll Be Welcome

Times are confusing. We noticed where Santa Claus arrived in Toronto a week or so ago. It was so recorded in the papers, but there must have been some mistake about it. We read also that he had arrived in some other city three days later, and that too must be wrong. Admittedly we are advancing to the point where we say we can't believe all we read in the papers.

The reason? Just this—Santa Claus is arriving in Peterborough on Friday evening of this week, the first day of December, and what's more he is going to parade. This is an advanced age in which we live because years ago Santa Claus never did appear until the night before Christmas, and even then he didn't appear, but we had visible evidence that he had been around.

People living out in the country ought to drop in and see this gentleman. Possibly the folk in the country have friends or relatives in the city and we know right well they'd be glad to see you. Perhaps they haven't mentioned it, but why not come in and tell them you'll stay for supper or better still spend the night. That's one way to square the account for the visiting they did on you during the summer months.

There will be a crowd and the crowd will be augmented by the adults. Perhaps they are skeptical but watch them come down town. They will say they want to take the children, but the truth is they will want to turn back the pages of blessed memory to happy days of yesteryear. So you better have supper a little early on Friday evening or decide to let the dishes stand until after you have seen Santa Claus.

How Could We Do It?

Lord Marley, Deputy Speaker of the British House of Commons, is in Canada. He spoke to the Women's Canadian Club in Montreal and the burden of his address that there were many refugees in Britain who might be trained so they could take jobs in Canada. He qualified the idea by adding "if there were a shortage of any type of labor in Canada."

Britain feels a European problem more quickly than we do. The refugees from Europe eager to escape land in Britain because the door is open and the little islands are near at hand. They had no idea what they were going to do when they arrived because their one and only interest had been to escape.

Canada has done little about these refugees, not that we are not willing to give assistance and opportunity, but because we do not know what to do with them. We have no shortage of labor such as Lord Marley suggests might be the case, but for years we have had more labor than we could employ. That is why we have been thrown back on relief payments and unemployment plans. One cannot blame Lord Marley in the least for seeking to relieve Britain of an overloading of refugees, but looking for the open door of opportunity in Canada for men who are seeking employment is not the most encouraging task to which a man could devote his time at the moment.

Not The Right Way

At long last it looks as though the strike in the Chrysler plant at Detroit is due to come to an end. The terms have not been announced, but sufficient has been said to indicate the principals believe the end is in sight.

The C.I.O. is in charge of the situation for the men, and is recognized as the bargaining body. One statement tells of the experience in Detroit since March 3, 1937, when the Chrysler corporation started to negotiate with the C.I.O. Employees in the Detroit plants alone have lost 28,000,000 hours of work in strikes and stoppages, and that has meant a loss of wages of $27,600,000. That amount would pay the entire tax bill of Peterborough for about 30 years.

The company has missed turning out and selling 150,000 cars because of this condition. If a man wants a car he is not likely to wait until a strike is over. He is more apt to place his business elsewhere where he can get what he wants at once. So it is reasonable to assume the Chrysler Corporation has actually lost a good many customers.

Plainly this is not the way to carry on business. It is a system which is hurting the men and their earnings and it is hurting the company to which the men look for their pay envelopes. It is going back to the days of bitter struggle instead of moving forward to the era of industrial good will. There would have to be some tremendous advantages won to compensate workers who have lost $27,600,000 in wages in little better than two years.

Germany's New Submarines

One writer who appears to be somewhat of a war critic writes in a current issue of a magazine to say that it is a mistake to contend that the German submarine menace is in control. He argues:

> "It is possible for Germany to turn out two new submarines each week and there is no doubt that rate is being maintained, so it is one thing to deal with a known menace and quite another to control one which continues to expand."

Possibly Germany can lay down two submarines per week, but the history of every other nation will be repeated in Germany, and part of that history and experience is that it is not possible to have on hand trained crews to operate submarines at the rate of two new and competent crews each week.

It is more difficult to train crews in war time when they have to operate far from their home base. The submarine is complicated; men have to become used to living and moving and working in cramped quarters. It takes at least six months to train such a crew and the training cannot be done on land or in a naval college. Schooling must be right in the submarine at sea.

Britain is now employing trawlers to fight submarines and that will release a number of destroyers for duty farther out in the ocean.

It is also a fact that the more submarines are sunk the more difficult it will be to secure crews. It is known that when a submarine goes down the crew goes with it, nor is there the prospect of coming to the surface which exists in peace time operations. In war the submarine sinks because it has been badly damaged. In peace time it stays down because something has gone wrong with the mechanism and the possibility of rescue is present.

So one can rightly enough place a large sized question mark over the claim that Germany can build and secure crews for new submarines at the rate of two per week. Experts claim no nation has yet done it at that rate.

Positive And Negative

The possession of goods such as are carried in ships at sea is a big consideration for nations at war.

When the Germans have opportunity to do so they sink merchant vessels at sea by cruisers, submarines or mines. If there is opportunity they may render some assistance to the crew, but the merchandise goes to the bottom. There is one less vessel but Germany does not get the goods.

Nearly every day there are reports telling of British and French vessels coming across vessels—some of them German merchantmen—and these are captured and taken to port. German exports are now subject to seizure the same as imports.

In this way the Allied powers are coming into possession of merchandise; they are securing foodstuffs and goods which are useful during war years. Their campaign is positive in its results while that of Germany is entirely negative as far as bringing any merchandise to the ports of that nation.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Many fishermen are looking for the red herring to run now, but they are generally at their best when an election is going on.

Woman in Detroit came in for a fortune of $10,000,000 on her 25th birthday. The line does not form on the right as she has already had two or three husbands, and has one now

A safe in Toronto weighing a ton was robbed of $200. We are coming to a pretty state of affairs when a safe weighing a ton cannot look after a mere $200.

Rural mail courier near Chatham drove into a train and was carried a quarter of a mile. Railway executives are now figuring out what the fare will be for that distance.

Thousand barrels of apples have been sent from Nova Scotia for the British army. Included in the lot were some Northern Spies for the benefit of the Intelligence Department.

Man in Memphis in his will made a request that six creditors act as pall bearers at his funeral. The reason? "They have carried me so long they might as well finish the job."

Rain falling over the Sahara desert evaporates before it reaches the ground. That explanation is good in that land, but does not explain why we have had less than one inch of rain when the average is nearer three inches for November.

DIPLOMAT

¶ John Henry spent two weeks alone, and thought he'd decorate the home, his wife had gone away; he'd paint and paper there at night, and get the place to looking bright, and make it rather gay.

¶ He'd put new paper on the hall, and then he'd paint the kitchen wall, and do the ceiling too; that's what he had in mind to start, he might take other rooms apart, before he got near through.

¶ John Henry's rather color blind, a thing he doesn't seem to mind, nor is his taste too quaint; on paper he likes flowers and streams, and castles pictured in the scenes, but he's not sure on paint.

¶ The kitchen he has done in pink, a funny color you may think, and likely that is so; he risked his neck and risked his limb, the color seemed all right to him, John Henry did not know.

¶ The paper I think's rather loud, in fact it would attract a crowd, looks like a hot dog stand; John Henry picked it from a heap, it might make other's feelings creep, he thought that it was grand.

¶ John Henry's wife came home last night, she hugged John Henry in delight, nor did she throw a fit; she said she thought the scheme sublime, but when John Henry's off some time—she'll tone it down a bit.

Three Nights Seemed Like At Least Thirty

ONE WRITER from the Manchester Guardian apparently made his way for a trip on a convoy, during which he became aware of what it means to be ever on the alert. He writes of his experience:

Steaming for three days and what seemed like 30 nights in conditions that the weather made ideally peaceful and man made constantly menacing, gives one a vivid realization of what war means to the merchant navy. Suddenly in the dead of night the whole fabric of the ships in the convoy quivers to the thud of depth-charge explosions.

At any moment in the blessed hours of daylight there comes from the wireless-room or from the escorting vessels the "Alert"—"Unknown aircraft, possibly hostile, aproaching. Keep a good lookout." In the bows and in either wing of the bridge of every ship, dour and tacitum merchant seamen in weather-stained overcoats and slouched caps keep an extra look-out day and night.

Aft a solitary figure stands by the gun that convention allows merchant ships to carry for defence against the merchanized vulture and sharks of this thing that man now calls war.

The sea is the nautical front-line trenches; but with this difference from the land, that there are more non-combatant than fighting men involved. They are in the firing line continuously and unlike the troops on shore, they never know from hour to hour just how near is the enemy's front line.

It was, for example, half-way through a particularly quiet middle watch that the depth charges shattered the utter peacefulness of a soft, star-lit night. The sound, carried not over, but through the water, smote the hull so that we did not know whether we heard or felt it. It came totally unheralded. Somewhere astern of us an escort vessel was suspicious, and from suspicion to salvo is but the touching of a switch when there is nearly four million pounds' worth of property and hundreds of lives to safeguard.

The iron decks beneath our feet quivered in the shock. One had a brief second's flashing insight into the interior of a submarine with such a salvo plastered ahead, astern, on either side. A grim vision. The quiver ceased almost before we had decided that it was but the aftermath of someone else's trouble that we were experiencing. There was a moment of deadly stillness. Then out of the gloomy cavern that was the wheel-house came, in Doric accents, the gentle, ironic remark, "Ye'll no be needing your lifebelt this minute." And a calm, half-whispered order to the helmsman broke the spell.

We fixed our eyes again on the dimly seen shaded blue bulb on the stern of our next ahead by which we had to be guided. It is a matter of pride for almost all merchant navy officers to prove that they can keep station in a line of moving ships on the blackest of nights. It is one of the hardest trials of the war for them. Only in war do they have any practice at it—and then, for 13 long hours of darkness night after night, they are tested, not with sister ships whose vagaries under helm or loss of steam may be guessed, but with strangers, ships of weird and unimaginable quirks of temperament. In these early days of war, too, many of the captains may be having their first experience of convoy and find themselves not a little bewildered by the novelty of the work.

YET AGAIN, there are minefields, our own as well as the enemy's. The convoys pass along swept channels in any known danger-zone. But the channel is none so wide that a man may stray a point or two from his course and persist in the error with impunity.

So the bridge is a silent place in the darkness; the job calls for concentration. Every ship is blacked out, and an electric torch is as near a crime as makes no matter. Everyone speaks in a whisper for no real reason. I had the odd feeling that we all imagined a U-boat was lying alongside us with some marvellous listening gear that would catch our briefest comments.

Nor does daylight bring much easing of the strain. True, station-keeping is easier. True, the look-outs may have ten miles of visibility, and there is the additional watch of the patrolling aircraft, who can give warning of dangers many miles ahead. But the air is not a benevolent neutral. For all convoys that use any part of the North Sea the day has its constant alarms. The convoy gunners are kept on the alert; ships are warned of every unidentified machine, and consequently there may be five alarms for every real emergency.

Seventy-two hours the strain may last, peril and sudden death the possible outcome of every next tick of the clock. But I am sure it was without any intention of irony that the captain remarked to me, relaxing for two moments his fixed gaze on the next ahead, "Adventurous lives you newspaper men seem to have."

Keep Your Seats!

A young recruit in one of our military riding schools fell off his horse. The sergeant strode up and demanded: "Did you receive orders to dismount?"

"I did sir."

"From what quarters?"

"From the hind quarters," said the recruit with a grin.

DISTANT

"Fetch your tray, Hoskins, and hand Mr. Witherington this ring."
—Humorist.

• What He Saw In Maginot Line

MEMBER of the British Parliament, Harold Nicholson paid a visit to the Maginot Line in France, and on his return gave the London Spectator his impressions of what he had seen:

We were taken to the Maginot Line. I had already seen photographs and heard descriptions of that necklace of fortresses. The actual details, the guns and the casemates, were more or less as I had imagined; and in any case they were beyond my comprehension. What took me completely by surprise was the giant scale of these preparations. I had expected something resembling a flotilla of cement torpedo-boats; I was confronted by a fleet of super-dreadnoughts.

The magnitude of the enterprise left me thunderstruck. I had never supposed that the French possessed such a gift for dissimulation. We penetrated deep into that fantastic labyrinth. Great galleries stretched before us, clean and brilliant as the Mersey Tunnel. The sound of wireless reached us from the mess-rooms; there came a clatter of dishes from the kitchens; they were singing as was passed the canteen. The atmosphere was dry and warm, with some faint pulsation behind it as in the studios of the BBC. We signed the visitors 'book in the reception-room. It seemed inconceivable that we were actually in the battle line.

The last War, in such a setting, seems as distant as Agincourt. Even the men are of different build. The "concrete boys," as they call themselves, bear but slight resemblance to their fathers. In contrast to the unshaven, dogged, stocky, red-fisted poilu of 1915 they seem, in their white linen overalls, to be art-students or assistants in some laboratory. With long white fingers do they manipulate their dials or adjust their ear-pieces. Their pride in their machines, in their own technical skill, is most engaging.

"Please look at this, Sir," they said to us. "Please come to this corner over here." It was a relief, I suppose, from their troglodyte existence, to be visited by anything so comic as nine British M.P.'s. They did not conceal their amusement; they grinned at us happily; they replied with quick intelligence to all our questions. They were clearly glad that we had come.

Striking also was the quality of the discipline which prevailed. It recalled to us the discipline, not of some military unit, but of some well-organized hospital. The General who accompanied us spoke to the men in an intimately paternal manner, and they replied to him with the respect which medical students pay to a famous doctor.

I remarked on this to the Commandant who controlled this particular fortress. He was delighted that we had noticed the difference. "It's a new thing," he said. "It has a great value. We call it 'l'esprit de beton', 'the cement spirit'. We feel that we are all members here of the same crew." And as he said so the sound of dynamos buzzing reached us again.

The upper darkness seemed almost impenetrable after that blaze of subterranean light. We drove back cautiously; a few screened torches flickering on wet roads.

• Teach Your Boy To Blow A Horn

DEATH a few days ago removed an outstanding Missourian — R. Ritchie Robertson, beloved supervisor of music of Springfield's public schools. Starting life as a shoemaker in his father's shop in Burnt Island, Scotland, where his father was director of the village choir. Dr. Robertson rose to heights in musical circles of the world.

When he was about seven years old he started singing in the choir, and soon was soloist when the group gave such numbers as the "Messiah." When he was still a boy he mastered several instruments—the flute, the concertina, piano and violin. At 18 he was directing the town band and master of every instrument in it. Soon he was organizing and directing bands and orchestras in other Scottish towns, and he became choir master at Aberdour. At one time he was managing seven orchestras, giving operettas and similar offerings and singing as a tenor soloist.

As a soloist he appeared in a program with a Scottish miner, a very comical fellow the world later was to know as Harry Lauder. In 1900 Dr. Robertson came to America, and he went to Louisiana to stay with relatives. He served as assistant postmaster at Iowa, Louisiana; was ticket and freight agent, shoe salesman and grocer there. Soon he was leading the town choir. From Louisiana he went to Paola, Kansas, as a grocery clerk, and he also was leader of the band there. It was in Paola that he began his musical career in earnest.

In Paola he was christened "The Star-Spangled Scotsman" by a newspaper, showing his love for his native land and for his adopted country. In 1916, Dr. Robertson went to Springfield as public school music supervisor. He did not like jazz music, and he found the "place saturated with it." To offset this rag-time music was a long task. He started his high school band with five members, and soon it was 80 excellent musicians, an organization of which the town was proud. He organized the high school orchestra and started the idea of giving high school students operas with the leading roles sung by outstanding opera stars.

Dr. Robertson believed that the best way to build character was through music. "Teach your boy to blow a horn," he once said, "and he'll never blow a bank." He organized the Boy Scout band as a character building institution. This band is widely known throughout the Middle West and has given concerts in many towns.—Kansas City Times.

VOLCANIC POWER

IN THE "Valley of Hell," a 20-square-mile area in Tuscany, 200 Italians are making volcanoes provide electricty for railroads and factories in northern Italy—a vital project because Italy lacks coal. This year they completed the eighth in a series of turbine plants which draw their power from 300 natural and man-made steam wells, which sometimes go 1,000 feet deep and seldom run dry. These plants generate about one thirty-fifth of the national output of electrical power. When a steam well is struck, sometimes after a year's drilling, its roar may be heard a dozen miles away. It is capped, and the live steam drawn off to heat water in tanks, which in turn becomes steam to run the turbines. By-products are 8,000,000 tons of borax annually, carbonic acid and other chemicals.—Reader's Digest.

HOME OF THE PANAMA

A HAT by any other name might wear as long and look as well, but, apparently, you can't make the people of Ecuador believe it.

A government representative from that lofty land, visiting Detroit, says that practically all "Panamas" are made in his country and should be known as "Ecuadors."

That Panama should get credit for an Ecuadorean product is not altogether fair, we admit but this is not the only instance of such injustice in this imperfect world.

All china does not come from the country of that name. The Indians did not invent Indian summer. German silver is not manufactured only by the Nazis.

The Indian women who sit on the top of the Andes and weave palm fronds into "Panamas" get the cash and may well let the credit go.

A country crossed by both the Equator and the highest mountain range in the Western Hemisphere is in no danger of being overlooked even if its hats are worn by people who thing that they were made in the Canal Zone.—Detroit Free Press.

DOCTOR'S DILEMMA

LADIES, fixing themselves up to look beautiful, may not know what chances they're taking. Dr. Charles C. Higgins, of Cleveland, told a conference of the American College of Surgeons that lipstick and fingernail polish often make it impossible for a physician to tell whether a woman is sick without practically taking her apart.

In the old days, he said, you could usually figure out what was the matter with somebody just by looking at her; now a patient may be dying and still look as wonderful as Sonja Henie. By the time the doctor gets her cleaned of enough so that he can see what she really looks like, she may even be dead.

We don't wish to alarm you with these gloomy tidings, but we don't want to be responsible for preserving any fools' paradise either.—The New Yorker.

BRITAIN'S WAR AIMS

IF, THEN, the world wants to know why Great Britain is at war, the answer is three-fold. She is fighting, as every threatened state must fight, for her own security. She is fighting, as a people that has drawn so freely on Europe for light and culture, for fame and wealth, in honor bound to fight, to guard Europe's liberties.

If today she can only defend Europe by using her reluctant strength upon the seven seas, she is fighting, we hope, for this dream of a nobler future when she can serve Europe by using all her knowledge, experience, and sympathy to aid the common purposes of mankind. — Manchester Guardian.

WASTE OF PAPER

WE ARE being told that there will be a shortage of paper in the country, that we must conserve supplies, and that the Government is going to economize in every possible way.

What hapens? While weekly newspaper proprietors are doing everything to conserve paper supplies, they are each morning inundated with large envelopes containing screeds of typewritten matter from the Ministry of Information, Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, and other Government departments, which gets no farther than the wastepaper basket. Can nothing be done to stop not only this waste of paper but waste of time of Government servants? — Newspaper World, London.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us for an ensample.... For our conversation is in heaven, from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself.—Phil iii, 17, 20, 21.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Just A Trifle

The road foreman, coming on duty in the morning, was taking over from the new night-watchman.

"Everything all right?" he asked.

"Quite good for my first night," was the reply. "I've checked off everything, and there's only one item missing?"

"What's that?"

"The steam-roller."

Didn't After All

"I always had a presentiment I would die young," said the chorus girl.

"And you didn't, after all, did you?" said her girl friend.

AN ARMY'S STOMACH

AN EDITORIAL writer of the Financial Post has been sampliying army foods—at arm; tables. His reaction was satisfactory, and he was impressed enough with the turnips served him to write an editorial on them....he noted the importance of serving men good food and suggested the army would do well to draw upon the experience of big food firms of Central Canada which cater to construction crews, etc., and who know how to feed men by the thousands and keep them happy.

The suggestion is a good one but could be added to. With little of the new battle equipment to practice with, we think the army should concentrate on food problems, set up schools at which cooks could be given a complete training in what to do with the foods that come their way. Undoubtedly there has been improvement in the technique of serving army food in other countries where its importance in keeping the troops healthy and contented has been recognized. We have the facilities and raw materials here to go ahead at once. A cook college might not be academic, but it could do wonders.

The men who join up are entitled to the very best and the hit-and-miss cooking of the-last war should be ruled out from the beginning. — New Glasgow News.

Stopped Career Of Raider In East Indies

Twenty-five years ago the Australian light cruiser Sydney practically put an end to Germany's ocean marauding by surface craft by sinking the enemy cruiser Emden. Destruction of the fast warship marked the close of a spectacular career which for sheer audacity and achievement has few parallels.

Under the command of Capt. Karl von Muller, the Emden ranged up and down the East Indies for two months, sinking or capturing some 20 ships with a total value of about $4,000,000, exclusive of cargoes worth approximately $6,000,000. Most successful of Germany's raiders in the first months of the war, she was finally destroyed near Cocos Island, 500 miles southwest of the western tip of Java.

Harassed by the tremendous losses caused by the Emden and other German raiders, shipping circles breathed easily for the first time since the opening of the war. There was a mild outburst at Lloyd's in London when the destruction of the Emden was announced. The Lutine Bell—rung only on receipt of highly important news—clanged out as members threw hats and papers into the air and sent up cheer upon cheer. There was an immediate drop of 50 per cent in insurance premiums on vesels bound to points east of Suez.

The Emden operated in the Bay of Bengal from Sept. 7 to Sept. 25, 1914, on one occasion bombarding Madras. Later she worked in the approaches to Colombo, coaling at the Maldives and at Diego Garcia. British cruisers aided by French, Russian and Japanese warships searched for her in vain.

Under Jap Flag

It was at Penang on Malacca Straits that von Muller performed his most daring feat. A fourth smoke-stack had been rigged on the cruiser's deck and the Japanese flag run up. Thus disguised the Emden steamed into Penang harbor, Oct. 28, passing unchallenged under the guns of the fort. Torpedoes sank the Russian cruiser Jemtchug and a French destroyer and the nthe Emden escaped through the straits.

The British cruiser Yarmouth destroyed the Emden's supply ships at Pulo Tapak on the west coast of Sumatra and the end of the notorious raider appeared in sight. For weeks the searching vessls had been mystified over the Emden's ability to obtain sufficient food and fuel from captured ships.

At dawn, Nov. 9, the Emden poked her nose in the cable station on Cocos Island and that proved von Muller's undoing. An operator flashed the news to Singapore and the Sydney was detached from a big Australian and New Zealand convoy of 38 transports to run down the raider.

Months of constant cruising had racked the fleet German cruiser and although she tried to escape the Sydney under Capt. J. C. Glossop had a good margin in a long range, hard-pounding duel. Shortly before noon the Emden was driven ashore, blazing. Von Muller and some of his crew were saved.

A 24-knot ship, the Emden ran down merchant vessels with ease. She had a complement of 361 officers and men and mounted 10 4.1-inch guns. The Sydney's speed was about the same but her eight 6-inch guns proved a distinct advantage.

French Colonials To The Front

With the transport trucks that brought them to the front showing in background, French colonial troops, Senegalese machine-gunners, are shown traversing a communication trench towards the front line on the Western front. These fighters proved their worth in the world war. They are officered by white Frenchmen.

Stiff Criticism Necessary In Training For Tank Corps

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 29—(CP) — Alertness and quick judgment under tough conditions are main requisites of a light tank commander. On those two qualities largely depend his life and those of his two assistants.

At a mechanized cavalry school in this rolling countryside I saw a number of commanders undergoing tests for those attributes, taking their machines through unknowns terrritory dotted with numerous dangers about which they had no warning.

With the lids of the cupolas down and their radio sets relaying their orders to their squadron leader for his criticism, they sought to cross a large field dotted with concealed enemies. They dodged a machine-gun nest, men with an anti-tank gun concealed in a wood, dodged a land-mine and sought to fight off an enemy tank that bore down on them from a second wood.

Told of Errors.

An officer explained to us that the first commander made a mistake in using his .5 gun on an enemy machine gun. "He is in no danger from a machine-gun," the officer said, "and he should have replied with his own .303 gun. That is his weapon against men. The .5 is for use against armor and using it against men is wasteful."

The second commander in the test fired smoke bombs from the little guns on the side of his tank when he approached the machine gun. Again the officer was critical. That, he said, was unnecessary and wasteful, because the commander might encounter a foe later against whom he should use smoke to cover his retreat or to conceal him in a "hull-down" position, that is, sitting tight.

The third one made the mistake of firing with his .303 against an anti-tank gun which is armored. He should have used his .5.

Almost all realized quickly when they were subjected to anti-tank fire their best course was to run from it, offering a narrower target than if they continued to present a broadside view.

Trouble With Mine.

One commander didn't fire at the machine gun nest. He ran his tank over it. That pleased the examining officer. It was economical.

Only one had trouble with the mine. He did not see it until he was almost on top of it. He yelled to his driver to turn hard right. The driver did and one catterpillar track broke, putting the tank out of action.

It was remarkable how completely the little smoke bombs concealed the machines when they were released and remarkable how difficult it was to spot a tank coming out of a wood.

The spectator was also struck with the impersonal atmosphere of the show. It was difficult to realize that men were in those machines. It was unreal, too, as if dinosaurs had suddenly trotted out of the woods.

Cordova Ladies Join Eastern Star War Group

HAVELOCK, Nov. 30—(ENS). — Representatives from the Havelock Eastern Star Patriotic Society attended a meeting of women at the United church in Cordova, when the local committee convenor Miss Minnie Williams addressed the gathering, explaining the origin and object of the society. Introduced by Mrs. Lorne Bowen, Miss Williams took charge of the meeting, with members of the local group assisting in the opening ceremony, which included the trooping of the colours and the National Anthem.

The Cordova ladies, over thirty being present, decided to form a patriotic committee to work in conjunction with the Havelock society. Officers appointed were as follows: assistant convener and wool secretary, Mrs. Lorne Bowen; treasurer, Mrs. Thelma Pressick; secretary, Mrs. George Dalghren; financial secretary, Mrs. James Barrons. Meetings are to be held every Wednesday afternoon, the first to be held November 29 at the home of Mrs. Lorne Bowen.

The meeting concluded with prayer by Mrs. John Kinnaird, dedicating the work of the patriotic society.

Eastern Star Drive.

A general canvass for funds to carry on their war service work will be sponsored Thursday by the Havelock chapter of the Eastern Star. It is the aim of this organization to send out a Christmas box containing a sleeveless sweater, socks and wristlets, to all those who have enlisted from Havelock and district. Members of the Eastern Star assisted by many of their friends are already busy knitting some of the garments. They have located their work room in the Albion Club rooms, where they meet every Friday afternoon. Several of the members have offered their homes for the purpose of holding card parties and afternoon teas, to aid in raising funds for their campaign.

Are the CLEANSING TISSUES You Buy 100% MADE IN CANADA?

Many disposable cleansing tissues have "Made in Canada" printed on the boxes although the tissue is made in the U.S.A.

We have documentary evidence to prove this—evidence from a Department of our Canadian Government.

Read the claims for our 100% made in Canada tissues. If you think that Canadian raw materials should be used first, that Canadian railways should do the hauling first, and that Canadian mills should be kept working first, give our tissues—a trial.

OUR TISSUES ARE AVAILABLE UNDER DIFFERENT TRADE NAMES AS FOLLOWS:
"Caresse" at Loblaw's.
"Face-Elle" at Drug Stores.
"Fastidia" at A. & P.
"Gibson's" at Grocery Stores.
"Velvetta" at Independent Drug Stores.
"White Velvet" at Simpson's.

The same high quality is available in each of the above brands.

Any Tissues NOT mentioned above are NOT made in our mill

Two Challenge Offers!

$500.00 will be paid to the first person who will deliver to us before December 31, 1939, for testing purposes, a box containing disposable cleansing tissues (not made in our mill, but made anywhere in the world) that are as strong and as thin as Gibson's Face Tissues.

$500.00 will be paid to the first person who will deliver to us before December 31, 1939, for testing purposes, a box containing disposable cleansing tissues (not made in our mill, but made anywhere in the world) that as far as sulphur content is concerned, are as pure as Gibson's Face Tissues.

Moreover, if either of these Challenges is successfully met, we undertake to publish the actual facts in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

The above Challenge Offers were first made on February 1, 1939, and have not been accepted to date. Our tissues are definitely stronger and softer than those made last February.

Here are two reproductions from unretouched photographs. The upper one shows the surface of a cleansing tissue NOT made in our mill. The lower one shows the surface of Gibson's Face Tissue. Inside each circle, the surface is magnified 6 times. See the difference in texture for yourself! This shows you why Gibson's Face Tissues are *Soft.

Result: The active sulphur content was approximately 0.0004%. This is considerably below the maximum content permissible in anti-tarnish paper suitable for wrapping silverware (.0008%).

This means that Gibson's Face Tissues are of the highest possible PURITY . . . a point of paramount importance to consider when buying anything to be used on the face.

This report was made by the standard method of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry, and is signed by the leading research laboratory in Ontario (name on request).

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP). — Winston Churchill will spend his 65th birthday at the Admiralty. He spent his 40th birthday there, too.

War brought this man—one of Great Britain's most versatile, dynamic statesmen—back to the key post he held at the outbreak of the first great war.

Now as in 1914 he is engaged in directing the war against the U-boat menace and the grim business of blockading Germany. British warships patrol the seas, on the alert for enemy craft, convoying vital supplies. This is the responsibility of the First Lord of the Admiralty.

Mr. Churchill is at the Admiralty early and late. He often sleeps there.

The success of the Royal Navy in hunting down and sinking submarines has encouraged the nation. But there have been serious losses. The aircraft carrier Courageous and the battleship Royal Oak have been torpedoed and other craft lost. And Mr. Churchill candidly admitted in parliament that the defences of Scapa Flow were not adequate when a German submarine entered that base and sank the Royal Oak.

But the First Lord remains high in public confidence. People realize he only assumed office on the outbreak of war. They are confident he will see that things are done properly.

Wasted No Time.

He has not wasted his time. He has been to Paris for talks with the Minister in charge of France's navy, Cesar Campinchi. He has visited northern naval bases and he has energetically taken hold of the manifold administrative duties of office at the Admiralty itself.

Political gossips are wondering if Mr. Churchill will become Prime Minister to cap his long Cabinet service. Since 1908 he has held many different Cabinet jobs. He has been President of the Board of Trade, Home Secretary, First Lord of the Admiralty (twice), Minister of Munitions, War Secretary, Air Secretary, Colonial Secretary and Chancellor of the Exchequer.

But the highest office of all may yet elude him. Prime Minister Chamberlain, still vigorous despite his 70 years, may remain in office throughout the war. Failing that, Mr. Churchill's strongest rival is Sir Samuel Hoare.

Meanwhile the public has become accustomed to pictures of Mr. Churchill entering the Admiralty, with vigorous stride, a cigar gripped between his teeth, and it hopes he'll stay there.

Peterborough's Farming Industry Built On Cheese And Hogs; Cheese Board Once One Of Best

By F. E. ELLIS in Family Herald and Weekly Star.

Peterborough is an attractive county. What is worthless for agriculture—and there is a lot of it—is a mecca for tourists. Who has not heard of the Kawartha Lakes? They rival the Muskoka Lakes in their beauty and annually draw thousands of summer visitors from the cities of Canada and the United States. Then there is the city of Peterborough, one of the finest industrial centres of eastern Canada and home of such well known industries as Canadian General Electric, De Laval Separator Company and Quaker Oats, to mention only a few of them. Here also is the famous Peterborough lift-lock. Until the Panama canal was built, it was the largest monolithic concrete structure in the world. This great lock, a triumph in engineering skill and a monument to political extravagance, will take an ordinary lake steamer, lift it 65 feet, and send it on its way up the Trent Canal.

Agriculture is confined almost exclusively to the southern townships and, even here, nature has been more bountiful with scenery than with the level land. In this rolling park-like country, however, there is much good soil and a fine class of rural people. The writer can speak with authority on the latter point as he lived amongst them for a dozen years and a visit to Peterborough is like a trip back home. Considering the small part of the county that they farm, the agricultural production of these people compares favorably with the production of any similar area in Ontario. All of their activities centre around the dairy cow. Of the 42,000 head of cattle in the county, almost 20,000 are cows in milk. To supply the roughage for this big herd there are almost 40,000 acres in clover and mixed hay, 5,500 acres in alfalfa, 5,000 in sweet clover, and 3,800 acres in corn for the silo. The 53,000 acres of cleared pasture is supplemented by an even greater acreage of rough, bush pasture.

Oats have always been the popular grain crop with 42,000 acres, barley next with 8,000 acres and mixed grains, so popular in the western counties, only 7,000 acres. Peterborough is on the eastern fringe of the fall wheat country, but this great Ontario cash crop calls for nine to ten thousand acres and with an average yield that is right up near the top for the counties of the province. These field crops would constitute an extensive farming area if in one block but Peterborough folk prefer it as it is with their large areas of bush—a source of fuel and building material as well as considerable revenue.

The Good Old Cheese Days

It was cheese and hogs that built the farming industry of Peterborough. When I first went to Peterborough there was a cheese factory within a few miles of every farmer in the southern end of the county. The Peterborough cheese board was considered one of the best in the province. Up to 1910 there would be 5,000 cheese boarded every two weeks through the summer months. When I dropped in to see G. A. Gillespie, who has been a foremost figure in the dairy business of Peterborough for a lifetime, he took me upstairs to see the old black board on which the 47 factories were listed with the offerings of the factories still in operation when the last Board meeting was held. "Just eleven factories in the county now," commented Mr. Gillespie, and there was regret in his voice. His early business life had been intimately connected with that old cheese board.

It was the establishment of Mr. Gillespie's own dairy business in Peterborough in 1906, however, that marked the turn of the tide against the cheese factories. The creamery in connection with his city milk trade drew increasingly on factory milk supply. Now there are four creameries in the city of Peterborough and others at Lakefield, Harwood, Keene, Millbrook and Norwood with a small plant at Central Smith in what was once one of the best cheese districts of central Ontario. Incidentally, the plant that has grown up around the small building in which Mr. Gillespie started a revolution in the county's dairy business, and which is complete with everything from a creamery to a condenser, has also the facilities for manufacturing cheese. The day I was there, fourteen cheese had been put in the hoops. "Cheese is to us just what it is to the dairy industry—a safety valve," remarked this veteran dairyman. There is food for thought there. Are we in danger of forgetting the necessity of that safety valve—an established way to foreign markets?

Father and Son Work Together.

But let us see a little of Peterboro farms. That of C. E. Moore & Sons, in Smith Township, is representative of many of the best dairy farms of the country. There are 300 acres in all, with 150 acres worked. I have seen the herd on this farm evolve from Durhams to grade Holsteins and then on to a fine registered herd, fully accredited for the past nine years. Of the 40 head, 17 are milk cows. The herd sire is of Prince Edward Island breeding, Abegweit Blackstone, and should leave his imprint in type as well as production. His first five daughters to freshen have averaged 14,000 lbs. of milk and in the box stalls I saw a fine straight lot of calves. I also noticed a flock of grade Oxford ewes. "They are a pretty fair proposition," said Mr. Moore. "With weeds the scourge they now are, every hundred-acre farm should have 10 or 12 ewes."

Wheat is the cash crop on this farm, with 800 to 1,000 bushels grown, but in the previous two years it had been fed at home. A good sized flock of Barred Rocks also adds materially to the income. "It takes a little of everything to get along but as a mainstay it is hard to beat the cow," was Mr. Moore's comment on his business.

One of the fine features of this farm is that it will continue right on in the family. The second son, Jim, is just as enthusiastic a farmer and stockman as his father. He was grand champion showman in the students' "Royal" at the Kemptville Agricultural School and takes a prominent part in junior farmer activities. He will be either the third or fourth generation of Moores on the farm. This welding of families to their land from generation to generation is all to the good in the stabilizing of agriculture.

Charlie Brown, another of my old Peterboro friends, has a typical 100-acre farm, in Douro township. Cream hogs and poultry bring in the income. The farm is divided into seven 12-acre fields and there is a good bush that is not pastured. Mr. Brown confessed to me that although he has never sold a bushel of grain off the farm and purchases considerable feed at times, his fields are not as good as they once were. Last spring he experimented with commercial fertilizer. He purchased the ingredients, putting 350 lbs. ammonium phosphate and 150 lbs. muriate potash on 12 acres. He mixed 40 lbs. of this fertilizer with two bushels of oats for each acre, using an ordinary drill. The mixture was equivalent to 125 lbs. per acre of ready mixed fertilizer and cost $20 for the 12 acres. "It was not hard to see where I had missed with the fertilizer," said my friend enthusiastically. "Next year I will use 60 lbs. to the acre. I would expect it to be even better with barley as that crop does not amount to much unless it gets off to a good start."

Out toward Lake Chemong, a number of the best farms are owned by the Mann family, pioneers in the district. One of the best of these is Pinecrest Farm. When J. Gordon Mann moved on to this 200 acres back in 1899 there was much of it half cleared, but no buildings. To-day there is a fine brick house, substantial buildings for the Ayrshire herd and 160 acres laid out in big fields. As I mentally figured on the thousands and thousands of dollars that it would take to erect such buildings to-day, I asked Mr. Mann just how it was done. "A lot easier than it could be done now," he assured me. "All of the lumber was out on the place. Carpenters got $1.25 a day and boarded themselves. They worked long hours and worked hard as did all the rest of us."

We first strolled out into a fifteen-acre field of second crop alfalfa. It was a perfect stand. The first crop had gone into the silo along with molasses as a preservative. "We have always grown corn for the silo, but, as I see it now, we will have no more corn on this farm," commented Mr. Mann. We crossed the lane to a 25-acre field of alfalfa—also a perfect stand. I was almost startled to learn that both fields were due to be plowed this fall, it seemed almost criminal to plow up such perfect stands. "That has always been our plan," I was told. "We will have grain next year seeded down again to alfalfa. It is a two-year rotation with, in the past, a field of corn and roots worked in occasionally. The more clover sod you plow under the stronger your soil, is our experience."

Pinecrest was once a Holstein establishment, but all of the black and whites were lost in the test in 1925, and a start was then made with Ayrshires. The herd now numbers 40 to 50 head and is shown under the name of J. Gordon Mann & Son. The milking herd varies widely from eight to 15, "according to what the other fellow wants." As cream is sold, hogs are a natural sideline and 60 are turned off annually. It was when we came to the poultry that I got a surprise. This end of the business has been developed to commercial proportions. There were 500 White Leghorn layers, which are strictly confined, and the high quality eggs are sold on the market in Peterborough and to private customers on an egg route at retail prices. I congratulated Mr. Mann on what he and his wife had accomplished in one short lifetime — a farm and home built from the rough and a business established with at least four substantial sources of income—breeding stock, cream, hogs, and poultry.

Then there is Allan B. Mann. He is on the old Mann homestead. He was burned out a few years ago, and the new home that he has built — a fine brick house — has a site on the shore of Lake Chemong that a millionaire might covet for a summer home. On this farm there is an exhibition herd of dual purpose Shorthorns as well as some fine Clydesdales and Yorkshire swine. His son is the fifth generation on the farm and an enthusiastic young farmer. Incidentally, Allan Mann is Reeve of the township.

And so we might go on, up one road and down another. To a greater extent than in most of the counties of old Ontario, the descendants of pioneer families are still working the land. Those early pioneers accomplished wonders in their generation. They cleared the land and built homes. They constructed roads and established churches and schools. Their sons, and grandsons, have built on the foundations they so well laid, their greatest contribution being imported live stock.

Bride-Elect Given Kitchen Shower

DOURO, Nov. 30—(ENS)—Hon. oring Mary Leahy, a bride-elect of next week, Misses Mary Walsh and Isobel Towns were hostesses to some thirty-five girls at a kitchen shower held at Miss Walsh' home on Wednesday evening. A complete set of kitchen equipment in cream and green enamel was presented to the bride in a prettily decorated cradle carried in by Misses Isobel Towns and Madeline Sullivan. Miss Towns read an address of appreciation and good wishes. Progressive euchre was played, prize winners being: High score, Anna Cavanagh, consolation, Teresa Hayes. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses and assistants. During the evening Miss Loretto Cavanagh, vice-president, on behalf of St. Joseph's Sodality, presented Miss Leahy with a beatiful statute of the Blessed Virgin.

Interned Aliens Fed Same As The Troops

KINGSTON, Nov. 30—(CP) — Enemy nationals interned for the duration of the war in old Fort Henry near here have the same rations as Canadian soldiers, according to a representative of the Dominion Government's public information office who visited the camp.

The internes have no complaints about their treatment, apart from complaining about their lost freedom, the official visitor reported. A German chef, interned wth them, is in charge of the cooking, and daily writes out his essen karte (bill of fare).

A sample menu gave the interned aliens a breakfast of potato cake and bacon, bread and coffee. For lunch they had boiled beef, potatoes, cabbage, bread and butter and coffee, with a supper of rice soup, bread and butter and coffee.

Another day they breakfasted on oatmeal, bacon, bread and butter and coffee, had a lunch of Irish beef stew, potatoes and tea, and a supper of jellied beef and pork, bread and butter, and coffee.

Internees are encouraged in their hobbies. One internee, a civil engineer, passes his time sketching his comrades. A woodworker carves souvenirs, another man paints Christmas cards. A radio amateur, deprived of a real set, ironically has an imitation aerial of string in his room.

Parcels and mail can be sent and received post free, and at certain periods the internees may receive visitors. The outsiders are welcomed with German songs and typical German greetings. The visitor and the internee chat freely across a table in the visitors' room with no suggestion of the iron bars of prison style.

Mouse Chews Matches 3 People Flee Fire

SIMCOE, Ont., Nov. 30—(CP).—A mouse went on a diet of matches early today at a cost of $1,400 and a narrow escape from death by fire for three persons resulted.

It happened at the home of Miner Earle, eight miles west of Simcoe. The mouse, chewing matches, set a dresser scarf on fire. The flames travelled to a coal oil lamp which exploded.

Fire spread through the bedroom where Mrs. Albert Earle, 87, and her daughter, Cansetta, 59, were sleeping. The former's screams aroused her son, Miner, who rushed her in night clothes to safety outside. The daughter also was forced to flee in her night attire.

Miner raced back into the burning house and came out with a stove and a few chairs, but was able to save nothing else.

The house was a five-roomed frame dwelling. There was no insurance on the contents.

Vote Upon Peace When It Comes

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP)—Arthur Greenwood, deputy leader of the Labor Opposition in the House of Commons, has declared the British electorate must be given an opportunity of expressing its views on the lines peace terms shall take as soon as possible after an armistice.

The House was arguing a bill which included suspension of publication of the register of parliamentary voters possibly for even longer than the end of the war.

Greenwood admitted if war continued and a general parliamentary election became impracticable it might be that the government would ask for a prolongation of its life. While that was not a prospect Labor regarded with enthusiasm it might be secured.

But, he declared, whatever the nature of the government which had conducted the war and brought it to a successful armistice, there must be a general election. "It is of vital importance for the future of the world that when the thunder of war has died away and we with other nations have to face the gigantic task of making peace permanent the voice of the men and women of this country shall be heard."

HALIFAX, Nov. 30 — (CP). — The Scots'll be havin' a haggis, an' war or no war, it'll hae Auld Country oatmeal in it.

All the ingredients for this fabulous delicacy are obtained in Nova Scotia—all, that is, except Old Country oatmeal. And a goodly supply of that was obtained before the war. There's enough in fact, to provide oatcakes to be served with the haggis.

Bearing the haggis when it's piped around at to-morrow night's feast will be George Poston, who's performed this ceremony here on St. Andrew's Night for the last 42 years.

SAPPERS TIGHTEN HOLD ON TOP OF "Y" HOUSE CAGE LEAGUE

Canada Plans On Holding Empire Games

HAMILTON, Nov. 30 — (CP). — The British Empire Games Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada is proceeding with plans to hold the Empire Games at Montreal in 1942 despite the uncertainty caused by the war, Dr. A. S. Lamb of Montreal, vice-chairman of the committee, told the annual meeting of the Union yesterday.

"Nobody knows, of course, whether hostilities will be over, but we must conclude these preliminary plans," Dr. Lamb said.

Dr. Lamb's announcement came close to the end of the convention. On the final day the union took action to protect the amateur status of athletes during the war and re-elected its entire slate of officers.

"It was decided last April that the Games would go to Montreal if adequate guarantees were submitted," Dr. Lamb said.

Adequate guarantees have been received from the City of Montreal and from the Montreal Tercentenary Commission, which plans to stage the contests in connection with the city's 300th birthday celebration. The organizing committee has approved the city's plans, Dr. Lamb said, "and they are to be forwarded to the Empire Games Federation in London, where it is expected that final ratification will be given."

Sir Edward Beatty was re-elected chairman of the Games Committee, and Dr. Lamb was urged to accept the post of honorary secretary.

On motion of C. E. Higginbottom of Toronto, the full slate of officers was re-elected as follows: G. S. Halter, Winnipeg, president; Prof. N. C. Hart, London, Ont., vice-president; John Leslie, Edmonton, secretary; C. C. Robinson, Winnipeg, treasurer.

On a motion submitted by Professor Hart and endorsed unanimously, the constitution of the union was amended to provide for the protection of amateur athletes, who, while in the service of His Majesty, competes with or against a profesional, and the tatus of an amateur who competes with or against a professional who is in the service.

This action was taken coincident with a suggestion from the Alberta branch, which urged that "the amateur status of athletes be not impaired under such circumstances, provided, however, that all competitors be bona-fide components of the Militia."

The union nominated three athletes it considered eligible to receive the Lou E. Marsh Memorial Trophy presented annually to Canada's outstanding athlete, amateur or professional. The three are Joe Gagnon and Harry Hurst, Montreal boxers, and Larry O'Connor, outstanding Toronto hurdler.

The 1940 track and field championship was awarded to the Hamilton Olympic Club, while some city in Alberta, yet to be named, will hold the next annual convention.

A special committee was appointed to decide whether the old Eastern Ontario branch of the union would continue as a separate entity, or would be amalgamated with either the Central Ontario or the Quebec branches.

Rough Riders Are Careful Of Their Play

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—(CP)—The three-year regime of Coach Ross Trimble of Ottawa Rough Riders has set the big fellow up as a gridiron great, a man who makes pigskin magic with baffling plays but does not depart from orthodox football.

The old idea of two bucks and a kick is still there. Trimble dressed it up with some fancy manoeuvres but the new champions of the Big Four shun the razzle-dazzle Toronto Argonauts displayed when they ruled the football empires.

The Trimble system calls first for a powerful ground attack, driving behind the collosal line. Kicking and forward passing are secondary attacks. All the way it is careful, planned strategy, worked out on the chalk board and then enacted on the field.

Rough Riders used it all season in the drive to the Big Four title and will trot it out again against Sarnia Imperials in Toronto Saturday in the Eastern final.

Second Champion Team

With exceptional patience, Trimble has fashioned the second Ottawa team to go through to an Eastern final in 13 years. Back in 1926, Riders' trimmed University of Toronto for the Dominion title and then there was a lean decade until Ottawa won the Big Four in 1936 only to be ousted in the Eastern title game by Sarnia.

Trimble came to the capital in 1937 after he played with Balmy Beach from 1927-30 and then coached a series of junior and intermediate teams in Toronto.

His first two years were hard. There was criticism and opposition on and off the gridiron about his playing system. But he slapped it all down and went to work, pruining a bit here, grafting a little there.

It was Trimble who brought players to Ottawa like Murray Griffin, Tony Golab, Arnie McWatters, Sammy Sward and Jack Taylor. He handled Wilf Tremblay, the French-Canadian speed artist, and taught him to play good football on the backfield in big time.

Not only that, but he worked on himself. To Trimble football is a science that has to be studied to be mastered. He attended the best coaching schools on the continent in the summer.

Ontario Bonspiel To Be Held Again

TORONTO, Nov. 30—At the organizatio nmeeting of the committee in charge of the annual Ontario bonspiel it was decided to carry on as usual this year, and as a result the thirteenth annual gathering of the curlers of the Province will be held in this city from Monday, Feb. 19 to Friday, Feb. 23. There was considerable discussion regarding several suggestions for the conducting of this year's 'spiel, owing to the war but it was finally and almost unanimously decided to follow the procedure of previous years. A determined effort will be made to curtail expenses as far as possible, but all the features will be maintained.

The officers elected were: Honorary chairman, Ray K. Knight; chairman, George Stronach; vice-chairmen, H. D. Paterson, O. M. Moore, Robert Fleming and Thomas Kennedy; treasurer, J. B. McCuaig, secretary, W. J. Stewart, 84 Wellington Street West. The executive is composed of the above officers, the twelve previous chairmen and R. G. L. Harstone, Hamilton; Frank P. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

And now an anxious world can relax—after a bit of argument for a day or two—and settle down to Xmas shopping and plans for next grid season. On account of The Canadian Press has picked its All-Eastern squad for the 1939 semester, aided by coaches and sports editors. First team has Davies at flying wing, Storey, Thompson and Golab at halves, and Bill Stukus at quarter. Line includes Willis at snap, Herman and Staughton at insides, Wadsworth and D. Sprague middles, and Thornton and McCarthy at the end. Second squad puts Woodcock at the f.w. spot, Moroz, Isbister and Ferraro at halves, and Hurley at quarter. Living is snap, with Butler and Reid insides, Burns and Telford middles, and I. Norris and Moore outsides. If ya don't know these gees and whom they play for—well, that's okay. If ya do, you'll realize they're two good teams.

A liberal hunk of Irish in us makes us question everything and dispute a lot of things. So we must say that the first team hasn't a good kicker, the second team has Ferraro because of his past rep, that there are a coupla doubtful ones—whom we don't know much about — and finally no local gridder is mentioned. Otherwise, the selections are hunky-dory with a chocolatey strumberry flavor. Taken by and large, or even around the block for a bit of air, the C.P. selections sound pretty good to this corner, and our own votes clicked to a large extent. It will be noted that there is a ton or so of beef on the first team's line, made up mostly of Ottawa huskies, which shows what is a fundamental building process in a winning outfit. Both teams are good, with the first squad—but naturally, mon chicadee—an even money bet to trounce the secondary gang by a goodish margin.

Come All Ye Faithful

There were eight shops represented at the first meeting—last week—of the brand new Industrial Hockey League. They were Quakers, C.G.E., Westclox, Ventilating Shade, Brintons, Lock Co., Raybestos and Outboard Marines. These and other factories interested in entering a team this winter should be represented at tonight's meeting at eight in Duffus', when entries are closed. Ossifers are: Prexy, Larry Maguire; vice-president, Bo Hunt; secretary, Cliff Chapman; treasurer, Leo Deadey. Executive to include a member of each club. Be on deck and ready to vote on various points which will come up as this promising manufacturing puck loop gets organized.

No doubt Coach Frank Buckland of the Petes' puckists is having himself a headache these evenings figuring out his defence. After all, a coach without a headache would look like Dotty Lamour without a sarong, eh? Frank has a good goalie and a good understudy. He also has six or seven okay forwards, with a few left over. And he has to pick a defence from half a dozen pretty fair bumpers. We know three — after a very brief glance at the dusty old crystal ball—and nobody can tell us anything else. They're Don Crowe, Drake Jopling and Jack Gardner. We haven't seen Jopling on defence in several years—Drake having played lately for N'Yawk Rovers and up north. But we know Crowe and Gardner are two bashing blue-line defenders, tough babies who glory in smacking incoming forwards up into the third row of pews, when possible.

They Can't Hurt Us

Personally, we like bashing defencemen. Though the writer also appreciates good blocking birds like Lorne Gray and Doug Brennan. And a "second goalie" like Lionel Conacher used to be. But up there safe in the press box (where they can't hurt us) we like to view a defenceman who throws his body and soul, especially his body, into his task. Like most of the pros do. It depends, of course, on how the forwards backcheck and how the goalie likes his blue-line guardians to play the opposing attackers — all this has a bearing often on how a defence plays. Nevertheless, we like to see these bruisers bounce 'em so hard they look like gal students coming out of Collegiate after a stiff lesson on higher economics!

Should be some lively play in the Simcoe St. stronghold on the morrow, with the public invited to give it a look.

About Puss Pidruzny

Weeks ago we remarked that Pidruzny, Sarnia's rookie plunger, would make Imps' fans in time forget Tony Golab. This is what Ted Reeve says: "A feature of the Windsor reunion will be the meetings head-on of Master Golab and his little chum, Puss Pidruzny. You have not heard so much of this last-mentioned powerful Pole, but in the recent rise of the Oilers this thick-set 196-pound feller who is having his first year in senior has been a regular firecracker. He broke up the majority of the Beach passing plays and against Westmounts he was the brave boy who finally stopped, or at least slowed down, the great John Ferraro. Signor John, who has not quite had his heart in his work this year, tore off one of his old-time crashing displays to almost beat Sarnia. He and young Pidruzny had a dozen level-crossing crashes and Johnny (one of the best sportsmen to ever knock the back out of a line) came over after the game and congratulated young Puss on his tackling. John, who is built like a buffalo and hits as hard, said he had never been jolted up as much by any tackler as he was Saturday by the big Windsor youth."

Next summer was to have seen the 1940 Olympic Games. And little Finland was to have been the host—spending a great deal of money already in preparation for the memorable occasion. The Finns—peaceable, courageous and scrupulously honest — almost worship athletics. Alas, justice takes an awful kicking around by dictators, and today this gallant tiny nation has been invaded by the slimy, monstrous hordes of Red Russia. A huge vulture country which would never attack if Britain and France were not already engaged in a war. Sports lovers the world over must weep at the foregone futility of Finland's brave defence of homeland.

Thomas Refuses To Be Quoted

Should the investigations being conducted by the New York Boxing Commission into the charges of fixed fights made by Harry (Trial Horse) Thomas interest you, here is a picture of almost all the action that took place at the commission offices. Thomas was summoned and questioned about his charges, made in Chicago, as far as they pertained to the Schmeling fight, but exercised the right of a witness to refuse to answer questions, and when the meeting was over no one was any wiser than they had been before it started. It's unlikely that anyone ever will be, because as soon as Harry admits to having had a part in any fixed fight he becomes indictable under the criminal code.

Blue Bombers Being Worked Hard

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30 — (CP). — When Coach Reg Threlfall and Manager Joe Ryan went East last week-end to scout the Eastern football semi-final at Toronto they left the veteran Greg Kabat in charge of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and "Old Hardrock" worked the Western champions so hard they heaved a sigh of relief when Threlfall returned.

Bombers turn out for practice at Osborne Stadium each night shortly after six o'clock and Threfall usually has them in the showers by eight. Kabat figures two hours of football each night is "sissy stuff."

The coach and Ryan were absent from only three practices, excluding Saturday and Sunday, and Hardrock called for scrimmaging each night, sending the entire squad through full-dress workouts they claimed were "twice as tough" as a regular game. Kabat kept them practising until nearly nine o'clock the night before Threlfall's return, then ordered every man to run three laps around the field.

The measures were drastic, but Threlfall found the players "full of steam" when he took over on Tuesday night. They'll fight their hearts out any time for Kabat, former Wisconsin University star expected to be the steadying influence in the Dominion final on December 9.

Hardrock is the drive-shaft in the Bomber locomotive. His caustic comments to the players, usually audible in the stands, goad them to greater effort in each game. He picks out the offensive and defensive weaknesss and corrects them if possible on the field. He does not generally play quarterback, but frequently calls the signals in critical spots.

Trimble Favors The Five-Yard Zone

OTTAWA, Nov. 30—(CP). — The coach who has developed the most powerful blocking line in the east, Ross Trimble of Ottawa Rough-riders, last night advocated a five-yard intereference zone for Canadian football.

"Ten-yard interference would be too much, for it would take away the lateral pass—the prettiest play we have and a feature of the real Canadian game," he said.

"Five yards would be plenty. It's admitted that the defence has caught up with the offence in Canadian football if it hasn't passed it and some steps should be taken to break it down a little.

"People like to see scoring in football games, but if the defence can throttle all running plays they're not going to see much. But five yards should be enough. It would permit blocking out the secondary defence and after that a ball carrier should be on his own."

He thought the suggestions of Coach Bill Storen of University of Western Ontario and Coach Doug Kerr of McGill to open the game up with 10-yard interference would do football more harm than good.

The Riders' coach also came out for resuming after half-time at the point where the last play was stopped at the end of the second quarter.

Landis Slaps Fines On Big League Clubs

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP).—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, with a vehement denunciation of several clubs for the "evil practices" of concealing player contracts from his office, imposed fines totalling $2,500 yesterday on four teams, including Detroit Tigers of the American League and Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League.

Granting free agency and back salary awards to several players, the Commissioner fined Detroit $500; Brooklyn, $500; Dayton, Ohio, of the Midatlantic League and a property of the Dodgers, $1,000, and Columbus of the American Association, owned by St. Louis Cardinals, $500.

From his investigation, Landis said a lengthy statement, "it appears that clubs are signing players to contracts and term acceptances which are never filed for promulgation...." and added that "repeated denunciations of these evil practices having proved unavailing, notice is given all clubs that a fine of not less than $500 will be imposed in all cases where clubs hereafter engage in these practices."

The Commissioner, who in 1938 denounced the Cardinals' farm system, also mentioned the Cardinals in yesterday's edicts. Pointing out that it is an evasion of rules for one club to authorize another to sign its players, Landis granted free agency to five players of the Duluth, Minn., team which has a working agreement with the Cardinals.

Detroit was fined after investigation of the case of Charles H. Tefft, signed to a 1939 contract with the Alexandria, La., team, with which Detroit has a working agreement. The contract never was filed, Landis said, yet Tefft subsequently was sent to Hot Springs, Ark., then to Tiffin, Ohio, which latter club released him May 15, 1939.

Boston Bruins To Get Along Without Shore

BOSTON, Nov. 30 — (AP). — Unless forced to do otherwise, because of further injuries to defencemen, Boston Bruins will complete the remainder of the National Hockey League season without the services of Eddie Shore, their outstanding star for the last thirteen years.

Manager Art Ross made this statement to-day, despite the fact that Shore is under contract to play in all home games after December 15, and before if needed. He failed to appear for Tuesday night's game against Toronto, which resulted in a 6-2 victory for the Bruins.

"Eddie has a tremendous investment in his Springfield International-American League club, and we respect his wishes to give it all possible attention," Ross said.

"Therefore he has played his last game for us unless injuries to other defence players compel us to demand that he fulfil his agreement. The pre-season injury to Jack Crawford was the reason Shore played in our first three home games. We wanted him again last night, but he let us down.

"Shore had invested about $40,000 when he came to us last July and told us that the International-American League officials would not give him the Springfield franchise until he had straightened himself out with the Bruins.

"Realizing Eddie's predicament, the Bruins' management tried to help him in every way and arranged a liberal contract for him—$200 a game for all home games and $300 a game for all of the post-season playoffs. He expressed keen delight when he signed it.

"We intended to make him a free agent on or before next May 1 and also agreed to permit him to play for Springfield next season and thereafter.

"I fear, however, that he does not realize if he severs all connection with our club and signs an International-American player contract, which he must do to play for his Springfield club, he will be subject to the National Hockey League's draft rules after the 1940-41 season."

Ross also announced the outright purchase of George Brown, a forward, from Montreal Canadiens. Brown will be sent to the Bruins' International - American League farm at Hershey and will be converted into a defenceman. Brown was suspended by Canadiens when he refused to report to New Haven.

Holzbaugh Team Practically In

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—If it weren't that thousands of Detroit and Windsor hockey fans wouldn't know what to do with their Monday nights from now until mid-April, the Holzbaugh and Windsor hockey teams could start their Michigan-Ontario Amateur Hockey League title playoffs right away, instead of waiting five months.

The Holzbaughs further convinced M. O. followers of their might when they skated through the Stratford team for a 6-2 victory at Olympia Monday night, before a crowd of 9,817.

It was the eighth successive game without defeat for this team which is packed with speedy, rangy Red Wing possibilities and it increased to three full games the lead it has established over the second place Windsor and Stratford teams.

The Windsor team which has tied the Detroiters twice appears to be the only club capable of extending the Holzbaughs through the season unless some of the other clubs are overhauled before the deadline for signing new players is reached January 15.

Artillery Wins Over Tanks As Bombers Lose

Sappers tightened their hold on first place by trouncing Pursuit Squadron 28-8; while Artillery laced Tank Corps 21-16 and Machine Gunners beat Bombers 28-12 in last night's "Y" house league basketball games. The results pushed Sappers and Machine Gunners further ahead of the field and brought the Artillery back into the running as league swings into the second half of the schedule.

Sappers gained a small lead in the first half, 7-3, and then turned it on in the final period to gain at 21-4 margin and finish going away. Pursuit Squadron tossed away many nice scoring chances with poor shooting where as the winners were far ahead around the basket. Play was fast and fairly rough with the winners having 3 fouls and Pursuit Squadron having 7 with the later losing one player with four fouls. Sedgewick lead the winners with 9 points and McIntyre and Whaley stood out at guard for the winners. J. Patterson and Kingdon leading Pursuit Squadron.

A Late Rally.

Artillery made a last half rally after trailing 12-11 at the half mark to outscore Tank Corps 10-4 and win 21-16. This game was a mixture of good and bad basketball with both teams counting mostly free well out, and neither having much of a passing attack. Both squads missed a large percentage of their scoring chances under the basket. Gillespie lead the winners with 9 points and Ascott and Thomas starred defensively. Weese was high scorer for Tank Corps with 6 points.

Machine Gunners outplayed the Bombers all the way, to take a decisive 28-12 victory They lead at the half 15-6 and kept well ahead at all times although once or twice Bombers appeared to rally to cut down the winners lead. It was hard and fast throughout with both teams being called for fouls often. The winners got a lot of their points on break-aways while Bombers got theirs on long shots The winners scoring was well split up, McPherson leading with 8 while Gillespie lead Bombers with 4. The teams:

Sappers: Stewart, Marshall, West, McIntyre, Sedgewick, Whaley.

Tank Corps: Rogow, Rennie, Broadley, Weese, Dyer.

Artillery: Currie, Craig, Gillespie, Thomas, Ascott.

Bombers: Murray, D. Moorhead, Levine, Gillespie, Grose, E. Moor-

EDDIE THOMPSON CRASHES EASTERN CANADA'S ALL-STAR TEAM

Rest Of Team Restricted To Provincials

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—(CP).—Little Eddie Thompson of the flying feet crashed the top flight of Eastern Canada's football all-stars today, but the rest of the first team was restricted to players from the Interprovincial Union.

Thompson, whose running made Toronto Balmy Beach a constant threat in the Ontario Union, was voted to the all-eastern first team along with five players from Ottawa's Big Four champions, five from Toronto Argonauts and Bill Davies of Montreal Royals.

The second team, on the other hand, was restricted to players from the Intercollegiate and Ontario Unions, with the exception of Bob Isbister of Hamilton Tigers. The only difference between the first team and the Big Four all-stars, announced two weeks ago, lay in the inclusion of Thompson and the dropping of Isbister.

The teams were selected for the Canadian Press by 24 coaches and sports writers in the senior football cities of the East. The vote was "weighted" on the basis of the number of teams representing each city.

Great All-Round Machine

The main cogs in the powerful units that crashed headlong when Ottawa's Rough Riders overthrew the Argos in the Big Four championship test at Toronto last Saturday were included in the first string. To round out a great all-around machine there was the swift end-sweeping of Thompson and the dead-earnest defensive play of Davies.

Perhaps the naming of Thompson left the first team without a great kicker, but Eddie himself or Tony Golab could handle the punting chore acceptably enough in a collection like this. No one in the O.R.F.U. was near Thompson in yardage gained and in some quarters he has been regarded as the player of the year.

With Bill Stukus passing from the quarterback spot, Storey and Thompson striking around the ends and Golab at the line, the team wouldn't have to do much kicking. When it did, it could be sure of perfect protection from the well-buttressed front line and magnificent downfield tackling by Bernie Thornton and Tony McCarthy at the outside-wing positions.

Three selectors failed to make unanimous the choice of Thornton, a great pass-catcher as well as tackler, and only six failed to vote the massive Bunny Wadsworth to middle wing on the first squad. They were the players nearest to entire recognition, with the high-kneed Storey not far behind.

Picked For Line

Picked to work at inside wing beside Willis were 270-pound Tiny Herman, who steps out of the line to kick bull's-eyes from placement for Ottawa, and the hard-driving Len Staughton, who coached the Argos' wingline as well as leading it in hole-opening. Wadsworth and the evergreen Dave Sprague, two of the best teeth-rattlers in the East when they plunge, made the middle wing selections an all-Ottawa business.

Captain Alf Hurley of the University of Western Ontario's great unbeaten, untied team was named quarterback on the second team and Claude Moore, captain-elect of Western for 1940, gained an outside wing position. The only other intercollegiate player on the second squad was Murray Telford, McGill's stolid middle wing.

Five members of the Sarnia Imperial team that won the Ontario Union title last week by defeating Montreal Westmounts were given second-team rating. They were large Henry Living and Pat Butler at snapback and inside respectively, aggressive Ike Norris at outside wing, Joe Woodcock at flying wing and Bernie Moroz, highest scorer in the East, at halfback.

Joe Ryan Denies Consenting To Ottawa Park

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30 — (CP). — Joe Ryan, manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said in his column in the Winnipeg Free Press that he had not consented to the decision of the Canadian Rugby Union awarding the Dominion final to Ottawa should the Roughriders defeat Sarnia Imperials.

Ryan said that the Bombers, however, would abide by the C.R.U. decision, and commented:

"The least the governing powers might do is concede the Western titlists some voice in the selection of the Eastern grounds on which the final game is to be played."

Ryan said that he had learned through Frank Hannibal, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, that John Bannerman of Calgary, one of the Western members of the C.R.U. executive, had been informed by J. E. deLalanne, C.R.U. president, that "yours truly" consented to the final being staged in Ottawa if Roughriders won the Eastern crown.

Ryan said the Western C.R.U. executive members, John Bannerman, W. L. (Squibb) Ross of Calgary, and Prof. Whit Matthews of Edmonton, had been swayed in their decision to consent to the probable Ottawa game by deLalanne's words.

"Needless to say we are nonplussed, if not amazed," Ryan wrote. When called in by Mr. deLalanne we stated our views, which we later gave to the press in no ambiguous terms. We stated that we would abide by the ultimate decision of the C.R.U. executive (naturally we would have to) but that should such decision make us play in Ottawa or anywhere but Toronto, we would protest loud and long.

"Just how this could be interpreted as 'consenting' to playing in Ottawa is mighty hard to figure out.

"We are not accusing Mr. deLalanne of misinforming Bannerman ....But we would like an explanation from somebody."

Providence Reds Pressing Leaders

By The Canadian Press.

Usually contenders in the International-American Hockey League race, Providence Reds, off to a slow start this season, are beginning to press the leaders.

They still are in third place in the Eastern division but a couple more victories can put them right on top. Their victory over New Haven last night brought them to within a point of the second place Eagles and three points behind the leading Springfield Indians.

Paul Goodman, young Chicago farmhand who was in the nets for the Hawks in one game of their Stanley Cup final against Toronto Maple Leafs two seasons ago, was the star in the Rhode Islanders' victory as he shutout the Eagles 2-0.

Jack Shill started the scoring in the last minute of the opening period and Ab Demarco ended it late in the final session. Normie Mann and Bud Jarvis assisted on Shill's goal while Johnny Chad and Bob Carse in the clincher.

Westmount Ace

TOMMY BURNS

Picked on The Canadian Press second All-Eastern grid squad for middle wing is Tommy Burns, firebrand of Montreal Westmounts.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE SRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP).— Bill Dickey of the Yanks is minus a pair of infected tonsils, but don't expect it to improve his playing too much. ..Where did Don Meade get that grade A shiner? Did he bump into a door, or did Jockey Eddie Decamillis give it to him for a Xmas present? One guess...

Leo Durocher will sign his new Dodger contract at Cincinnati—for one year.. Joey Archibald is sleeping on a $20,000 offer to lay his featherweight title on the line against Simon Chavez in Venezuela in February.

Today's guest star.

John Drohan, Boston traveller: "Moe Berg was offered the chair of romantic languages at Princeton, his alma mater...He refused it, not because there wasn't enough money in it, but because he felt the post would be too confining, and Moe likes to get around."

High ranking baseball officials brought so much pressure to bear that his bishop has just about decided to permit Father Harold J. Martin to continue as president of the Canadian - American League. That's the best news of the hot stove league season.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30—(CP). — Toronto Goodyears of the Ontario Hockey Association scored the second victory of their exhibition tour of Eastern United States Hockey League points by defeating Baltimore Orioles 6 to 4 in overtime here last night. The Goodyears won their first game in River Vale, N.J., last night 9 to 1.

The Orioles battled the strong Toronto team to a 4 to 4 tie in the regulation three periods of the hard-fought game, but the Goodyears shoved across two goals in the extra period.

King, Toronto wing, counted the first overtime score, after 5.15 minues of play, on assists from Inglis and Laurent, and O'Flaherty, on the other wing, clinched the victory at 9:24 on a pass from Inglis.

Baltimore wa strailing 4 to 3 when Grigor scored unassisted late in the third period to knot the count.

Lady Luck And Four Lassies Bring $1,736.60 To Stranger From Texas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—(AP) — A Texan with a good hunch placed a $2 bet on four girls and two horses today—and won $1,736.30.

He saw the girls in a restaurant in the morning and asked them to play the daily double of Bowie race track for him.

"I never saw you before, but you look honest and lucky," he told them when he noticed them studying a scratch sheet. He had a hunch that two long-shots, Shalleen and Rib Roast, were going to win, and asked them to bet his $2 on them for the daily double.

He didn't know the girls' names, but he had given them his name, J. E. McWhorter, and his hotel address. And in midafternoon he got a wire from one of the girls:

"See you 6:30. You clicked plenty."

McWhorter waited in his room and figured out that his income tax on the money would be $426.80, since he'd have to pay the 18 per cent rate, just as on inheritance. He never doubted that the girls would turn up.

"I know an honest woman when I see one," the 42-year-old Houston lawyer drawled.

On the dot the girls drove up: Miss Corinne Dulin, Mrs. Edna Phelps, and Mrs. Edna Chambers and Mrs. Cora McAllister, all Telegraph Company employees.

"Well, here we are!" shrieked the girls.

"Well, well, well," was all McWhorter and his wife could say.

"You put the jinx on us!" Miss Dulin complained, for the girls had not bet on the daily double for themselves and hadn't cashed but one show ticket all afternoon.

Miss Dulin opened her pocketbook and showed a tight little roll, mostly $100 bills, and she counted them out in McWhorter's hat, for he had said in the morning, "I'll win a hatful." Betting on the winners was a pure hunch, he said, explaining that he seldom plays the horses.

He gave each of the girls $50, then turned over the rest to his wife.

Helsingfors and dropped five bombs on an airport on the outskirts of the city. Finnish anti-aircraft replied vigorously.

Reports from Helsingfors by the German news agency DNB said Russian planes dropped bombs on the eastern part of the city of Viborg, at the head of the Karelian isthmus.

(A Reuters news agency report said four Soviet planes flew over Helsingfors harbor and escaped coastal defence fire.

(Reports in Copenhagen said the Soviet fleet had been sighted from the Helsingfors waterfront.

(It was reported there also that a bomb, apparently intended for a woodpulp factory, had struck a nearby hospital. The raiders also droppped handbills in the Finnish language urging the Finns to cooperate with Russia, these reports said.)

Finns Work Calmly

Air defence guards quickly and calmly took up their stations atop the highest buildings in the city and scanned the horizon with binoculars or toured the streets, helping civilians find air raid shelters. Some manned fire prevention posts.

No bombs were dropped on the city of Helsingfors, but a small island in the harbor was bombed.

Streetcars, automobiles, trains and all other traffic was halted immediately the air-raid sirens sounded.

Sirens screamed the first air raid alarm at 9:20 a.m., (2:20 a.m., EST) as a foreign office spokesman announced, "It has started. The war is on."

The invaders also bombed Vibors and the Finnish industrial city of Ensoe.

Their troops attacked north of Lake Ladoga and cut off Suojaervi, a small butto nof Finnis hterritory extending into Russia and a strategic point in the Finnish defence plan.

They also cut off the so-called fishermen's peninsula near the Arctic ocean harbor of Petsamo.

After the first air raid, Soviet planes dropped handbills in Finnish saying:—

"You know we have food. You know we have bread. Why hunger?"

The first sound this correspondent heard after the thunder of bursting bombs and the barking of anti-aircraft batteries had died away was a chorus of singing, marching soldiers in Helsingfors streets.

All barracks were alive with calm activity.

Civilians Show No Panic.

Calm also was the keynote of civilian behavior. There was no panic

Anti-gas units appeared in the streets and Helsingfors' inhabitants slung gas masks over their shoulders.

The Russian fleet was said to have sailed from Kronstadt and to have participated in bombardments along the Karelian sea coast. The isthmus lies between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, north of Leningrad.

The announcement of war was made shortly after bombs had fallen on the airport from three Russian planes.

The crossing of the frontier preceded the air raid, the Government said, and was accompanied by some firing and an artillery bombardment of Terijoki.

Telephone communications with the Finnish city of Suojaervi, north of Lake Ladoga and almost 300 miles north of Terijoki, were reported broken by another Soviet artillery bombardment.

The first alarm in Helsingfors sounded at 9:20 a.m. and the sirens kept wailing for more than 10 minutes as three planes apparently Russian, were observed cruising high.

There was a blast of machine-gun fire in the centre of the city, then silence. The airplanes disappeared.

From 9:20 a.m. to 11:20 a.m. there were no more air alarms, no firing and no planes were observed.

Hopes of Peace End.

The Foreign Office spokesman's fateful announcement, "The war is on," wreacked the hopes of staying at peace which Finland had pinned on a conciliatory note handed to Russia after the Soviet Government broke off diplomatic relations last night.

The Finns, shocked by the rupture of relations before they could deliver their offer, had waited fearfully, aware that hostilities threatened.

Finland offered to withdraw her defence forces from her border with Russia near Leningrad, as the Soviet had demanded, and to submit other differences to investigation by a joint commission.

Although border patrols had been ordered to move back at various points to avoid clashes with Red troops. Finland's previous refusal to withdraw them 12 to 16 miles at Russia's insistence, led first to the Soviet's denunciation of the 1932 Finnish - Soviet non-aggression treaty and then to the break in relations.

Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko made the offer as a gesture toward peaceable settlement in replying to the Russian decision to annul the non-aggression pact. Erkko's note said:

"In order to prove emphatically there is a sincere effort to reach an accord with the Soviet government and refute the Soviet government's allegations that Finland has adopted a hostile attitude toward the U.S.S.R. and is desirous of threatening the security of Leningrad, my government is ready to settle with the Soviet government the question of the removal of Finnish defence forces stationed on the Karelin Isthmus, with the exception of frontier customs guard forces, to such a distance from Leningrad that it could not even be alleged that they threaten its security.

"My government is of the opinion that it is not justified to denounce the treaty of non-aggression which, according to the Protocol of 1934, remains in force without the right of denunciation until the end of 1945."

OFFICERS LEE AND CLEMENTS

Going into a spin as it was travelling through the air at 150 miles an hour, an Oxford bomber, similar to the one shown here, carried four men to their death at Trenton on Wednesday. The crash which ended in bushland five miles north of Trenton, took place in view of other pilots at the air training station The men killed were Pilot Officers Lee, Maher, Clements and A. C. Stemple. The machine is a service training ship carrying a crew of four men, pilot, co-pilot, radio-operator and gunner.

A Call to Britain?

LONDON, Nov. 30 (CP Cable)—G. A. Gripenberg, Finnish minister to Great Britain, today visited the foreign office shortly after it was announced the Red army had invaded Finland.

It was not immediately known whether the minister interviewed Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, or what was the purpose of his visit.

Great Britain has no obligation to go to Finland's assistance. Even if she wanted to, it would be extremely hazardous undertaking because of Finland's position in the Baltic.

There was no immediate official reaction to the Russian invasion but there can be no doubt that the sympathy of the British people rests with Finland.

Authoritative sources said it was a pity the Kremlin had ordered the invasion "without giving even polite attention" to the United States mediation offer. The British foreign office issued a communique last night expressing hope this offer would be accepted.

Whether the Russians will attempt to overrun Finland or merely grab the strategic points they deem necessary to the proper defence of the Leningrad industrial area remains to be seen. It is at least a possibility that Russia will agree to "negotiation" once these sections of Finnish territory have been seized by the Red army.

The Finnish legation here had no official information up to noon on the outbreak of hostilities. It was emphasized the attack was not a military surprise.

"Finland was completely prepared for such an eventuality," it was stated.

Wreckage was strewn about the vicinity and the twin motors lay on the ground connected only by a strip of metal. The fuselage was wrecked so that only the tail and fins were left intact. A crew from the airport required an hour to extricate the bodies from the jumbled mass.

The bomber was one of several modern trainers, made in Portsmouth, England, in which Canadian flying officers complete the third stage of their war training. They have an air speed of more than 200 miles an hour. David Post, a district farmer, said he believed the plane was travelling 150 miles an hour when it appeared to go out of control.

Only 1 of 20 Accepted.

Pilot Officer Lee was graduated last June from the University of Western Ontario. He was the only one of 20 applicants from the University to be accepted into the R. C.A.F. and went to Regina for training four days before the University's Convocation. He was a member of the London college's senior soccer team last year. He returned to Trenton on Monday after a week-end leave at home.

Pilot Officer Maher was a 1939 Science graduate of University of Toronto and was posted to the Winnipeg Flying Club last June. He was transferred to Trenton last month.

Pilot Officer Clements was graduated this year from University of New Brunswick at Fredericton and was posted to the Calgary Aero Club in June. He went to Trenton last month to train for his permanent commission.

Leading Aircraftsman Stempel a few years ago was the youngest licensed air engineer in Canada. He received most of his air training at Saskatoon. He was a native of Biggar, Sask.

Daladier's declaration was interpreted by the entrance of Communist Deputy Floorimond Bonte, who had been sought since his party was dissolved.

Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber of Deputies, stopped the session and ordered Bonte to leave. The deputy was escorted from the chamber and placed under arrest.

Daladier recalled that among the deputies before him were men "who during the course of their lives have seen their country ravaged or menaced by Germany."

Must Not Be Repeated.

He was cheered when he added: "We are resolved that we will not see that again."

"The time has not yet come to speak publicly of the goals and conditions of peace," the Premier told the cheering deputies at the opening of the special session of parliament.

"That peace can only be defined along general lines. It already has been, publicly and solemnly, by France and Great Britain, closely united by the tone of a single will.

"We want the peace of security. But what is necessary first is to win the war. That is the sole aim toward which we must bend all our energies."

The premier paid warm tribute to Italy's contribution to the maintenance of peace in the Mediterranean.

"Italian policy has in the last three months made the greatest contribution to the maintenance of peace in the Mediterranean," he said. "We showed by concrete acts that we are confident in the perseverence of the high motives that have inspired her, corresponding to our concern the respect the dignity and interests of Italy."

The Anglo-French military, political, and economic bloc, the Premier said, "rests on the vast resources of two immense empires. There is not the slightest fissure in this Franco British block, which is animated by the same and single inflexible determination to win."

Halifax Easing

Rigid Rulings.

But the regulations aimed at providing a complete blackout when necessary are rigid. No light must be left on in unattended premises after sundown someone must always be on hand to douse them—or cover them up, at an air raid warning.

Two hundred A. R. P. wardens, sworn in as special constables and organized into platoons, patrol the streets during the practice blackouts to enforce the rules. If a chink of light shows from a window, the householder or businessman is warned of the infraction.

Citizens are supposed to stay off the streets during the blackout periods. Cars must switch off their lights and pull into the curb. Tramcars halt ,with lights off. So do any trains that happen to be entering Halifax at the time.

Some places where employees work all night are permanently "blacked out" by light-tight wooden shutters over the windows. Others have flowing drapes that are dragged over the windows and doors at the signal. But the ordinary householder usually reaches for the switches and sits tight in the darkness until the "all clear" sounds out.

In the silence that envelops the city, the drone of an airplane's motor usually is heard as observers circle about looking for possible ways to improve the blackout.

Haligonians are entering into it whole heartedly. They cheerfully drop whatever they're doing to walk through the darkness. In fact, you can hear them grousing if a neighbor down the street should fail to block off his light on signal.

Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, indicated meanwhile that Congress might be asked to pass on the question of severing diplomatic relations with Russia.

Scores Red Switch

Making it plain that he was speaking as an individual and not for the government, the Nevada Democrat criticized severely what he said had been a recent turn in Russian foreign policy away from the peace doctrine advocated by Maxim Litvinoff, former foreign minister.

State Secretary Cordell Hull late yesterday made a public statement saying the American Government was watching the dispute with serious concern and would regret to see the present war extend to new fields.

"Without in any way becoming involved in the merits of the dispute and limiting its interest to the solution of the dispute by peaceful processes only," Hull coninued, "this government would, if agreeable to both parties, gladly extend its good offices."

The secretary thus made known that the United States was willing to act in any way acceptable to Russia and Finland—as mediator or otherwise—to bring about a solution.

OBITUARIES

JAMES HOAR.

ENNISMORE, Nov. 30.—(ENS).—The funeral of the late James Hoar was held at nine o'clock Monday morning from his late residence to St. Martin's church, where the funeral mass was said by Reverend V. J. Gillogly.

Interment took place in St. Martin's cemetery, with Reverend Father Gillogly also officiating at the burial prayers.

Pallbearers were Thomas Cavanagh, Daniel Holland, Edward Harrington, Wm. B. Crough, Timothy T. Crough of Ennismore and James Kearney of Peterborough.

Great numbers of friends and acquaintances from Peterborough and the surrounding district were present at the funeral or called at the deceased's late home over the week-end to offer their sympathy to the bereaved family and pay a last mark of respect to a true friend.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral was Mrs. Hoar's sister, Mrs. Maurice O'Connor of Detroit, Mich.

With the exception of a few years spent in Peterborough the late Mr. Hoar was a lifelong resident of Ennismore and a member of St. Martin's parish, and of the Holy Name Society and Altar Society of that parish.

The deceased had resided in different sections of Ennismore and in each neighborhood was held in the highest esteem by his associates. He was a person of whom it could be truly said he had no enemies. A man of the true Irish faith of his forefathers he bore his long illness and suffering with outstanding patience and resignation to God's holy will

WILLIAM CONDON

DOURO, Nov. 30—(ENS).—The funeral of the late William Condon took place on Monday morning from his late residence on Union street, Peterborough, to St. Joseph's church and cemetery, Douro. Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. J. J. McCarthy, who also preached the funeral sermon. Large numbers of Douro people visited the home and attended the funeral. Quite a number of Peterborough friends also attended the funeral. Pallbearers were six nephews: John Cleary, Max McKiever, Dick Walsh, James Barry, Melville Kearns (Peterborough, and John Condon (Peterborough). The late Mr. Condon spent almost his entire life in Douro, where he had many friends.

FIRST BRICK OF GOLD FROM CORDOVA EXPECTED IN DECEMBER

Rev. M. C. Parr Is Called To Galt Church

Announcement was made today that Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor at George Street United Church for the past five years, has accepted an invitation to Wesley United church in Galt. Rev. H. L. Roberts, M.A., B.D., of the Galt church will take his place here.

The exchange of pulpits, subject to the approval of the transfer committee of the United Church of Canada and the settlement committees of the Bay of Quinte and Hamilton conferences. will take place on July 1, 1940. Mr. Parr received an invitation to be pastor of the Galt church this morning, and Mr. Roberts has intimated his acceptance of an invitation issued by the George Street church.

On July 1 next Mr. Parr will have closed a five-year pastorate here, the second longest in the history of the church. It has been a pastorate marked by successful administration and one that has seen the position of the church advanced considerably. Mr. Parr has been prominently associated with church affairs in this city, is Past President of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, and Past Chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church.

"My family and I have enjoyed our pastorate in Peterborough more than I can say," Mr. Parr said today. "We like Peterborough and consider it one of the most beautiful cities we have ever seen. We have many friends here whom we are going to miss."

A Tribute to Mr. Parr

"Rev. M. C. Parr has always taken a deep interest in all matters pertaining to the work of the Peterborough Ministerial association," declared Rev. F. C. Craik, president of the association. "He is recognized by his fellow ministers as a minister of exceptional ability and a man vitally interested at all times in human relationships, whether in his own congregation or among the needy people in his church constituency who are not identified with any other church. His warm friendship, his steadfastness to the highest principles of life, and his unswerving devotion to duty as a minister, have not been overlooked by his associates in the ministerial group.

"In a more personal way, let me say it has been a great joy to have been a co-worker with the Rev. Mr. Parr in other sections of the province of Ontario, as well as in this splended city of Peterborough. We are glad to know that these splendid qualities have been recognized by the officers and congregation of Wesley United church in Galt.

"While we shall be sorry to see the Rev. Mr. Parr and his family leave Peterborough, we will follow with added interest their labors in their new sphere of service to which they have been recently called."

Church leaders today paid tribute to the work of Mr. Parr at George Street United church. Homer Borland, former superintendent of the Sunday School, said Mr. Parr had made a great contribution to the church's progress during his pastorate and had affected many beneficial changes. He termed his pastorate as one of the most progressive in the church's history. S. R. Armstrong, chairman of pastoral relations, expressed regret at Mr. Parr's near departure, and said he had contributed a great deal to the church's success.

For the past 15 years the congregations of Murray Street Baptist church and George Street United church have been united in summer months. Today Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street church, paid tribute to his brother minister.

"The relations of the minister of Murray Street Baptist church and that of the minister of George Street United church during the incumbency of Mr. Parr have been most cordial and happy," he said, "and I regret sincerely his departure from Peterborough. Mr. Parr, by a genial attitude, endeared himself to a host of Peterborough people, among whom are to be found members of the church which I have the honor to serve. In the going of Mr. Parr from our city, Peterborough loses a minister who gave unstintingly of his time and talents to the promulgation of the Christian gospel and to the establishment here of the Kingdom of Righteousness. For his ministry we are indeed grateful.

"That success may attend his labors in Wesley United church, Galt, is the sincere wish of his neighbor."

Recently Installed Mill Is Placed In Production

The first brick of gold from the Cordova Mine is expected to be produced about the middle of December.

Reports around Marmora intimate that the recently installed mill is operating efficiently, and that the payroll is up to the normal complement.

The Canadian Smelting and Mining Company have a great heap of ore taken from the ground in several years' working when the material was being piled up as it was brought up from the levels where the extension of depths and levels was being carried on.

Production of a brick of gold in Peterborough county will be a new phase of output from natural resources which may not receive any official recognition, but will be heartening to the people of the county, especially those in the eastern section along the Hastings boundary.

War Bulletins

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (CP-Havas) — Two Copenhagen newspapers reported today that Italy recently has sent arms and airplane parts to Finland. The newspapers, Berlingske Tidende and the Nationaltidende, did not give the source of their reports which also said preparations had been made for enlistment of Italian youths and volunteers in the Finnish army.

LONDON (CP)—A white paper today stated the government has undertaken to pay compensation for war damages to property on the highest scale possible at the end of hostilities. Replacement cost as of March, 1939, will be the basis of usual settlement for damages to immovable property.

COPENHAGEN (CP - Havas)—Four German fliers were placed under guard today after they brought their seaplane down near Thorshavn, in the Faroe Islands, north of the Shetlands. Danish authorities seized the plane.

COPENHAGEN (AP)—News of the outbreak of war between Finland and Russia stirred Denmark today even more than the beginning of the war between the Allies and Germany. Crowds gathered in streets, scanning news bulletins and angrily commenting on the invasion of the sister northern nation.

LONDON (CP Cable) — David Low, cartoonist for the Evening Standard, today drew a powerful parallel between Russian and German aggression. The cartoon, entitled "Under new management," shows Josef Stalin, peak-capped, sitting beneath the hammer and sickle and driving a tank bearing the name "Nazi technique."

ROME (CP-Havas)—Lord Lloyd, president of the British council, arrived here today from Yugoslavia for several days' stay. He has been making a tour of southeastern Europe. The British council is an organization devoted to fostering friendly relations between Great Britain and foreign countries.

Amateur Contests Are Captured By Two Lakefield Contestants

It was a double triumph for Lakefield in the most successful amateur contest and quizz program under the auspices of L. O. L. 50 in the Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday night for Lakefield entries carried off both the children's and adults' contests. Jean Miller caught the eye of the judges, and of the audience, by her spirited rendition of the British march song of the present war, "We'll Hang Our Washing on the Siegfried Line" and more by the cleancut tap dancing with which the song was followed and carried off the honors in the junior division while Bobby Eagleton, four of whose children also took part in the program, outscored a large field to take first prize in the adult competition through his clever harmonica and castanet playing.

It was a big night's entertainment for a large audience and was run off in capital style by Jack Marshall who was busier than an anti-aircraft battery during a bombing raid, not only acting as master of ceremonies but also as accompanist for the majority of the numbers. In the Treasure Trail portion of the program and behind the scenes during the amateur contests he had the able assistance of Dick Lush.

One feature of the adult competition was that only one of the fair sex tried her luck, Dorothy Lee battling it out against fifteen male competitors. Another was the evident popularity of two numbers, the Beer Barrel Polka and the ballad "South of the Border." They rolled out the barrel on harmonicas, with and without guitar accompaniment and they rolled it out again on a concertina while three or four of the vocalists and instrumentalists wandered down Mexico way to sing the ballad of the moment.

There was keen competition for major prizes in both divisions. In the children's contest, the work of the winner stood out, as did the fine piano playing of Thelma Zavitz who scored a triumph in her playing of the Empire March.

The list of winners follows:

Children's Contest.

Adults Contest.

Others who took part in the contests were:

Adults division: Fred Griffin, concertina; L. Murphy, vocal solo, Jack O'Dette, harmonica; Fred Montgomery, vocal solo; Thomas Tobin, old time fiddler; Jim Helsey, dance; Dorothy Lee, vocal solo; Hector Thompson, solo with guitar accompaniment; Max Cummings, Young's Point, harmonica; Cyril Young, Young's Point, vocal solo, John Hodson, piano accordian.

The Eagleton family, Robert Eagleton and four of his children contributed a harmonica and dancing specialty that was greatly enjoyed.

The Treasure Trail feature provided considerable entertainment. The sum of $11 in prizes was distributed to lucky members of the audience whose numbers happened to be called and who were able to furnish the correct answers to the questions asked. Some of the audience fumbled when the chance came their way, slipping up on some easy questions. The big winner was Mrs. Zavitz, whose number was called for the major prize of $5.75 and who had little difficulty in answering correctly the question "On what kind of a trea do coconuts grow?"

The two radios drawn for at the close of the program were won by Miss M. Richardson, 483 McDonnel Street and Victor Sedgewick, Wayne and Wallace Young of Havelock did the drawing. An amusing cup-piling competition, in which most of the contestants managed to smash most of their cups, was captured by Roland Krant.

Before the program concluded E. F. Reid, on behalf of L.O.L. 50 expressed thanks to the audience for its patronage, to Jack Marshall and his assistant, Dick Lush, and to the amateur artists for their part in the success of the evening. Mr. Reid presented the prizes to the contest winners.

First Cheer Boxes Already Delivered

Women of Havelock and Cordova Mines have banded together to provide comforts to soldiers of their district in World War II.

Already the patriotic association of that district has been formed and its members are busy these days knitting sweaters, socks, and wristlets to present in cheer boxes to each soldier or sailor of Havelock, Cordova Mines and Belmont township. The first cheer box was delivered this week to Lance Bombadier Murray Fraser of Havelock. The association has made plans to send cheer parcels to their soldiers at regular intervals for the duration of the war.

Receives Call

Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor at George Street United church, who has accepted an invitation to Wesley United church in Galt. He will leave Peterboough at the end of June after having completed a 5-year pastorate her. He will be succeeded by Rev. H. L. Roberts, M.A., B.D., of the Galt church.

Postage Stamps Used For Coins

Peterborough merchants, annoyed by a shortage of pennies, have not yet come to the state of despair found in Kingston, where some stores have been forced to give one-cent postage stamps in lieu of coppers when making change.

Few stores have yet been unable to make change in this city, but the situation is rapidly becoming acute and postage stamps may make their appearance here in the near future in place of pennies. In some stores in Hamilton and Toronto goods marked at odd cents—97 cents, 99 cents and so on—have been raised to the nearest even figure, but it is not believed such action has yet been taken in Peterborough. However, one store reported that it ordinarily buys 500 pennies on Saturdays, and last week-end was able to purchase only 50. Only because its management was able to procure several hundred from other sources was it able to make change throughout the heavy day. This Saturday may tell a different tale in many a store that ran near the end of its copper supply last weekend.

Merchants joined today in asking householders to exchange penny hoardings, as well as nickels and dimes, for bills in order to relieve the situation.

Deer Hunter Had Too Many

Echoes from the deer hunting season just closed were heard in police court this morning when three charges laid by Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons for alleged breaches of the game laws were called before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

Wilfrid Spinks of Leamington, Ont. was charged with having killed too many deer during the hunting season and entered a written plea of guilty.

"He was allowed one deer, was he not?" asked Magistrate Langley.

"Yes," replied Overseer Lyons.

"And he had two?"

"Yes."

Spinks was fined the minimum for the offence $20 and $3 costs.

George Rosebush, Owenbrook and Ross Kelch, Coe Hill, were charged with hunting with unlicensed dogs and were represented by T. J. Carley, K.C., who asked for an adjournment.

He intimated that his clients would enter a plea of not guilty to the charge.

The two cases were enlarged until Wednesday next.

RARE BIRD SHOT

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—(CP)—A white-breasted goose, one of Canada's rarest birds, was shot here by R. N. Bradley, who will have it mounted and present it to the Edmonton museum.

Farmer Suggests Using Bushel Of Wheat As Unit For Trading Value In Canada

"There would be more appreciation of the financial position of farmers if the bushel of wheat were used as a unit of trading value," a North Monaghan farmer remarked this morning. "If a farmer bought a fifty-cent meal in a restaurant and in payment dragged in a bushel of wheat to settle that account, the restaurant man would have an object lesson in our present economy that would no doubt make him an advocate for a higher price of wheat. If he bought a twenty-five dollar suit of clothes he would have to cart in fifty bushels of wheat to pay for it, and that pile of wheat would make the clothing merchant realize that there must be something wrong with the grain market. Even dollar wheat would make a great difference in the purchasing power of the farmer, and until we get something like that increase in value you can't expect a great deal of improvement in our whole situation. The idea of something on the bartering plan is impractical and sounds fantastic, but it might help to focus attention on conditions if we did a little more thinking about the reality of fifty-cent wheat and its limiting reaction upon the farmers of this country because it is far more than a farm problem. It is affecting everybody, but most people do not realize that fact."

Bishop O'Connor Endorses Knights' Army Hut Drive

Most Rev. Denis O'Connor, Bishop of Peterborough, has written the Knights of Columbus as follows:— "The announcement that the K. of C. are about to sponsor soldiers' welfare work will be welcome news to our people. The Knights are no novices in this field. Those whose memories go back a quarter of a century will recall with satisfaction the valiant services rendered by the Catholic Army Huts. The Knights stand ready to repeat. It is my earnest hope that their campaign will have the full support of the people of this diocese." The Peterborough council of the K. of C. are deeply grateful for the sympathy and support of His Excellency in this undertaking.

Main Street Topics

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By Examiner Reporters.

ONLY TWO TOPICS

There seemed to be only two topics on the main stem this morning. One was the invasion of Finland and the other the weather. Nobody liked the first and everybody the second, it being agreed that November's departure under Indian summer conditions constituted some sort of a record.

TURNED OVER TO UNIT

A soldier belonging to a Lindsay active service unit who was creating a disturbance here Wednesday night was picked up by the local police and turned over to his unit this morning to be disposed of under military law.

MUST BE INSPECTED

Under the new regulations covering barber shops and beauty parlors applications for licenses have to be made after which the premises are inspected before any license is granted. Apparently many of the proprietors are unaware of the steps that have to be taken.

TIMBER ENQUIRY.

A select committee of the Legislature of which A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., is a member, will begin Friday morning the enquiry into the timber resources of the province asked for by Colonel Drew, Conservative leader, during the session last winter. Two Conservatives are included in the committee, and Hon Paul Leduc is chairman.

IT WASN'T ANSWERED

One of the questions asked during the quizz program held by L.O.L. 50 in the Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday called for the naming of three Peterborough streets, the names of which commenced with "A." It sounded simple but the woman who was on the receiving end of the question muffed it. However, she had an alibi—she was from out of town and therefore lost an easy silver dollar.

PLAN FORESTRY TRIP

Some of the members of the Kiwanis Club are planning a trip to the Ketchecum Lake country where they have extensive timber rights with which they planned an undertaking in reforestation. A kiwanian told the Examiner that the scheme is not dead, and may yet come into being on the scale mooted more than a year ago. The progress made by the county council in their first year has been kindling considerable interest in local quarters where the opinion is held that the city could afford a similar investment. It was stated that if the present weather continues there is likely to be quite a group make the trip to Ketchecum.

SALUTE TO SALUBRITY

Alderman Gordon saluted the November sunshine and Carolina mildness this morning by appearing on main street without overcoat or top coat.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY

Caledonians are celebrating the day of their patron Saint Andrew of Scotland, today. A banquet will be held by the Caledonian club tonight.

READY FOR WINTER

The C.G.E. rose bed has been tucked in with pine and cedar boughs for the winter, probably sufficient protection for those byhrid teas that spent their summer protesting their fate that for once had ringed them around with tall zinnias.

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearing house for the past week totalled $541,518 and for the month of November $2,561,557. For November last year the clearings totalled $2,707,829 and for the corresponding week $567,412.

SERVICE OF INTERCESSION

The service of intercession sponsored by the Peterborough Ministerial Association will be held this week in the Murray Street Baptist Church on Friday night at eight o'clock.

SANTA CLAUS PARADE.

The police department requests motorists to refrain from parking on the south side of Charlotte Street from George to Aylmer, and on the east side of George Street from Charlotte to Murray from seven o'clock on during the Santa Claus parade on Friday night.

UP THE BORDER

Not a wheel was turning on farms along the road from Peterborough through Havelock and Cordova Wednesday to the Vansickle settlement, apparently indicating that farmers have caught up with plowing and other seasonal choring in the land category. Deer Lake was lightly covered with ice, but other water nearer Cordova was entirely open without even an icy fringe.

WAS TO VISIT IN CITY

Pilot Officer J. G. Lee of the Royal Canadian Air Force, killed when a bombing plane crashed near Trenton yesterday afternoon, was a nephew of T. L. Ashton, Advertising Manager of the Peterborough Examiner. Both are natives of Highgate, Ontario, and Mr. Ashton had planned to invite his nephew to spend this week-end in Peterborough. T. L. Ashton was a Lieutenant in the Royal Air Force during the Great War and saw service in France.

Mrs. Webster Hostess To Norwood W.A.

NORWOOD, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Frank Webster extended the hospitality of her home on Thursday afternoon for the November meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church. About sixty ladies were present.

The first vice-president, Mrs. Bert Scott, took the chair and after the reports and business were dealt with Mrs. Webster's group took charge with the following program. Mrs. Horace Brown presided.

The Bible reading, Psalm 27, was given by Miss Emily Drain, followed by prayer by Mrs. Ed. Scott. Mrs. G. A. Brethen favored with a solo, "I Am Praying For You," the ladies joining in the chorus. A reading, "The Making of Friends," by Edgar Guest was given by Mrs. Percy Allen. Mrs. Webster then gave the topic, "Joy and Peace," which was followed by a vocal duet, "The Saviour Can Solve Every Problem," by Mrs. Rork Ferguson and Mrs. Wesley Wildman.

Mrs. M. I. Robinson closed the meeting with prayer. Home-made candy was passed around and a social time spent. A sale of home-made cooking was then held, the results of which are very gratifying.

Commission Denies Blame For Trees

The Utilities Commission today scrambled hurriedly from under a heavy barrage of criticism over Peterborough's Christmas trees that hang like dead cats from Hydro poles downtown.

Blamed by Chairman G. S. Matthews for hanging the hundreds of trees upside down, Utilities Manager R. L. Dobbin denied he was responsible and placed the finger of responsibility on the Peterborough Business Men's Association. "I thought you had ordered them," commented Chairman Matthews. "Anyway, we're getting the blame for them." He told Manager Dobbin to complain to President Al Sharpe and hinted the possibility that the unsightly trees may soon be removed by the Commission if others do not take that step. He asked that the public be informed the trees are not the Commission's conception of good Christmas decoration.

Red Cross Work Is Continual

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30 — (ENS).—The work and organization of the Canadian Red Cross was the subject discussed before members of St. Andrew's Y.P.S. by the local president of the Red Cross Society, N. Alex. McColl. The speaker told his listeners that the work of the Red Cross Society was not confined solely to periods when the country was at war. Its work goes on year after year in Canada, where there are some eight cottage and outpost hospitals, one of which is located near Bancroft. Mr. McColl pointed out that it had been a Red Cross nurse who had been called from North Bay to assist at the birth of the famous Dionnes. It takes about a million dollars a year to keep the Red Cross functioning in peace time and now with the tremendous demands which will unquestionably be made by the war the amount it will need is vastly more.

Following his address the young people were given an opportunity to ask any questions they wished about the work being done. The president, Mrs. Bruce Grills, thanked the speaker on behalf of the society, following which Mrs. M. McFarlane contributed a piano solo comprising a medley of Allied songs.

During the discussion of Christmas baskets which the society each year contributes to the needy as part of their social service work, members decided to include mittens with the usual items sent out. Next week members will attend a joint meeting at Burnbrae Church.

"Resolved that cars are better than horses" was the subject of the weekly debate in which Misses Georgie DeCarrol and Frances Hendy were given the difficult assignment of supporting the affirmative which lost by "half a point" to Bill McKenzie and Jack Stephens. The judges were Wilsie Phillips, Raymond Wragg and Herbert Metcalfe. While awaiting the judges' decision, Mrs. McFarlane presided at the piano for a period of community singing.

Woman Is Bitten When Carrying Dog

Miss J. Crossley, Bethune street, had her arm bitten by a dog Wednesday afternoon as she was walking along George street near the corner of Hunter street.

She was carrying her own small dog in her arms when suddenly a bull dog sprang at the other canine and in doing so bit the woman on the lower part of the arm. Medical attention was called and the injury was pronounced as not serious.

The owner of the other dog was unknown to Miss Crossley.

Expensive Books

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP). — The Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology has just acquired 10 illustrated volumes described by Prof. C. T. Currelly, director of the Museum, as "the most expensive books ever published."

The set, illustrating the famous W. T. Walters' collection of Chinese porcelains in Baltimore, Md., was issued in 1889, the edition being limited to 500 sets.

Himalayan Goats May Be Placed In County's Crown Game Preserve If Tests Successful

Himalayan goats will some day roam the woods of the Crown Game Preserve east of Eels Creek, if the present experiment of the Department of Game and Fisheries warrants its expansion.

C. G. Kingan told The Examiner today that D. J. Taylor, deputy minister, had notified the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, that the present stage of the experiment is to find out whether the Himalayan Thar, a species of wild goat, can endure the cold of an Ontario winter. If these animals can survive, then the department will send the association a pair of them for the Game Preserve, and in time it is believed their offspring will wander off to other parts of the county, and eventually be hunted.

Th project reaches out beyond immediate interest, and depends upon the results of the department's present investigation of the possibility of stocking the woods with another species of game animals.

Duty Of Elders Outlined By Dr. Riddell

The first Fellowship of Elders of the United Church of Canada for Central Ontario was held in George Street Sunday School on Wednesday night, when about 125 elders of congregations of Peterborough Presbytery gathered under the auspices of the Religious Education Committee of which Rev. Clarence H. Ferguson of Bethany is chairman. Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.Th., of Millbrook, chairman of Presbytery, presided over the gathering, which is one of a series from coast to coast at which Rev. J. H. Riddell, D.D., former Principal of Wesley College, Winnipeg, is giving the results of his study of the "Nature and Function of Eldership" with great acceptance throughout the church.

Introduced by Mr. Ferguson, Dr. Riddell told how he had been called to this particular service by being asked to preach and assist in the ordination of elders at Winnipeg. As a former Methodist he admitted he then knew nothing at all about it, but was not too old to learn; and finally found himself called to interpret the eldership to "some bewildered Methodists, and also to some forgetful Presbyterians."

The speaker traced the origin of the office from the original Greek word, Presbyter. He defined "elders" as those "who have learned to understand men." "The elders," he said, "were to a minister what the Cabinet is to a Prime Minister." Outlining New Testament references, he showed how elders bridged the gulf between Jew and Gentile to establish Christian fellowship; were appointed by the congregation "stretching out their hands." The Magna Charta of the eldership is found in Paul's farewell to the elders of Ephesus: "Take heed to yourselves" and "Take heed to the flock over which the Holy Ghost has made you overseers." Their work, he said, was to oversee the congregation. Tracing the rise of the early church, he showed how ultimately full time work had to be given by the "ruling elders"; these were what Moffatt calls "Efficient presiding officers, worthy of ample remuneration."

He outlined the work of John Calvin in Geneva and John Knox in Scotland in ordaining elders; and compared them as similar in function with Wesley's class leaders who were "Overseers of groups of 12." Great tribute was paid to Methodist local preachers, "a glorious institution." He touched a familiar scene in outlining the work of the elder among the Selkirk Settlers, and of James Sutherland, "the first to ever lift his voice on our widespread prairies for God and truth and life." For forty years they kept the Christian fellowship alive until the arrival of John Black in 1851. Congregations were warned to use care in electing elders, and some phases of the work of an elder at Communion services were touched upon. In closing the speaker thanked God for opening up this work, which was a labor of love, without fee, and was making his life of retirement very happy. He thinks we are on the edge of a great revival, and that there are as good men as ever in the church, but we ought to be training them.

Prayer was offered by Rev. E. W. Young, D.D., and Adam Hawley of St. Andrew's Church sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Rev. M. C. Parr pronounced the benediction. Dr. Riddell will speak at Lindsay to-night.

Foes Of Liberty Cooper Labels Germany, Russia

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 — (CP). — Russia and Germany have been driven together by the common enemy of Communism and Nazism—liberty, Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, former First Lord of the British Admiralty, said in a lecture here.

"These Powers by events more or less fortuitous are now more closely bound together," he said last night. "A natural alliance has come into being. Both have realized they have a truly greater enemy than each other and that enemy is the freedom of man throughout the world. Until that is defeated neither Communism nor Nazism can succeed. They have found a natural rallying point."

The ideal and principle of liberty, born in early Greece and spread through Europe by Rome, had never been able to break through the immunity of Russian or Prussian absolutism.

It was not only that Russia and Germany disliked liberty and glorified the rule of force, they actively opposed liberty for the sake of the extension of their own peculiar doctrines. In Germany liberty was not only obliterated, it was despised and derided. Scorn was heaped on freedom as a way for man to live.

Federation of States.

Mr. Duff Cooper predicted a federation of European states in which some measure of national sovereignty would be sacrificed by the members, as an outcome of the war.

"Do you think Russia will come to the active aid of Germany in this war," was the first question from the audience put to the lecturer after he concluded.

"It is difficult for anybody to predict what Russia will do," he answered. "I should like to hear that question addressed to Hitler and hear his answer. My own view—and I have no special source of information—is that Russia is unlikely to do anything in this war unless convinced it will be of very great service to Russia."

Planning Finland's Defence Against Invasion

SELWYN, Nov. 30.—(ENS).—The annual Fall meeting of the Selwyn cheese factory was held in the factory with a splendid attendance present.

The appointed chairman for the evening was Wellie Pearson, while the acting secretary was Clayton Fitzgerald. The secretary-treasurer reported: Total lbs. of milk delivered to factory, 1,305,552 lbs.; total lbs. of butter fat, 40,878 lbs.; total lbs. of cheese, 106,735 lbs.; number lbs. milk to 1 lb. cheese 11.29; number lbs. cheese to 1 lb. butter fat, 2.61; total amount of money received for cheese, $12,806.26; average price for cheese, 12c per lb; average price for butter fat, 25½c per lb.

Added to this report was a list of all the expenses for the season.

The account of the bonus money was listed as follows:

June—10,450 lbs. cheese with a score of 93 points, $104.50; 5,072 lbs. score of 94, $101.44.

July—10,915 lbs. score of 93, $109.15; 9,202 lbs. score of 94, $184.04.

August—17,996 lbs. score of 93: $178.98.

September—15,972 lbs. score of 93, $159.72.

October—8,449 lbs. score of 93, $84.49.

Total bonus money for season, $922.32.

The season of 1939 has proved to be the greatest for the factory since 1929, even though prices were somewhat low, until the outbreak of the war, when cheese prices advanced steadily.

Personals.

On Monday evening the first skating party of the season was held in Elliott's Bay on Mud Lake. The lake has been frozen over for almost two weeks and the Indians are beginning to take advantage of the short cut by crossing the lake to come to Selwyn.

Mrs. Neil Whitmore of Apsley, is holidaying with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rex. Wilson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bell is staying with friends in Lakefield, where she intends to remain for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor and family of Bobcaygeon, called on friends in the vicinity on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Pratt and family, accompanied by Miss Emma Elliott, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Elliott.

Some very enjoyable lantern slides of China and the Chinese people were presented by Rev. J. Trumpour, of Bridgenorth, in the Selwyn United church on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyl is convalescing from her illness at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell in Peterborough.

Just One Victory?

Montreal, Nov. 30 (CP)

ONE military victory by the Allies might bring the end of Germany's present government, Prof. Moritz J. Bonn, noted German economist and one-time advisor to the German government, said here last night in an interview.

Prof. Bonn, now on the staff of the London School of Economics, said he did not believe, however, that Germany's leaders would "ever wait for the blockade to smash that country."

"They would act before it happened," he said. "They would never capitulate. They are desperate men. If you in Canada or England do not like a government you throw it out. But defeat in Germany means death—the German leaders have to go forward or die.

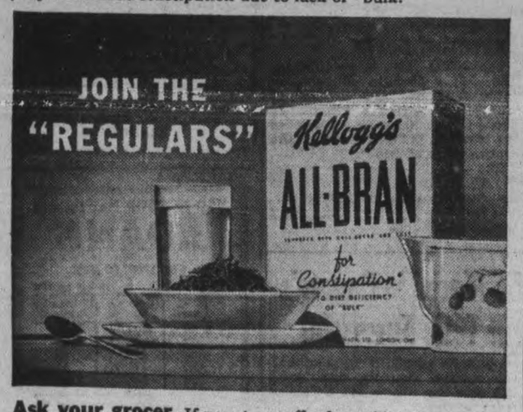
THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES HAVE PROVEN IT!

If you want to know how Canada is combating one of its greatest burdens — constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet — talk to any of the thousands of families who eat crisp, crunchy KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. They can tell you from their experience how this pleasant ready-to-eat cereal does the trick. And here is the reason:

Years ago, when women skiing was a novelty, W. K. Kellogg began one of the most comprehensive studies of constipation ever made. Eminent nutritionists and the medical staffs of famous universities have checked and re-checked ALL-BRAN'S ability to solve the problem of constipation due to lack of "bulk." Their verdict, like that of the thousands who have used ALL-BRAN over the last 15 years, is: a tried and proven way to combat constipation due to lack of "bulk."



Ask your grocer. If you, too, suffer from this common type of constipation, don't let it drag you down any more! Ask your grocer tomorrow for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. You'll really enjoy this crunchy nut-sweet cereal. Eat it regularly with milk or cream, and drink plenty of water. Look for the red Kellogg signature on the package. In two convenient sizes at all grocers. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in London, Ontario.

Millbrook Stores Try Lucky Spot Idea

MILLBROOK, Nov. 30—(ENS).—The Millbrook Business Men's Association successfully carried through the initial "lucky spot" venture in the community's history on Saturday evening, between the hours of seven and ten p.m., ex-Warden Percy Stinson being the one chosen to visit the nine stores in which the promised dollar was to be given away, and announce the customer standing nearest the location previously decided upon.

Those who went home richer by the dollar bill included: W. H. Coombe's store, H. G. Argue; S. E. Eakins', Charlie Breckenridge; G. E. Burnham's, W. Kennedy; D. K. Chiles', Edwin Hutchinson; R. A. Ford, H. Hutchison; Ivan Gray's, Roy Dawson; H. D. Bigelow's, A. Thorne; M. Chapman, Byron Fallis.

A committee arranges the "lucky spot" in each store for the evening. the merchants interested no knowing themselves where it is, nor in which of the eighteen stores promised for this event each Saturday night from now until Christmas, the particular spot will be arranged for until the visitor chosen arrives and makes his announcement.

Plainville Y.P.S. Pays Campbellford Visit

PLAINVILLE, Nov. 30—(ENS).—The Plainville - Gore's Landing Young People paid their return visit to Campbellford when about twenty-five of the members motored to Campbellford, where they had an extremely pleasant evening.

With Miss Dorothy Harris in charge, the visitors provided the program. During the worship period, Miss Mary Herriott read the scripture; Mrs. Eddie McFarland sang a solo, and Miss Eula Latter told an interesting story. The president, Bill Benson, had the topic, "Crusading for Christ." For the remaining program, Miss Dorothy Harris played a piano solo; Rev. H. Millow performed a blackboard skit, and Miss Emily Pratt sang a solo.

Later the Campbellford group entertained the visitors and served a bounteous lunch and a happy evening was brought to a close.

A number from Plainville attended the Leaders' Congress of the Cobourg Presbytery Young People at St. Paul's United Church, Cold Springs on Saturday and Sunday. Interesting discussions were part of the two-day program, and on Saturday evening a fine amateur program was staged with Rev. M. Smith, Baltimore, as master of ceremonies. From the Plainville-Gore's Landing group, Miss Dorothy Harris was the representative, playing a piano solo, with which she tied for first place with another soloist.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewart King, Enid and Laird spent the week-end with friends in Toronto.

Successful Sale

HASTINGS, Nov. 30—(ENS). — A splendid sale of farm stock and implements was held on Tuesday at the farm of William Whitred of Percy Township. With fine weather and good roads the crowd was large.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitred and family are retiring from farm work and taking up residence in the village. Besides farming, Mr. Whitred has been a rural mail courier for thirteen years. He will continue delivering the mail on his regular route. Mr. and Mrs. Foster of Roseneath have rented the farm, which will be left vacant by Mr. Whitred's removal.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Adv.)

CAMPBELLFORD

Tenders Called Rebuild Steps

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30. — (ENS).—The school board decided to advertise immediately for tenders to rebuild the steps leading up to the kindergarten following reading the report of Fire Chief C. B. McWilliams who visited all the scohols during fire prevention week. The Chief recommended that the steps should be put into usable condition immediately since the law required at least two exits from the school. The board decided to open the tenders on Saturday in order that the work might be proceeded with as soon as possible.

No Extra Pay.

The secretary read a report of the special meeting at which the matter of paying extra salary to the janitor on such occasions when the high school was rented for entertainments in the evening. The report indicated that a resolution had been passed in which it was stated the board was opposed to paying any additional salary to the janitor for this work.

Principal E. H. Greig reported that the inspector recommended that the parallel bars which had been previously removed from the gymnasium to facilitate basketball should now be replaced.

W. Roy Loucks opposed renewal of the public liability policy carried on the schools, but the board decided that they required the protection it offered. Mr. Loucks reiterated his own experience when he entered a claim against the company following an accident to one of his children on the school lawn. The child had tripped over a tree root and broken his arm. "This was a pure case of liability which the company refused to pay, classifying it as an accident. In my opinion the Board can't collect a thing under this policy if the company can find a loop hole to get out."

The secretary read a letter from Miss D. Henson, music teacher in the Public School who recommended that another piano should be purchased. The one now in use would not stay in tune. The board decided to leave the matter until the first of the year.

Dealing with the portion of the Fire Chief's report in which he stated there was absolutely no provision for fighting a fire in either of the two public schools the board ordered the secretary to interview the various agents holding fire insurance policies on the schools with regard to supplying extinguishers.

The board decided to take advantage of the amendment to the act whereby the county council appointed only one representative to the school board. According to the amendment three appointments can be made on the request of the board. On motion of A. G. Thompson the secretary will request the county council to appoint three representatives at the January session.

There are eleven public school boys attending classes in manual training at the High school after regular school hours reported Dr. H. O. Richardson. The course was particularly designed to help pupils who would probably discontinue going to school before they graduated to High school.

Hydro Power 20 Times That Of 1914, Real Boon To War, Houck Claims

TORONTO, Nov. 30. — (CP).—Hydro is to-day supplying more than 2,000,000 h.p. as against less than 100,000 h.p. when war broke out in 1914, Hon. William L. Houck, Liberal member in the Ontario Government for Niagara Falls, and vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, told members of the Danforth Business Men's Association at a luncheon Wednesday.

"War today is largely fought with machines made of metal and alloys, and since Ontario leads the Dominion in the mining industry, its part in the production of minerals for the making of munitions and machines of war must be an important one." Mr. Houck said.

"Basic to this production is ample supplies of power. The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, therefore, with its highly experienced technical staff, is directing all efforts towards ensuring that there will be an adequate and reliable power service for every wartime need in Ontario.

Ready To Do Its Share

"Hydro will do its part in the war to ensure an adequate supply of power. But as one of the many precautionary measures it has taken, a wartime act was recently passed by the Ontario Legislature, known as "The Power Control Act." Under this act the commission is given authority to regulate and control the generation, transformation, transmission, distribution, supply and use of all power in the province," he said.

During the past three years, the growth and expansion of the mining industry in Northern Ontario, and the load growth with respect to power supplied by the commission for mining purposes, have been even more remarkable than they were in the early years of this decade, Mr. Houck said. During this three-year period, 30 additional contracts for the supply of power to mining enterprises were entered into by the commission, making a total of 60 up to August, 1939; of this number 54 contracts are active, and of these 44 represent power supply for producting mines. The load sold during this three-year period has reached a maximum exceeding 158,000 horsepower, a growth of 92,000 horsepower, or an increase of 140 per cent.

The annual thankoffering service of the W.M.S. was held in the church on Sunday evening, with a goodly number present. The members of the society took charge of the service. Miss Annie Brown was organist, and the choir was comprised of ladies. Mrs. J. Grandy and Miss M. Southam rendered a beautiful duet. The scripture reading and prayer were taken by Mrs. A. Hunter. The guest speaker for the service was Mrs. (Rev.) James Brown of Peterborough who centred her address around the necessity of giving thanks to God, in John 10, 10: "I am come that ye might have life, and have it more abundantly."

Miss Florence Bebee of South Monaghan was the guest for the week-end of Miss Janet McIntosh.

Miss Patricia Staples spent the week-end with Miss Margaret McNiell at her home at Ida.

The congregation of the United Church welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour on Sunday morning. They have recently moved here from Manitoba and are living on the farm formerly occupied by Mr. Delbert Smith.

Mr. Harold Cathcart motored to Brantford for the first part of the week.

Miss Jean Fairbairn of Fallis' Line spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Preston had as their guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Rodman of Little Britain and Miss Margaret Sanderson of Newcastle.

The young people are presenting their play "Civil Service" at Fallis' Line, December 8. This will be its twelfth presentation.

Mr. Crost of Toronto was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke.

Mr. Harold Cathcart and Mr. Clifford Johnston were delegates to the U.F.O. jubilee in Toronto last week. Mr. Cathcart represented the Milk Producers' Association and Mr. Johnston the local U.F.O. Club. Mr. Johnston was successful in obtaining second prize in a public speaking contest which was held in connection with the jubilee.

Governor-General Takes Personal Interest In Tank Corps

Flying from Ottawa, Lord Tweedsmuir paid an inspection visit to Camp Borden and is shown, RIGHT, stepping from the plane which flew him from the Domion's capital. His Excellency was an interested spectator as units of the Tank Corps, in which his son, Hon. Alastair Buchan, serves as a lieutenant, went through a series of intricate manoeuvres for his benefit. Lord Tweedsmuir is shown, LEFT, with Col. F. F. Worthington, head of the Armored Fighting Vehicles School and O.C. of the Tank Corps.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, December 1.

A lively, enterprising, productive and eventful day is presaged by the very interesting planetary configurations. Business affairs, especially all pertaining to writings, publication, promotion, advertising, in fact, all intellectual and commercial pursuits are under splendid impetus for rich returns. Of paramount importance is the recognition, friendship and solid co-operation of superiors and those in authority. Group organizations are likewise co-operative, although there may be some trivial annoyances.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a particularly lively, enterprising and progressive year, with much stirring of a nature to attract the interest and substantial support of superiors and those in influential positions. All pertaining to literary, advertising and promotional enterprises, as well as commercial matters, flourish. Group co-operation is promised, although there may be trivial anxieties in private and business contacts.

A child born on this day may have high intellectual abilities, with much versatility and ambition, in which it may have the endorsement and friendship of those in important places. It should be genial, kindly and popular.

British Merchant Ships Convoyed To Safety

Passed by the British censors, this picture shows British merchantmen, convoyed by warships, steam along a seaway off the British coast. On each ship lookouts scan the waters for signs of subs and mines. It was revealed recently that Nazi planes have been dropping "balloon mines" in English waters. It is believed that this is the "mysterious weapon" which Hitler spoke of recently.

DOROTHY DIX

When The Husband Works Too Hard All Day To Go Out And Play In The Evening Wife Should Realize That His Weariness Comes From Working For Her.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman of 25 and have two baby boys. My first few years of married lift were very happy, but of late my husband has become unbearable. Every evening he comes home from work, "dead to the world," as he puts it, and if I suggest going to a movie or to a friend's home for bridge he virtually explodes. He says that a man who works nine hours a day is in no mood for going out of evenings. On Sundays it is the same thing as he insists on staying at home on his one day a week off to be with the children, although we could step out and leave them with friends of ours. What am I to do? Doesn't a woman who cleans, cooks, washes, besides taking care of two small boys, deserve some recreation?—T. B.

ANSWER:

Certainly she does. And doesn't a man who toils hard to support his family deserve some rest when he comes home tired of an evening?

These are the two sides of the shield over which innumerable husbands and wives wage a continuous fight. Each sees it from his or her point of view, and each regards the other as willfully blind because he or she doesn't get the same slant on it. The wife thinks the husband is a mean, selfish, old grouch because he does not appreciate how dull and monotonous housework and the care of babies are, and how hungry she is for the bright lights and a little fun.

The husband considers that the wife is a self-centered egotist, who thinks of nothing but her own pleasure because she does not realize how weary in mind and body a man is who has given everything in him to his job, and who comes home at night exhausted, longing for nothing but quiet and rest, and who feels that to have to dress and go to a party, or to a screaming night club, or even to the movies would be the straw that breaks the camel's back.

So there you are. Each has a perfect case against the other. The woman does need to step out and have some fun. The husband does need his easy chair and slippers and his Sunday off to play with the babies. And so in many a family the battle goes on that ends not in the victory of the wife in turning her husband into a playboy, or the triumph of the husband in changing his wife into an Alice-sit-by-the-fire, but in the wreck of the home.

The solution of the problem is in compromise. The husband must have the justice to realize that just being married to him isn't all of the entertainment and excitement that a young woman wants. He must see that she works at her job just as hard as he does at his and for longer hours, because the work of a mother with little children is never done. Also, he must bear in mind that his work is less wearing on the nerves than hers, because he has the diversion of working in a crowd, of seeing people come and go, of hearing interesting gossip, whereas she works in the solitude of her home at labor that only occupies her hands and gives her too much time to think.

So the husband should at least set Saturday nights free to take his wife stepping. She will be pleasanter to get along with because she will be deprived of her grievance, and she will be a better wife because she is a more contented one. She will have something to think of and plan for while she is peeling the potatoes. It will save the eternal argument. And, besides, it is coming to her.

And the wife should have the fairness to appreciate that if her husband works so hard all day that he is too tired to even want to amuse himself, it is for her and the children that he does it, and she should not try to goad him into further effort. She should try to conserve his strength and his health instead of making demands upon them.

It is right that she should have plenty of diversion, but she should take them in the daytime. She can play cards. She can go to the movies. She can belong to clubs. She can go to luncheons. She can go shopping to her heart's content and still be home in time to get dinner, and all without dragging a tired man out to some place of amusement.

And if the woman says: What about doing her housework? The answer is: Use your head a little more about planning your work. And if the woman says: Who will I leave the children with? The answer is: The same person you were going to leave them with when you went out at night.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a lad of 17. Do you think it possible for me or any other boy to make a success such as Edison, Carnegie, Dickens or Bok have made? Regardless of hard work and handicaps can a person achieve anything worth while?—JOHN D.

ANSWER:

Whether a boy can realize his ambition or not depends upon the reasonableness of his ambition. Each of us has his limitations that nature set when we were born and we can only achieve within them. No amount of struggle would ever make you a Caruso if you had no voice. Nor could you ever be a second Dickens if God had not given you the glorious gift He bestowed on him.

One of the most pathetic things in the world is the effort that so many people make to do the thing they cannot do. I have seen so many near-geniuses who spent year after year in futile toil, struggling and striving to do things beyond their power, and at last having all their efforts end in heart-breaking disappointment.

So I think that one of the most important things that a boy can do is to try to take the measure of his own abilities, and if he will do that and is willing to pay the price of success in hard and intelligent labor there is just as much chance for him to realize his ambition today as there has ever been for boys in the past.

DEAR MISS DIX—My ambition is to go away from home and attend a university. My father, although he has the means to send me, is against my going because he thinks that when I come home I will be dissatisfied in a small town where the amusements and advantages are limited. Isn't it better to go away and become broader than to stay at home and become narrow?—VERA.

ANSWER:

I think that it does every girl and boy a great deal of good to be sent away from home to school, and that it is an advantage that their parents should give them if they can afford it. It broadens their views, widens their sympathies and makes them more tolerant of people.

For the only men and women who are perfectly sure that their views and ideas are the only correct ones, that they themselves and their friends are superior to all other people and that they live in God's country, in the best State, in the best town, on the best street in the world, are those who have never been a dozen miles from home.

As to whether sending a girl away from a small town will make her dissatisfied with it when she returns, that depends on the girl. Sometimes it does and sometimes she has vision enough to see that all of life goes on in a little town as well as a big one, and that the small town is a mighty good place in which to live.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

A recent statement of German war aims announced the intention to expand German borders to the limit of Germany's historic interests. It sounds strange in view of the surrender of Germany's historic interests in the Baltic States to Soviet Russia.

If the statement is not meaningless it indicates Germany may have a plan for dealing with Russia in the event of a hoped-for victory over Great Britain and France.

If any country ever had an historic interest anywhere Germany had one in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Yet that interest was surrendered so completely that German people resident in those countries for centuries are forced to move out and settle in Germany, leaving most of their property behind them.

Estonia and Latvia were conquered in the 13th century by the knights of the Teutonic Order who established themselves as the ruling class. Although sovereignty of states changed from time to time from Sweden to Poland and finally to Russia the Teutons always retained their privileges.

They were the land-owners, the merchants, the bankers, the industrialists. Germans also occupied leading positions in Lithuania.

The Russian revolution and the subsequent liberation of the three states from Russian rule destroyed most of the privileges of the Germans but only after German forces were defeated on the ground in 1919.

Many Germans in middle class positions, however, escaped the wrath of the liberated Letts, Estonians and Lithuanians retained their wealth and carried on business. Now instead of attempting to restore the historic German interest the Nazi regime surrenders the last remaining traces of it.

Ellen Ballon Makes Her Second Debut

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—(CP)—Ellen Ballon is well advanced along the comeback trail today after her second Montreal debut. Most artists have but one debut in one city, but not Miss Ballon.

Miss Ballon was climbing the upper rungs of fame as a pianist two years ago when she broke her leg getting out of a taxi one morning in London. It was her pedal foot, almost as important as a hand to a pianist. Doctors shook their heads and suggested an amputation might be necessary.

For six months they set and reset the leg and finally they announced Miss Ballon might be able to use it again. Then she started her comeback. For hours lying in bed she played on a dummy keyboard, developing her skill. She studied and worked, determined to play again.

Her victory came last night. Critics wrote of her "energetic and technically faultless performance" with the Concert Symphonique directed by Sir Ernest MacMillan. Others said she seemed to have gained a greater depth in her performance.

Agonizing Eczema (Salt Rheum)

No rest, day or night, for those afflicted with that awful skin disease, eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to strong heat, or hot water, are almost unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

To get rid of eczema it is necessary to have the blood cleansed by the use of a thoroughly reliable blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters which during the past 60 years has met with great success in relieving such diseases by its blood cleansing and purifying properties.

Every person who suffers from backache, inflamed joints, or sore muscles; every person whose sleep is disturbed by bladder irritation, upset stomach or jumpy nerves should follow the example of other well-known citizens who have taken Syntona and got grand relief. Here is another of the REALITIES of what Syntona can do as reported only recently by Mrs. Susan Addley, 206 Emerald Street North, Hamilton, Ontario. Mrs. Addley has lived in Hamilton for fifty years and is widely known there. Read her sincere statement:

"For many years I had suffered with kidney and bowel troubles. My kidneys called me up many times during the night and there was a constant dull, nagging ache across my back. My stomach also, was in such a disordered condition that if I ate an evening dinner I would have a vomiting spell in the night. Then neuritis set in and the stabbing pains were almost unbearable.

"During those years I tried many medicines and it always seemed that anything that relieved the pains only upset my stomach or my nerves and left me feeling worse in some other way.

"Finally I was persuaded to try Syntona and I was simply delighted to find that it was just what I was always needing. Right from the first I liked the way Syntona acted on my stomach and bowels and at the same time it rid my system of those irritating acids and poisons so the backache and neuritis pains left me entirely. I can sleep the whole night through now, and I feel so much better in every way. I always keep a bottle of Syntona on hand for an occasional attack of constination or billousness."

Come to Ellicit's Drug Store, Peterborough, and learn the plain, truthful facts about Syntona. You, too, may receive these priceless benefits.—(Advt.)

Seeley—Masters

The marriage of Miss Andre Masters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orie Masters, 425 Braidwood avenue, to Mr. Roy Augustin Seeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Seeley, 207 Park street, took place Saturday morning in Sacred Heart church, Rev. J. J. O'Brien officiating.

The bride wore a frock of turquoise blue crepe with wine accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses and lily of the valley. The attendants were Mrs. Thomas Marwick, sister of the bride, wearing an orchid sheer frock with matching accessories, and corsage of red roses and lily of the valley, and Mr. Thomas Marwick.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl locket with cross; to the bridal attendant, a gold locket, and to the groomsman a gold tie and clip.

Mr. and Mrs. Seeley will live at 425 Braidwood avenue.

Mitts For Baby's Bath

Anyone with a young baby will find it a good idea to have a pair of mitts made from a piece of towelling for baby's bath time. Thread them with elastic at the wrists and they will soap and wash baby better than a sponge gripped in the hand. In this way, too, you can have the full use of your hands. Also there is no danger of fingernails accidentally harming baby.

Coronation Chair Moved From Abbey

One of the most priceless treasures that has been removed from Westminster Abbey to a place of safety is the famous Coronation Chair, which stands in the Edward the Confessor Chapel. Sovereigns of England have been crowned in it since 1327. Also the chair of Queen Mary II, made in 1689 for the consort of William II, has been taken from the Abbey Museum. Some thirteenth century stained glass from the East window has also been removed.

15th Annual Banquet Observed By Altar Boys

The fifteenth annual banquet of the altar boys of the Church of the Secred Heart was held Wednesday evening. Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. J. C. Moloney and Rev. F. M. Grant, J.C.D., of the parish were present, and Rev. J. V. Masterson, D. D., a former altar boy.

After the prayer for the Pope was recited the following toast list was honored: Our King, proposed by Bill Jones, reply, Clare Grady; recitations, A. Giardino, H. LeGrow and Jack Amyot; Our Country, proposed by L. Giardino, reply, H. Hallihan; recitations, B. Amyot, L. LaPlante, Robert Jones; Our Parish, proposed by Gerald Grady, reply, Jos. Amyot; song, Gerard O'Dette, recitations, F. LaPlante, O. Chenier; Our Office, proposed by S. Moloney, reply, F. McCarthy, recitations J. Doyle, V. Grady, E. Paquette; Our Pastor, proposed by A. LaPlante, reply Rev. J. J. O'Brien, recitations, J. LaPlante, C. Heath, P. O'Dette.

Three new altar boys, Wilbert Jones, Leo Gooley and Robert LeBarr, were introduced. Harold Moloney acted as toastmaster.

The delicious and artistic banquet was prepared by the mothers of the altar boys.

OVERHEAD LUXURY

THE NEXT best thing to a mink coat is a mink hat—and if you can't have mink, there's beaver and other less luxurious furs to fit on your head. Here are two models on the cuff, a popular style in millinery whether it's the pelt or fabric variety. It's obvious that the off-the-face hat requires pleasing features and well-groomed hair; otherwise, it's easy to wear and, better, ever so comfortable. Being fur, these hats are dressy enough to give you a lift on important dates, even if your coat and dress are severely plain, but either model will take a jeweled clip or a pink rose, should you wish to add a bit of color. And don't forget that, come another winter, you'll take your fur hat out of storage and have it remodeled. The American designer of today's hats finishes the mink, top, with black felt drapery, and the sheared beaver with a long pheasant feather and brown suede back.

W.C.T.U. Makes Plans For Raising Funds

"Sabbath Observance, Law and Legislation" was the theme for Thursday's splendid program at the W.C.T.U. meeting for which Mrs. Wilfred Boorman was the gracious hostess. With Mrs. H. T. Rehill, the president presiding, the meeting was opened by a devotional service when all joined in the hymn and repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mrs. Armstrong read the Scripture from St. Luke's Gospel, and gave a short reading on the chapter.

Plans of work, especially plans for making money to meet the needs of the union work, were reported from an executive meeting and included teas, gaining new members, and many other original plans for augmenting the funds.

The Christmas meeting was announced from an invitation from Mrs. Thomas Barrie to be held at her home, 757 Water Street, on Wednesday, December 13, with Mrs. J. A. Spencer, Mrs. W. Boorman and Mrs. Scott Wildman as the program committee.

Rev. C. C. Boyter, of Park Street Baptist Church, guest speaker, based his fine address upon the Scripture passages, "Thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof" and "Whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent shall bite him." "Life," began Mr. Boyter, "is a matter of hedges or prohibitions." As he continued to elaborate this theme "Hedges," he pointed out that it is a long way from cannibalism where a man does as he likes, to culture, where man is more civilized or hedged. Our pleasures are intensified by being kept hedged. "Keep off the grass is the only way for us to enjoy the grass." So, too, God hedges our way by His commandments, exhortations, and revelations. Our hearts are hedged b love, our tongues should be hedged from slander, our imagination from unholy thoughts, our passions, our hands and our feet snould all be hedged from evil. Other hedges are provided by parental restraint, by teachers of truths and by governments. Of course, all these hedges may be easily broken down, but we have seen by experiences that God punishes the wicked, the breakers of hedges.

Mr. Boyter referred to the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union as building hedges for all life, but especially for young life. He urged this group of women not to be weary in well-doing, pointing out that the history of any reform shows how long it takes to make headway, citing the African slave trade as an example. "Victory will come when the idea becomes a habit and we must fight till then."

So let us build hedges about our youth, our homes and our Sundays.

In conclusion, the speaker summed up his suggestions as he said, "All of life consists in keeping within the ways marked out by God's words, by good parents, by societies for social reforms (like the W.C.T.U.), and by government."

Mrs. J. H. Rowe, on behalf of the union, thanked Rev. Mr. Boyter for his encouraging and very helpful message.

A clever presentation of the clip sheet, in charge of Mrs. Boorman, gave an answer to the question: "What is the W.C.T.U.?" So that the veriest stranger to it must go away with a clear understanding of these magic letters.

The examination on the work of temperance being done in Sunday schools is taking place during the next few weeks, and an examining committee of three was appointed.

A delightful piano solo by Ruth Callander concluded the program of a most successful meeting which was dismissed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Boyter.

Refreshments and a pleasant social half-hour were enjoyed, while the executive staff met for a short business session.

Germany is using millions of artificial eggs.

Do You Know?

That popcorn balls shaped like bells and covered with colored paper make gay Christmas tree trimmings?

When you wash your husband's soft collars, put a safety pin through the stud hole and slip it over the line. Two or three collars can hang on one pin and the collars dry quickly without any disfiguring peg marks.

Place granulated sugar on a large plate, add red coloring and rub with the hands until the sugar is evenly tinted. When dry this sugar may be used for sprinkling over trifles, as a decoration for iced biscuits, and for many other decorative purposes. Green, yellow, and mauve sugar may be made in the same way.

We Noticed

....That fashion at the moment, seems entirely concerned with what goes on above the table and with the felt line, too. What goes below the belt is a matter of one's personal preference. Skirts may be full, medium or narrow, and in the latter case, they are slashed.

....For those who want some protection below the belt there are several varieties of novelty tweed and wool skirts, under which one may wear taffeta even in fireman's red, if one likes to look as well as feel warm.

....Above the belt one is likely to be too toasty, what with wool or velveteen blouses and the inevitable fur shorties which, this season, may be of a wider range of furs—beaver, nutria, and ocelot leading. Ocelot is among the best pelts of the year—just another indication of the extent of the "South American way" influence.

Yuletide Spirit Evident At Christmas Tea

The happy spirit of Yuletide brightened the atmosphere at the Christmas tea of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid Wednesday afternoon, in the Sunday school room of the church. Boughs of evergreen framed the alcoves where bazaar novelties, homecooking and country products were sold, and the fresh green branches were a background for twinkling bulbs in Christmas colors, glittering "icicles" and scarlet poinsetta. Individual tea tables were lighted by a single candle of red or green decked with a sprig of holly, and at the table from which tea was poured stately tapers of red and green shed their light over a low bowl of red roses and baby's breath, and gleaming silver services.

Welcoming the many guests who called during the afternoon were the honorary president, Mrs. W. H. Hill; the president, Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss, and Mrs. A. T. Barr.

Pouring tea were: Mrs. Fred Rowan, Mrs H. G. Mackenzie, Mrs. W. A. Burrell, Mrs. R. H. Campbell and Mrs. D. W. Clark. Mrs. J. H. Jamison convened the table decorations, and tea assistants were Mrs. V. T. Tully and Mrs. George Coleman. Hostesses of individual tea tables were Mrs. Wilbert Taylor, Mrs. Harold Middleton, Mrs. Stuart G. Hall, Mrs. D. P. Dickson, Mrs. W. B. Gordon, Mrs. N. S. Courtney, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. D. T. Diplock, Mrs. C. Mann, Mrs. George Lockington.

Mrs. J. H. Middleton and Mrs. W. J. Hancock were conveners of the country booth, where vegetables, fruits and numerous other farm products were sold; Mrs. W. Moorhead and Mrs. Walter McKee were conveners of the Christmas cakes table; Mrs. O. Moore, Mrs. Charles Lacheur, and Mrs. David Miller were in charge of the homecooking booth, where the well-laden table was centred with a silver Christmas tree; and the bazaar booth, which offered numerous gift ideas, was under the direction of Mrs. W. L. Ferguson, Mrs. W. D. Taylor and Mrs. W. Brown.

Mrs. W. R. Morris Presides At Bazaar Opening

Mrs W. R. Morris declared the Christmas bazaar of the Salvation Army League officially open at two-thirty o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Morris was introduced by Mrs. N. Buckley, wife of Adjutant Buckley. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley have recently come to Peterborough to succeed Major and Mrs. N. Warrander.

In the bazaar room red and white streamers and cedar boughs were artistically arranged to bring out the Christmas theme, and the tea room was cosy and cheerful with subdued lights and yuletide decorations charmingly carried out. Mrs. E. Hedge was general convener of the affair, and Mrs. B. Smith was treasurer.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. S. J. Richardson, Mrs. T. Rose, Mrs. G. Thomas, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. W. Butcher, Mrs. Winterbottom, Sr., Mrs. A. Scott, Mrs. M. Smith and Mrs. R. C. Braund.

The novelty stall was in charge of Mrs. R. Routley, assisted by Mrs. J. James and Mrs. W. McGee, and featured among other attractive Christmas gift novelties, prettily shaped bottles of hand-lotion, flowers made of gaily colored wool, and dainty handkerchiefs, some with hand crocheting or embroidery. Mrs. S. Winterbottom, assisted by Mrs. H. Barton, found a ready sale for their products at the apron booth, where aprons on display ranged from dainty tealike affairs to substantial one of bright print designed to shield mother's best frock when she stirs the Christmas gravy.

Mrs. J. Richardson, assisted by Mrs. W. Jones, presided at the table of delicious home-baked goods, and the ladies' wear, featuring cosy flannelette nighties and pyjamas, dainty undies, etc., was in charge of Mrs. Mendell Braund and Mrs. N. Routley, Jr. Mrs. A. Barringer and Mrs. J. Iles convened the children's stall, where the major attraction was a large and chubby baby doll wearing the most adorable jacket and cap set of rosy pink wool, with a dainty frock and underneath dainty undergarments trimmed with real tatting. There were woollen sets for babies, too, including bootees, frocks for older children, and a host of other articles all beautifully displayed. Mrs. B. Jewell, assisted by Mrs. M. Shadgett, was in charge of the fancy work table, where many ideal gift suggestions for the home lover might be found, and a table of groceries under the direction of Miss Florence Rose and Miss D. Braund.

The quilts, in charge of Mrs. Archie McDonald, drew many approving comments. One was made in the brown-eyed Susan design and handsomely quilted, a second was of blue and peach satin and light as thistledown, and a third was an engaging design of a colonial maid, whose gingham frock made vivid patches of color on a white background and bound with apple green.

In the evening shoppers enjoyed a program of music played by the band under the direction of Bandmaster Gerald Routley.

Fashion Flashes

The color story is varied in hats. The rose gamut running from cerise to delicate pink, moss and sea greens, rusts and tawny yellows, blues of a slightly greenish cast and brilliant reds are among the featured shades.

Afternoon dresses in crepe gain a feminine air in lace details at the neckline and wrists, and lace is also used to develop entire dresses, for evening, sometimes with sleeves and again with ostrich as a trimming at one shoulder.

A striped edge of a brilliant hue makes the unexpected trimming of a baby blue flannel house-coat, with gored back fullness, and large puffed sleeves.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Peterborough Stores Filled With All Kinds Of Gifts Suitable For Christmas

(By FLORA.)

Now that shop counters are spilling over with exhilarating various gift suggestions, and word is being rumored about that Santa and his merry toyland retinue will pay a visit to Peterborough on December the first, it behooves us all to get our shopping lists completed right away and show the old gentleman we have the right holiday spirit—Santa never waits until the week before Christmas to plan his kiddies' stockings, you know, he starts right in while the joyous shouts of his flock are still echoing in homes all over the country and makes plans for another year.

Why wait until the very eve of Christmas to begin thinking the Chrismas kind of thoughts that spread happiness about, anyway? Why wait another day to let that pervasive "Christmas spirit," as it is called, permeate our every thought and deed? If this year's Christmas is to be the kind of holiday it ought to be, it is not too early to begin preparations. Start now and the shops will be busier, more clerks will have to be employed, and you will be doing your part towards spreading the holiday spirit.

Really, folks, one just can't help feeling excited as one enters the shops—there are so many things this year—knitting bags, for instance, to keep pace with enthusiastic knitters. There are tiny ones to take your knitting visiting, and there are big roomy ones to hold all your equipment. Then there are those cosy kitchen mitts and gloves all brightened up with the gayest of embroidery—perfect for gifts, and more perfect still for chilly, winter days.

For the young lady in your household whom you suspect has a sneaking longing to emulate the bears by snuggling into something and drowsing the winter away, there are jaunty flanelette pyjamas in two-piece styles, demure little nightgowns, and romantic housecoats and dressing gowns of chenille in lovely, glowing shades or quilted satins as luxurious and light as a down comforter! By the way, did you ever know such a year for beautiful, expensive-looking lingerie at such astonishingly low prices? Lingerie is assuming importance now as a favored choice for distinctive gift giving because it is the year round essential of a well-chosen wardrobe—and what girl ever has too much?

If you want to make dad, big brother, or that special male friend of yours be good there's a Christmas after all, remember that men are luxury lovers at heart when you pick out a bathrobe or dressing gown, and make it really elegant—perhaps matching it with a swanky pair of slippers. We saw some handsome samples in several of the stores—from sensible and heavy warm ones to exotic looking affairs of heavy, heavy satin.

If you want to really thrill mother or any other feminine member of your household, don't be too sensible about your choice for her, or perhaps we should say, be sensible, and let her's be a "gift of beauty" that will make her eyes shine as she opens it, and bring to the fore every woman's instinct to make the most of her charm. There are very alluring gift sets containing creams of all kinds, face powder, skin tonics, and perfume at surprisingly low prices; pretty boxes of fragrant talcum toilet water and perfume; handsome manicure sets in needlepoint or leather cases; very smart three-piece dresser sets, gay new compacts, and intriguing eau de colognes and perfumes, just to mention a few from which you may choose. You will find lots of helpful suggestions for the men folk of the family, too, from military brushes to shaving sets and all the other toilet articles favored by males—they are just as keen about best of toilet accessories as you are, you know, even if they won't always admit it!

There should be no problem at all when it comes to shopping for the children—unless it is that of making a choice from so many, many happy suggestions. Whatever you do mothers, don't overlook good books. While it is true that you may borrow all sorts of the finest books from the public library, children, like adults, desire to have some books of their own. Even the tot of three or four gains pleasure and value from having a few of his own pictured story books from which he hears stories read day after day. For this little child it is better to choose one book with good content and beautiful illustrations than a dozen that are mere trash.

So also for the child who can read, a few well-selected, attractive books are far better than a number of unattractive, ordinary ones, but be sure the book you buy the child will appeal to him now and be easy enough in vocabulary for him to read with ease.

Plenty of games make Christmas day a merrier event for grown-ups as well as children so tuck lots of them around the tree and you will be supplying material for many happy winter evenings later on as well.

Home and School Association News

Mr. D. G. H. Melton, member of the Board of Education, was guest speaker at the Prince of Wales Home and School Association Father's Night. Mr. Melton based his talk on the work of the Board of Education, stating that the Board is composed of four committees: Appointments, Supervision, Finance and Property. The Appointments committee, he said, meets privately to discuss such matters as teachers' appointments. Vacancies are alway advertised and the applications dealt with by this committee. The Supervision committee meets from time to time, but interferes very little with the work of the teaching staff. The Finance committee has to do with the passing of all accounts. The job of the Property committee is to see that all school property is properly maintained; that painting is done regularly; that repairs to boiler equipment and replacements are made when necessary.

Thorough medical examination of all school children is carried out regularly, with the result that epidemics are kept under control. Dr. Greene is the dental officer for the schools, and half of his time is engaged for this work. When a dental examination is done in school, some parents request that the work be done by the school dental officer, but he lacks time to do all this work, and if the parents can afford to have the work done themselves, they are expected to do so.

The Board must interpret public opinion, Mr. Melton continued. Opinion is based on results, as in any other pursuit. The parents are the judges of the educational system and results obtained.

We have in the Collegiate Institute a vocational training school, the speaker explained. All children take the same course upon entering the first year, when it is possible to study the child's leaning toward some special line of work or study. They are taught to be law-abiding citizens, and to have respect for their seniors. The ground work is then well laid. Manners make the man. Young people are too prone to regard civility as servility.

The three phases into which education can be divided, he said, are home influence and parental control; in the school where some attempt is made to teach the child how to study and help himself, and the third is the child's ability to apply his education. Mr. Melton concluded his remarks by saying that in his opinion "a man's education is that which is left after he has forgotten all that he was taught."

Mr. Morley Plunkett moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Melton on behalf of the audience.

Dr. H. V. Dobson and Dr. H. A. Mitchell were present to explain the newly established Associated Medical Service. Mr. Mattice thanked the medical men for their explanation of this plan.

The chair was occupied by Mr. G. S. Mattice, principal, and Mr. P. D. Windrim read the secretary and treasurer's reports.

A program was given consisting of a solo by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt; piano solo, Norman Hurle; guitar and mouth organ selections, Herbert Henry and Gordon Todd; reading, Gerald Jones; duet, Allan and Douglas Plunkett.

CAMPBELLFORD BRANCH

'Resolved that men are more useful to industry than women" was the topic settled by the A.Y.P.A. debating team this week. The affirmative side upheld by Jim Hamilton and Pete Winstanley won the debate in the opinion of the judge, Rev. T. S. Gault. E. Gillibrand and Mrs. E. Farrell were on the opposing team. The president, Alton Dunk, presided for the meeting during which a committee was appointed to look into the various prospective ways of raising money for the society during the current season. The committee will comprise D. Beatty, J. Sutton, E. Gillibrand, A. Dunk, P. Winstanley, and Mrs. R. Ferrill.

Several lively contests were held at the close with the winners announced as follows: M. Winstanley, B. Hay, D. Russell, Mrs. R. Reid, Murray Burgiss and M. Higginson.

FASHIONS

A plaid jacket, cut on classically tailored lines in the new, longer length, has a definite place in every wardrobe. This neatly gored skirt flares nicely under the single-breasted jacket. Wear it with sweaters and blouses as a dress under your sport coat and keep as warm as toast. Or, on balmy days you will be smartly dressed in just this suit. The same style made in one material also is very practical, especially for the shorter figure.

Style No. 3004 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards for 54-inch material for jacket; 1½ yards for skirt.

With The Girl Guides

1st Company held an enrolment ceremony at which Rev. Dr. E. W. Young was a guest. Dorothy Harvey and Beverley Nicholls made their promise, and five-year service stars were awarded to Iris Whalon, Peggy Houghton and Sadie Anderson, and one-year stars to Moira Whalon, Joyce Bridcott, J. Alexander, Lenore Simmonds. At the close of the ceremony, Dr. Young addressed the Guides, pointing out the value of the Guide law in their everyday life. Since our attachment to St. Andrew's Church, Dr. Young is a regular visitor to our meetings, and we appreciate his kindly interest.

St. Peter's, please watch this column for resumation of meetings. 3rd St. George's: A special and important meeting tonight (Thursday), 8 o'clock, for the Mothers' Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Douglas. Every member urged to attend.

Brownies: An enrolment was held on Saturday. The following recruits were enrolled: Muriel Davies, Elva Laing, Doreen Jewell. Service stars were awarded W. Land, I. McBride, E. Miller, M. Grovelle, J. Knott, and several Tweenies were welcomed to the Pack.

Give Yourself Posture Test

"Nothing looks smart on me!" wails the girl who thinks she lacks style.

But her real trouble is her weak back and abdominal muscles. They should keep her figure gracefully, smartly erect—and they will with the right exercises!

To see if your own abdominal and back muscles are doing their job, do this posture test.

Remove clothes and stand sideways before a mirror. Could a straight line be drawn from top of head through shoulder hip bone, knee and ankle? Or does your back curve out, your stomach protrude? Are you like an "S"? Then do this exercise:

1. Lie on back, pull your right knee to chest and clasp hands around it, as in sketch. 2. Rock backward, swing left leg over head. 3. Rock forward to sitting position, pull from knees. Have back flat, chest forward, head high. Do three times, repeat with left knee. Rest, do 12 times in all.

Simple illustrated exercises for many other figure faults are given in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to correct posture, slim waist, hips and legs, beautify bust, arms, shoulders. Has exercises to relieve nerves, foot ailments, constipation; gives daily routine for entire body.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of BEST EXERCISES FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Eleanor Carrol Is Music Club Hostess

The Orpheus Music Club met at the home of Miss Eleanor Carroll, with Miss Edna Wilson presiding. The past president, Miss P. Watson, spoke briefly to the members.

During the business period, yarn given out by the Red Cross was distributed among the members. A Christmas party was planned for the next meeting. Two new members, Miss Barbara Grey and Miss Beatrice Fairbairn, were introduced to the club.

An enjoyable piano solo was given by Miss Audrey Lacey, and Miss Jeanette MacMorran gave an interesting review of the life of Paderewski. A delightful piano solo was also given by Miss Joyce Cribbis, and an informal talk on her trip to New York was given by Miss Marguerite Rome, in which she emphasized her broadcast from Auburn, N.Y., and described the broadcasting studio, and how a program comes over the air. Members were also shown pictures of the fair.

Delightful refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, and after a program of games. A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess by the club members.

NERVES are the lines of communication and control in the human system. You can't sleep well, work well, enjoy life on tired, jangled, ill-nourished nerves. But with a nervous system that is properly nourished and normal, you can meet any test. You'd pay ANYTHING for the boon of steady nerves!

Since nothing is too good, why not try Ovaltine? This world-famous tonic food beverage is renowned for promoting sound, restful sleep, for nourishing nerves and body-tissues, for combatting fatigue and "jitters". Malt plus milk plus eggs, combined in the right proportions, give Ovaltine a balance in food values that comes near perfection. Every ingredient is scientifically protected and tested—quality comes first.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

ODDS ARE AGAINST YOU

TAKING a certain amount of chance is the heart and soul of the game. But there is a big difference between a winning chance and a losing chance. The first kind, which all sound players like to take, involves a somewhat greater chance to gain than to suffer, whereas the losing chance is one which the odds are against you.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North bid 1-Spade on this deal, South 3-Clubs, North 3-Hearts, South 3-No Trumps and North 4-Spades, quite a strong bid, since it consisted of rebidding the higher ranking suit South thereupon invited slam with the Blackwood 4-No Trumps. North showed two Aces with 5-Hearts and South then asked about kings with 5-No Trumps North showed one with 6-Diamonds and South then bid 7-No Trumps, though he now knew that at least one king was missing

This slam was made solely because the diamond king was in the proper place. It depended on an exactly even chance, whereas better than an even chance is needed to make a grand slam bid sound since it risks loss of both game and small slam

In match point duplicate a grand slam may safely be bid on an exactly even chance, but that is another story

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer West. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the best bidding on this deal?

Nazis Admit Sinking 52 Neutrals

Warns All Nations She Expects Blockade Fought

BERLIN, Dec. 1 — (AP). — The Nazi news agency, DNB, admitted to-day that 52 neutral ships had been sunk by German mines or submarines up to November 28.

The agency made the admission at the same time that the authoritative Nazi commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland warned neutral nations that Germany expects them to resist the Anglo-French blockade of Germany which is to be extended on Monday to seizure of German exports.

DNB, Nazi news agency, said that from the beginning of the war to November 28, 194 vessels, totalling 735,768 tons—both Allied and neutral—headed for Great Britain, had been sunk by German submarines or mines.

The agency said the sinking of 162 ships—52 of them neutral—totalling 639,689 tons, was confirmed by German reports. Non-German sources, it said, disclosed an additional 32 ships of 96,079 tons total, half of them neutral, representing 39,326 tons.

20 Tankers in List.

The statement listed 150,867 tons of shipping as tankers and said the average was 7,500 tons per ship—in other words, about 20 tankers.

(Independent figures indicate 156 ships have been sunk since the war began—84 British, 10 French, 14 German, and 48 neutral.)

Nazis explained their stand by saying that neutrals must share with the Reich the responsibility

New Nazi Mines Double Acting

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The new type German mines blamed for heavy recent shipping losses in the North Sea were reported today to be so devised that their charge may be set off by sound waves as well as by the magnetic force of a ship's hull.

Informed quarters here said they had received word Great Britain had discovered the secret of the mines by recovering several of them unexploded.

While they were described as probably the most formidable new weapon of the war, British naval authorities were represented as confident that means of coping with them could be devised quickly.

The British findings were said here to be:

Export Blockade Hits German Weak Spot —Her Lack Of Gold, Foreign Exchange, So Necessary With Nazi Bartering Gagged

(Editor's Note. — Great Britain's announced intention to seize all German exports beginning next Monday brings a new phase in the second Great War. What does it mean? Frederick Gardner, Associated Press financial writer, shows how it fits into the desperate contest in the matching of financial and industrial might.)

By FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(AP).—The Allied attempt to halt German exports is aimed at a weak spot in the Reich's economic armor—her lack of gold and foreign exchange.

Germany, strained by the terrific cost of preparation for war, need more money to stay in the test of economic stamina. She needs foreign currency to buy abroad food and raw materials for her great industrial machine.

The extensive system of barter the Nazi planners built in Latin America and other countries has been disrupted by war. Many sellers, like the United States, demand cash on the barrel head for war supplies. Export of manufactured goods appears to be Germany's main avenue to foreign currency.

So Great Britain, in retaliation for Germany's mine warfare, has announced all German exports will be subject to seizure, starting Monday.

Her merchant fleet blockaded, Germany has tried to promote trade through her "backdoor" in southeastern Europe, though other non-belligerent countries and the Mediterranean.

The war—estimated by some analysts to be costing the three belligerents as much as $10,000,000 daily—is financed at home by increased taxes and borrowing. The Nazi state has devised various means of continuing the vast government spending, including non-interest-bearing tax certificates adopted last May as a "new financial plan."

Nazi re-armament expenditures were estimated to have cost 90,000,000,000 reichsmarks (the mark nominally is worth about 40 cents). Taxes were jacked up and the higher level of employment and business yielded larger revenues. But loans and other credit expedients provided much of the money, although the exact size of the Reich's debt has been veiled.

Allies Piling On Debt

Besides war-time taxes, Britain and France also are putting new layers of debt on obligations of the first Great War.

Internally, therefore, with aid of totalitarian controls of wages and other costs, the financial engine of the war economy theoretically could be kept going as long as governments can borow and tax.

Externally, it's another story. With international credit at its present low ebb, the warring powers need gold, securities and other

Montreal Troop Scrap Calls Out 100 Police

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 — (CP). — A general riot call brought more than 100 policemen and detectives to a cafe at Bleury and Ontario streets in control Montreal last night. First calls for police were followed rapidly by repeated alarms until, within 10 minutes after the outbreak, all available radio police cars and station vehicles were on the scene.

Fighting took place in the Chez Eddie Grill and on the street between the cafe and an armory a short distance away. Soldiers engaged in the combat were dispersed only after the number of police had increased to well over the 100 mark. Deputy Director Armand Brodeur of Montreal police was called to the scene in the emergency.

Many of the combatants, both police and army men, suffered minor cuts and bruises, but none was reported to have been injured seriously. When police were called, they got in touch with military authorities and a number of military police were sent to the scene. In the confusion, seven of the military police suffered bruises.

When more military police reached the spot later and higher officials took charge, the soldiers were ordered away and orders were given that no one was to enter the cafe. The cafe, badly damaged inside, was closed. Tables and chairs were broken and chairs were strewn on the sidewalk.

Police stated that refusal to allow a number of men into the cafe after the fight had started in the building had led to another battle outside. Police said that the original quarrel had started several days ago when, it was claimed, a soldier had been attacked by waiters.

Hungary Rushes Border Forts In Face Of Reds

BUDAPEST, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Hungary sent additional labor battalions of her Ruthenian-Russian frontier today to complete new fortifications as tension increased over border incidents.

The fortifications are being thrown up in the face of Soviet troops in the Russian-occupied section of Poland.

Persons coming from the region reported considerable tension between the opposing Russian and Hungarian soldiers as a result of Russia's invasion of Finland and repeated incidents along the border. Hungary's Magyars and Finns are kindred races.

Yesterday, reports were received Russian soldiers had fired on Hungarian sentries. No official confirmation of the report was received, but it was learned that ill feeling had been caused by shipments into Turhenia of Russian propaganda pamphlets which were seized by Hungarian military authorities.

Mexicans Probe Forgery, Spy Ring

MEXICO, D.F., Dec. 1—(CP-Havas).—Mexican authorities last night disclosed they are investigating a large-scale forgery and espionage ring allegedly operating from Canada as far south as Venezuela and reported to be linked to the German Legation here.

Three persons, identified as two Mexicans and a Spaniard, were under arrest on charges of forging cheques on the Banque Canadienne Nationale at Montreal and the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Toronto, and issuing false passports for admission of undesirables into at least five Latin American countries.

Back at Queen's Park, he defied efforts to identify him. He said his name was "Stinky," but "my other name is Whiskers."

Finally, he was taken in a staff car to the point on Oxford street where he joined the parade. There he was identified as "Whiskers" Given, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Given.

Officers said they didn't learn his proper first name.

Britain Calls Men 20-23 To Add 250,000 Troops

London, Dec. 1 (CP Cable)

THE KING by proclamation today called men of the ages 20 to 23 to register Dec. 9 for military service. It is estimated 250,000 men will be affected.

The effect of the order is to extend the liability for military service to men of 21 and also to those who since Oct. 1, but before tomorrow, attained the age of 20.

It is not expected that the new group—the third to be called this year—will be summoned for service for a month after registration and at least not before the new year.

The order only applies to persons ordinarily resident in Great Britain and exempts men in holy orders or regular ministers of any denomination.

Men liable for the call but not in the United Kingdom on registration day will be required to report within seven days of their return to Britain.

Huge Soviet Bombers Blast Helsingfors, Machine Gun Civilians In Streets As Battles Rage From Arctic To The Gulf

Moscow Holds Up Finn Envoys And Embassy Staff

MOSCOW, Dec. 1 (AP) — The spokesman of the Finnish legation said today that the Soviet Russian government had removed the legation's telephones and that the staff was still unable to obtain passports for its departure.

Officials of the legation were unable to say when they would leave for Helsingfors and it was thought possible in some quarters that permission might be refused until the staff of the Soviet consulate in Helsingfors had reached Moscow.

Soviet newspapers published what they called an apeal by the Finnish Communist party to take over the estate of large Finnish landowners. They said the appeal was issued by radio.

The newspapers gave no details of fighting in the war on Finland.

The press also urged establishment of a "people's government" in Finland to negotiate a mutual assistance pact with the Soviet.

The proposal was made in the Communist party organ Pravda in an "open letter to the Finnish people." It was regarded as a possible indication that Russia might halt its invasion of the notrhern nation if such a government were established.

"Finland To Blame"

The open letter appeared as the Soviet sought to place upon Finland the blame for the Red army campaign.

The Soviet radio said that the people of Russia had greeted with unbounded enthusiasm the entry of the Red army into Finland. There was rejoicing over the initial victories of the troops that crossed the Finnish frontier, it said.

"The Finnish people will be liberated from unworthy leaders," said the announcer during one broadcast. "The army on land, sea, and in the air is honorably fulfilling its mission and will cover itself once more with imperishable glory."

A statement circulated by Tass, Soviet news agency, claimed that the supreme command of the Red army ordered the invasion just after three attacks by Finnish border forces.

As a result of these "new armed provocations"—as Tass put it—Red forces crossed the frontier at 8 a.m. yesterday (midnight Wednesday, EST) on the Karelian Isthmus and at several other points.

No Surrender

London, Dec. 1 (CP)

THE FINNISH legation declared today there was no question of a Finnish surrender to Soviet Russia.

The legation declared that the Russian land offensive had been stopped and that no landings from warships of the Red fleet had been accomplished on Finnish soil.

It added that the government of Finland would be reorganized on a broader basis for the purpose of national unity and, if possible, to reopen negotiations with the Soviet government.

Avoid Civilians In Bombings F.D.R. Asks Reds

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked Russia and Finland today to pledge publicly that they would refrain from bombing defenceless civilians and unfortified cities.

Mr. Roosevelt's plea was made public shortly after Hjalmar Procope, the Finnish minister, told newsmen that Soviet warplanes had dropped bombs on Helsingfors and nine other communities in Finland —all of which, he said, were unfortified.

In his message to the Russian and Finnish governments—which read almost word for word like his previous appeal to Germany and the Allies—the president asked both countries to avoid a resort to the "inhuman barbarism" of aerial attacks on civilian centres."

"If resort is made to this form of inhuman barbarism during the period of tragic conflagration with which the world is now confronted, hundreds of thousands of innocent human beings who are not even remotely participating in hostilities will lose their lives," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Public Appeal

'I am therefore addressing this appeal to the Soviet Government (Finnish Government in the message to Helsingfors) publicly to affirm its determination that its armed forces shall in no event, and under no circumstances, undertake the bombardment from the air of

Hundreds Of Russian Prisoners Taken, 16 Tanks Wrecked

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 1 (AP)—Finland formed a new government tonight, dropping leaders who had been assailed by Moscow, as Russian armed forces renewed and extended their attack upon the country.

While the new government was being formed, Russian bombing planes swooped low over the capital and machine-gunned civilians in streets. Viipuri (Viborg) and other cities also were raided.

Russian attacks extended from Finland's extreme Arctic tip, where soldiers were reported dropped by parachute from warplanes to seize important towns, to Finland's extreme southwestern corner, where Red warships opened a blasting onslaught against the strategic port of Hangoe, guarding the entrance to the Gulf of Finland.

Finnish defence batteries on the Russaroe fortress were reported to have sent one of the attacking

Reds Claim Finn Troops Set Up People's Regime

MOSCOW, Dec. 1—(AP).—Tass, the Russian news agency, reported today that a "people's government of the democratic republic of Finland" had been formed in Terijoki, Finnish town near the point where Russian troops first crossed the border yesterday.

Tass said it had been formed by agreement of representatives of a number of left parties and Finnish soldiers who, it alleged, rose in revolt.

(A Helsingfors dispatch said the report of a "rebel government" in Terijoki drew only laughter in the Finnish capital.)

Tass said the following "entered the people's government":

Finnish Action May Split Reds And Nazis

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (CP).—The British press flared with indignation to-day over the Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland.

The press reaction varied from expression of rage to disillusionment. Under such headings as "The Murder of Finland," "Freedom's Latest Martyr," and "Wanton Attack," the papers printed reports of the bombings of Helsingfors and the invasion by the Red Army.

Well-informed political students advanced the long-range suggestion that the action of Finland might presage an ultimate break between Germany and Russia.

"The dilemma seems inescapable," said The Times, "that either the present expedition is an act of naked aggrandizement, which (Premier Vyacheslaff) Molotoff denies, or the pact of friendship so recently concluded at Moscow means little for the future."

The Times added that "Germany cannot but observe the plan to erect elaborate fortifications in

Cold Detective Nips Broker's Balcony Climb

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(AP). — A detective stood guard today beneath the balcony of beautiful Eileen (Juliet) Herrick to foil George (Romeo) Lowther in his efforts to see his lady love.

The young broker, unlike his Shakespearean predecessor, was prevented from scaling the single walls of the Herrick summer home on Long Island yesterday after tracking his lady fair to her sylvan hideaway.

"Eileen! Eileen!" he called under her balcony.

Instead of Eileen, a private detective appeared. He had been stationed there by parental vigilance.

"Go on, you! Get outa here!" he shouted.

Romeo hastily retreated.

Earlier Eileen had appeared briefly on the balcony and was asked whether she wanted to leave.

"A fat chance of their letting me," she said, poetically.

Her parents have kept a jump ahead of Romeo in his quest of the brunette heiress. George had her in court last month on a writ of habeas corpus served on her parents in order to assert his right to court her.

The Justice ruled he should be allowed to woo at will after a 10-day "truce." The "truce" expired last Saturday—but Lowther has been unable to make boy-meet-girl. He has threatened another court action.

Said Mrs. Herrick:

"Eileen is of legal age (20) to marry George and I can't keep her prisoner. But with my last breath I would advise her against it."

French Warship Blasts 7th Sub In 3 Weeks As U-Boat Shifts To Torpedo Convoy; Charge Lifts Raider Partly Clear Of Water

PARIS, Dec. 1.—(CP-Havas)—French naval authorities disclosed today that the latest U-boat sunk by French naval forces, the seventh in the past three weeks, was wrecked by a depth charge from a torpedo-boat just as it was preparing to torpedo a convoy of merchant ships.

Navy officials said there was no doubt the U-boat, whose sinking was revealed in last night's communique, was actually sent to the bottom. The crew of the French torpedoboat distinctly saw part of the submarine's hull emerge from water in the midst of a spout raised by the explosion of a depth charge. The torpedo-boat was one of the warships escorting the merchant vessels.

On land the French troops today found themselves busier with picks and shovels than with rifles and machine-guns. Profiting by the calm, disturbed only by a few local clashes, troops were at work along the whole front deepening and strengthening fortifications.

Small-scale patrol and reconnaissance action continued in the no man's land between the French and German advanced posts. From time to time intermittent artillery fire occurred, yesterday mainly in the region south of Saarbrucken.

This morning's official French army communique reported the repulse by the French of an enemy raid. This raid took place in the region east of the Moselle River, where the greatest activity has been noted recently. Two German infantry sections, at the most, took part of this operation, but they did not get as far as the small French outpost which was their goal. French artillery found their range and forced the German raiders back to their own lines.

He first awakened the six members of Augustus Cosentino's family by pounding on the door, then summoned firement. Returning, he climbed to the roof of an adjoining garage and leaped 18 feet to the ground with eight-year-old Joseph Cosentino in his arms.

Nickel Works Destroyed At Petsamo

Reds Drop Troops By Parachute; Canadians Escape

KIRKENES, Norway, Dec. 1 — (AP).—Nickel workings at Petsamo were hit during today's bombardment of that Finland Arctic port and were destroyed by flames according to a dispatch received here.

(The dispatch did not make it clear if the destroyed property was that of the International Nickel Company of Canada, whose rich nickel and copper deposits are located 30 miles southwest of Petsamo).

Russian troops dropped by parachutes from bombing planes were reported to have occupied Petsamo during the day.

Violent fighting between Finnish and Russian troops was reported. The waterfront was said to be in flames.

That hostilities were proceeding near the Canadian company's properties was indicated by reports from refugees that the Russians had taken the ancient monastery of Petchenga, 10 miles south of Petsamo, cutting off Finnish troops north of that point.

Canadians Escape.

Yesterday it was reported that a number of Canadian mining officials and their families had reached Northern Norway.

The whole town of Linahamari, in Finland's corridor to the Arctic near the Norwegian border, was in flames from repeated raids by Soviet bombing planes.

Warplanes also bombed Salmijervi, just across the Pasik River from Kirkenes, apparentl ytrying to stop refugees crossing the frozen river into Norway. Despite machin-gunning from low-flying airplanes, 600

Husband Slayer Is Given Life

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(AP).—Justice had overtaken a middle-aged widow today just as it caught up with 13 others linked with a ring that trafficked in death for profit.

Mrs. Millie Giacobbe was convicted last night on a charge of slaying her husband by a jury that recommended life imprisonment.

She was accused of poisoning her husband, Antonio, whose death was placed by investigators among "scores' slain by a combine that dealt in murder for insurance.

Mrs. Giacobbe was described by her counsel as a "superstitious, fearful woman who believes in witchcraft," while the prosecution pictured her as one "coldly motivated by greed." She dispatched her husband, the State contended, in order to collect his $3,800 insurance.

Baltimore, Dec. 1 (AP)

SLAYING of a 64-year-old Briton by a bullet fired into his thigh, gave police a many-angled mystery today.

For two hours after his body was found, in the office where he worked as a bookkeeper, employees thought Albert Cooley died of natural causes.

Then, at hospital, an examination disclosed Cooley had been shot in the left thigh and the bullet had coursed upward into his heart.

No gun was found, police said.

Hitch Hiked To Join R.A.F. Canadian Sinks a U-Boat

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP).—A London, Ont., boy who hitch-hiked to Montreal and went to England on a cattle boat to join the Royal Air Force, Lieut. Bruce Forbes, recently sank a German submarine in the North Sea, he revealed in a letter to his brother, Douglas Forbes, here.

In his letter, Lieut. Forbes, described briefly his criss-cross flights over murky waters as far as Norway and back in search of enemy aircraft or submarines.

He said that on one flight he emerged from ice-cold mist and rain to see unmistakable lines of a U-boat below. He manoeuvred over the submarine as it dived, and released bombs which scored a direct hit. He hovered around the vicinity, his letter said, until oil patches appeared on the surface.

Lieut. Forbes is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Forbes of London.

The letter related that when the young flyer turned in his report to his superiors, he was

Officer Robbed, Kidnapped For Seven Hours

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 1.—(CP)—F. L. Henderson reported to police early today that he had been kidnapped and robbed by a gunman last night and had been taken for a seven-hour ride in his own car after the first holdup man had been joined by two confederates. The soldier said that during the ride the men unsuccessfully tried to hold up a gas station.

The office said he was on his way to McMaster University about five o'clock last evening to give instruction to an officers' training corps unit when he halted his car at the corner of Merrick and Bay streets.

A man with an automatic gun stepped up to the car and opened the door," the colonel told Detective Ernest Barrett. "He put the gun agains my ribs and told me it was a holdup and to drive out York street where he said he was going to pick up a pal."

Colonel Henderson said that at the gates of the Hamilton cemetry another armed man was picked up. After being forced to drive to a sideroad near the Waterdown Golf Club, Col. Henderson's hands were tied with a sash cord and he was pushed into the car's rear seat.

One of the gunmen then drove the car back to Hamilton where at Hess and York streets a third man was picked up. The car then was driven along the Dundas highway in the direction of Waterdown. It was dur-

This is essential for applying accurately the schedule of reserved occupations and identifying men who are not reserved and may be employed in the armed forces in their trade capacity.

The authorities will write the employers of all men registered asking confirmatory statements of the employee's occupation. This will remove any possibility of question at a later stage. There have been instances where employers have said the employee is really reserved.

The men registered December 9 will as far as possible be called up for service in their age order, youngest first and oldest last.

granted 12 days' leave—the longest single leave granted up to that time in the unit. He was lionized by his comrades.

From the day when, as a youngster, Lieut. Forbes first sold newspaper in London, Ont., he never let his dream of some day becoming an airman fade. He carefully banked his earnings and later took flying lessons at the London Flying Club. By sticking to his carrier route work and his flying he was able, at the age of 19, to pass his tests. Before he was 20 he made application to enter the Royal Canadian Air Force. He passed all tests except the physical one. So he hitch-hiked to Montreal, got a job on a cattle boat and, after a rough trip, during which he lost 14 pounds, arrived in London.

The harrowing crossing had eft him weak, thin and tired. He feared he would have no chance of passing the stiff British examinations. So he took a few weeks resting up, spending most of his remaining money on big meals, and was able to regain more than those lost 14 pounds.

One of the happiest moments in his life came when his ambitions were realized and he became a full-fledged member of the R.A.F. when war broke out he was moved up to an air base in Scotland, and was allotted the task of making routine flights of 1,000 miles over the North Sea and back. It was on one of these expeditions he sighted the U-boat.

Already Lieut. Forbes has an enviable war record. He is a veteran of several flights over German territory, photographing and scouting important centres, and took part in the leaflet raids over Germany at the beginning of the war.

KIRKENES, Norway, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Russian troops dropped by parachutes from huge bombing planes today were reported to have occupied Petsamo, Finland's Arctic port which lies 30 miles northeast of the rich nickel and copper deposits owned by the International Nickey Company of Canada.

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 1—(AP).—A squadron of Russian bombers raided Helsingfors and its suburbs at 1:15 (6:15 a.m. EST) today, dropping bombs and strafing with machine guns.

The raid still was in progress at 2:55 p.m. (7:55 p.m. EST).

Finnish anti-aircraft batteries were reported to have shot down several of the raiding planes which were flying low. One bomber was said to have crashed as the result of rifle fire from a hill occupied by civil air defence guards.

Smoke rising in various sections of the city indicated new fires. Many eastern border of Finland where military authorities said the Russians were thrown back after suffering heavy casualties.

Russians Captured.

Many Russian prisoners were taken, they said, and 16 invading tanks were wrecked by land mines or gunfire.

The new Premier is Risto Ryti, governor of the Bank of Finland. His Foreign Minister is Vaino Tanner, Socialist Finance Minister in the outgoing government and regarded as friendly to Russia. Included also, as minister without portfolio, is Juhu Paasikivi, former Premier experienced in Russian affairs and head of the delegation which had been conferring in Moscow over Russia's territorial demands.

Dropped altogether were Premier Aimo Cajander, and his Foreign Minister, Eljas Erkko, both of whom had been attacked bitterly by Moscow as trying to lead Finland into war against Russia.

Russian warplanes bombed Finland's principal ports on her south coast, including Viipuri, large sections of which were set aflame yesterday, and Kotka, about 65 miles east of Helsingfors.

10 Bombers Downed

Ten Russian bombers were reported shot down at Viipuro.

The air attack was carried all the way to Abo (Turku), on Finland's west coast 250 miles from the Russian frontier, where it was reported, without confirmation that Finnish civilians were machine-gunned as they were in Helsingfors. No estimate of the day's casualties in the capital or elsewhere was available.

Hundreds of Russian prisoners were reported captured on the Karlelan Isthmus, where the Red army was invading overland. (Moscow reported an advance of from six to 10 miles here yesterday.)

Helsingfors newspaper offices received reports from many sections of the capital that citizens were being machine-gunned from Russian planes in the early afternoon.

M. Heliki-Klemetti, director of a Finnish male chorus which recently toured North America, said a low-flying Russian plane had machine-gunned his suburban home.

The new premier is 50 years old, an ex-minister of finance, has headed the Bank of Finland since 1923 and is a member of the progressive party.

The Ryti cabinet was formed during a day in which Russia extended her attacks on Finland, bombing Helsingfors and many other cities and machine-gunning civilians in the streets of the capital.

The conflict raged from Finland's arctic tip around to her southwestern shore, where batteries of the stronghol dof Hangoe were reported to have sunk a Russian warship as the defenders stood off a day long attack from the sea.

LONDON, Dec. 1.— (CP).— A Reuter's News Agency despatch reported from Helsingfors to-day that the Finnish fleet had departed from the capital's port.

The agency said Hangoe, stronghold of the south-western coast, had been bombed three times during the day by Red army planes. Viborg, (Cilpurl), seaport city east of Helsingfors, was reported in flames, and a hospital at Imatra north of Viborg, was reported struck by a bomb.

Several hundred shells were fired by the Soviet fleet on Abo, seaport town west of Helsingfors, the News Agency said.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency said many dead were reported at the Arctic city of Petsamo and said all buildings on the south coast islands of Seitskaer and Tytaskaer were set afire by bombs.

More Fires Started.

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 1.—(AP).—A large squadron of bombers roared down on Helsingfors for the second successive day, machine-gunned the capital proper and its suburbs and setting the modern city ablaze with new fires.

Finnish reports said many of the raiders were shot down. Casualties in the city could not be estimated immediately. Fifty persons were officially listed as killed in yesterday's attacks on the capital alone, and the number of dead and wounded in the provinces and in widespread new attacks to-day was undetermined.

A new government was formed to succeed that of Premier Aimo Cajander, which resigned early today even though it had a vote of confidence from Parliament.

Its composition was not announced immediately.

Terms With Russia

(Copenhagen reports said diplomats expected the new government would come to terms with Russia. The Finnish legation in London, however, said there was no question of a "surrender.")

The new attacks followed expiration of an ultimatum broadcast by the Mscow radio threatening annihilation of Helsingfors unless an agreement was reached by 3 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday E.S.T.)

Russian forces were striking today at Finland's farthest northern outposts, at points along the 800-mile eastern frontier and along the southern seacoast around to the extreme southwest.

Near the middle of this front Soviet land forces had occupied territory north of Lake Ladoga and farther south had advanced on the Karelian Isthmus north of Leningrad. (Moscow said this advance was from six to nearly 10 miles.)

At the extreme northern tip of the Russian-Finnish border Russian warplanes were reported to have dropped troops by parachute and occupied Petsamo, principal town of Finland's narrow corridor to the Arctic Ocean. This meant that all but Finland's extreme west coast was under fire.

Today's first raid on Helsingfors was made by bombers which roared over the capital at 1:15 p.m. (6:15 a.m. E.S.T.), bombing and machine-gunning with devastating effect. An hour and 40 minutes later the raid was still in progress.

POSTPONE ELECTIONS

The European war has caused a postponement of all elections in South Africa, possibly until 1943.

British Submarine Escape Device

Sailors of the British navy's "pig boat fleet" learn how to use the Davis submarine escape apparatus in special diving tank at a British naval school. The device, similar to the U.S. Momsen lung, will prove a life-saver in case their undersea fighter should be disabled and sent to the bottom.

October Relief Rolls Drop 10,000 Cross Reveals In Check Of Ontario

TORONTO, Dec. 1—(CP).—Expanding business, greater industrial activity and the consequent increase in employment resulted in the drop from the relief rolls during October of 10,000 persons who were getting assistance in September, it was revealed yesterday by Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Public Welfare.

Reviewing the situation in 40 municipalities which carry 85 per cent. of all the relief load in the province, Mr. Cross showed that 146,995 persons received relief in October as compared with 165,700 in the same month of 1938—a decrease of 11.3 per cent. This represents a reversal of the position at the beginning of this year when the January figures were 10 per cent. greater than in the previous year.

Compared with the high point in March of this year October figures show a reduction of approximately 74,000 persons, whereas in 1938 the spread between maximum and minimum was only 43,000 persons.

Only 7 Centres Go Back.

The Minister was of the opinion that the improvement in relief was a reflection of expanding business conditions and employment. It is further noted that only seven municipalities out of the 40 in question had a larger number of relief recipients during October, 1939, than the same month of the previous year.

Particularly gratifying Mr. Cross said was the substantial decreases in numbers on relief over October, 1938, in the municipalities of Brantford of 32 per cent, Trenton 45 per cent, Sault Ste. Marie 47 per cent, Kingston 47 per cent, Welland 42 per cent, St. Thomas 41 per cent and North Bay 35 per cent.

Reflecting the decrease in numbers, expenditures in the month of October in the 40 municipalities amounted to $1,163,000 which is the lowest since the summer months of 1937. It represents a decrease of $70,000 from the previous month and a decrease of $173,000 from October, 1938.

How The Years Compare

refugees crossed the frontier. Crowds of women and children were seen on roads leading to the border as Soviet planes roared overhead.

The air raids, during the brief hours of daylight inside the Arctic circle, continued where they left off yesterday.

12 Canadians At Mine

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 1.—(CP)—At least 12 Canadians are believed to be in the group of workers and relatives attached to the International Nickel Company's plant at Petsamo, Finland. It was reported here today that all had fled safely to Norway when hostilities between the Finns and Russians reached the district.

A letter received her today from Mrs. I. J. Simcox, formerly of Sudbury and wife of the Canadian manager of the Finnish plant, said that for some time the Canadians had pasted tarpaper over the windows of their houses to make the precautionary black-out more effective. She said that the group were ready to leave at a moment's notice. "Our passports are in order should we be forced to flee to Norway," said the letter written some time ago.

Manager Simcox was joined in Finland by his wife and two daughters. Another former Northern Ontario resident with the Canadian group in Finland was Miss Eva Christilaw, former Copper Cliff school teacher.

LONDON.— (CP) — The British steamship Dalryan, 4,558 tons, struck a mine and sank today off the southeast coast of England. Her crew was rescued. Earlier the sinking of the 4,260-ton Finnish steamship Mercator by a mine off the Scottish coast had been disclosed with the landing of survivors on British soil. One member of the crew was missing. The Danish schooner Grethe, 264 tons, sank off the mouth of the Thames. She was believed to have struck a submerged wreck.

Youth Drowned While Riding Bicycle On Lake

BANCROFT, Dec. 1—(ENS).—Police late yesterday afternoon recovered the body of Miles Beaudrie 20, from beneath the ice in Gunter lake, 6 miles east of Gilmour.

Beaudrie, son of M. E. Beaudrie of Gilmour, was riding a bicycle across the ice on Gunter lake when he crashed through. His hat was found at the edge of a hole in the ice earlier in the day and Provincial Constable F. Palmateer and County Constable Wells of Bancroft dragged the lake for his body, recovering it and the bicycle late in the afternoon, after breaking the ice ahead of them during the search. Only the middle of the lake is not free from ice and Beaudrie had cycled 25 yards on thin ice before crashing through close to the open water.

Rented Bicycle

Beaudrie had rented the bicycle in Gilmour Wednesday night and intended to ride it to his parents' home on the east side of the lake. Without asking the advice of residents, he started across the ice shortly after 9 o'clock unnoticed by any one. About thirty minutes later Charles Mereaux, walking along the short, noticed the bicycle and a hat about 100 feet from shore.

The ice on the lake has not been thick enough for the residents to venture out far from shore, but Beaudrie, who lives further north, did not know the danger. From the appearance of the bicycle and hat on the ice, it seemed he had fallen from his bicycle and the ice had given way beneath him, stated Provincial Constable Palmateer. Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson of Bancroft visited the scene last evening, but it could not be learned if there would be an inquest.

The drowning marks the second fatality in this district in barely more than two weeks. Gunter lake, about forty miles northeast of Peterborough, is within a few miles of Wesselemkoon lake, in which Colonel R. J. Graham of Belleville perished following an aeroplane crash on Nov. 12.

Tass said the government had issued a declaration expounding its program.

The program of the rebels was given as follows:

1. Control of industrial enterprises and banks.
2. Seizure and division of large landholdings.
3. Reduction of working hours.
4. Administrative reform.
5. Educational reform.

The new cabinet being formed, the declaration continued, is worth no more than the regime of Aimo Cajander which preceded it. This "rabble" must be driven from Finland, the announcer asserted in calling upon citizens of Finland to cooperate with the "new government."

Otonabee Newlyweds Are Given Shower

KEENE, Dec. 1—(ENS).—A large crowd were present at Mather's Corners Hall on Monday evening on the occasion of a miscellaneous shower for Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Renwick (nee Marjorie Plunkett), newly-weds.

A delightful evening was spent in round and square dancing. A fittin address was read by Miss Viola Wilson and the gifts were presented by the Misses Isobel Short and Willene Miller.

Refreshments were served and dancing was resumed for the remainder of the evning.

Allan Thompson has returned from Saskatchewan, accompanied by his uncle, Adam Thompson of Hoosier, Saskatchewan.

Miss Dorothy Edwards has returned home after spending the past week in Peterborough.

Stewart Hall W.M.S. Elects 1940 Officers

STEWART HALL, Dec. 1. — (ENS)—The Women's Missionary Society held the November meeting at the hall on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. H. Taylor, in the chair. A short worship period was followed by the roll call.

Miss J. Thompson gave a reading about the work of a "friendship secretary," and some discussion followed as to appointment of one for the society. Miss Margaret Chambers gave a very excellent paper on temperance work. Sentence prayers were made by the members.

The election of officers for the coming year followed: President, Mrs. B. Matchett; first vice-president, Mrs. William Hutchison; second vice-president, Mrs. James Thorne; third vice-president, Miss E. Teasdale; secretary, Miss G. Thompson; pianist, Mrs. W. Dawson; treasurer, Mrs. G. Savigny; temperance secretary, Mrs. J. Whittington.

BUDAPEST. — (AP) — A Nazi party deputy's tribute to Finland's "defence of liberty and freedom" started a demonstration today on the floor of the Hungarian parliament in which members of all parties joined, shouting "Long Live the Finns!"

Warsaw Christening Happy Ceremony

WARSAW, Dec. 1—(ENS).—A number of relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Crowe on Sunday to witness the christening of their little daughter, Aura Maureen. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, performed the ceremony.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crowe, Mr. Thomas Petrie, Mr. H. Earl Petrie, Mr. Archie M. Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Petrie, Sheila and Arthur, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson, Ruth, John, Stella and Margaret.

There was a splendid attendance at the Presbyterian Sunday School on Sunday morning. The junior choir led the service of praise in the United Church on Sunday evening. Their special number was "Let the Gospel Light Shine In."

Owing to ill health caused by his recent falls, David Miller has rented his farm to Harold Barrett from March 1, 1940. Mr. Andrews, auctioneer, was up on Tuesday arranging for the sale of stock, implements and crop, and a few household articles on December 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sharpe have their home prettily renovated.

civilian populations or of unfortified cities, upon the understanding that these same rules of warfare will be scrupulously observed by all their opponents.

"I request an immediate reply."

High officials waited primarily to see what answer would come from Russia, which some authorities estimate has more than 7,000 military planes. They were confident that Finland, with 150 warplanes, would acquiesce promptly.

In a formal statement read to a press conference, the President said all peace loving peoples would "unanimously condemn this new resort to military force as the arbiter of international differences."

The President's Statement:

"The news of the Soviet naval and military bombings within Finnish teritory has come as a profound shock to the government and people of the United States.

"Despite efforts made to solve the dispute by peaceful methods which no reasonable objection could be offered, one power has chosen to resort to force of arms.

"It is tragic to see the policy of force spreading, and to realize that wanton disregard for law is still on the march.

"All peace-loving peoples in those nations that are still hoping for the continuance of relations throughout the world on the basis of law and order will unanimously condemn this new resort to military force as the arbiter of international differences.

"To the great misfortune of the world, the present trend to force makes insecure the independent existence of small nations in every continent and jeopardizes the rights of mankind to self government.

"The people and government of Finland have a long, honorable and wholly peaceful record which has won for them the respect and warm regard of the people and government of the United States."

Before the press conference the president asked Russia and Finland to pledge before the world that they would

A Ring In Hitler's Nose

The Examiner is well aware that anything printed in these columns will have not the slightest bearing on what is taking place in Finland. Russia and that little land had a non-aggression pact and it had been in existence for seven yeafs. Moscow announced one day that it had been terminated and next day let loose an attack by air, sea and land on the people of Finland.

Just about the same as a bull dog making an attack upon a lap dog, the one difference being that the bull dog would probably not do it.

The Finns have a great city there in Helsingfors, well built and clean and beautiful. They had an Institute of Technology, a famous seat of learning. But much of the city is in flames and the school has been bombed

And by Russia, the land where mealy mouths have been talking to the world of its desire for peace; the place which has been seeking to foist its system of government on a world of decent people. A nation with 180,000,000 people.

We devoutly hope those people in London who were keen on trading British rubber and copper for Russian timber, and who not long since were referring to Russia as "a good neutral" have had their bellies filled to the point of sickening nausea by the very name of the place.

Justice is not abroad in the world today or Russia would never have been able to impose its stinking presence on the people of Finland. A little nation of some three and a-half million people, but schooled and intelligent to the point where its standard of literacy is the highest in the world. A people acquainted with soap and water hard-working and thrifty. And now comes this filthy invader in the guise of a protector with death in his dirty hands.

What's behind it all? Not long since there were reports that Germany was sympathetic with Finland. German papers were saying so in a mild and guarded way and they were not punished for the views expressed. They were allowed to express opinions which cast no creditable reflection on Germany's new-found ally in Moscow. It was even reported that the Reich was considering shipping arms to Finland to strengthen her against Russian invasion.

Today Germany sits back and looks on while plain hell is being visited upon Finland. Not a hand raised nor a voice of protest. Germany is neutral, which means she is ready to allow Russia to proceed with the rape of Finland.

A guess—and it might be a fairly intelligent one too—would be that Ribbentrop and Stalin have had another meeting. Stalin has pointed out that now is the time to adjust national boundaries, particularly in the Baltic because no one is there to interfere. Russia will take what she wants from Finland, and then Germany can proceed later to deal with Norway and Sweden and extend her sphere of influence or even her boundaries in the direction of North. If there is a better explanation we have not yet seen it.

The whole plan was complete; there was no time for negotiation or for the intervention of some third party. President Roosevelt was ready to offer the services of United States to see if some sort of arrangement could not be brought to completion, but the reply to United States was plain as a pikestaff. Perhaps in more diplomatic words, but in effect the same: "You better keep out of this because your services are not desired or requested, nor will they be welcome. We are going to take Finland to pieces and we will pick up for ourselves exactly what we want."

And that is the kind of company Germany is keeping. Germany whose Hitler turned in his tracks after the invasion and blasting of Poland and said to the world: "Now let us have peace." If war guilt had not been sufficiently tied to the Austrian paper hanger then his partner Russia has added such a weight of evidence by its torture of Finland that they scales swing low with the weight of innocent dead.

Not so in Italy, because Italian papers and people are outspoken. They do not like Russia; they detest Stalin and his communism. They have every sympathy for Finland, and here again one finds evidence of the crack which took place in the Rome-Berlin axis.

Italy may be sympathetic with a purpose. Rome may be able to guess the next chapter by the closing of the present one. When Russia finishes dealing with Finland and has things according to its fancy, will Russia not then turn and deal with Rumania, and that is one move which would be bitterly opposed by Rome.

How any man in Berlin with an ounce of brains left in his head can play butler for Stalin and open the doors for expansion for that beast is the world's greatest puzzle at the moment. Italy sees the situation and so does the rest of the world. Hitler himself can see it, but Stalin has him with a ring in his nose.

Kingston Has a Plan

The Kingston Whig-Standard has a new idea, one which has to do with business on the war front. It came about when the Kingston paper noticed the way in which German propagandists had mutilated British official papers. Sir Howard Kennar, British ambassador to Poland, in his report to Lord Halifax on August 30, wrote: "I am of course expressing no views to the Polish government, nor am I communicating to them Herr Hitler's reply till I receive instructions which I trust will be without delay."

German propaganda agents very deftly used part of the sentence and made it read: "I am of course expressing no views to the Polish government, nor am I communicating to them Herr Hitler's reply." And right there came the end of the quotation, making it appear that Lord Kennar was participant in a miserable plot.

The Whig-Standard is convinced there is no good purpose to be served in arguing with the German authorities. Nothing under the sun can convince those who do not wish to be convinced. One can call the Germans liars but they might never hear it, and if they did hear it they wouldn't believe.

So the suggestion from Kingston is that instead of bothering about making quotations from government Blue Books or White Books they gave the Germans the whole volume. Not just one volume but a whole load of them dumped from an airplane. Much better and more convincing than dropping pamphlets. If newspaper offices in Britain have as many Blue Books about the premises as the average office in Canada then the idea seems sound. They would gladly surrender such ammunition. Now and then we get some whoppers here, and others which though not quite as whopping are still of the weight and dimension which can be classed as impressive.

It is argued from Kingston that such books instead of fluttering down like a leaflet would descend with somewhat of a whang. That word whang may not be of chaste selection but it has a vigorous and rugged vein of red corpuscles running through its fabric. If some of the outpourings of our Bureau of Statistics were to land on an Aryan skull we believe the owner of the skull might be crushed to earth. If he were hit square with one of our volumes which includes a statistical array of municipal, provincial and federal debt he might be out cold for the duration of the war. There is something about the idea which seems right. The pamphlet idea is a bit of a fantasy at best, but the dropping of good-sized Blue Books from great heights is symbolic of the vigor and determination of a race of strong men. We therefore move the adoption of the plan.

Sound Asleep

It does not take long to gather together a few clippings about the number of times people in Canada use guns for illegal purposes. We had an idea—a mistake—that it might take a week or two to find much evidence, but it was done in a few days.

On November 26 two men with guns entered a store in St. Thomas and stole $50 from a man who was closing up his place of business for the night.

On November 27 three bandits entered a gaming house in Winnipeg to line up the patrons against the wall and take their money. Two men were shot in the legs because they did not do as they were told.

On November 28 three armed bandits obtained $3,036 from the Bank of Montreal at King and Victoria in Hamilton. Described as one of the most daring holdups in the history of the city.

On November 29 two men called a taxi cab in Windsor and used guns to try and rob the driver. The driver is alive today because the revolver in the hands of one thug jammed.

On November 29 two youths entered a drug store at the corner of Eglington and Bathurst in Toronto and with the threat of guns made the manager hand over the money on hand.

And that's the way it goes. The four days reviewed are not much different from any other. Guns—snub-nosed killers, safely tucked in the pockets of mugs who wouldn't have the nerve to steal money from a milk bottle if they were not armed.

And why are they armed? For one reason because we haven't done a great deal to make certain they are not armed. With quite a show of official parade we cause people to walk forth at intervals and register their arms, and likely the mugs with weapons smile broadly when they see that taking place because they know it means nothing at all to them. They keep their hidden weapons quite secure in the belief that nothing will be done to take them away. And for the most part they have been right in the belief they hold. What's more it is possible for them to keep on purchasing ammunition. As far as coming to grips with this situation we have spent most of our energy chasing these bums after they have walked out with the loot. They feel quite safe in the continued habit of carrying their concealed weapons.

An Able Man

Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church is going to Galt, and the minister from the Galt church to which Mr. Parr is going will become the pastor of George St. church. The gentleman from Galt is highly recommended, but he will have to be a man of many parts to follow M. C. Parr.

There is a great deal of energy, devotion and fearlessness in Mr. Parr. He has always radiated the impression that he is thoroughly convinced that he is in the greatest work in the world—that of the Christian church.

Well endowed mentally and physically he has taken charge of a congregation which is large and because it is large it makes countless inroads on a man's time and yet if there was anything more which needed doing Mr. Parr was ready for it.

He has spent five years in Peterborough and says he likes the city and its people. It is quite correct to say the feeling has been mutual.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Earl Robinson of Montreal has an injured jaw. No—he's not a politician, but plays hockey for a living.

The worst feature of a car crash is that it so often produces a fractured skull. That may come out all right, but again it may not.

All the news does not come from Europe. Major item from United States for a long time tells that Boston Bruins won a hockey game without the services of Eddie Shore.

We read where another car turned over twice on the highway and no one was injured. Time was when we used to pay admission at the fall fair to see a man doing tricks like that in the ring.

Traffic engineer in Toronto presented a report covering three years and the most pointed statement in it is pressed into these few words: "A man who has had a few drinks is very often an accident about to happen."

The Banque Canadienne Nationale closed its five branches in Alberta because taxation became too great. Perhaps it is time to repeat once again that wise proverb: "The power to tax has within it the power to destroy."

John Johnson refuses to be evacuated from his little home in England. He is 100 years old and declares he is not going to move "on acocunt of that silly little man Hitler." And when a man of 100 makes up his mind it is difficult to change it.

The town of Massey wants a mayor and no person wants to be mayor. The last occupant of the office says there is too much to do and one makes nothing out of it. We believe that holds good in most places but there is generally a contest as several people generally seem keen enough to secure just such a position.

PINK SEDAN

(By A.H.R.)

¶ The high powered cars I read about, inflict a horrid sort of clout, they take a heavy toll; they splinter guard rails by the score, such things were never done before, they'll snap a Hydro pole.

¶ I read about a car with power, that did near ninety miles an hour, it don't seem right to me; it came to where there was a curve, began to skid about and swerve, and then it climbed a tree.

¶ I read of one not far from here, did something that was mighty queer, though it's been done before; it jumped the curb as it went past, and then because it went so fast, it busted in a store.

¶ When I read such reports as these, I cannot feel the world's at ease, nor safe for any man; it's then I start to talk aloud, and really feel a trifle proud, about my pink sedan.

¶ My pink sedan is old I know, and really travels rather slow, down hill I let it coast; if it got out of my control, it would not go and smash a pole, nor yet knock down a post.

¶ That's why I like my pink sedan, it might not suit a sporting man, to me it's full of charm; I feel when I ride in the thing, as happy as the days in spring—for it will cause no harm.

Japan Baffled Because China Not Conquered

CHINA may yet prove to be history's great unconquerable.

For months now, Japan's highly mechanized armies have hardly moved a step. Why?

The answer is not simple. It cannot be given with finality. But several reasons are apparent.

First, China, like Russia, is a land of disastrous distances for an invading army. Sticky red mud clings to the tanks, clogs their caterpillar treads, slows them down, stops them.

Chinese armies retreat. Exultant Japanese occupy villages of mud huts. They inherit earth scorched by the fleeing Chinese. Cities fall. The Rising Sun of Nippon flames red in horizons of the East. In faded blue jackets, farmers watch the sun rise as they till the fields. Then, at dusk, they steal forth in guerilla bands to strike swift, elusive blows at the invader.

What is Japan gaining? What does Japan want? Can its wants be satisfied in China?

Remember that the Japanese people do not necessarily approve what is going on across the China Sea. When we speak of Japan's policy in China, we mean the policy of present military and political leaders. Yet the people have been taught to follow blindly.

Japan's gains so far are hard to draw on a map, says Roland Sharp in Christian Science Monitor. China is a fluff of yeasty humanity. Squeeze it, and it yields with disarming ease. Strike it, and it scatters like wind-blown bubbles. Occupy its ports, its railroads, it capital, and China reappears behind mountain battlements of the deep interior.

So, Japan is just plain baffled to some extent by mysteries of China, inadequately foreseen. Cocksure Japanese soldiers are learning something learned long ago by by burly Mongols and hard-riding Manchus. China's latest would-be conquerors feel the subtle steel of a people that seems flabby. Flabby? China may be, but China never has been permanently conquered in 5,000 years of recorded history.

Like the Mongols and the Manchus of earlier conquests, Japanese troops have descended on China from the north. So far, excluding Manchuria, an area has been occupied in China Proper just about equal to Washington, Oregon, California, and most of Nevada. Of course Chinese are past masters at outwitting their seeming overlords.

Even so, the Japanese threat is serious. Streamlined Japan and resilient, down-at-the-heels China have yet to prove which can endure longer in this test of strength.

Japan's objectives in the war can be understood only against a background of many years. China is actually viewed from Japan as an incident in the Island Empire's larger ambitions. There is significance in repeated references to the undeclared war as "the China incident."

Since 1931, members of the aggressive clique have been in the saddle. Japanese doubts about their program multiply as the China war drags on. But they dream of a day when China has yielded, and when Occidentals shall have been driven out, or at least reduced to impotence. "Asia for the Asiatics" is their slogan.

Short of such grandiose visions, many Japanese view a foothold in North China as a necessity for the Island Empire's bare defence. Russia is the villain in the piece. Eastern Russia also is a potential hunting ground for Japanese Empire-builders.

Another Japanese aim is to stamp out China's anti-Japanese feeling. Arms can hardly do that.

Disorderly China also has annoyed efficient Japan. The soldiers expect to set China's house in order.

Economic reasons for controlling China spring from Japan's need for raw materials. As an industrialized nation, Japan also hopes to absorb American and European markets in China.

CHINESE ACTIVITY

Faced with these and other Japanese ambitions, what is China doing? The external menace has deepened some of the very dangers Japan feared in China. Communism has become a respected ally of the Chinese Nationalist Government. Russia is supporting China. Anti-Japanese feeling has become a passion. The disunited Chinese have united as never before under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Madame Chiang Kai-shek, American-educated, labors at his side.

In its struggle for existence, China has formed a People's Political Council. The Kuomintang, or Government Party, retains dictatorial power as it has for many years. But the Council draws together about 200 representatives of all groups in China, to help and advise the Government.

In Chungking, remote capital where cliffs channel the upper Yangtze, a robust new China is being fashioned. Radicals and conservatives, Communists and capitalists, partially relax their bitter disagreements in order to resist Japan.

How soon can the war be ended? On what terms? Those are questions for coming months. At present Japan pins hopes on setting up a puppet Chinese Government under Wang Ching-wei, a former Chinese premier who has come over to Japan's side.

Meanwhile China, compressed, hardened, modernized, builds a new foothold far from the coast and waits for the moment to descend on an invader who is believed wearing himself out by his own foolhardiness.

As a Chinese banker said to me across a savory table in Peiping the summer after Japan had seized Manchuria:

"Even now, China is playing a subtle game."

DIPLOMACY

"So you're telling everyone you're not going to marry my sister after all, eh?"
"Ha! Ha! I must have my little joke."
—Humorist.

• All Know How To Win War

A FLOOD of new devices is being submitted to the British and they are all being investigated. As we understand it even the most preposterous plans are being looked over carefully in order that no good idea may be passed up.

During the world war someone offered the British government a chemical which, he said, would freeze clouds solid. Guns could then be mounted on the clouds, to ward off airplane attacks.

So many ideas of this specific gravity were sent in that the authorities got to skimming them over rather hurriedly, perhaps missing a few that had some actual value. The story is still current in Britain that in 1915 a gunner submitted a device for plotting the course of attacking aircraft to increase the accuracy of anti-aircraft fire. In 1918 he was finally permitted to demonstrate, and the gadget performed so effectively for altitudes up to 16,000 feet that it was adopted forthwith, helped to repel the last big German air raid of the war.

In World War II the British are taking no chances of missing the useful needle among the preposterious straws of the haystack. In the Ministry of Supply an Invention Board has been set up to collect and consider, not only ideas submitted directly to Government departments, but also those sent to manufacturers, who have found their influx of suggestions quadrupled since the war started. Some British ideas:

Decoy lighting to deceive enemy airplane pilots.

Artillery shells which, on landing, would open and release venomous snakes.

Training sea gulls to spot submarines. (During War 1 the British did try to train seals to hunt submarines.)

In neutral Washington suggestions are pouring into the War and Navy Departments and to the Patent Office. The military and naval authorities are chary of discussing these whimbangs, but the details of a patented idea naturally become public knowledge. Some U.S. war patents.

Artillery shells which would cause the enemy to ruin its own guns. The shell, calibrated to the enemy's gun-sizes, would be filled with thermite, a well-known incendiary substance which burns at 3,000 deg. C., and temptingly abandoned. When the enemy tried to fire the shells, the thermite would ignite, ruin the gun.

A torpedo which, if it misses the target ship on the first try, turns around and tries again.

Huge whirling screens to intercept bombs aimed at battleships or buildings, toss the bombs aside by centrifugal force.

A rifle with a curved barrel, which a soldier could shoot from a trench without exposing himself.

Huge electromagnets to draw submarines to the side of a battleship, where the submarine's crew would be electrocuted by an electric current sent through the hull.

Last week newshawks tried vainly to pump the Navy Department about an idea (supposedly submitted to the Navy, but with all the earmarks of a Navy jape) which would make a cat laugh. The idea to train cats to direct submarine torpedoes. Riding on the torpedos back, shielded from annoying waves and spray in a little turret-like compartment, the cat would fixe its gaze on the target ship. In some way, perhaps by a photoelectric hookup, the angle of the cat's head would cause the torpedo to veer until the cat was looking straight ahead and the torpedo's path therefore true. Queried, Navy officials kept mum and straightfaced, said only that all such ideas sent in by outsiders are kept confidential for the sake of national security.

• Why Russia Broke In Last War

T. H. THOMAS in the Atlantic Monthly is skeptical about the aid and comfort which Hitler may expect from Russia in the way of food and raw materials. In this respect he is like a good many other writers on the subject, says St. Thomas Times-Journal, but he lays stress on a single element in the situation which seldom comes to the forefront. This is transportation. Mr. Thomas, with an expert background going back to the World War, tells the story of Russian breakdown in terms of railway collapse.

Transport failure, Mr. Thomas argues, brought Russia to her knees in 1917. In so doing he is aware that he runs counter to the "accepted conclusion" that exhaustion in 1917 took Russia out of the war — the drying up of the supply of men, munitions and food. All of us have the poignant picture of Russian soldiers without rifles, ill fed, ill clad, charging the enemies batteries with their bare hands.

That is not the picture of Russian Army conditions in early 1917 drawn by General Knox, British military attache in Russia from 1911 to the end of the war and described by Mr. Thomas as the best observer of the Russian military effort. By almost any test, in General Knox's opinion, "the army was stronger, better armed and better supplied than at any time before." Against 115 infantry divisions at the front at the beginning of the war, Russia has 240 divisions on March 1, 1917, with 6,000 three-inch guns and 15,000 machine guns. Actually, says Mr. Thomas, the German command at the end of 1916 had despaired of driving the Russian Army out of the war.

The thing that put Russia out of the war in 1917 was not exhaustion, but confusion; in brief, transport failure. The railways broke down under the war strain. They broke down a dozen years earlier in the Japanese war. They are now in poor state, in Mr. Thomas's judgment, as the result of Stalin's industrial and governmental policies. In a single year after 1930 there were 62,000 railway accidents involving the wreck of 7,000 locomotives, one-third of the whole number, and 65,000 freight cars.

"With tools such as this," says Mr. Thomas, "is Stalin about to sweep forward over the ruins of Western civilization?" Rather, he would put a different question. Even remaining in a state of peace, how long can the Soviet State stand the additional strains of having to live in a surrounding world at war?

STRONG OLD AGE

PERHAPS you read of the lady in Park avenue who gave a luncheon and bridge party in recognition of the 95th anniversary of her birthday. It is a goodly age. To reach it in health and strength, to watch the world and to live intelligently and happily, is a rare gift of nature and fortune and ample matter for thanksgiving.

This lady, Mrs. Robert Nicol, is not far from the pioneers. Her grandfather built the first frame house in Toledo. Her father is said to have been the first white child born in that town....

In spite of all the posing and pessimism, the growling at and abuse of life, most of us cling to it. Reasonably free from pain, who would refuse an old age, not "morose," but tranquil, benign and beneficient like that of our friend from Toledo?—New York Times.

NORFOLK FEELS SLIGHTED

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

London Free Press says in Western Ontario the large bulk of the tobacco crop centres in Norfolk and Elgin, with some grown in Kent, Essex and Middlesex. That's the worst of living in the past.

OXFORD CARRIES ON

A FRIEND up at Oxford informs me that the University is carrying on, with a considerable recruitment of provincial undergrads, much as usual. The Union has cut down its debates by fifty per cent however, and holding them, so far as the press is concerned, in camera. Members have no desire to discuss nowadays that notorious "we won't fight" decision of some years back.

Bicycles are as ubiquitous as ever, perhaps more so, but one fact is very noticeable. Undergrads scorn to carry gas-masks. They may or may not possess these equipments, but they firmly refuse to flaunt them. And, after all, it is difficult to imagine even the Nazis attempting to drop phosgene or mustard gas on the alma mater of so many German Rhodes Scholars of happier days.

A.R.P. does seem, however, to have effected one sartorial innovation. Clerical members of the University may nowadays be observed parading on their lawful occasions in sombre plus-fours. Presumably these garments, of the favorite dark grey clerical hue, are intended to facilitate rapid transit to and from air-raid shelters. Finally, my friend assures me, there is hardly a sandbag to be seen in Oxford. — London Cor., Ottawa Journal.

The Mild Answer

An inexperienced N.C.O. was on temporary duty at the telephone in a front observation post and his replies to brigade headquarters irritated a certain fire-eating colonel, who demanded in a threatening voice:

"Is there a d—d fool at the end of this line?"

To which the N.C.O. very meekly replied: "Not at this end, sir."

LOCOMOTIVES

PERHAPS no question is more nearly uppermost in the public mind these days than: "Isn't it too bad they're doing away with those big, monster old-style locomotives?"

If that question isn't uppermost in the public mind, it had better be, and rather soon; for old-style locomotives are disappearing like nobody's business. Suggestion: National Iron Horse Week.

What have these newfangled streamlined engines got that plain ordinary locomotives haven't got? So that's it—they offer less wind resistance, the sissies!

Imagine a powerful railroad engine pulling away from the wind instead of showing it who is master.

Next these streamlined locomotives, so-called, will be equipped with whistles piping: "Hyah, Toots!" more or less as the French ones do.

Small wonder that certain engineers of the old school are plumb disgusted.

What engineer wants to go swishing through the night as with a scissors, instead of having a rip-roaring fight with it all the way and telling where it gets off the track? Streamline—sassafras! — Sarnia Canadian Observer.

ONCE IS ENOUGH

In its closing week, the New York World's Fair put on a Nickel Day, drawing 100,000 school children to its gates. The little dears took over the show, scrawled their names on all blank surfaces, fell into pools, loaded up on free samples of everything available, and in many cases spent their carfare home, so that long after midnight police were busy restoring them to their loved ones. Their exuberance was wonderful to see; but the Fair decides that once is enough. Children's Day will not be repeated another year. — Detroit News.

SPECTACULAR ONLY

ON THE SURFACE of the sea the supremacy of the British fleet is unchallenged. But there are the factors of the German submarine the British seem in a fair way to establish control....Regarding effects of aircraft on sea war, there still is much speculation. As Britain and France gain strength in the air, Germany's bombing planes will encounter greater difficulties than they did in their raid on the Scapa Flow base. That was spectacular, but it was far from convincing. After all, the war is only beginning.—Buffalo News.

Red Airplanes Rain Fire On Finland's Capital

Roaring out of the sky, Red airplanes unleashed a hail of thermite bombs on Helsingfors, capital of Finland, as the combined might of the Soviet's army, navy and air force went into action in an undeclared war on peaceful Finland. Two hundred persons were known killed and countless hundreds wounded and maimed by the Red air raids on the hapless capital. Public buildings and apartment houses felt the full shock of the raids as scores of fires broke out as a result of the thermite bombing to set the Finnish capital ablaze. The modern airport (at TOP) at Helsingfors was one of the targets of the Red raiders. The new (BOTTOM) modern station at Helsingfors was also bombed. (Phone-photo).

Midland Field Battery Men Gain 1,500 Pounds In Weight, Training

(By ROY BEAMISH.)

COBOURG, Dec. 1.—The bowling alley still stands beside the rifle range in the basement of the Cobour Armories, an organized program of evening sports keeps everybody busy who isn't studying, and the unit has gained 1,500 pounds in weight since war was declared, so officers and men of the 14th (Midland) Field Battery beg to report that army life has its advantages after all.

Mobilized as a second division artillery unit, with plenty of time to whip themselves into shape, they might have been excused if they had settled into a sedentary, routine sort of existence, but when I visited them this morning I found that such was far from actual fact.

A commanding officer with an imagination and a good proportion of energy and drive in the ranks have made the 14th Battery a live-wire institution from the start. They are currently operating a bowling league, basketball and volleyball leagues, and have a team in the O.H.A. Senior "B" Hockey League. In addition, every N.C.O. and practically all officers are taking special military courses during "after parade" hours, and the battery itself has gone into field engineering on a comprehensive scale.

"When I went overseas in the last war," explains Major F. V. M. Hinman, D.C.M., officer commanding the battery, "our N.C.O.'s didn't know as much about field engineering as our gunners do now. We had to start in building gun pits with only our imagination to guide us. Here our men are learning that right from the beginning."

Knows His Job

Major Hinman served with the 2nd Heavy Battery in the last war, enlisting as a gunner and working his way through the ranks to battalion sergeant-major, so he knows whereof he speaks. He takes special pride in the fact that six of his seven officers likewise came up from the ranks. Three of them were N.C.O's in the militia unit when war broke out, and gained their commissions when the battery mobilized for active service.

Acting on what he had learned from experience, the major organized a competition among his unit by having each section build a gun pit, the section doing the best job to receive a cup. The men were allowed to use their own initiative in choosing their emplacements and camouflaging them against aerial observation.

The result was amazing. Each section produced a pit, and even the signals section asked to get in on the fun, too. They build a "headquarters pit." From the air the pits are said to be virtually invisible, and I can vouch for that because it was difficult enough to spot them from fifty feet away on the ground.

The same policy of competition has given the unit keenness off the parade ground, to, as the organized sports testify. The unit is proud of its bowling alleys, which exist in the armouries basement, and are almost more popular than the rifle range beside them.

But the M.O.'s report really tells the tale of contentment in the battery. The second medical examination of men was completed this week, and the M.O. reported that some men had gained as much as 24 pounds in a little over two months. The average gain for the 156 all ranks was 10 pounds, making a total increase of almost a ton in weight.

"Some of the men have changed jackets two or three times since they enlisted," said Major Hinman. "They're all in perfect shape."

Japanese Silent About Finland

TOKYO, Dec. 1—(AP).—Japan, pressing toward friendlier relations with Soviet Russia, kept officially silent today on the invasion of Finland.

"It is too far away," said Yakichiro Suma, spokesman for the foreign office. The press also refrained from comment.

Informed quarters interpreted the official attitude as indicative of Japanese aims at rapprochement with Russia, which, it was reliably understood, were progressing.

Conferences have been scheduled at Chita and Harbin for demarcation of outer Mongolian-Manchoukuoan boundaries, at Moscow for a trade agreement, and at Moscow and at Tokyo for discussion of a non-aggression treaty.

Meanwhile, foreign minister Kichisaburo Nomura protested to French ambassador Charles Arsene Henry against the Anglo-French blockade of German exports and objected to inspection of Japanese shipping in the vicinity of French Indo-China.

Zion Couple Observes 25th Anniversary

ZION, Dec. 1—(ENS).—On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robinson entertained close to fifty relatives and friends at their home on the occasion of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The host and hostess were the recipients of many beautiful gifts in silver. Lovely cards and flowers expressed the good wishes of neighbors and distant friends.

The evening was spent in games, cards and social intercourse and in all was most enjoyable.

Prizes for high card scores went to Mrs. Alex Rosborough, who was flower girl at the wedding twenty-five years ago, and Mr. Harold Dixon. Audrey Hatherley gave some humorous readings in a capable manner.

Four nieces of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were the efficient waitresses for the delicious refreshments.

To bring a pleasant evening to a close, the guests joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," after wishing the bride and groom continued good health and happiness.

Guests were present from Lakefield, Omemee, Smith, Keene and Peterborough, as well as the immediate vicinity.

Congratulations are going out to Mr. William Pickell, who celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday last week. Mr. and Mrs. R. Pickell and family of Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. T. McCauly, Peterborough, were Sunday guests.

Cavan Girls Meet At Home Of Leader

CAVAN, Dec. 1—(ENS). — The Cavan Girls' Home Economics Club held their regular meeting on Saturday afternoon at the home of their leader, Mrs. Donald Tinney.

The president, Dorothy Armstrong, occupied the chair.

The twelve members present answered the roll call by suggesting "one duty of a pleasing house-guest."

The leaders led in a discussion of "Good Table Manners" and "Suggestions for Meal Planning." Mrs. Tinney demonstrated the rules for serving a meal. It was decided to hold the next meeting in two weeks' time. The choosing of a name for the club—which this year is studying the project, "The Club Girl Entertains"—was left over till the next meeting.

Born in Rawdon Township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eggleston, pioneers of the district. Death occurred at the home of her son, Nathan Clarke, on the 9th Concession of Sidney.

Surviving are three sons, Nathan Clarke at home, Arthur F. Clarke, Chicago, Ill., Alfred N., Aurora, Ontario, and one daughter, Mrs. Mildred Pidgeon, Stirling, and two brothers, Thomas and George Eggleston of Stirling.

LEVI RUTTER

TWEED, Dec. 1 (ENS). — The death of Levi Rutter, a resident of the Fuller district for the past 20 years, occurred at his home on Wednesday evening. Born seventy-three years ago on April 30, 1866, he was a son of William Rutter and Margaret Orr. He was a member of the United Church at Fuller. He is survived by his wife and one son Clayton.

MISS WINNIFRED ROBERTS.

TWEED, Dec. 1 (ENS). — The funeral took place from the C.P.R. Station to St. James' Anglican Church on Wednesday afternoon, of Miss Winnifred Roberts, who lived at 50 Columbine Avenue, Toronto.

Born at Amherst Island, sixty years ago, she was a daughter of the late Canon Roberts, Mus. Doc., and Mrs. Roberts. She had resided in Toronto for the past thirty-two years, prior to which she made her home in New York City. The late Miss Roberts had been in ill-health for the past four years, passing away on Monday, November 27.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. J. A. Johnston, Smith's Falls, Mrs. D. M. Allison, Camden, N.Y., Mrs. F. H. Box, Napanee, Mrs. George Chalmers, Adolphustown; two brothers, Charles A. Roberts, Montreal, and Maurice Roberts, Toronto. Interment was in St. James' Cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. A. E. Pepper, rector of St. James' Anglican Church.

Block Threatened

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1 (ENS) —Prompt action by the Fire Department prevented what might have been a serious fire in the Anderson Block, George Street, on Thursday morning. The alarm sounded at nine o'clock and the Brigade arrived to find smoke seeping from the ceiling of the first floor. A quantity of flooring had to be removed before they could get at the blaze, which was soon brought under control. Cause of the fire was not known.

Herridge Chosen In Kindersley

KINDERSLEY, Sask., Dec. 1.—(CP.)—Hon. W. D. Herridge, leader of the new democracy movement, was chosen here last night as the movement's candidate for a by-election in Kindersley Federal constituency. No date for the by-election has been set.

Mr. Herridge told the nominating convention that he felt his views were worthy of consideration by parliament and asked for an opportunity to present them here.

"I do not ask for an acclamation, but only for the right to contest this constituency," he said. "The government should not deny me that right."

The Kindersley seat was made vacant through the resignation of O. B. Elliott, Social Credit.

A. D. D. Mitchell, Kindersley school principal, was selected by the CCF as their candidate for the riding in anticipation of a general election. That party recently declared it would contest a by-election.

Mr. Herridge devoted most of his remarks to the war issue. He declared that he was in favor of universal conscription of man-power, industry and finance. He also favored Canada taking on new Empire leadership, remodelling of the Empire along democratic lines and establishment of an Empire War Council.

Canadians, he said, must be told that nothing but their best effort is good enough to win the war.

Tweed Gang Bag 6 Deer, Wolf, Bear

TWEED, Dec. 1.— (ENS).— The most successful hunting trip of the many claimed by nimrods of the district, goes to Robert Goodrich and Ernest Hopping, Trent, Bert Bowen and Clayton Metcalfe, Deseronto, and two others from Oshawa and Toronto.

The party hunting near Denbigh, bagged six fine deer, a splendid specimen of a she-wolf and a bear that tipped the scales between four and five hundred pounds.

To the Toronto man's aim fell the wolf, which, when examined, showed the effects of a battle with a buck deer. The guide for the party, Oscar Keastner, shot the bear in its den near Thirty-Mile Lake. This particular "bruin," weighing nearly a quarter ton, was over eight feet tall and took the combined efforts of the eight hunters to drag it a quarter mile to the camp.

Millbrook Forwards Red Cross Donations

MILLBROOK, Dec. 1.—(ENS).—In response to an appeal from Red Cross headquarters in Toronto for socks, sweaters, etc., on hand, Mrs. R. A. Ford, who is in charge of giving out wool and taking in the finished product from all the women interested on behalf of the local society, had a 'bee' at her home on Tuesday afternoon when four dozen pairs of socks, and three sweaters, all conforming to the required standard, were sorted in sizes, ticketed and packed ready for final shipping arrangements.

Some wool is on hand, and as the appeal is for immediate supplies, it is hoped to send another bundle shortly. There is no lack of experienced knitters, but the chief difficulty is securing a sufficient quantity of yarn.

Members of the Session of St. Andrew's church who motored to Peterborough on Wednesday evening to hear the address of Dr. Riddell, in George street United church, included Rev. A. L. Sisco, Dr. A. Jemison, W. F. Pallis, J. H. Might, W. E. Ball, J. A. Brown, G. E. Burnham, Percy Stinson, W. H. Coombe.

Red Cross Party.

Miss Martha Lunn was hostess for a card party in aid of Red Cross funds at her home, Second Line, Cavan, on Wednesday at 8 p.m., nine tables being in use for play.

Prize winners were W. Armstrong and W. Challice for high score, and instead of consolation awards, a 'lucky chair' prize was won by Miss Lean Gibson who found herself sitting on the chair which had a small red cross under the seat.

The service of lunch brought a very pleasant social event to a close.

President Swims

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The tide was low, making it impossible for the Mexican gunboat Durango to reach close in anchorage on the coast of Quintana Roo. President Lazaro Cardenas, eager to go ashore on an official visit, according to dispatches today from Tulum, put on his bathing suit and swam the distance. The 60 persons in the presidential party, not to be outdone, followed suit.

Fairview

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bell entertained the cast of characters of the play, "The Red Headed Stepchild," at a very delightful venison dinner on Tuesday evening.

Covers were laid for eighteen guests and the table was bountifully laden with good things to eat.

Mrs. Clarke McKinley of Cobourg, has returned home after spending a week at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Fowler.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis attended the graveside service in Oakwood cemetery Wednesday afternoon of the late Mrs. Morgan J. Lewis, Sr., of Toronto, formerly a resident of London street, Peterborough.

Making, Completing, Testing Torpedoes

These scenes, in an Admiralty factory, somewhere in England, passed by the British censor, show the manufacturing, finishing and testing of the deadly torpedoes used by British submarines and warships. At TOP we see the shining steel tubes which form the middle portion of a torpedo, being placed in position. In the CENTRE, a torpedo nearing completion receives an ironic message on its sides. BELOW, a newly-completed torpedo enters the test tube to be fired. Six thousand separate parts make up each torpedo and each must be perfect before the weapon is effective.

Mt. Julian Class Is Given Party

MOUNT JULIAN, Dec. 1. —(ENS)—The children of Eden United Sunday School were entertained with a party from 2 to 4 on Saturday afternoon, given by Mrs. Percy Thompson at her home. Mrs. Theodore Wilson and Mrs. Ottis Northey assisted.

After a short song practice, a number of interesting games were played. Winners of the first three contests were, Muriel Chamberlain, Susan Booth and Jack Booth. Others present were: Bud and Ralph McIlmoyle, Marie Wilson, Jack Thompson and Elwood Booth. After a delightful lunch, more games were played before the kiddies left for their respective homes, having spent a very pleasant afternoon.

Several people of this district assisted with the program put on in the Apsley parish hall in aid of the Red Cross. A comic musical skit was given by Mrs. Stanley Northey, Mrs. Theodore Wilson and Mrs. Percy Thompson, all attired in old fashioned costumes.

Miss Kidd ,teacher of the South Burleigh school also gave a very humorous recitation. Others from this community who attended the entertainment were Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Northey, Mrs. Carroll Cooper, Theodore Wilson and Miss Marie Wilson, Stanley Northey and daughters, June, Daphne and Dorothy and Mr. W. T. Northey.

Seven tables of cards were played at the euchre held at Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Church's home last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Northey won each of the first prizes. Mr. Gordon Reid and Mrs. John Thompson were second highest in the score.

Little Cedar Lake has frozen over and the bay at the edge of the highway was the scene of many happy groups who were getting all the thrill out of the first week-end of skating this season. Stoney Lake has not been completely frozen yet.

Mr. Hubert Eakins has closed "Devon Lodge" on Stoney Lake shore and gone to Peterborough.

Mr. Chamberlain of Norwood, is spending a few days here visiting his son, Bert.

Mr. Jack McFadden went to Toronto on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Church and son, Donald of Peterborough visited relatives here on Sunday.

Mr. Carroll Cooper of Warsaw is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mr. George Booth from Peterborough spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Fowler visited the bereaved relatives of Miss M. Kidd in Lakefield on Sunday. Mrs. William Thompson is also spending a few days with this family in Lakefield. The passing of Miss Kidd is deeply felt in this community, where she spent the greater part of her life and proved herself to be a loyal friend. She was a member of Holy Trinity Anglican church where a memorial service will be held for her next Sunday.

Word has been received of the passing of Joseph Thompson, brother of John Thompson of this district. The late Mr. Thompson spent his younger days here, but for some years past has been in Western Canada where he died after a lingering illness.

Mr. David Reid from Peterborough spent the week-end at his home here.

Mrs. Bruce Reid visited in Peterborough on Saturday.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

While the ultimate consequences of the Russian invasion of Finland cannot be foreseen it looks as if the moral sense of the world is even more deeply shocked than it was by the German invasion of Poland and Russia's participation in the spoils of the German campaign there.

The violence and the extent of the Russian attack indicate it has been under preparation for weeks. Men, guns, aircraft and ships cannot be assembled and coordinated for simultaneous operations in a day.

Consequently while the Russian Premier Molotoff was publicly denying any intention to invade Finland and the Russian plan of invasion was being perfected and the forces for the invasion were being assembled.

In this respect Russia acted even more cynically than did Germany in the case of Poland. For the Nazis never concealed their intention to attack Poland if their demands were not met.

The shock to the world's moral sense is all the greater because of Finland's absolutely clean record. Since obtaining its independence by fighting against the Russian Bolsheviks during and after the first great war, Finland has menaced no other country. It has no racial minorities suffering from ill-treatment, or clamoring for justice. It has annexed no territory, cherished no expansionist or imperialistic ambitions.

Whether or not they obtain active support the Finns can be sure of sympathy from many neutral states, including the United States, the Scandinavian countries with which it has close ties, Hungary with which it has racial ties and nationalist Spain.

BOBBY PORTER PICKS A WINNER

Passes valuable tip along to others

Making the headlines is nothing new for Bobby Porter. Hard hitting outfielder with Toronto and now with Syracuse Chiefs, superb Balmy Beach football player, star hockey player for Marlboros and other teams, he is one of the best and best liked all-round athletes in sport. Here is his rule for keeping fit.

"I take Kruschen Salts every morning of my life. It keeps me regular and to my way of thinking that is more than half the secret of good health. I recommend Kruschen to all those subject to rheumatic pains, lumbago, sluggishness or any of the ordinary ills that result from faulty elimination of poisons and waste."

Kruschen contains several highly refined mineral salts important to the well-being of mankind. These salts, in combination, promote regular and proper functioning of the organs of elimination, keep the blood stream pure and impart that priceless feeling of abounding vigour and fitness. Tasteless in tea or coffee or in a glass of water. Bottles at 25c, 45c and 75c at all drug stores.

Cheese Factories Busy

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1 (ENS) —When it was revealed that close to a dozen factories were still making cheese due to the extremely mild weather, President Roy Walker announced the board would meet again next Thursday. It is likely that some factories will have cheese to offer for at least two weeks longer.

"Send an oxygen tent quickly . . ."

WHEN we turn to the telephone in emergency we unthinkingly follow a habit formed by daily routine. We know it will get our message "through".

To justify this confidence which is shared by the entire Dominion, the telephone companies leave nothing to chance. In fact they are very exacting in the specifications they lay down for equipment used on their systems. Therefore, we are proud that since 1895 telephone companies everywhere have given Exide batteries an important part in helping to carry your voice over the wires. What other battery can offer such proof of dependability!

Keep this fact in mind when you are selecting a battery for your car and thus eliminate guesswork.

The Exide dealer in your community is an important link in Exide service. Go to him. Tell him about your battery problems. He can be trusted because he has been selected for his honesty and his ability to render intelligent service. Ask him about the Exide Hycap. Look for the Exide dealer sign . . . symbol of honest service.

Percy W.I. Holds Meat Cooking Demonstration

WARKWORTH, Dec. 1.—(ENS).—A 'meat cookery' demonstration featured the special meeting of the Percy branch Women's Institute held in the council chamber on Wednesday morning and afternoon.

The demonstration was extremely well carried out by the leaders, Mrs. Will Honey and Mrs. Clarence Potter, who attended the short course on this subject recently in Castleton.

During the morning they prepared three different kinds of meats, stuffed tenderloins, steak and roast. After the meats had been prepared and were undergoing the process of cooking, community singing was enjoyed.

A pot luck dinner was served at noon to the large number present and all had a chance to sample the meats that had been prepared.

In the afternoon the president, Mrs. Lorne Hutchison, opened the meeting with the Ode and Mrs. Will Honey gave a very helpful paper on the different cuts of meats, also the handling and storage of meats, and on food vitamins.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Honey and Mrs. Potter for their extremely well presented and helpful demonstration. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

The friends of Miss May Thompson are sorry to hear she is in Nicholls Hospital, where she had an operation on her eye.

Mrs. M. Skinkle has returned to Toronto after spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jones.

Mr. Peter Jones and Mr. Everett Skinkle are spending a few days with friends in Toronto.

Britons Pressed To Save Waste

LONDON, Dec. 1—(CP Cable).—Britons were urged by the Ministry of Supply's salvage department to-day to save waste, including rags, bottles and bones because of reduction in the importation of raw materials makes salvage and re-utilization of all waste or dormant materials already in the country a matter of "considerable national importance."

H. G. Judd, controller of salvage in the newly-established department, described it as a "waste of wealth" organization and hoped it would bring grist to the mills of industry and raw material for a vast range of war products.

It is its policy not to set up a trading organization in competition with existing businesses, nor to embark on extensive schemes for government recovery plants, but to stimulate work done by local authorities and other organizations in the recovery of salvage and waste material.

The department has two sections —military and civil. The military side deals with all damaged equipment and materials returned from the army overseas. This includes guns, transport, ammunition and all scrap worth bringing home.

Mr. Judd said depots will be set up in Britain where equipment and other material will be sorted. Equipment which can be repaired and reconditioned will be distributed to the appropriate national factories on contractors' works.

Apsley's Red Cross Adds Five Members

APSLEY, Nov. 1 — (ENS). — The local branch of the Red Cross Society held their monthly meeting in the hospital on Saturday evening, with a good attendance of fifteen members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. N. Lean. Mrs. M. Hastings gave a report on the membership campaign, showing five new members and a donation. A letter was read by the secretary from B. Munro, the former secretary, wishing success to the campaign and sending a donation. The committee to buy dishes, etc., for the hospital reported, and it was decided to buy them at once. Paint for the dining-room was discussed, and it was decided to give it one coat. G. K. Fraser promised to donate enough paint. Mrs. Downing, treasurer, gave a report of the finances showing a balance. The Wood Committee was asked to look at the cordwood donated to the War Service Club and buy it for the hospital. Two cords of wood had also been brought in on outstanding accounts. Canvassers' permits were given to those who needed them.

Lunch was served by Miss Ferguson, Reg. N., and a social hour enjoyed.

Mrs. Roland Tucker, who was district delegate to the W.I. convention in Toronto, returned to Apsley on Saturday after a three-day visit, staying at the Royal York.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Stephens spent the week-end at Deer Bay, called there by the illness of the former's mother, Mrs. N. E. McDonald.

Mrs. W. Hales, who is recovering from a long illness, is visiting her son, Russell Hales, Chandos.

Mr. and Mrs. Junkin, Bobcaygeon, are visiting th latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. James, Chandos.

Hubert James, who has been on an extended visit to his father in Saskatchewan, has returned and is staying in Peterborough.

Mrs. Esau Tucker is in Peterborough for a short while visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunford, Douro, spent Sunday with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Everett.

Mrs. H. Everett, Chandos, has been on a two weeks' visit to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Everett.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Payne, of Lakefield, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Morley McDonald.

The operetta, "Hearts and Blossons," under the auspices of St. George's Anglican Church, was preented at Waraw on Thurday evening. The attendance was good. Afterwards a lunch was served to the cast by the ladies. On Friday the same play was presented at Coe Hill.

Campbellford

Mrs. Ted Peake and her mother, Mrs. M. S. Mowat, will leave on Friday to spend a few days with relatives in Powassan.

Miss Dorothy Kingston, who left on Saturday for Brantford, is spending a few days in that city with her mother, Mrs. G. A. Kingston, who is ill in the General Hospital.

Rev. B. Simpson Black will address the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Cobourg, on Friday evening during the induction service of Rev. Oliver Nugnt, B.A., of Montreal Presbytery.

Miss Anna McNeely has returned to Norwood after spending the week-end with her cousins, Misses Phyllis and Gladys Elmhirst.

Art Petherick, who for the past few years has been employed by C. H. Davidson & Son, has accepted a position in Oshawa with General Motors.

An employee of the Bank of Commerce here for the past eleven years, Miss Verna Saunders has handed in her resignation, which will take effect on November 30.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Craighead have returned to town after spending a couple of days with friends in Toronto.

8 MANUFACTURING FIRMS ENTER NEW INDUSTRIAL PUCK LOOP

O.H.A. Puckists Are Barred In This Circuit

Eight teams definitely entered the newly-organized Industrial Hockey League at a well-attended meeting last evening in Duffus'. President Larry Maguire was in the chair. Other officers include: Vice-president, Bo Hunt; secretary, Cliff Chapman; treasurer, Leo Deadey; and a member of each club on the executive.

Teams joining up were: Outboard Marines, Canada Packers, Westclox, Quaker Oats, Brintons, Raybestos, Peterborough Lock Co. and a combined team from Peterborough Canoe and Ventilating Shade companies. A C.G.E. entry is considered a possibility yet, though entries were slated to close at last night's meeting. The fee is $5.00 a team.

It was decided, after some discussion, that no O.H.A. players would be permitted to play in this circuit—no junior, intermediate or senior O.H.A. members. All players must be 100 per cent employees of the firm for which they plan to play.

Games At Brock

Games probably will be played at the Brock St. arena this winter, arrangements being underway now in this connection. Probably three games one night each week will be run off—though this is not a certainty as yet. Some games will be staged, also at the Quaker Oats rink, the Quakers requesting their home games being at this site, and the assembly proving agreeable to the suggestion.

Various other incidental matters will be cleaned up at a final organization meeting of the league in Duffus' at eight o'clock next Wednesday night. At that time, the schedule—tentatively drawn up in the meantime by Secretary Chapman—will be presented for the approval of the clubs. This league is a follow-up of the successful first-year Industrial Softball League, which operated here last summer, and manufacturing concerns are confident the hockey circuit will prove popular and beneficial to employee players.

Officials Named

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 — (CP). — President J. A. de Lalanne of the Canadian Rugby Union announced yesterday officials for the Eastern Canada Football playoff between Ottawa and Sarnia at Toronto Saturday.

Hec Crighton, an Interprovincial Union official, will be referee; Tatters Girard of Windsor, Ont., umpire, and Gordon Leith of Hamilton, head linesman.

The officials will confer with Chairman Bill Foulds of the rules committee before the game Saturday for final instructions, he said.

PAUL HAYNES
Canadiens

By Central Press Canadian

An old Maroon, but one who goes back farther than the unsuccessful amalgamation of last season, is Paul Haynes, play-making centre with Canadiens. He's in his fifth year with the Flying Frenchmen, and his eighth complete season in the N. H. L. Played with Montreal A. A. A. before signing with Maroons in 1930. Didn't stick, however, and spent two winters with Windsor Bulldogs, getting into Maroon's games just long enough to get one goal in 1930-31 and one goal the next year, before becoming a regular the season after that and posting 41 points, good enough for fourth place in the league scoring records, and a mark he has never since been able to attain, although just to prove he's not on the down grade he secured his second best total last season, 38 points, 33 of them assists. The latter total was one less than Bill Cowley led the league with in that department. A clean player, who concentrates on laying down passes for his wings, he draws an average of 10 penalties a season. Born in Montreal. Going on for 30. His play-making ability was one of the reasons for Toe Blake's great record last season.

New Ball Problem Of Employment Is Causing Worry

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 1—(AP).—Minor league baseball in Wisconsin is grappling with a new and serious problem—unemployment compensation.

It arises from the state's classification of professional ball players as workers, entitling them to compensation if they are unemployed in the off-season.

This strikes the baseball clubs in the vital region of the pocketbook, for under Wisconsin law they must build up reserve funds—held by the state—for payment of benefits to any of their employees who may become unemployed.

An employer's contributions cease when he has built up a certain surplus and his fund remains intact if he keeps his workers on the job the year round, but the baseball owners draw small comfort from this provision.

L. M. Nahin, business manager of the Brewers, Milwaukee's American Association club, declared yesterday that "it just isn't right" for a professional ball player to claim unemployment benefits.

"Brewer players are well paid for the five months they work," Nahin said. "If such a practice becomes widespread, it will be very harmful to baseball."

Nahim is studying the compensation laws of Ohio and Indiana, which have rejected ball players' applications. Year-round contracts, he said, might complicate releasing and trading of players.

Ohio recently turned down a claim of Ken Keltner of Milwaukee, third baseman of Cleveland Indians of the American League. Ken, who earns about $7,500 a year, said the application was "just a gag."

However, Wisconsin has upheld a claim by Joe Just, reserve catcher of the Brewers, and he has been paid $86.26.

Horner Discusses Hockey's Origin

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—Treading on rubbery ice, Reginald (Red) Horner, captain and defense star of the Toronto Maple Leafs, outlined the conception and history of hockey in the role of guest speaker at the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Toronto Hockey League, one of the game's greatest organizations, at the Royal York last night.

Horner's hockey history was based on the origination of the game at Montreal in 1879, an assumption recognized by the Frank G. Menke All-Sports Record Book. Yet you'll discover any number of veterans who will give a different version of the sport's origin.

According to the version reeled off by Horner, one of the T.H.L.'s most famous products, the game was conceived b ytwo McGill students, J. F. Smith and W. F. Robertson, and that the first game was played near Montreal in 1879. From there he traced the game's progress down to modern competition.

His remarks immediately drew a challenge from Fred C. Waghorne, Sr., a past president of the T.H.L., who contends that Halifax was the birthplace of hockey. But it's a discussion that will probably never be definitely settled.

Referring to super stars of hockey, Horner said that Conny Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, always contended that a player must have a strong constitution, a courageous, fighting heart and above all, brains. If he combines all three, he's a super star. "If he doesn't," Red remarked, "he's a Horner. I combine light thinking with heavy lifting."

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Several have commented upon our remarks day before yesterday about paying amateur athletes. Most folks agree it's no skin off their noses that it's okay if the club and players reach a reasonable greement. A few think it's morally wrong—but we wouldn't know about that! Strikes us it is rather like a business deal where one sells one's services. Not that we want to see the whole thing thrown onto a pro basis; it would never work among minor loops, and sports would gradually die out. All but a few of the bigger and richer games. But where there is the money and a club is definitely shooting for a title—and having to buck plenty of packed teams—it is only natural that said club will import a few stars. And such stars may not be content merely with a job and a possible split later on. They may demand and get a cash bonus in some form or other.

* * * * * *

After all, the fans cannot kick too much in such cires. If they want to root for a winning team, they realize that certain starry strangers didn't drop into town and turn out with the team just by accident. Or just for fun. And the fans aren't losing anything. Not unless admission prices soar too high—and then the customers can show their disapproval (in a manner which hurts) by declining to attend games. No one is hurt by a little financial inducement for outstanding stars. We mean guys like Irvin Bailey when he came here and sparked the Petes to an O.H.A. senior title. As for the moral aspect, well the parent bodies recognize what's going on and no longer include the word "amateur" in their titles. It's now the O.H.A., the O.B.A., the O.L.A. and so on. No more O.B.A.A. or O.A.L.A.

Looks Like Ottawa

Eastern Canada grid final, a sudden-death duel ,tomorrow aft in Toronto commences at two bells. And will be on the air. It shouldn't be too precarious a position for football experts to ankle out on the limb this time and call Ottawa Rough Riders to defeat Sarnia Imperials handily. After all, the Riders have about everything—including beef, booting, experience and reserves. And the Imps have but a smattering of experienced senior gridders, the rest being young and ambitious but a bit damp behind the ears. They had a heck of a tough time knocking off the Orfuns here this fall—and we would never, never call the Orfuns to take Ottawa!

Down in the Y.W. gym this e'en, nearing the hour of eight, the Girls' Basketball League swings into action again with a rousing triple-header. Aces play "Y" Gym first, followed by Orfuns vs. Westclox, with St. John's winding it up 'gainst the Debs. The damsels—youthful, peppy and full of chic—dish up a right interesting brand of the bouncing ball sport, and they're rapidly rounding into good condition for the lengthy cage grind through the wintry months. Public is invited to view these weekly fixtures in the large new gym at the Y.W.C.A.

A Homebrew Squad

Petes' puck-chasers practice again tonight down in Oshawa, and these gees too are hitting their real hockey condition now. Fans will see the locals skating in mid-season form when the O.H.A. schedule opens late this month. The Petes won't have to play themselves into condition, meantime dropping a few games early in the season to do it. Incidentally, it looks like nearly all the senior "B" players here this year will be homebrews, though several left here for a crack at hockey elsewhere, and then returned. Drake Jopling, Jack Jopling and Jim Ellis are three who did this. Only ones we can think of offhand who were imports—and they came here several years ago—are Don Crowe and Honey Tompkins. It'll be a doggone good club and practically a homebrew one.

Oshawa writer breaks a lengthy silence on the subject to boost a Motor City entry into the O.H.A. senior "B" grouping of Central Ontario. Stating that the senior "A" club of that town last year did not lose money but outdrew the junior "A" crew during league games, he is of the belief that a senior "B" squad would draw well, prove of interest to fans in this compact group and give a lot of over-age players plenty of hockey. We understand the Oshawa Club has sent in its entry fee and is prepared to operate with the Bellevilles, Trenton Fliers and the Petes, and this is all to the good. A four-team group—which ought to be a well-balanced one this winter — shapes up as a much better bet than the old three-team setup.

New Loop Organized

Eight firms entered the new Industrial Hockey League here at last night's meeting. They include: Outboard Marines, Canada Packers, Westclox, Quaker Oats, Brintons, Raybestos, Lock Co. and a combined club from the Canoe Co. and the Ventilating Shade. We trust this combined crew will get a handy name which'll fit into a newspaper headline. Or we'll have to dub 'em the Combines. It was decided that no O.H.A. players, juniors, intermediates or seniors, would be allowed in this circuit. And players must be 100 per cent employees. Most games are expected at the Brock, with some no doubt run off at the Quaker rink. Entry fee is five bucks. Schedule will be submitted at another meeting, in Duffus' at eight next Wednesday eve.

The Imperial Oil Co. trophy for the most valuable and sporting player in the O.R.F.U. this year was awarded by the O.R.F.U. to Eddie Thompson, brilliant running halfback of Balmy Beaches. Don Crowe of the local Orfuns was a close second choice in the balloting—the idea being for the most valuable all-around gridder to his club in this group during the season. Others given honorable mention included Tommy Burns of Westmounts, Eddie Barnabe of Montreal, Bernie Moroz and Pat Butler of Sarnia, Cal Moore and George Shields of Beaches, and Leo Deadey of Peterborough. The trophy was won by Johnny Ferraro last year, before that going to Orm Beach, Syd Reynolds, Bummer Stirling and Norm Perry.

Remember When—

Three players in English soccer died five years ago today. H. Raleigh, Gillingham centre forward, died after colliding with another player. Ronald Griffiths, playing at Croydon, was struck by the ball and died in hospital, and N. T. Marshall, Marion Reserve player in the Forest of Dean league died in the dressing room after collision with another player.

Gordon's Outfit Unbeaten In First Section

The City League wound up the first quarter of its 28-week schedule on Duffus' Alleys last night with four decisive shut-outs registered in favor of Jay's Cigars, Gordon's Beverages, Grafton's and Duffus Recreation teams, over Lock Works, Capitol Grill, Grant's Cleaners and C.G.E.

Gordon's Beverages ability to keep their opponents behind the eight ball did not fail them in their tilt with Capitol Grill. The Dean men lost a lifetime opportunity to tramp on the undefeated leaders when they caught Tommy Miller, a Beverage ace, on an off night, but Weese, Playford and Martin had enough power to step in and carry the load for another four-point win. Vince Anthony's fine 808 was wasted as his team went down after three close games.

While the main interest of the evening was centred around the outcome of Gordon's Beverages and Capitol Grill, the team which really went to town was Jay's Cigars, who combined to pour in a 3627 count and smother the Lock Works by over 1000 pins. Bud White contributed again with 824 to top the list of heavy hitter and help his team roll into second place.

In Grant's Cleaners and Grafton's tilt, Chief Gimblett tossed in the high single for the night, 330, while Duffus Recreation finished off the C.G.E. in spite of a red hot 310 final game which was reeled off by Chuck Kearns.

Oshawa To Meet Sons In SPA Final

TORONTO, Dec. 1—Oshawa Generals and Toronto Native Sons, last season's O.H.A. junior finalists, resume their feud tonight when they clash in the S.P.A. junior "A" final at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Generals defeated the Sons last spring and carried on to win the Memorial Cup for the first time. Although they lost such stalwarts as Billy Taylor and Jimmy Drummond, the Oshawa team has been well fortified with strong replacements and again stands out as the team to beat around these parts. In their only S.P.A. appearance to date, Generals trimmed Guelph, 6 to 3.

Native Sons, enjoying their best S.P.A. showing in years, reached the final by defeating Varsity, 6 to 1, and then upsetting the favored Marlboros, 4 to 3, in overtime.

Tonight's final affair, a sudden-death game, is the only game billed and will start at 8:30.

N. Y. RANGERS DFEAT HAWKS WHILE AMERKS DOWN CANADIENS

Habitants Are Routed By Lowly Amerks

(By the Canadian Press.)

Lester Patrick's New York Rangers, who started out on the low road, are taking the high road now in their National Hockey League travels.

The Blueshirts, who failed to set the league afire in their opening contests, have rallied for a stretch of four unbeaten games and hold second place with Montreal Canadiens in the standing.

The Patrickmen last lost a game on Nov. 19, when they dropped a 2-1 decision to Canadiens. Since then they have defeated Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks, and played to draws with Canadiens and the Stanley Cup-holding Boston Bruins.

The hight spot in their streak came last night at Chicago as they downed the Hawks 7-2 while their intra-urban rivals, the Americans, were downing Canadiens 5-2.

As the Rangers rode rough-shod over the Hawks, their high-scoring line of the Colville brothers and Alex Shibicky fattened their scoring averages. Neil drew credit for two goals and an assist, brother Mac collected a goal and an assist, while playmaking Shibicky drew three assists.

Tight One Period

It was a closely-fought game for one period, but after that the Rangers were away. Their lone first-period goal was matched by Chicago, but the Hawks had no reply to two more markers in the second. The second Hawk goal of the night was sandwiched between four Ranger tallies in the third.

And while Rangers were winning in the west, Americans were delighting the hearts of some 8,500 New York fans with their slashing 5-2 win over Canadiens. It was Canadiens' second defeat in a row after they had started the season with a bang, and it cost them the chance to move ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs into first place in the standings.

It was Murray Armstrong who did the fattening of scoring averages in that game. He figured in four of the five Americans goals, to finish the night with a goal and three assists to add to his total. Until Anderson took a pass from Wiseman to rap in the last goal of the night with 30 seconds left in the third period, Armstrong had figured in every goal-producing play the Americans had made.

Amerks Open It

Americans opened the scoring after six minutes of play, when Jackson took Armstrong's pass to beat young Claude Bourque. Canadiens got that one back before the period ended, with Sands, Mantha and Blake combining on the play.

Canadiens went ahead at the five minute mark in the second period on Ray Getliffe's goal, but Americans tied it up at the 14-minute mark and went ahead to stay late in the period. Canadiens forced the play throughout the final frame, but managed only to leave themselves open for break-aways that brought two more American goals late in the game.

Starry End

IKE NORRIS

When Sarnia Imps clash with Ottawa Riders in the eastern grid final in Toronto Saturday, Ike Norris (above), on The Canadian Press second all-star squad, will be playing end for the Oilers.

Pretty Pass Play In Motion

Here's as pretty a picture as you'll see this year of a forward pass play in motion. It's from the American grid scene, the setting for this play being Fordham vs. St. Mary's. Heffernan (9) is watching the pass he has just thrown as it speeds down towards Magnani (10), still running, before reaching around to grab the ball. Crouching over, No. 32 protects the passer, while a member of the opposition is sprawled on the ground after an unsuccessful effort to prevent the throw..

Texas Aggies And Tennessee Volunteers Line Up For Two Of The Great Bowl Games

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(AP).—Half filled now, a couple of the football bowls are going to be tanked right up to the brim before the week is over if the same form that held good in yesterday's Thanksgiving Day menu doesn't spoil before Saturday.

The Texas Aggies completed an undefeated season of 10 games with a 20-0 conquest of their old rivals, University of Texas Longhorns, and the mighty Tennessee Volunteers, undefeated and unscored upon, defeated Kentucky Wildcats 19-0.

These developments, as half the United States observed Thanksgiving, gave the two winners everything they needed to get the Rose and Sugar Bowls except the railroad tickets. Until they get them, nobody will know just which will go where, but the best brains are booming Tennessee for Pasadena's Rose Bowl and the Aggies for New Orleans come New Year's Day.

The other halves of the casts in these two spectacles are likely to be filled to the satisfaction of the public on Saturday when Southern California attempts to hurdle a so-so Washington eleven and Tulane tackles Louisiana State.

Providing U.S.C. and Tulane triumph, their assignments for next New Year's Day bowl games already are laid out for them. The Trojans will be hosts in the Rose Bowl and the Green Wave will receive at the Sugar Bowl. There is no reason to believe that either will miss their parties.

Rider-Imp Tilt Promises Plenty Of Fight

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Ottawa's mammoth Rough Riders will throw their weight around here tomorrow against the game Imperials of Sarnia in an Eastern Canada Senior football final that promises to be nothing like their last meeting in the same event.

Three years ago they collided in the same setting at Varsity Stadium and Sarnia, with the great Hugh Stirling booting the ball far and high, swept over the Riders 26-20.

Because the West didn't challenge, the Imperials took the Dominion championship without a further contest.

Here is 1939 and the Rough Riders, with as powwerful an offence as the East has turned out in years, are 3 to 1 favorites to continue their march into the national final. Waiting for the winner are Winnipeg's champions of the West, who will come east just before the playoff a week from tomorrow.

Ottawa won the Interprovincial Union title by steam-rolling over the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts with an attacking machine as swift as it is big. The Imperials, fighting doggedly, squeezed into the Ontario Union playoffs by a single point and won the conference title for the ninth straight time by capitalizing on the errors of Montreal Westmounts.

Rider Walkover?

There is the basis for all the talk of a Rough Rider walkover. The people who make the odds think the careful schooling of the still-developing Imperials won't stand up under the battering of power, speed and experience.

They point to the fact that Sarnia made only three first downs from scrimmage in eliminating Balmy Beach and only one in subduing the Westmounts last week. An Ottawa opponent must be able to move the ball sometimes, they say, to make up for all the times the Rough Riders will move it.

But there never was an Imperial team yet that could be dismissed lightly. Footballers come too determined and too well-drilled where Art Massucci coaches in Ontario's deep south.

Sarnia has a hard-charging line and outside wings who hit end-runners head-on. Now that Stirling has retired, Hank Galloway and Mike Meikle have come to carry along the Imperial tradition of magnificent kicking. Mike Hedgewick is a nimble-footed runner who might sneak off for valuable points and Bernie Moroz a placement kicker who can hit the target any time the Imps get within shooting distance.

Doug Taylor Steps Out With Windsor Tonight

DETROIT, Dec. 1—(CP).—Doug Taylor, a left winger from Ottawa, will make his debut in Windsor tonight as a member of the Detroit Holzbaugh team, leaders of the Michigan-Ontario Amateur Hockey League. Taylor played with Ottawa Senators in the Junior Ontario Hockey Association last season.

Taylor will replace Keith Crossman, one of the original members of the Holzbaugh club and a native of Dorchester, N.B., who has decided to retire from the game because "hockey has ceased to be fun."

Passing a Pair of Patricks With the Puck

Milt Schmidt who centres Boston Bruins' very effective "Kraut line," was getting along without the assistance of his linemates, Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer, in this rush, as he flashed by the Patrick brothers, Muzz and Lynn, in a game against the Rangers. That's Muzz, the defence-playing Patrick boy, trying to reach Milt with his stick, while Lynn (9) is shifting himself for the play. Bill Hollett (12), Boston handyman, watches.

Capitals In Draw With Syracuse

(By The Canadian Press)

Day by day, it becomes more evident that the teams in the Western Division of the International-American Hockey League have a difficult task out out if they hope to unseat Indianapolis Capitals from the top spot in the section.

The Capitals, a new team in the Intam, have compiled the fine record of eight victories, two draws and two losses in a dozen starts. Their 18 points give them a five-point edge over Cleveland Barons and Pittsburg Hornets, tied for second place in the section. The total is six points better than that boasted by the leading Springfield Indians of the Eastern Division.

Capitals picked up another point last night in a game at home by drawing 1-1 in overtime with Syracuse Stars, the fourth place team in their division. In the only other Intam game of the night Providence Reds won 6-5 over New Haven Eagles to jump over the Eagles into second place in the Eastern standing.

Niagara Falls Writer Pans O.H.A. Over Goodyears

Getting a bit tired of continued pastings by the packed Goodyears' team, various squads and scribes in the O.H.A. senior "A" circuit are beginning to kick. The following, from Niagara Falls, is an example:

Probably, they do not realize it, but O.H.A. executive members are laying pipe for either another minor professional league or a semi-pro circuit, similar to the Michigan-Ontario grouping, which has taken much from Jimmy Douglas' organization. Toleration of a packed Goodyear team is killing amateur hockey outside of Toronto and we wonder how much longer hockey boosters in smaller communities will sit back and accept such unfair grouping.

With an Arena assured in Buffalo, and both Syracuse and Rochester anxious to get back into hockey, promoters in this city, St. Catharines and Hamilton might lend an ear to a proposition, which would inaugurate a New York-Ontario circuit of three centres on each side of the border. Those who are kidding themselves that other senior clubs can make matters interesting for the starry Tiremen, are only entertaining an idle dream and this fact will reveal itself in more pronounced fashion before the O.H.A. race terminates.

It is costing hockey moguls outside the queen city a pretty penny to try matching strides with Goodyears' handpicked crop, and all they are asking is that they receive a run for their investment, which is denied them under the present setup. If senior hockey takes a tumble as a result of existing conditions, the O.H.A. officers cannot say they were not forewarned, and it is too bad they have ignored the handwriting thus far.

Army, Navy On Bit Former Favored 7-5

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(AP).—The city tingled with excitement today as football forces of the United States Army and Navy trained sights on their annual gold braid classic.

Encamped at suburban country clubs, the rival contingents staged dress rehearsals—each confident of winning tomorrow's skirmish on the dyed greensward of Municipal Stadium.

Downtown hotel lobbies began swarming with the vanguard of the 100,000 persons who are expected to see the game.

Everyone seemed bursting with good spirits save the speculators. They were glum over the dictum that tickets sold at more than $4.40 each would be turned down at the gate.

Resorting to such subterfuges as the "gift" of a ticket with a tie that sold for as much as $10, the scalpers made modest headway. Still many fans were chary of such dealings, and so left the smart boys behind the proverbial eight ball.

The betting gentry installed Army as the 7-5 favorite, but the Navy boys were willing in quite a few cases to lay even money that their colleagues from Annapolis naval college would scuttle the West Point team.

President Roosevelt is expected to attend the classic.

Hogs Jump 15-25 Cattle, Sheep are Steady

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Off-truck hogs, 15 to 25 cents cwt. higher for the week at $8.90 to $9 featured trading on the Toronto Livestock Market. Dressedweight hogs at $11.85 to $12 cwt. with most closing sales at $11.85 were steady.

Excepting canners and cutters, cattle prices were steady in dull trade at the finish. Calves and lambs were unchanged and sheep were steady.

Canners and cutters dropped 15 cents at the opening, while good to choice steers and heifers were fairly active. Top for weighty steers was $7.75 for a few weighting 1,100 pounds. Other steers traded from $7.50 downward to $6. Butcher steers and heifers ranged from $5 to $7.25 with a few up to $7.50. Butcher cows closed at $3.75 to $4.75, with canners and cutters at $3 to $3.50. Good butcher bulls brought $5 to $5.40 and bolognas made $4 to $4.75. Fed calves closed weak at $7.50 to $9 after making early tops of $9.25.

Stockers were steady at $5 to $6.75 cwt. according to quality. Good feeding steers and stock calves brought $6.75 to $7.25, and milkers and springers were steady at $80 to $90 for tested tops, with common downward to $45.

Choice veal calves sold at $10 to $11, with common downward to $6. Grass calves made $5 to $5.50.

The bulk of good ewe and wether lambs traded at $10, with some off-trucks at $9.75 to $9.85. Bucks and heavies sold at $1 cwt discount and culls ranged from $7.50 to $8.50 cwt.

Sheep traded at $2.50 to $5.50 cwt. with a few good light ewes up to $6 cwt.

Soviet Offensive

wooden buildings were aflame in the working class section. It was in this region that Soviet planes yesterday dropped leaflets urging the proletariat to revolt against "Bourgeois tyranny."

Among yesterday's bombing victims was a Finnish scientist, Vaenoe Sihvonen, professor of physiochemistry at the Helsingfors technical institute. His colleague, Dr. Ana-Vyorinen, also was killed.

While civilians were taking punishment, Finnish troops were stubbornly holding strategic points. They thrust back the Russian offensive at Karelia.

New Cabinet Takes Hold

A new government has been formed but not announced.

The withdrawal of many Helsingfors civilians proceeded smoothly. Taxicabs, buses, railroads and private automobiles were crowded with emigres heavily laden with baggage.

Finland apparently faced a choice between two desperate alternatives under the pressure of Russian invasion—to ignore a threat to devastate her capital or choose leaders with whom the Soviet Government might deal.

The resignation of the Finnish Government early today after Parliament had given it a unanimous vote of confidence attested the Finns' plight 24 hours after Russia attacked their country by land, sea and air.

Red warplanes' bombs had set fire to part of Helsingfors, taking at least 40 lives, and had partly razed three towns in Finland's 20-mile-wide corridor to the Arctic Ocean.

Red troops had swarmed across the border onto Finnish soil at points all along the frontier.

The Red Fleet had seized the Finnish Island of Seiskari in the Gulf of Finland and had begun shelling Viipuri (Viborg) and other cities and towns on the Finnish coast.

Threaten to Wipe Out City

Before the resignation of the cabinet, which had negotiated fruitlessly for weeks with Russia on Soviet territorial demands on Finland, a Moscow broadcast had threatened annihilation of Helsingfors unless an agreement were reached by 3 a.m. today (8 p.m., EST, Thursday).

A representative of the United States legation here forwarded word of the government's resignation to Moscow and it was expected that the American embassy there would relay it to the Kremlin.

(The resignation of the Finnish cabinet was regarded in some circles as a move for an armistice and a new premier was expected to attempt to restore diplomatic relations.)

"Once and for all," declared Eljas Erkko, foreign minister in the Cajander cabinet, in a broadcast last night, "I wish to say that Finland has not wanted war, has no desire to be a threat to anyone and has no desire to become the instrument of a third power."

"Finland intended to live in peace," he said. "Despite all our efforts we are the victims of an attack. All that is left for us is to defend our liberty, our existence with all the means at our disposal.

"Despite all this we have not resorted to war blindly but we remain ready to work for a solution of the dispute by conciliation."

The secret, extraordinary meeting of the Diet, Finland's one-chanmber parliament, last night decided to accept the United States' offer of her good offices in seeking a peaceful solution.

(The United States yesterday delivered a mediation offer also to the Russian government but the feeling in Moscow was that nothing would come of it.)

Claim 6 Mile Advance

In connection with its allegation of Finnish responsibility for the conflict, the Tass announcement also said that in the first day's operations Russian forces advenced 10 to 15 kilometers (6¼ to 9¼ miles) into Finland while reconnoitring planes bombed airfields at Helsingfors and Viipuri (Viborg).

Reciting the alleged "provocations" by Finnish troops, the Tass communique said that at 2 a.m. yesterday (6 p.m. Wednesday, EST) "at the village of Kovoina on the northern bank of Lake Ladoga a group of Finnish soldiers, having crossed the border of the U.S.S.R. from the direction of the village of Massila, attacked a Red army advance post.

"The Finns were driven back with losses to Finnish territory by Soviet troops.

"The same night at 3:15 a.m. machine-gun fire opened up on the Karelian Isthmus from the direction of the village of Reasuiy (Raasuil) after which a large group of Finnish infantry attacked the village of Korkiamaki (Korpikyla).

"The Finns were driven back into their territory by a counter-attack of Soviet troops, with 10 soldiers and one-non-commissioned officer taken prisoner.

"At 4 a.m. about a company of Finnish infantry attempting to attack a Soviet advance post at the village of Termolovo (Terijoki) on the Karelin Isthmus was repulsed by machine-gun and rifle fire."

ing this early stage of his ride that his abductors attempted to hold up a gas station, the colonel said. He though it was in the vicinity of Erindale.

Frightened By Screams.

The men were frightened from the gas station, Henderson said, when the woman vendor screamed to her daughter to phone the police. Then followed a ride through Cooksville, Campbellville, Lowville, Dundas, Nelson, Waterdown and on to Galt.

On the Brantford road, several miles from Hamilton, the bandits went through Colonel Henderson's pocket a second time, having ransacked his clothes at the start of the journey, and took a small quantity of silver.

"They told me they were going to give me my car back," the officer related. "One of them said they were from Buffalo." Before the soldier was released, the car was driven to Brantford and through St. George and back on the Lynden road. It was there he was released and told he could drive back to Hamilton. He was warned not to try to telephone the police until he was back in this city.

Colonel Henderson is a veteran of the first great war. Police said it is possible the men escaped in another stolen machine as they had received a report of a stolen car from Brantford.

for keeping the seas open to commerce.

(Great Britain and France decided to impose a blockade on German exports on Monday in reprisal for the Nazi mine campaign against Allied and neutral merchantmen which Germany admitted to-day.)

Deinst Aus Deutschland did not specify what action it felt neutrals should take against the blockade, but observed "Germany watches their attitude with greatest attention."

parts of the Baltic that no power but herself could conceivably threaten."

It observed also that the Russian move "must cause anxiety among her southern neighbors in the Balkan Peninsula, to whose fortunes the Italian Government is very far from indifferent."

Flimsy Excuses.

The Daily Mail said the Russian "trumped-up excuses are even flimsier than the Fuehrer's."

"Never in the history of aggression has a small nation offered less justification for brutal assault," commented the News Chronicle.

The press gave the Finnish news greater display than it did the war with Germany.

Although Parliament echoed with criticism of the Russian invasion—and Prime Minister Chamberlain indicated strong sympathy for Finland in a statement that drew cheers yesterday—indications were that even if Britain wishes to aid the Finns, the country's geographical position would prevent action.

In the words of Commander Reginald Fletcher, Labor member of the House of Commons, "St. George can take on only one dragon at a time."

Export Blockade

negotiable assets to obtain foreign currency. Else they must export goods and services. In foreign trade, at least, this war is much closer to a cash basis than it was in 1914-18, when the long-established credit of Britain was an "open sesame" to supplies in other markets.

Apparently in recognition of this, the Allies have set out to obtain as much supply as possible from within their far-stretching colonial empires and dominions, as well as to effect virtual barter arrangements with some countries to provide for a two-day exchange without losing precious gold.

So, on the foreign trade end, the struggle in large degree amounts to a matching of purchasing power in the world's markets to obtain food, cotton, nickel, oil, copper, iron ore and rubber.

8 Billion for The Allies

Aside from what she can obtain through exports, Germany tosses into the fray a meagre visible supply of exchange and gold against the large assets of the French and British. The National City Bank of New York estimates British and French gold holdings and "dollar assets," including negotiable American securities, at more than $8,000,000,000.

In addition, the British Empire mines about $600,000,000 in new gold annually. Much of this comes from Canada.

Against this visible war chest—the biggest outside the United States—the Reich matches a paltry $31,000,000 in gold and exchange reported by the Reichsbank as at the end of August, together with undetermined amounts of hidden cash. She was estimated to have obtained about $160,000,000 in gold and currency from the conquest of Austria and Czechoslovakia, but little in way of liquid assets from Poland. Her new gold output is negligible.

Russia—The biggest unknown factor in the economic struggle over the long run—has lots of gold beside potential industrial materials. Some financial quarters estimate Russian gold stores at $760,000,000, in addition to a yearly output of new gold totalling something like $180,000,000.

by magnetic force or, through accoustical hoens, by sound waves.

2. The mines apparently were anchored directly on the sea bottom, rather than set adrift or attached to cables regulating their distance beneath the surface.

3. The explosive charge was heavy enough to blast the hull of a passing surface ship from considerable depth, but the weapons were most effective in comparatively shallow coastal waters. One was recovered from a depth of nearly 150 feet.

4. They apparently were sown considerable distance apart by minelaying submarines, and then additional mines were dropped in some instances by aircraft, flying high enough above the water not to detonate those already in place.

Some ordnance experts here thought the new weapon might be met by using energy rays which they said should be effective at considerable distances.

A firing mechanism sensitive enough to be set off by sound waves or by magnetism would react to an energy ray of some kind, it was suggested.

CANADA LAGS BEHIND OTHER NATIONS IN FARM MARKETING

Country Has Not Yet Tackled Problem Of Securing Remunerative Price For Produce

"Canada has not yet tackled the problem of how to secure a remunerative price for farm goods," H. S. Arkell, former live stock commissioner with the Dominion Government, declared in his address on Thursday afternoon to the large assembly of farmers meeting in the Court House under the auspices of the Peterborough County Branch of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture.

And at the outset of his presentation of this problem Mr. Arkell said: "If we don't solve it we can't expect to get anywhere."

The seating accommodation of the main court room was crowded with farmers from many sections of the county together with other citizens from the townships and also the city. Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, chairman of the local branch of the Chamber of Agriculture, presided, briefly outlining its efforts to arouse the agricultural interests of this community to a realization of the importance of their thought and support in promoting this organization whose purpose was to improve the condition of the farmers of Canada by means which, he said, Mr. Arkell had observed during nearly two years of travel and investigation in South America and Europe on a commission from the Dominion Government.

The audience included representatives of various organized commodity groups of the agricultural industry of this county.

Introduced by V. S. Milburn of the Milk Producers' Association, Mr. Arkell said that the underlying factor of the question of price was the unbalance existing in Canada pertaining to the wages of labor and the cost of services, industrial and professional and other items entering into the cost of industrial commodities on the one hand, representing the whole category of what the farmer buys, the things he has to buy, and on the other hand the prices of the farm goods which he produces, in other words, the things he has to sell.

On the one hand, Mr. Arkell said, prices are fixed. Wages and salaries, industrial and professional, and the various services entering into the cost of the things the farmer has to buy all come under that head.

"When you hire a carpenter, although he may be out of work, the law of supply and demand does not function. You pay the carpenter his wage. That even applies to the price your barber charges you for his service. The fixing of prices may be by legislation or custom or even by gentlemen's agreement. On the other hand you hate the word 'fixed.' You'd hold up your hands in holy horror if it was said that prices be fixed for agricultural products. But, because the prices of the goods you sell are not determined or fixed by national policy, legislative authority, or agreement, but are subject to the supply of law and demand, that is what we are told, that our prices are determined in the world market, there is this unbalance I have mentioned. And so long as it exists we are bound to have unstable conditions in all our business enterprises."

The Home Market.

Several times in the course of his address Mr. Arkell stressed the importance of the necessity of adequate buying power of farmers comprising a large section of the home market upon which the prosperity of the country as a whole depended ,and therefore, of deep concern to industry and business as a whole.

"One thing I learned in country after country, in such highly industrialized countries as Belgium, Great Britain, Germany, France, and Sweden, one thing industry needed to interest itself in was how to find a way by which this last remaining market, this important section of the home market, could be secured for the products of the industries of each of these countries. They saw that unless the buying power of agriculture was restored they had lost a big market. The crux and conclusion at the end of my study was that the main thing each country realized was the problem of how to secure a remunerative price for farm goods.

Agriculture Asleep.

Canada has trailed behind in this broad movement, growing out of the new economic era that began in 1929, because agriculture was still asleep, Mr. Arkell asserted, and it would remain asleep until the time came when it was organized to speak with a voice for agriculture that would tell and sell its story to industry, finance, the press and governments and secure the end in view.

Mr. Arkell said he hadn't time to tell the story of Brazil and its coffee, how after the standardizing of the quality of that product, the country found that it had to turn its atteniton to the question of price. The Argentine, producing the best beef cattle in the world, arrived at the point where it asked itself why the price should be so small, finally forcing legislation requiring the payment of what was virtuall ya tax of one per cent. on the receipts from all cattle sold in that country, and on that basis setting up what they called a corporation, using the money they collected from the sale of their cattle to set up a price stabilizing arrange-

OBITUARY

ROBERT MANN

The death of Robert Mann, formerly of Peterborough, occurred at Duncan, B.C., Thursday, November 30. During his residence in Peterborough he was in charge of the finishing department of the Auburn Woollen Mills.

Mr. Mann was eighty-four years old, was born in Scotland, and had come to Peterborough from Lanark. For fifty-two years he was member of Peterborough Lodge AF. and A.M. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Godfrey of Vernon, B.C., and four sons, Alex of San Francisco; Arthur of Duncan, B.C.; Harry of Grand Forks, B.C.; and Eddie of Nelson, B.C. Mrs. B. Shortly and Mrs. E. Burch of 546 Aylmer street are sisters-in-law of the deceased, and Mrs. W. B. Bletcher, 270 Charlotte street, is a niece.

W. J. McDonnell Douro Boy Dies

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — A prominent figure in insurance circles and well known in the west end of the city, William J. McDonnell, Toronto, died at his home yesterday after a short illness.

For many years Mr. McDonnell was superintendent of the West Toronto branch of the Prudential Insurance Co. He had been retired for five years. Born in Douro, near Peterborough, he spent most of his life in Toronto.

He is survived by his widow, Evelyn Reel; three sons, John and William of Toronto, and Gordon of Brantford; and two daughters, Mary and Helen, both at home. Two brothers and two sisters also survive.

The funeral will be held on Monday at Douro.

Red Cross Money Is Stolen From School

Money subscribed by pupils of the Queen Alexandra School for Red Cross purposes was stolen Thursday night by a thief who broke into the building through a basement window.

The intruder had forced the doors of cupboards in several of the rooms of the school, but apparently nothing was taken except the money which had been kept in jars on the teacher's desk in two rooms. Altogether the thief obtained 1.22 of Red Cross funds.

Still Depend On Power Of British Navy

"In spite of our vaunted self-defence we still have to depend for protection on the sea upon the navy that is kept up by the British taxpayer," declared Kiwanian L. J. Pettit in addressing the members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon today upon the subject "The Growth of Canada."

There were three limitations upon the complete independence of Canada, Mr. Pettit pointed out, although these were limitations in name only. The first was the fact that when Britain was at war, Canada was at war, the second was that Canada's form of government was still determined by the British government through the British North America Act and the third was the right of appeal to the Privy Council. As to the latter the speaker said he thoroughly approved of it as a very excellent arrangement that such a court, away from all connection with Canadian disputes should be availabel to adjudicate upon them according to the principles of justice and equity.

Mr. Pettit's address which was a rapid-fire sketch of Canadian history from the early times to the present day and traced the change in status of this country as it developed from the capture of Quebec onward was informative and interest. Of the Quebec Act he said that it was regarded by French-Canadians as their Magna Carta and in regard to Lord Durham's visit to Canada remarked that the Durham report was one of the most important documents in Canadian history. The speaker stressed the bearing the American revolution had had upon Canada and quoted the historian who had said that the American revoluton was one of the greatest events in Canadian history. Without it Canada might have remained a country inhabited chiefly by French-speaking people.

Kiwanian Pettit was introduced by Kiwanian D. J. Fitzgerald and the vote of thanks was moved by Kiwanian Stan. Longhurst. President Wm. A. Richardson was in the chair.

Millbrook Bazaar Yields Over $39

MILLBROOK, Dec. 1 (ENS). — Mrs. L. Ingram was hostess for the November meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Presbyterian Church, at her home, Anne Street, on Wednesday at 3 p.m. with the president, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, occupying the chair, and offering prayer after the lesson had been read by Miss Agnes Johnston.

The treasurer, Miss Mana Gibson, reported receipts from the bazaar of $39.60, and $131 on hand from the canvass for funds in lieu of a fowl supper, with more to come in. Holiday cards were handed in, also mite boxes, birthday boxes, etc., and it was decided to hold the annual meeting, when full financial returns will be available, at the church on January 3. All group leaders were asked to have complete reports both of finances and activities.

Miss Johnston offered the closing prayer, and afternoon tea was served with Mrs. I. W. Larmer pouring at a table lovely with lace cloth, mums on the central reflector and pink candles in silver holders. Assisting were Mrs. Melville Ball and Miss Vanita Ingram.

200 Attend At Home

HASTINGS, Dec. 1 (ENS). — More than two hundred attended the annual "At Home" here on Wednesday night sponsored by the young ladies of the Sodality Society of Mount Carmel parish. Music was furnished by Mose Yokom's Orchestra of Peterborough, and for the square dances Harry Anderson of Hastings added his talent on the violin. Prizes were awarded for the balloon, lucky spot, and lucky number dances. Supper was served about midnight.

Forty tons of gray paint were necessary to camouflage Paris' Eiffel Tower to hide it from air raiders.

Delore Is Given One Month Theft Of Rifle

"Without the slightest shadow of a doubt I find the accused guilty," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning in registering a conviction against Joe Delore, Harvey township, on a charge of stealing a Winchester rifle, valued les sthan $25 from William Trainer of the same township.

Delore was sentenced to a month's imprisonment in the county jail.

"Can you fix it so that I will be out for Christmas?" asked the accused.

"I'd like to do that," said the Magistrate hesitantly, "but I have dealt as leniently with you as I could. You will be out for New Year's Day."

Rifle Missing

Trainer, in the witness box, said that the rifle which had belonged to his father was in the front part of his house November 13 when he went on a hunting trip. Delore had been living with him. Witness returned to his home that night and a day or two afterward discovered that the rifle was gone. He had not seen it since until it was produced in court this morning. Trainer said that he had not authorized Delore to take it.

Cross-examined by the accused who conducted his own defence, Trainer said that he had not loaned the rifle to Delore nor had he given him any shells.

Provincial Constable David Silvester testified to going to the Stewart's wood camp in Harvey township, six or eight miles northeast of Trainer's place and arresting Delore. The accused had produced the rifle and handed it over to the witness when told there was a warrant for his arrest.

Delore in his own defence swore that Trainer had loaned him the rifle and had also lent him four shells. He said he himself had put a new sight on the gun and had shown it to Trainer before he took the weapon away. He declared that Trainer knew he was taking the gun and knew where he was.

Magistrate Langley in his judgment said that he did not believe the evidence of Delore while Trainer on the other hand had impressed him as a straightforward, honest witness who was telling the truth.

Girl Attacked By Two Youths

Attacked by two youths as she was walking north on the C.N.R. tracks near Edinburgh Street Thursday evening an eighteen-year-old Benson Avenue girl had a terrifying experience before she got rid of her assailants by beating them off with her purse and at the same time screaming loudly for help.

The girl was on her way home from work when she met the youths, one of whom was about her own age and the other possible two years younger. As they reached her the pair suddenly seized her and threw her to the ground. The older assailant put his hand over the girl's mouth and ordered her to keep quiet, but she struck at him with her purse and screamed, with the result that the attackers fled.

The frightened girl telephoned the police and the neighborhood was scoured by Constable Archie Menzies without any trace of the culprits.

Fairview Y.P.S. Elects Its Officers For 1940

FAIRVIEW, Dec. 1 — (ENS). — Fairview young people held their regular meeting in the church on Monday evening when the election of officers was held.

In the absence of the minister, Rev. J. R. Trumpour, the meeting was presided over by Mr. Harold Lewis.

Officers elected were as follows: President, Bruce Heard; vice president, Carman Bell; secretary, Greta Reynolds; treasurer, Jack Harrison; conveners of groups—missionary, Opal Rosborough; citizenship, Clarence Tully; dramatics, Fern Armstrong; fellowship, Olive Day; christian culture, Keith Harrison; publications, Olive Bell; social committee, Wilma Armstrong and Eleanor Rosborough; recreation — Archie Stewart, Mary Golden, Gerald Harrison, Everett Poast; collectors, Harold Heard, Donald Trude and Everett Poast; pianist, Shirley McKee.

The Women's Association held a special meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of President Mrs. Albert Armstrong when they quilted a quilt. Lunch was served at the close.

PERVERSE COINCIDENT.

Referring to an account advertising Fire Prevention Week, Alderman Cotton, chairman of the Finance Committee, commented last night that this annual national appeal for caution and preventive methods was almost invariably marked by a series of serious fires throughout the country. "I have noticed that occurrence time after time," he said, and suggested to the members that they observe what happens next year.

WEATHER NOTE.

Unusually mild November weather sat with the young couple who had Victoria Park all to themselves last night along about nine o'clock.

NO FROST IN GROUND

The first day of the three winter months arrived this morning according to the calendar schedule with mildness of atmosphere and no frost in the ground. But, from all accounts the plowing has been finished, and farmers are down to odd jobs, fixing fences, cutting wood, cleaning up the yards and so on.

TWO LIQUOR CHARGES.

Max Vincent pleaded guilty in Police Court this morning to a charge of having been drunk while on the interdicted list, and was fined $15, and 4.50 costs, or fifteen days, and on a second charge of illegally having liquor, asked for adjournment. The case was enlarged until next week.

DONATION TO RED CROSS.

Peterborough's Italian population has made a substantial contribution to the Red Cross Fund, Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman reports. The money has been handed over to the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross by A. M. Pepe on behalf of Loggia Cristoforo Colombo, No. 1824, Order of the Sons of Italy, the local lodge of the organization.

PLEADS GUILTY.

Suspected of having annoyed residents by window-peeping during his time off for lunch, a night worker at a local plant pleaded guilty in Police Court this morning to a vagrancy charge, and was remanded until to-morrow for sentence. The accused was arrested by Constable Bruce Menzies of North Monaghan, who told the court that there had been complaints about window-peeping.

NEW PLATES ARRIVE

The government has changed its mind. License plates and drivers' licenses that were to have gone on sale the first day of January, can be purchased now. A shipment of plates arrived here today and was placed on sale by J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The 1939 plates are good until March 31, but 1940 markers will expire on December 31, the government has decided.

HOLIDAYS WITH PAY

The Utilities Commission confirmed by resolution yesterday a practice already in effect of granting holidays with pay to permanent hourly rate employees. All full-time workers who have been employed by the Commission for two years will receive one week's holidays with pay, all who have been employed for five years will receive two weeks. But all holidays must coincide with slack time, Chairman G. S. Matthews instructed Utilities Manager R. L. Dobbin.

Have Two Aisles In Market Hall

"There will be two aisles across the hall leading to the two exits just as a plain measure of safety," Chief Gimblett told the Examiner this morning in regard to the arrangement of the tables in the market hall.

The attitude of the property committee of the council Thursday night in this dispute between the Chief and Jim Brown, market clerk, was reflected in Mayor Hamilton's remark, "Let the Fire Chief and Brown fight it out."

In the meantime the Chief is making a draft of proposed arrangement of the tables to be presented to the council Monday night, and from his comment this morning he said he had no desire to interfere unduly but complaints of many citizens about the tables' layout agreed with his own opinion that there should be no obstruction leading to the doors. And it was implied from the Chief's statements that he is prepared to demand the clearance for the public if the council does give the order to Mr. Brown.

Taken As Vagrant, Carries $156

When an aged resident was brought into the police station today on a nominal charge of vagrancy, pending a medical examination the police were surprised to find that he was a travelling savings bank.

When they started to search him, according to regulations, they started to come across money in every pocket, most of it bills of the vintage of yesteryear, the old-fashioned large kind. Altogether the search disclosed that the man had been carrying $156 distributed around his person. In addition he boasted that he had a bank account of $800.

$5,000,000 FOOD FUND

Mayors of South Africa have united to raise a fund of $5,000,000 to purchase surplus agricultural products and present them to the Allies in Europe.

City Has Sold 29 Lots For New Homes

Although twenty-nine lots have been sold by the city at $50 each to citizens agreeing to build houses, only eight of them were included in the list of thirty-three which the council offered for sale according to the terms of the National Housing Act.

To obtain the advantage of section three of the Act, the council had to agree to send to the government a list of properties which it was willing to sell for $50. At the same time other unoccupied lots that had come into the city's possession were compiled at various values and were also made available to prospective house builders. Business has been fairly brisk in city-owned property all year, but members of the property committee last night suggested that it was time to call a halt for the protection of the valeu of other lots held by private citizens.

When the list was examined last night, the committee was somewhat surprised to learn that only eight of the thirty-three described in the agreement with the government had been disposed of.

"We are honor bound to continue our offer of the rest of the thirty-three at fifty dollars," Mayor Hamilton said, but the committee's intention is to raise the prices on other lots owned by the city to a level approximating their actual values.

Hastings Branch Goes Over Top

HASTINGS, Dec. 1 (ENS). — That the Hastings branch of the Red Cross Society had exceeded its goal by almost $100 for the war appeal was revealed in the treasurer's report read at the monthly meeting of that society held in the Council Chambers on Thursday night. William Kumpf, treasurer, said the results obtained were gratifying and that more collections might be from the north section of Percy Township, which is in the process of joining the Hastings branch. He said a cheque for $50 had been received from Louis O. Breithaupt of Kitchener, president of the tannery here.

Miss D. Plant reported that 12 pounds of wool had been purchased and that six pounds had been distributed among the ladies to be made into socks. She suggested the purchase of more wool and material for sewing. The matter of budgeting for the necessary supplies was left over until the next meeting.

The mothers of all the local boys who have enlisted will be invited to attend the Red Cross Society and be placed on the board of directors. They are: Mrs. George Smullin, Mrs. W. Faux, Mrs. O. Phillips, Mrs. William McCarthy, Mrs. W. Killenbeck, Mrs. J. A. Macdonald, Mrs. F. Richardson, Mrs. John Fairman. This list was left open in the event someone had been overlooked.

Mrs. Owen Phillips and Miss Della Plant were appointed inspectors to pass the knitting for shipment. Jack C. Wilson was added to the list of honorary presidents.

Official Missing; Case Is Adjourned

Because an official of the Galt School for Girls whose evidence was needed by the Crown could not be located in time to have her here this morning the charge against Ross Kimball of aiding and abetting in the escape of a fourteen-year-old girl from the training school was enlarged until Thursday of next week.

Kimball, defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., said that he was ready to go on with his trial but Acting Chief Constable Reid informed the court that the official could not be here today and Crown Attorney McElderry added that she was a material witness.

Mr. Carley did not object to the demand under the circumstances. Another charge against Kimball, that of vagrancy was also adjourned until the same day.

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (CP-Havas)—The University of Zagreb was closed for three days today to prevent demonstrations following explosion of two bombs during the night, in telephone booths here. Damage was minor, and no one was injured. Nationalists who have been agitating for complete independence for Croatia were blamed for the bombings.

LONDON (CP Cable)—The tabloid Daily Sketch summed up British press indignation over Russian aggression today with a half-page picture showing a tiger springing on its prey superimposed on a picture of Helsingfors' main street. Captioned "Jungle law," it was said to symbolize the "ferocity with which Soviet Russia sank its fangs into Finland.

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Reports from Helsingfors today said that Patricia, 17-year-old daughter of the Finnish foreign minister, Eljas Erkko, was injured in a Russian air raid on the Finnish capital yesterday. The home of Erkko, member of the resigned cabinet of Premier Aimo K. Cajander, was said to have been demolished.

LE HAVRE, France—(CP-Havas)—The French freighter Carbei, unheard of since war began, arrived here safely today. The Carbei had been in the West Indian service. Its failure to reports its whereabouts gave rise to fears it had been sunk at the start of the war.

HELSINGFORS—(AP)—Approximately 200 Britons and other foreigners took refuge today at Grankulla, a small town about 10 miles west of Helsingfors.

OSLO —(AP)— The Norweigan foreign office asserted today there was no foundation for rumors Soviet Russia had made territorial demands on Norway. Unconfirmed rumors circulated yesterday that Russia had demanded three naval bases on Norway's northern coast.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States legation at Helsingfors notified the state department today its staff members were transporting "numerous Americans" from the Finnish capital to temporary headquarters at Badgrankulla. Last reports said there were about 300 Americans in Finland.

City To Cancel Restrictions On Auctioneers

The county council got quick action from the city in reciprocity of auctioneering privileges. Golden Andrews of Asphodel complained to the county fathers last week that he could not get a license to auction in the city unless he was a resident, but the county permitted city men to sell goods anywhere in its territory without a license.

City Clerk Armstrong said three months' residence was required, and Alderman McIntyre recalled at Thursday night's meeting of the finance committee that the regulation was passed to exclude auctioneers coming from Toronto and elsewhere and staying for a month or more in action along the main street.

"I'd give a license to county residents," Mayor Hamilton said, and Alderman Dutton suggested the city should reciprocate. He moved, seconded by Alderman Glover, to the effect that residents of the county who are licensed auctioneers can obtain a similar license in the city without any restriction of residence.

Another resolution by the same two members recommended that permanent civic employees who enlist for service overseas be paid the current month's salary with an additional month's allowance.

A grant of $100 to the Business Men's Association will be charged for publicity purposes against the manufacturers committee of which Alderman Glover is chairman. He seconded the motion by Alderman Stocker.

Referred to Commission

John Hornsby explained to the property committee revised plans for enlargement of accommodation at the police station. Before any further action is taken the plans will be sent on to the Police Commission for their approval.

An offer of $225 from W. J. Wiggins for the lot west of the Penrose store on Sherbrooke was accepted.

A request from the Unemployed Workers' Association for permission to use the market hall for a Christmas tree concert was referred to the City Trust.

W. J. Bull's claim for damage to his automobile by backing into a lamp post on Jackson Avenue was sent on to the Utilities Commission.

HIGH ASSESSMENTS.

Finley McRae, municipal Controller in Ottawa, who is a mayoralty candidate, said in an election appeal on Wednesday night that he disagreed with the idea that the Assessment Act controlled the assessment value of property. Proper leadership and action would convince the Government the Act should be changed. Assessments in Ottawa were far in excess of their market values. Mr. McRae said properties had been sold for 60 per cent., and as low as 45 per cent., of their assessed value.

Finnish War Games Become Grim Reality In Face Of Soviet Invasion

Shown charging barbed wire barricades, half hidden by a smoke screen, during war manoeuvres near the Soviet border a few weeks ago, these Finnish infantrymen are today grimly occupied in defending their country as Soviet Russia's land, sea and air forces attacked Finland in an undeclared war following the breaking off of diplomatic relations between the two countries. Hopelessly outnumbered, Finland's small army of 400,000, under the leadership of Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim, was reported as putting up a desperate resistance against the invading Red hordes, who are reported to have opened hostilities by bombing Helsingfors, Finnish capital, and other Finnish cities and towns, without warning.

Tiny Finland Puts Up Brave Resistance Against Invading Russian Hordes

Less than a week before Finland celebrated its 22nd anniversary of independence, the might and wrath of the combined armed forces of Red Russia fell upon the hapless little country, which has always been forced to fight desperately for its treasured independence. Prior to 1809 her masters were Swedish, then she became a grand duchy of the Russian empire. On December 6, 1917, Finland declared its independence after struggling for hundreds of years against foreign dominance. Today its army of 400,000 is pitted against the mighty Soviet army, which has boasted it can field 18,000,000 men, including trained reserves. The Finnish air force of 150 planes faces a quick death at the hands of 3,500 modern Soviet planes. The Finnish navy is negligible and the Soviet fleet will be able to attack coastal cities at will.

MORE ABOUT—

Farm Marketing

ment.

Columbia and Chile were other South American countries that had not only applied themselves to production but also to the regulation of marketing and the stabilizing of prices, and it was recognized "that if we don't do it, then we have on our hands a social problem of unemployment that will cost us more than a planned economy."

The Consuming Angle.

After briefly outlining the problem of the "supply countries" in South America, questions of standardizing products and their quality, regulation of supply to markets, and stabilizing prices at home, Mr. Arkell touched on the other side of the picture, the consuming angle, as he found it in Great Britain.

One of the things Britain did was their decision to secure prices of farm products irrespective of the amount of goods the country had to buy. The industry of agriculture had to be encouraged. Britain produces forty-eight per cent. of the food it requires, and fifty-two per cent. is imported. The interests of consumers was obviously an important consideration, but the Government set out to protect its producers. They formed a beef committee and told importers to agree on a voluntary basis as to the supply of beef from week to week based on the country's needs, thereby alloting to each supply country a quota protecting the home market against flooding.

In the bacon trade the calculated a price in relation to the normal optimum level of demand. They had learned that declines in price did not materially increase the volume of bacon sold. There was also a tremendous revamping in respect to the handling and sale of milk, placing control in the hands of a Milk Control Board whose chairman pays for all the milk produced in Great Britain. In spite of the huge proportion of imports, Britain has developed a policy designed to protect the prices of it sown agricultural products at a level that is remunerative to the farmers.

Northern Countries

Denmark, Holland, Finland, and Poland were other countries mentioned by Mr. Arkell in his survey of accomplishment in marketing control.

"In Finland I saw co-operation developed more than in any other country I visited. There was practically nothing left to private enterprise. I am talking now as if there were no war problem, because I am convinced that we have need during the war years to find a way to regulating our position after the war against the disruption that is bound to occur then. In the three northern countries co-operative farm organizations control national policy because they are really the people. They established price levels in advance of world parity. They did not permit the export market to affect the prices they established."

As opposed to the policy Mr. Arkell said "we have permitted our export prices to determine our domestic prices and we have been dead wrong."

Levy Against Losses.

The economy developed in this country permits fixed prices on goods and services the farmer has to pay for, while export prices of his products regulates the price he gets for them in his home market. A means of solving that disparity was to assess a levy on all goods marketed, but of which any export losses could be paid. "I am afraid for Canada if we don't get an understanding of our export markets and of how we are going to compete with the nations that have organized their agricultural industry. I found that Denmark supplied bacon to Great Britain week by week with a variation of only five per cent. as compared with as high as fifty-five per cent. variation in our supply from Canada."

Mr. Arkell said that the bacon trade Poland built up with Great Britain was one of the amazing things of industry. "I believe Poland will yet come into its own. She has been overrun three times, the last time in the Great War when she was almost swept bare. She had to build up her industry again, find ways to produce new goods, balance her exchange account, and sell goods for otherwise she couldn't buy what she needed. They said, "even if our people needed bacon the export trade had to go on."

Regarding what he had referred to normal optimum prices in the home market, Mr. Arkell said he could see no reason farm goods should be permitted to drop below a normal level. If beef sells at 20 cents a pound, why should it drop to 10 cents. "If butter is selling at 30 cents and housewives buy it at that price, they won't think any more of you if it drops to 25 cents. I can't justif ythe thinking of any man who sells butter at 20 cents when he has been getting 30 cents."

Mr. Arkell added that he could not justify the thinking of any group of men who were content with lower prices than they knew their commodities were worth.

Not a New Device.

Assessing the whole industry to pay for certain losses was new only to agriculture in this country. Manufacturing industries had carried on that policy for ages. Mr. Arkell said he had seen Canadian tools selling in Sweden for less than their cost of production. "What would you think if the Canadian consumer could buy at the export price That happens in agriculture because the export prices of our commodities influence our home markets. We've got to nationalize our export business, but I know you don't like that word nationalize. Our cheese represents only five per cent. of our dairy industry, but you let it drag you down when its price falls."

Mr. Arkell said that the Milk Board Act was one of the shining lights casting a glow of hope on the whole industry, because milk producers had by experience learned its benefits.

"I believe finance and industry and the community as a whole are beginning to think as we are thinking, because they are coming to realize that your problem is very closely related to them. But, it is all up to you. You have sufficient men here this afternoon to move mountains if you have faith in yourselves. I believe it."

The speaker ranged over the subject of the self-sufficiency of nations in their straits after the Great War when they couldn't find other nations to trade with them. Countries in Europe, Germany, France, Italy, permitted the use of only a certain percentage of foreign wheat in the making of bread; and they subsidized the growing of wheat in their own countries.

"They admitted that Canada produced cheaper and better wheat, but they said "what are we going to pay for it with? You are the people who made us do this because you won't exchange the things we can sell for the things we could buy from you.'"

Says Canada Lags.

The essential message Mr. Arkell brought to his large audience of farmers was that Canada is behind in the marketing procession of the world as it has rapidly changed within the last ten years, and that too few farmers have caught the vision that is directing the program and purpose of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture. Marketing regulations have been set up in other countries. They fully realize the necessity of regular flow of supplies if they are to maintain their competitive position. They have taken steps to correct the unbalance between the cost of goods the farmer buys and the prices he receives for the commodities he sells, and they have planned a means to reduce the disturbing effect of export markets on prices in their home markets.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Arkell was moved by C. E. Moore of Smith Township, following a period of discussion of some of the topics of the address.

Janetville L.O.B.A. Plans Euchre

JANETVILLE, Dec. 1—(ENS).—Members of the Victoria L.O.B.A., Lindsay were special guests of Silver Jubilee L.O.B.A. at its regular meeting in the Janetville L.O.L. Hall on Monday evening. The Worthy Mistress, Sister Luella Bradburn, was in the chair.

Plans were made to celebrate the fourth birthday anniversary of the lodge on December 6 by holding a euchre and dance in the hall, to which the general public is cordially invited. A special feature in connection with the lunch will be the birthday cake which will be made this year by Sister Luella Bradburn and Sister Cloris Deyell. Miss Irene McGill and Mrs. J. Jackett were named as the committee in charge of the card prizes, door prizes, etc.

It was decided to hold the December meeting on the 11th as the regular meeting date falls on Christmas night and prior to that are numerous Christmas concerts. A good attendance is requested for this meeting as there will be the election of officers for the new year.

A hearty welcome was extended to the guests of the evening, many of whom were heard in short addresses. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Among those from Lindsay were Mrs. Moore, P.P.G.M of Ontario East; Mr. Moore; Mrs. Eveniss, W.M.; Mrs. Scott, P.W.M.; Mesdames Reeves, Lees, Quibel, Worthington, Mitchell, Shier, J. Growden, Parsons, Growden, Cayley, Aikens, Everson, Marshall, Wakelin and Misses Wakelin and Lola Pugh.

Reverse Theft

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 1.—(AP)—While delivering telegrams in adjacent Watertown last night, Albert Beaudrot emerged from a home found his old, dilapidated bicycle gone and a brand new one in its place. He informed police of the reverse theft and the non-plussed officers advised him to keep the new bike if no one shows up to claim it.

England Answers Submarine Menace

TWEED

Driver Killed In Smash Outside Perth

TWEED, Dec. 1.—(ENS)—Robert J. Harrison, 50 Elizabeth street, Ottawa, was instantly killed, early Wednesday evening when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control on Highway No. 15 near Perth and turned over in the ditch.

Harrison was thrown clear of the car, landing on his head on the frozen earth. He died before medical attention arrived.

Harrison was accompanied by Allan G. Pushman, driver of the car; Miss Dorothy Lafleur and Miss Hilda McCabe, all of Ottawa, and were enroute to Tweed.

The other three passengers were treated for bruises and shock. No charge was laid against the driver. Provincial Constables James Driscoll and L. C. Carr investigated.

Two Cars Crash

Messrs. H. W. Crosbie and W. E. Spackman escaped with a shaking-up when the car driven by the former, was side-swiped by another motor, owned by George A. Reid of Belleville, an insurance agent, and operated by Raymond Arnott, on a sharp turn near the shores of Mazinaw lake, north of Cloyne. Fortunately neither car was seriously damaged and none of the occupants were injured.

9 Months Of Theft

James Parm, who was arrested by Constable J. C. Hayes in Toronto, for the theft of monies from his former employer, T. N. Beatty, local butcher, appeared in local police court on Thursday afternoon, and was sentenced to nine months definite and three months indefinite in the Ontario reformatory. The accused made restitution of six hundred dollars which he had stolen.

Confesses Guilt

Rupert Stewart, Thomasburg farm hand, who walked into the county police court and confessed to the burning of his employer's barn in April, 1938, appeared before county police court on Thursday, on a charge of arson and pleaded guilty to unlawfully setting the barn of Clarence Graham, Thomasburg, on fire.

Stewart elected summary trial and openly admitted his guilt, after which Crown Attorney Doonan introduced a confession signed by the accused and in which he made a full confession signed by the accused. He was remanded for sentence.

2 Months Of Theft

Everett Beer, 34, of Plainfield, was sentenced to serve two months in the common jail after being convicted of the theft of a neighbor's chickens when the accused appeared in the county police court on Thursday. Glenn Milligan, a neighbour of Beer's and confessed accomplice in the chicken thieving, was given a six months' suspended sentence on the same charge.

Wood Dealer Jailed

Thomas Kerr, Thurlow wood dealer, was sentenced to serve two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory, and an additional one year indeterminate, when he appeared in county police court on Thursday, on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Kerr admitted last week of taking orders for cord wood, obtaining a down payment for the fuel and then neglecting to deliver the same.

Messrs. Melville H. Johnston, Sidney Fairbairn and Sidney Connel attended the elders meeting held on Wednesday evening in George Street United church, where Rev. J. H. Diddell, of Winnipeg, was the guest speaker.

Mr. J. Elmer Dixon, of Belleville, was a recent guest at the United church manse.

Fate Of Finland

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 1—(CP-Havas).—"The fate of Europe is largely linked with that of Finland," L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ, wrote today, saying that "the tragic evolution of Soviet-Finnish tension has started a wave of indignation in the civilized world." It added the starting of hostilities threatens an extension of Communism as well as endangering the independence of Finland.

FAR EAST TOUCH

By ALICE ALDEN

MOVING'S over and house warmings, not to speak of the holidays are in order. Why not plan to look a bit different when you are the hostess—whether it's in Palm Beach or a two-room city apartment? Your first aim should be to appear gay, daring bright color and interesting jewelry, but that doesn't mean you should forget about comfort. One of our cleverest designers suggests the Far East in costume, harem dining-in pajamas shot with gold thread. Gold elephant bell necklace and bracelet, fez-red nail lacquer matching the harem headdress and your lipstick, and you've brought another country to your door.

The Club will meet for business next Thursday, and the officers extend a hearty welcome to all Scots in the city.

Yuletide Touches Give Festive Air to W.A. Tea

Wreaths of evergreen tied with sparkling cellophane bows hung in stained glass windows, and fragrant boughs of cedar banked doorways and fireplace in Murray street Baptist Church parlor Thursday afternoon, giving the room a festive appearance, and a look of good cheer that only Yuletide trimmings can bring. The tables at which homecooking, fancy-work, candy, handlotions and novelties were displayed were gay with crepe paper in Christmas shades, and the booth at which plants were sold was a veritable bower of greenery.

The occasion was the Christmas tea of the Murray street Women's Association, and the many guests were received by the president, Mrs. B. W. Jackson and Mrs. J. H. Sutcliffe, wife of the pastor.

Pouring tea were Miss M. Matthews, Miss E. Cochrane, Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, Miss Mamie Montgomery, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. R. G. Gavine. The table was effectively arranged with a cloth of green linen and lit with four tall scarlet tapers in silver holders. In the centre was a trio of red candles rising from a billowing bed of gleaming cellophane. Tea assistants were Mrs. Gordon Matthews, Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, Mrs. James Matthews, Mrs. Graham Eastwood, Mrs. Roy White, Miss Amy Morgan, Mrs. C. S. Browne, Mrs. S. J. Graham, Mrs. H. R. Scott. Mrs. R. Raymore Scott was tea convener.

Hostesses were Mrs. P. S. White, Mrs. H. H. Graham, Mrs. A. R. Kennedy and Mrs. J. A. Morgan. Joint conveners of the affair were Mrs. G W.. Fitzgerald and Mrs. L. H. Ingram. Mrs. Walter Kidd was treasurer.

In charge of the various tables were: Plants, Mrs. P. Blade and Mrs. F. R. Budden; homecooking, Mrs. S. Cottingham, Mrs. H. Frise; fancywork, Mrs. C. B. Westbrook, Mrs. C. A. Salmonsen, Mrs. D. V. Canning; candy, Mrs. S. Valentin, Mrs. G. Blackwell; hand lotions, Mrs. K. V. Tewsley, Mrs. M. Seymour.

Delightful musical numbers were heard during the tea hour. Mrs. E. Foster played a violin composition, Svendson's "Romance", and Mrs. F. Radford a piano solo, Julian Clifford's "Prelude in C Minor." Two vocal solos, Arthur A. Penn's "Stars and Memories" and "Sleepy Hollow Tune" by Fosdick, were given by Mrs. L. R. Groombridge, who was program convener.

IT'S HERE AGAIN

By ALICE ALDEN

CALLING all college girls—the cloche has made a comeback and promises to compete with snoods, hair ribbons and hatlessness on all but dressy dates. Incidentally, those winds do blow and snow isn't too kind to curls come January, so a hat covering the head is a sensible idea. This model is being eyed one moment and purchased the next, in dozens of colors. It goes with sports coats and it keeps out of the way of fur collars, and, best of all, it has no quill to prevent its packing nicely. Business girls will find it a rainy day jewel.

FASHIONS

For Christmas, or to wear right now, your daughter will love these comfy pyjamas. Very cold weather calls for flannel; warm nights for gay cotton prints. The loose fitting lines are comfortable as well as the smartest of this season's night time styles. Pyjamas are also just the thing for lounging at home on quiet winter evenings, for young and old alike. Nice roomy, attractive lines are what go to make up the most useful leisure and slumber hour styles.

Style No. 2971 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 3 yards of 39-inch material.

I.O.D.E. Tea To Be Event Of This Saturday

An interesting affair of Saturday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. will be the Christmas tea of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., to which so many Peterborough ladies look forward with pleasure each year as a delightful source from which to obtain the unusual and novel in Christmas gifts and decorations. Included in the display will be Yule logs, miniature Christmas trees, place cards, tally cards, table decorations, coal gloves, knitting bags, and numerous other attractive ideas beautifully carried out.

Guests will be received by the Regent, Mrs. D. A. Loucks, and the Vice-Regent, Miss M. Patterson.

The affair will be held in the Green Room, where decorations will be carried out in scarlet and silver. A Christmas tree twinkling with red lights will be hung with silver tinsel, and on the mantel red cellophane candles topped by colored electric bulbs will stand on each side of a miniature tree of white cellophane. Continuing the two-tone color scheme, red china will be used on the tea table, which will be laid with fine white linen, and all other appointments will be of silver. Three tall tapers rising from a large scarlet poinsettia, flanked by smaller poinsettias with matching candles, will light the table, at which Mrs. W. Belleghem, Mrs. T. J. Carley, Mrs. I. H. Keefer, and Mrs. C. D. Munro will preside. Members of the Chapter will assist to serve. Refreshments conveners are Mrs. R. B. White, Mrs. J. K. Hughes and Mrs. C. L. Upper, and decorations are in charge of Mrs. H. Shimer.

Mrs. C. F. McIntyre will convene the home cooking table: Miss F. Adams and Miss D. Burgess the sale of novelties, and Mrs. F. Hooper will be in charge of post office parcels.

A draw for silk hose, of which Miss May Jory is convener, will be made at the tea.

Lakefield Guild Holds Bazaar

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 1—(ENS). —Daintily arranged tea tables centred with silver holders and red candles, green and silver decorations, gave the successful afternoon tea and sale of home cooking of the Guild of St. John Anglican Church, Lakefield, the village's first glimpse of the Christmas season.

Mrs. T. Kendall and Miss Annie Attwood were in charge of the home cooking and candy table, while Mrs. John Langley presided over the touch and take articles.

The fancy work table had a most attractive display of sewn and knitted articles, and was in charge of Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. Howden and Mrs. D. Crozier. Misses Jean Blewett and Pat Wannamaker was the committee which attended the tables and were assisted by the Misses Ruby Marsden, Pat. Earnshaw, Elsie Chapell, Lillian Smith, Vera Binnington and Mrs. C. Hurl.

Mrs. J. Todd was treasurer for the afternoon and reported most gratifying results.

Mothers Are Guests

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1—(ENS) —Mothers and friends were guests at this week's meeting of St. John's Mission Band. The young members conducted their meeting in the usual manner with their president, Miss Jessie Gratton in the chair for the opening worship service during which Dorothy Greig gave the scripture reading assisted by Marian Maxwell, Joan Reynolds and Margaret Davidson. Shirley Burgiss led in prayer, and Betty Johnston gave the offertory prayer. The president told an interesting story about Jesodikai, the Indian goat girl, following which Gayneal Petherick offered a vocal solo. The offertory was taken by Bobby Bennett, Billy Scott and Thomas Fox. At the close delightful refreshments were served.

For Saturday, December 2.

A pronounced stabilizing force seems to work on this day despite sudden and drastic upheavals of a radical nature. This is incidental to the breaking away of long-static and frustrating conditions. With the smashing of this crystallization, there are indications of decided progress. Industry, perseverance, and patience are needed.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of decidedly improved conditions, with much gain and enduring progress, although such may be accompanied by drastic upheavals, revolutionary change or other devastating visitations. These may be needful to break up old, stagnant and crystallized situations. Hard work, patience, and fortitude find reward in enhanced possessions, increased property and investment valuation, or other concrete forms of prosperity.

A child born on this day, although shrewd, profound, persistent, and generally solid and substantial, may have moods of unrest, eccentricity or flightiness, perhaps as an escape from certain psychological inhibitions or restrictions. It may earn fair success or inherit a measure of fortune.

St. Andrew's Concert Honors Patron Saint

Under the auspices of the Caledonian Club a St. Andrew's concert was held in the Moose Hall Thursday evening, when the Patron Saint of Scotland was honored in a good program of song and story.

W. May, president, was in the chair, and the program opened with the reading of an extract on the life of Saint Andrew by Mr. Jack Smith. This story, so well-known to Scots, is ever new and was most enoyable.

Songs given by Mrs. A. H. Radford were "Comin' Through the Rye," "Within a Mile o' Edinboro Toon," and "My Ain Folk." R. Hendry sang "When I Meet Mackay" and "The End of the Road." J. Withers delighted the audience with two comic numbers. J. Smith and R. Hendry entertained with Scottish songs and stories.

The program also included old tyme dances to music by Mrs. J. Harrison on the piano. A most enjoyable evening was concluded with

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Apples And Cranberries Are Only Native Fresh Fruits Available

It is the whole truth that an oversupply of apples, and plenty of cranberries (and a few winter pears) are the only fresh fruit grown in Canada that we can buy before strawberry time rolls round again.

The price of cranberries is down one-third from previous years. Apples are cheap too.

It is our duty to our husband's pocketbooks and to our country to use both of these fruits that abound in health-giving properties to the best advantage.

Clip the cranberry recipes for your "Christmas" file, for the Cranberry Jelly Mounds with Celery might be on your Christmas Dinner menu. The Cranberry Pudding probably will be on the "Watch-the-Budget" Christmas Dinner.

I seldom fry anything in deep fat lately because of the smell of smoke and because it seems wasteful. However, I bought a 20-lb. pail of lard at 1 only 8 cents per lb. and used about 1 pound for sweet mixes such as apple fritters, another for deep frying fish—and after finishing with each strained them through fine cheese cloth, kept them separately, to use for similar purposes when needed. I think foods fried in deep fat make excellent items on a vegetable plate—of which we serve about three a week—so now we have them as often as I think of them.

I would like to sell you on the idea of making Apple Fritters a la Continental very often for they are the mark of a fine and discerning cook.

Apple Fritters a la Continental

Tart Apples (Spy, Winter Duchess, Wealthies, etc.), 1 egg yolk, 1-3 cup milk, ½ cup flour, 2 teaspoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, fat or oil for deep frying. Beat yolk and milk together, sift in the flour mixed with sugar, salt and baking powder, and beat until smooth (with heavy Dover beater makes a nice batter). Core and pare tart apples, slice about ½-inch thick, and dip in batter and drop into hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. Drain on unglazed paper, and serve with either powdered sugar or Lemon Sauce (see below).

Lemon Sauce (for Hot Puddings of Fritters) — Three-quarters cup sugar, ¼ cup water, 2 teaspoons butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Make a syrup by boiling the sugar and water for 3 minutes; remove from heat and add butter and lemon juice.

Dutch Apple Cake

This is a second cousin to Apfel Strudel, but I think nice for Canadian appetites because Hard Sauce is so good on it.

Two cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 2 or 3 sour or tart apples, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter, 2-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Mix and sift dry ingredients, except the sugar and cinnamon, cut or rub in the butter, add the milk and beaten gradually. Spread ½ inch thick on a shallow buttered pan. Pare and cut the apples in wedges and set in rows on the dough with the sharp edges pressed lightly into the dough; sprinkle top liberally with sugar and cinnamon, bake in an oven of 425 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Serve with Hard Sauce (for hot puddings that are not too sweet): Cream 1-3 cup butter, and gradually add 1 cup white or light brown sugar until thoroughly smooth; add 1-3 teaspoon lemon juice 2-3 teaspoon vanilla, spread on serving dish, score top with fork, sprinkle with nutmeg and chill. Serve cold on hot pudding.

Cranberry Jelly Moulds With Celery

One quart cranberries, 1 cup water, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup diced celery. Pick over and wash cranberries, add water and cook until soft. Strain through coarse sieve. Add the sugar to the juice and stir over fire until dissolved. Remove from heat and after cooling, but before setting add the celery. Pour into individual moulds (demi-tasses make a good shape) and chill. Serve with hot heats or as a garnish and accompaniment around turkey on platter.

Cranberry Pudding

One cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups cranberries, 1 cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients, stir in the berries, then the milk, pack into shallow pan and bake in an oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for about 15 or 20 minutes. Serve with Vanilla Sauce (for Fruit puddings): Rub together ½ cup butter and 1 cup sugar, then add ¾ cup milk, and stir over hot water until smooth and then add 1 teaspoon vanilla just before serving hot.

Fresh Cranberry Relish

To 1 quart of washed and picked over cranberries add the grated rind of 1 orange. Put chanberries and rind through food chopper, then add to this pulp the pulp (free of membrane) or 3 oranges. Measure. Add an equal quantity of sugar, mix very well, and store in small sterile jars. If kept very cool it will keep for some weeks.

Write to me if you would like more apple recipes.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: Will you please send some recipes on bread making. I want to make some butterhorns, the ones with jam in and also some tea cakes. The tea cakes have raisins in. Thanking you, Mrs. W.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

White bread made with dry yeast seems to be the most popular type in this province so I have given you that method. If you want a recipe for compressed yeast, or for bread made with whole wheat let me know and I will send it to you. Did you see the recpies for making different types of fancy buns in our issue of recent date?

White Bread (Overnight method using dry yeast).

Four cups liquid—either, water, potato water, milk, or half milk and water; 1 cake dry yeast, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons lard or other shortening, 1 1-3 tablespoons salt, 11 cup sifted bread flour. If milk is used scald it—if water is used boil it. Then cool either to lukewarm. Put yeast cake and sugar in ½ cup of the liquid and stir until it is dissolved. Sift the flour and measure it, then add the salt. Add dissolved yeast to remaining liquid and hift in 4 cups sifted flour and beat well. Add melted lard and beat well again. Cover and leave in warm place (about 70 deg. Fahr.) overnight away from draughts. Next morning slowly sift in 7 cups flour, beating well while doing so, then knead on lightly floured board until smooth and elastic, and soft (not sticky). Place dough in greased bowl, brush surface with melted butter, cover and leave in warm place until doubled in bulk. If preferred knead lightly and shape into loaves large enough to half fill greased bread pans. Brush top with melted butter, cover and let stand in warm place until double in bulk. Bake at 385 deg. Fahr. for 50 minutes to 1 hour. Cool before storing.

Butterhorns.

Most butterhorns are made with puff paste rolled around "horn" shapes and baked, cooled and filled with jam. They could be made with bread dough (recipe above), by making very long strips of dough rolled between the hands, then rolled around clothes pins, with dough touching. Brush with butter. Bake this at high temperature (about 425 deg. Fahr.). When cool fill with jam.

Or butterhorns may be made a third way with "choux" paste—same paste as used for Cream Puffs.

Tea Cakes.

Sift together 2 cups bread flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar. Work in with fingers 2 tablespoons shortening. Add 1 egg yolk, ½ cup washed and dried raisins, then mix in about 2-3 cup milk, cutting this in with a knife. Toss on floured board and roll out lightly. Shape into biscuits with floured cutter and bake at 425 Deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes. Brush tops with evaporated milk before baking and you will have a lovely glaze. Serve hot if possible split, with butter.

If you would like Swedish tea rings recipe or puff paste or (and) white bread made with compressed yeast, we will be glad to hear from you again.

FASHIONABLE HAND-WARMER

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S SIMPLE to find a handsome cloth coat this winter for the reason that fur accessories are having such a run. Lots of us prefer our fur unattached so that, like a hat, we can use it with different ensembles. A fur-handled umbrella is one idea, the muff-bag another. A grand muff is in leapard, flounced on the ends with silky suede, which is a lively contrast for fabric. It comes in beaver, Persian and mink as well. For special dates, particularly little dinners out, the matched set of hat and muff in fur, as pictured so that, like a hat, we can use it with different ensembles. Prepare Now For The Time When You Are Just Another Middle-Aged Woman—By Investing Now In Your Personality Social Insurance.

GIRLS, when you are sweet and 20 begin to lay up something for the days when you will be fat and 40. You won't always have the line of attractions that you carry now. You won't always be young and fresh and pretty. You won't always be gay and vivacious and the life of the party. You won't always be a crack swimmer or a tennis star or a golf champion.

The time will come when you will be just another middle-aged woman who has to touch up her hair and count her calories, who looks worried, and who talks about the children. Your glamor will be gone. Your magic wand of enchantment broken. And you will go hobbling and limping through the remainder of your years unless you have provided yourself with a crutch to lean on.

Disabuse your mind of the idea that you will always be a perfect "36" and that you can buy the elixir of perpetual youth in a beauty shop, and face the fact that every Spring must have its ending and begin stocking your shelves with a lot of Fall and Winter attractions.

First, of course, hang on with tooth and toenail to whatever good looks you have. It is the sacred duty of every woman to be as easy on the eyes as possible, so watch your scales and cut out the whipped cream and the mayonnaise when your friends begin to tell you how much you are getting to look like Aunt Fanny, who took the fat woman's prize at the country fair.

And make a religious rite of buying your clothes. Consider prayerfully what colors compliment you and what lines swear at you. It doesn't make much difference what sweet 16 wears. She is adorable in anything from shorts to a meal sack. But clothes make the woman after she is 40, and whether we regard her as beautiful or a figure of fun depends on her hat and gown. For thanks be to a merciful Providence none of us distinguish between a woman and her clothes.

Make yourself interesting. A young girl can get by with a very limited supply of intelligence. As long as the outside of her head is pleasing to look at we don't inquire what is inside, but when the golden curls begin to turn gray a woman has to have some gray matter in her noggin to keep us hanging around her.

So as soon as you are married and Junior arrives don't retire from the world. Don't give up your friends and your music and your hobbies. Read books besides the Baby Book and talk about things besides food formulas for infants. Keep going. Belong to clubs. Keep yourself informed on what's going on in the world. Read books, papers, magazines. Go places and see things. So will you hold not only your husband but your public. The woman who keeps everybody fascinated and amused with her talk is ageless. Some of the most sought-after dinner guests I know are women in their 70's.

Cultivate graciousness. Did you ever notice that when we dislike a woman we always preface our criticism of her by calling her old — "What, that old hag! What, that old cat!"—but we never think of applying that epithet to a woman we love.

If you will acquire the art of meeting people with friendly cordiality; if you will remember to say some little kindly thing to them, to ask after their arthritis, or congratulate them upon some good fortune that has come to them; if you will make them feel that they are of importance to you, then you might be as old as the Witch of Endor and as wrinkled as a dried prune and nobody would ever notice it, or care if they did notice it

And make friends. Bind as many people to you as you possibly can. You will need them when you begin to get old and are not able to gad about much and when the world about you has drifted away from you. Then you will be lonely and desolate enough if you have no friends to come and sit with you, and if there is nobody to whom you can say: "Don't you remember?"

Friendship isn't something that you can pick up when you are old and happen to need it. It is something that you have to build up through years of sympathy and understanding and helpfulness and sacrifices. It comes high, but it is worth all it costs.

So, girls, begin today to get ready to be 40 and older. Take out your old-age security pension. Believe me, it will be the best investment you ever made.

DEAR MISS DIX — Could a woman be happy with a husband whose physical peculiarities make him conspicuous in a crowd, provided he is otherwise desirable as a mate?—WONDERING.

ANSWER:

If the man was a monstrosity in appearance, a woman might not be willing to marry him, but if he just had some peculiarity that made him different from the crowd, I do not see why his mental and moral virtues would not overbalance his physical appearance.

In fact, it does with most women, for every day we see them marrying men who are crippled or blind or deaf, and living happily ever afterward.

But a woman who puts great stress on appearances should never marry a man who does not come up to her demands, for if she does she will always be ashamed of him, and that will be fatal to their marriage.

Anytime Is the Time to Sing a Cowboy Song

Stir Up Fun on Dates, Parties

What fun you can have with your friends — warbling together a favorite cowboy song:

"Sweet Prairie Rose,
You're the sweetest flow'r that grows.
Life without you
Would be empty and blue—"

On parties, dates, the ice breaks quickly when you have a songbook of western ditties handy. Like sure-enough radio stars you croon "The Land of the Beautiful West," dwell on its tender refrain:

"Til guard you, Til tend you,
I'll love you the best.
And you'll say there's no land
Like the Beautiful West."

Or pretend you are "Ridin' Down that Old Texas Trail." The chorus goes:

"Pretty gals that are so sweet,
Sweep a man off his feet.
If he's ridin' down that old
Texas trail."

Here is fun for all your crowd—our songbook of 19 favorite western ditties. Has funny songs, love songs, ballads of the plains—complete with words, music, piano accompaniments. Enjoy "The Girl I Loved in Texas," "Home on the Range," other hits.

Mending Methods For Broken Home Treasures

How many invalids have you at home? Probably dozens! Treasures damaged in accidents. That favorite vase in fragments. The chair with the broken leg.

Don't mourn their sad state. Mend them!

Broken China — Clean all the pieces thoroughly. Be sure to get a good glue or cement. Carefully dry the broken pieces and select two that fit together. Apply a fine coating of glue to the edge of each, leave the glue to become nearly dry, and then press them firmly together. Let that first joint set completely before sticking the next in place, and add piece by piece, leaving each to set before doing the next.

Broken Furniture—Clean the wood thoroughly and warm it before applying the glue. There is no longer any need to make your own glue, for several excellent fixatives for wood are sold at all stores. Apply the glue thinly, and don't let it get too dry. While it is still tacky bring the broken pieces firmly together and bind them tightly with string, leaving them bound for a whole day. Needless to say, be sure exactly how they fit together before sticking.

Damaged Gilt Frames—These are easily mended by buying little plaster of paris, and mixing it with water in an old cup until it is of the consistency of putty. Then apply it to the damaged frame and mould to the right shape. Brush over lightly with gold size, and then, while the size is still tacky, brush a little bronze powder over it.

With glue, plaster and patience, it is surprising how many treasures you can mend.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

So Sheer — but So Sure to Wear
Durability—that very important consideration when buying hosiery—is found in Penmans Silk Stockings in generous measure. Penmans, always abreast of the latest methods in improving hosiery manufacture, have adopted the industry's finest finishing process to increase the wearing qualities and to enhance the beauty of their hose. Thousands of Canadian women associate the Penmans name with dependability in knitted products; and the same care in the making of Sheer Silk Stockings ensures longer wear. Your dealer is now showing the new Fall colours, and you will say "they're beautiful!"

George Aylesworth Dies In Newburgh

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 1—(CP).—George Anson Aylesworth of Newburgh, for many years prominent in the life of Lennox and Addington County, died yesterday in hospital here at the age of 83. He was a brother of Senator Sir Allen Aylesworth of Toronto.

Mr. Aylesworth underwent an operation that necessitated amputation of one leg three weeks ago.

He was one of Eastern Ontario's best-known Masons and first district deputy of Frontenac. A week before his death he received the Grand Lodge 50-year Past Master's jewel in a ceremony at his bedside.

For many years Mr. Aylesworth taught in Newburgh High School. At one time he was overseas immigration officer under the Laurier government and spent several years in Great Britain. He served several terms as reeve of Newburgh.

Surviving are his widow and two sons, John, a Windsor lawyer, and McGillvray, at home.

Marmora

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ray, Miss Aletha Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Reid of Harold spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horton.

Miss Gladys Matthews is confined to her bed through an injured foot occasioned when skating recently.

Several of the local Legionnaires attended the soldiers' banquet at the Huyck House, Tweed, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Art Phasey of Picton spent Wednesday evening in the village.

Miss Rita Shannon, nurse-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, left for Montreal on Thursday, where she will train for three months in the Children's Memorial Hospital.

Miss Hilda Mumby, nurse-in-training at Belleville General Hospital, left for Montreal on Thursday where she will take courses in turn at two hospitals in that city.

A well-attended card party was held in the Separate School on Wednesday under auspices of the Sacred Heart church. Winners at euchre were Donald Shannon and Mrs. P. Brawley. E. D. O'Connor carried off the honors at bridge. Refreshments were served at the close and dancing was enjoyed to music played by Harold Auger and Charles Champion, while others enjoyed bingo.

Volleyball Team To Play Locals

A friendly round-robin series of volleyball games will be played tomorrow afternoon, starting at five, in the Y.M.C.A. here between local players and the Dominion Life team of Kitchener-Waterloo. It is a resumption of the inter-club competition of a year ago, when the towns played on even terms. Peterborough will have two squads and the three teams will playoff with each other. Some of the visiting volleyballers were members of the championship, provincial and Dominion, Kitchener clubs in recent years.

The two local teams will probably be picked from these players: Stan Payne, Russ Kitchen, Cliff Cadd, Jim Gillespie, Eric Vincent, Jack Richardson, Nels Stanger, Albert Dryland, Jack Hardill, Don Crawford, Ken Kingston and possibly a few more. Later in the season the Peterborough players will play in Kitchener.

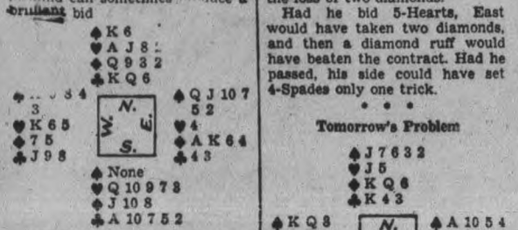
"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD DECIDES IT

WHETHER you can make a game or not may depend entirely on the question of which defender has the lead against you. One of them may be in a position to pick an opening which will wreck your cause, whereas the other may do just what you desire. Keeping this in mind can sometimes produce a brilliant bid



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

North opened this rubber deal with 1-Heart and East overcalled with 1-Spade. The far-seeing player in the South, Al Kling of New York, leaped at once to 4-Hearts, because of his lack of spades, to make it difficult for the opponents to find a fit. West, in spite of this, went to 4-Spades.

When this reached Mr. Kling in the South, he decided that West would be almost sure to lead his partner's suit, whereas East might find a successful defense in diamonds. He therefore bid 5-Clubs, and when this was passed he became the declarer The spade Ace was led and ruffed, three clubs taken and the contract made with the loss of two diamonds.

Had he bid 5-Hearts, East would have taken two diamonds, and then a diamond ruff would have beaten the contract. Had he passed, his side could have set 4-Spades only one trick.

Belgians Dig Against Nazis

Leaves of all Belgian army officers have been cancelled and plans are being rushed to put the Belgian civilian population on rations.

Bloody Assault On Finland To Give Reds Chance To Show Off Vaunted Air Force

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Whatever the outcome of the tussle between Russia and Finland, it serves to bring into focus the potential power of the Soviet army and navy, and of their air arms—estimated by a German source last year as approaching 16,000 planes of all types.

Before the start of the war, Russia was said to have the world's greatest standing army.

Flying, almost a creed with Soviet youth, has been highly emphasized in the upbuilding of the nation's military strength. Buttressing its military aviation is a network of commercial airlines second only to that of the United States.

A German publication early in 1938 estimated that Russia had 10,000 military planes, attached to the army and navy, exclusive of trainers, with a prospect of 16,000 before the close of that year.

Fifty factories were manufacturing pursuit planes and bombers, attack and observation planes.

The figures can only be estimates because, except for Japan, the Soviet Union has been most secretive about its air power.

The Spanish war did serve to publicize some of the characteristics of Russian army planes. For a time, at least, Russian pursuits out-flew both the German and Italian planes supplied to the Franco forces.

It also showed that Russia had bought generously in the United States for manufacturing rights. Boeing and Seversky pursuit planes, standard equipment of the United States Army Air Corps in the past, and Martin bombers, also purchased by United States forces, were being manufactured in quantity by Russian factories before the Spanish war.

In addition, of course, the Soviet had its home-designed warplanes which apparently were effective during the sporadic but bitter fighting with the Japanese in Siberia. The exploits of Russian airmen, particularly those who flew over the "top of the world" to the United States west coast, have occupied important chapters in aviation history of the last few years.

Canada Gander Is Home Hubby

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 1 — (CP). —More geese migrated last Spring along the central, or Mississippi, flyway than for many years.

(Jack Miner caught, tagged and liberated several flocks of Canada geese, 1939 migration, at his Kingsville, Ont., sanctuary. A number of these birds bore previous year's tags with the Miner inscriptions).

These "honkers," largest of all wild geese, take home life seriously, seldom "go Hollywood" on each other. The gander stays near the brooding goose, helps with domestic tasks and after hatching, keeps a watchful eye on the dumpy goslings.

To the observer the Canada goose is a mighty interesting bird to which the expression "silly as a goose" does not apply. Because of its wariness it has been able to survive in goodly numbers. Canadas are long-lived. Records show some have stayed in captivity 20 years, although they were mature when taken.

Enduring Affection.

It is said wild geese mate for life; that when one of the pair is killed the survivor will not mate again. Anyway, many stories tending to support that theory were told by the old market gunners—and they knew their geese!

Ed Connor, who has hunted in the Canadian prairies, once shot a goose out of a small flock. The others sought altitude and sped on. When about a quarter of a mile away a lone bird turned and flew back towards his shooting pit. Keeping out of gun range, it circled and called.

Several times the next day a goose of the same species repeated similar antics. The following morning there were goose tracks in the snow around the pit. He watched for the single but it did not return.

Ed says the goose was looking for its dead mate.

He Went To Jail

Toronto, Dec. 1 (CP).

FRANK WATSON, 26-year-old native of England, today began serving a six months prison term for a soapbox oration at a downtown street corner in which he spoke against joining the Canadian army.

Watson's speech was made on the evening of Sept. 15 and he was the first man to be found guilty in Toronto of making statements "intended or likely to prejudice the recruiting of His Majesty's forces," under the defence of Canada regulations.

He appealed against the conviction and yesterday Judge A. E. Honeywell dismissed the appeal, declaring Watson's statements were "as false as they were uncalled for."

Watson's penalties include a $300 fine or an additional six months.

Douro Couple Are Honored By Friends

DOURO, Dec. 1 — (ENS). — To honor Miss Mary Leahy and Mr. John Holland (whose wedding takes place next week), members of the Dramatic Society of which both are members, also members of St. Joseph's choir of which Mr. Holland has been a member, met at the home of Miss Isabel Towns to make a presentation of several lovely gifts. Hostesses for the event were Miss Towns, Miss Mary O'Leary and Miss Mary Walsh. An address expressing appreciation of the help rendered both societies by Mr. Holland and to the dramatic society by Miss Leahy, was read by Miss Mary Walsh, the presentations being made by Miss Mary O'Leary and James Walsh. The gifts presented were a satin comforter, a lace tablecloth, a pair of Madeira pillow-covers, a Kenwood blanket and some beautiful cups and saucers. Both recipients made graceful little speeches of thanks inviting those present to visit them in their new home. Progressive euchre was played, winners being: Ladies, high, Mrs. Fred Walsh; consolation, Miss May Whibbs. Men's high, tie between Richard Sheehan and Gerald Walsh, won on a play-off by Gerald Walsh; men's consolation won by Cyril Lee. Music and community singing was enoyed till the wee sma' hours. A delicious lunch was served by the young hostesses.

Reds Proclaim New Regime For The Finns

Have Not And Will Not Bomb Towns Says Mr. Molotoff

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP)—Soviet Russia formally recognized today a "people's" provisional regime which she proclaimed for Finland while scorning the embattled Finns' own new government.

Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff declared the Soviet expected "no good" from the Finnish government, and praised the rival Russian-approved group as a factor leading to "hope for a peaceful and satisfactory solution of the present crisis."

Molotoff brushed aside as "pointless" an appeal by President Roosevelt of the United States that Finnish civilians not be bombarded from the air.

"Soviet airplanes have not bombed towns and are not going to do so," he said.

(Since Russia invaded Finland by land, sea and air Thursday, air raids involving civilian casualties have been reported from Helsingfors and other Finnish cities.)

10 Finn Planes Downed

The Red army claimed successes all along the Finnish border, including penetrations up to 16 miles, capture of the Arctic port of Petsamo and occupation of a number of border towns on the Karelian Isthmus, with the shooting down of 10 Finnish airplanes.

(The Finns said they had shot down no less than 16 Russian planes without loss to themselves and had repelled Russian infantry attacks at two points.)

Probe On

London, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)

MILITARY authorities and city police officials maintained official silence today as they investigated last night's riot in which a party of 100 soldiers wrecked the interior of the Hollywood dine and dance club on Hamilton Road.

Bricks were hurled, windows were smashed and tables and chairs were broken for a total damage of about $600.

Patrol Raiding Increases On West Front

PARIS, Dec. 2 — (AP). — The western front awoke to new life today, French military sources reported, with suddenly increased patrol activity at many points.

Localized raids, executed by both sides, failed to change the location of the lines, these reports said, but the French succeeded in capturing several prisoners.

Heavy German artillery fire was reported in one unnamed sector, where the Nazis were said to have rained 120 shells into a wooded area. The range was short, the French said, and the fire was ineffective.

Earlier, a French communique had reported all quiet on the front, saying merely there was "nothing to report during the night."

Premier Daladier, speaking last night after a 259-23 Senate vote had assured extension of his power to rule France by decree for the duration of the war, warned enemies at home and abroad that France would deal blow for blow.

The Premier's 23-minute broadcast was a condensed version of his war report on Thursday to the Chamber of Deputies.

He declared France was ready to reply in kind, if Germany bombed French towns, and that anti-governmental acts by French Communists would be dealt with summarily.

Refugees Flee Before Soviet Invasion

Two German Ships Are Captured

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP Cable) — Two German ships, the 2,185-ton steamship Eilbek and the 215-ton trawler Sophie Busse were captured today by British naval units and brought to an English port.

The Eilbek sailed from a Canadian port shortly before the war and later arrived in the Azores. She was reported to have left Saint Michaels the Azores early in November. Details of the captures were not revealed.

Meanwhile destruction of three neutral and one British merchantmen raised to at least 171 the number of ships sent to the bottom since war began.

This figure did not include the Soviet cruiser which Finnish sources said had been sunk off Hango, strategic Finnish port, by Finnish coastal batteries.

Latest victims of sea warfare were the 4,260-ton Finnish steamship Mercator, sunk by a mine off the Scottish coast; the British steamship Dalryan, 4,558-tons, sunk by a mine off the southwest coast of England; the 8,083-ton Norwegian steamship Realf and the 264-ton Danish schooner Grethe.

The Realf was sunk Thursday by a mine or submarine in the North Sea, the Grethe went down near the mouth of the Thames river, presumably after striking a submerged wreck.

British Sub Damaged.

A report that a damaged British submarine which put into Stavanger, Norway, had been interned were "not credited" in official circles here. A German language broadcast from Rome last night circulated the report.

France Demobilizes Fathers Of Over Two, Replaces Men Over 40 In Front Line

PARIS, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Premier Daladier announced today that all fathers of two or more children who have been mobilized will be released and sent back to their homes.

The demobilization will begin Dec. 15 with fathers of four children or more whose release had been ordered previously.

At the same time the Premier announced men 40 years or older will be taken out of the front lines and replaced by younger men now in service in the rear.

On Oct. 28 France ordered demobilization of 100,000 soldiers who had four or more children or were in the older classifications. The first order released all men in the class of 1910 (men born in 1890), those 43 or over who had three children and 45 or over with two children.

Wool Industry Is Facing Great Shortage

The statement of David C. Dick, of Cobourg, "dollar a year" Canadian Wool Administrator, at a meeting of the Canadian Allied Textile Trades Association in Toronto last night that this country is face to face with a shortage of 8,000,000 pounds of wool is regarded seriously by textile executives in this city.

Three of the industries affected by this shrinkage of supply are Dominion Woollens and Worsteds and Brinton-Peterborough Company of Peterborough and Horn Brothers of Lindsay.

"We don't know how serious it is going to be," the Examiner was told by a local authority in the trade. "Great Britain began preparing for

12,000 Reliefees To Get Only Apples and Flour

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2.—(AP). — About 12,000 citizens will be given only apples and white flour to eat next week unless there are unexpected developments, city relief officials declared to-day.

The city recently removed the 12,000—all able bodied unmarried persons and childless couples—from its grocery order rolls because of dwindling funds, leaving them to exist on federal surplus commodities and personal initiative.

Eighteen hungry persons took matters in their own hands yesterday, ordering and eating $9.96 worth of food at a downtown cafe teria and telling employees to "charge it to the city."

War Smoulders Quietly On Western Front As Russia Stirs It Up In North; Week Sees Nazi Mine War Begin To Ease

The flames of war, smouldering quietly in the west, blazed fiercely in Northeastern Europe in the 13th week of hostilities when Russia, transforming a campaign of invective into real blows, unleased the Red army against Finland's eastern frontiers.

While Soviet troops battled the Finnish defence force along the frontier from the Arctic to the Baltic, Russian air and naval forces attacked the ports and cities of the republic. The Red army appeared to have penetrated Finnish territory to an extent of not more than 10 miles.

From the air the Soviet air force bombed Helsingfors, Viipuri and other centres. The attacks were directed at both military and non-military objectives, and civilian casualties weer heavy. Many bombers were shot down. At sea Russian naval units seized island of strategic value in the Baltic and bombarded Hangoe, the fortified port dominating the entrance to the Gulf of Finland. One Russian warship was reported sunk.

The Finnish government was reorganized on a broader basis, with Risto Ryti, governor of the Bank of Finland, assuming the Premiership. In occupied territory near the frontier political commissars attached to the Red army organized a Finnish "people's government" made up of Finnish Communists.

Reaction to Moscow's acts in the capitals of the world was sharp. Prime Minister Chamberlain and President Roosevelt expressed the indignation of the British and American nations. In Budapest Hungarian Nazis joined in condemning the Russian invasion. The Italian press was quick to express its anger. From Germany, despite the pro-Soviet policy of the Nazi leaders, reports came of private expressions of sympathy for the Finns.

In the war at sea the fury of Germany's mine warfare appeared to have spent its force. The Polish liner Pilsudski was lost and the 8,857-ton Netherlands steamship Spaarndam hit a mine and sank. The Admiralty released a stirring account of the loss of the British armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi, which went down with its colors flying in an unequal battle with the

Finns Are Ordered To Blow Up Nickel Property

KIRKENES, Norway, Dec. 2 — (AP).—Civilian refugees arriving here from Finland reported today Finnish troops had retaken the Arctic port of Petsamo.

Finnish authorities were said to have confirmed the reports. Earlier, the city was reported in hands of Russian forces which parachuted to earth from airplane.

The refugees also declared the Finns had defeated the Russians in a battle 50 miles north of Salmijarvi, site of valuable mines of the Canadian International Nickel Company just inside the Finnish-Norwegian border.

The Russians were said to have left on the battlefield more than 150 dead, whose equipment and clothing indicated the Red troops were poorly prepared for war in the Far North. Many apparently had suffered frozen feet.

More Reds on Way

Russian reinforcements were reported en route to Petsamo, and a new battle was expected.

Soviet warplanes, meanwhile, continued active in the narrow Finnish corridor leading to the Arctic. Low-flying planes were reported to have attacked Finnish motorbuses carrying refugees toward the Norwegian border.

Bed sheets were tied over some of these trucks as camouflage in the snow-covered terrain.

Previously, British and Canadian employees of the Salmijarvi Nickel Mines fleeing across the Norwegian border, reported that Russian troops were only nine miles from the frontier.

Finnish soldiers were reported to have received orders to blow up the nickel mines at Salmijarvi to prevent them from falling into the hands of the invading Red army.

The refugees reported the Russians had blown up the Salmi-Jarvi bridge after trying vainly to demolish it with aerial bombs yesterday.

They said a fierce battle was raging close to the Norwegian border with 800 Finns attempting to fight off vastly stronger Russian forces with machine-gun and rifle fire.

The Finns were said to have been ordered to hold their positions until 3 a.m. (8 a.m. e.s.t. Friday) and then withdraw across the frontier.

Fighting in the Petsamo district was almost entirely by infantry as the roadless mountains and deep snows prevented either side from bringing up artillery.

Finnish soldiers who recaptured the seaport marched all night through the snow to reach their objective. However, they had the advantage over the Russians who, after taking the town, found all the food supplies either carried away or destroyed in the fire which followed the air raids.

City Cut Off.

Telephone communication with the city was cut off, however, and reports on progres sof the Red army could not be confirmed immediate-

Canadian Mining Experts Escape Finland

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP Cable.)—Word reached London to-day that all Canadians and other British engineers and experts in charge of development operations in Finlands rich Salmijaervi nickel mines have arrived safely in Kirkenes just across the Norwegian frontier.

Several hundred refugees are already there, while hundreds more were reported to have sought refuge in other borders towns.

The mines, which are worked by the Mond nickel interests under arrangement with the Finnish government, are believed to be an immediate objective of the Russian forces operating in the Petsamo corridor. The Mond Nickey Company is a subsidiary of the International

Will Never Surrender Independence Says Baron Leader

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 2 (AP) — The supreme commander of Finland's armed forces declared today the whole country is "ready to fulfill its duty unto death" to support the new government's determination never to surrender the republic's independence.

While the nation steeled itself to meet fresh assaults by Russia's mighty machine, Field Marshal Baron Gustaf Mannerheim issued this order of the day:—

"Finland's president has named me supreme chief of Finland's defence forces. Brave Finnish soldiers, I undertake this task at an hour when our hereditary enemy once again attacks our country.

"Confidence in its chief is the first condition of success. You know me and I know you, and I know the whole country is ready to fulfill its duty unto death.

"This war is nothing but the continuance and the final act in our war for liberty. We fight for our homes, creed and fatherland."

Mannerheim's appeal for the confidence of the nation's armed forces came after the head of Finland's new government, established yesterday to replace the regime which Russia bitterly accused of provoking the war, had announced the nation was ready to negotiate for peace, but never would surrender its independence.

Claim Red Arms Are Mainly Second Class

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 — (AP). —The Soviet onslaught on Finland promises at least a partial answer to a question military men have debated for years—how powerful is modern Russia as a war force?

In the number of soldiers under arms and trained reserves, the Red army is more than twice as large as any other.

Experts say that professional advices indicate their guns, shells, planes, tanks, and supplies are adequate, but mostly second class.

The morale of rank and file is accepted by these analysts as good, regardless of the suspicions of disloyalty that prompted Stalin to "purge" veteran commanders.

Soviet military tactics are mostly modern, and, in such instances as the employment of masses of parachute troops to threaten a foe's flank, represent spectacular advances.

Where the Soviet army may be weak, the experts suspect, is in the Bolshevist system of placing political commissars in every sizeable military unit, and in the comparative dearth of experienced high ranking leaders since last year's purge by the firing squad.

Disrupting Factors.

Officers trained in loyalty to a single authority believe the commissars, who are independent of the military, may disrupt discipline in a crisis.

Britons Will Man Longer Line Let French Work

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP Havas) — British troops will take over a longer stretch of front line in France as a result of the proclamation signed by the King last night calling Britons between ages of 20 and 23 to the colors, the Daily Mail said in an editorial today.

French soldiers must be released to man factories suffering for want of labor, the newspaper explained.

"Britain is going to call up another 250,000 men," the editorial said, "This is a fres hexample of the pooling of Ango-French resources.

"It is Britain's right and duty to take over more of the line than she already occupies at present. There should not be so many men in their early twenties wandering around England when millions of Frenchmen in their forties are being taken away from their factory benches in France.

"The plain truth of the matter is that France's industrial machine is in serious danger owing to a famine of manpower."

Waits Successor

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2—(CP)— The five-year term of Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper, K. C., of Manitoba, expired today but he will continue in office until his successor is appointed, probably at the start of the New Year, when Prime Minister Mackenzie King is expected to make an announcement.

Trawlers Rallying To Mine Hunt; Gales Ignored

By GUY RHOADES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

SOMEWHERE ON THE SOUTH COAST, England, Dec. 2. —(CP Cable)— A score of trawlers rolled into this port yesterday with their fish holds still full of ice in response to Great Britain's appeal for 200 more vessels to aid in sweeping German mines from the shipping lanes.

This correspondent saw the ships come through heavy seas in the one of the most uncomfortable— and fortunately one of the shortest—sea trips he ever has made.

During the course of a two-hour mine sweeping patrol we saw how the nation's fishermen are enlisted to use their trawling skill to dig up submarine mines close to the sea floor.

The skippers brought their vessels in and scarcely knew their orders which were shouted at them. Many came straight from the Scottish fishing grounds, only waiting to toss their catches ashore.

The captain of the trawler I went aboard said he was a Lowestoft skipper for 25 years but his main object was to "beat the Germans." We went through a gap in the breakwater in the face of a howling wind which whipped off our hats and plunged into the rolling seas which set the scuppers awash.

In this sea, the crew which normally is engaged in fishing set a trawl overboard consisting of a float like a torpedo, 30 yards of cable and an "otter," a door-like

Russian Attack Justified So Shaw Says

LONDON, Dec. 2. — (CP) — To George Bernard Shaw Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland is "perfectly simple."

"Finland has been misled by a very foolish government," the 83-year-old playwright was quoted by the Daily Mail today in an interview. "She should have accepted the Russian offer for readjustment of territory...

"Finland would probably not have refused the Russian offer had she been acting on her own or in her own interests, but Russia believes that Finland thinks she has the backing of America and the western powers.

"No power can tolerate a frontier from which a town such as Leningrad could be shelled when she knows that the power on the other side of that frontier, however small or weak it may be, is being made by a foolish government to act in the interests of other and greater powers menacing her security.

"Is America supporting Finland?

"Well, Finland obviously believes so or she would not have behaved as she has against a country so much stronge than herself...

"It is not at all a question of Russia attempting to subject Finland. It is a question of Russia seeing to her own security. In Russia's view, Finland can have no defensible objection to carrying out the exchange of territories which Russia asked unless she is allowing herself to be used by America or the western powers."

Swedes Offer To Aid Finns, Smash Red Legation Glass

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 2.—(AP)— All windows in the Soviet legation here were smashed in the night.

(In the first demonstration of Swedish sentiment since Soviet Russia invaded Finland, more than 2,000 Swedes crowded before the Finnish legation in Stockholm last night and shouted "Long live Finland!"

About 150 Danes sought today to fight for Finland against the Russians but were told at the legation no volunteers were being accepted.

Danish newspapers reported big Russian losses on the Karelian Isthmus. A Finnish general returning from the isthmus was quoted:

Soviets Charge Allies, U.S. Scaring Neutrals To War

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia asserted today that efforts were being made through the press of the United States, Great Britain and France to draw the Balkan States and Belgium, Holland and Switzerland into the war.

"Conditions in Belgium and Holland show what tremendous role is played by the spreading of panic in the English, French and American press with the purpose of attracting neutral countries into the war," Izvestia said.

"They claim Belgium, Switzerland, Holland are being menaced by the German invasion and as a result militaristic policies dominate these countries. Such is the policy of the marching Allies of the present war."

Finnish legation attaches here still did not know when they would be able to leave Moscow. The legation was without telephone connection and was crowded with foreigners buying foodstuffs and

Deny Monckton Resigned Over Censorship

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP Cable).—The authoritative Press Association said today that reports Sir Walter Monckton had resigned as Director-General of the Press and Censorship Bureau of the Ministry of Information had been "discounted."

The agency added that it was authorized to state that Sir Walter "has not resigned."

The denial followed reports in the London press that the Director General had placed his resignation in the hands of Sir John Anderson, the Home Secretary.

These reports said the reasons for the resignation were lack of authority and the necessity to refer news to government departments which exercise final censorship, resulting in delay and indecision. Sir Walter was appointed October 3.

It is understood, the papers said, that Walter G. Fish, former editor of the Daily Mail and now Honorary Press Adviser to the Chief Censor, and Tom Clarke, Director of the Information Ministry's News Divisions, also offered their resignations in support of Sir Walter, but agreed to suspend action until the situation clarified.

Dewey In Lists For President

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 — (AP). — A Presidential candidacy as extraordinary in some respects as any in the United States' history has been launched with entry of Thomas E. Dewey into the field for the Republican nomination.

Dewey is only 37, one of the youngest ever to enter the Presidential lists; he never has held an office higher than his present post as District Attorney of Manhattan; he has no national "record" as a politician; and is not identified with any wing of the Republican Party, right or left.

Set against this, however, is the fact that in a series of spectacular victories as a prosecutor he has moved for nearly five years under a spotlight of country-wide publicity, and the further fact that he came very close in 1938 to defeating the veteran Governor Herbert Lehman, a Democrat.

His decision to get into the fight was announced yesterday. State Republican leaders presented a declaration that he could carry his "pivotal" state, and the country, too, and he answered: "I shall be glad to make the fight."

When Waste Jams In BIG BOWEL!

Move It With a Laxative That Won't Upset Whole Bowel Tract!

In spite of the different symptoms of constipation— dullness, headache, draggy fatigue — most constipation occurs in one spot, the big bowel (marked X). That's where help is needed! Taking calomel, salts or oils that work some place else in the intestines is taking a roundabout way to relief—and may upset the whole bowel tract!

That's why many people who know the true facts always keep CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS on hand to relieve constipation. Because they contain cascara, said to give "nearest to natural action" of any cathartic, these chocolaty tablets act directly on the big bowel where waste has jammed. They move it those last few inches, bring blessed relief overnight. Take them at bedtime, and see how much better you'll feel shortly after getting up in the morning!

German Toasts

Copenhagen, Dec. 2 (CP-Havas)

GERMAN army officers in their clubs and other Germans in hotels and homes are drinking toasts in honor of Finland, the Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Politiken reported to-

"The man in the street is completely for Finland," said the Berlin correspondent of Nationalitdende. "In Nazi circles there are many who hope ardently that the Finns will be able to avenge themselves.

"It should be recalled that 20 years ago Germans fought for Finnish independence from the Bolshevists. Many young Germans wish that this were possible today."

95 New Homes Been Built In City This Year

Forty-two more houses were built during the first eleven months this year than for the same period in 1938, according to the records at the office of City Engineers Parsons.

Ninety-five dwellings were constructed in Peterborough this year as compared with 53 last year, a decidedly substantial gain, indicating a broad investment in the city's home of the present and future.

Building permits for November totalled 44, amounting to $48,899, comprising 15 dwellings worth $42,700; eight garages and 21 miscellaneous permits.

During the same month a year ago there were 32 permits for $17,440.

Peterborough's gain in new construction is also reflected in the comparison total value of permits for the eleven months to the end of November. The total for 1939 was $497,635 as compared with $393,069 to the end of November in 1938.

Satisfaction with this indication of progress is generally expressed but here and there questions are raised as to how Peterborough is to maintain this rate of real estate growth during the year ahead.

Nazi Press Urges India To Revolt

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—(CP-Havas).—A violent campaign calling on the people of India to rise against the British "oppressor," "now or never," was launched by the German press to-day.

The newspapers coupled these outbursts with reports that Soviet effectives had been reinforced in Central Asia and the Transcaucasian area.

Under bold headlines the Berliner Boersenzeitung, Lokalanzeiger and other newspapers urged the Indians to revolt and wage a "struggle for liberty."

Informed Nazi sources, meanwhile, repeated Soviet allegations that Britain and France were to blame for Finland's predicament.

If the western powers had not stiffened the Finnish government's back by moral support Finland would have seen the historic justification for Russia's position, these sources said.

Apples Blossom In New Form

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—The rosy red apples which have been a symbol of Canada on the United Kingdom market for so many years have adopted many new disguises now that the majority must stay home on the Canadian market.

Boats to carry Canadian goods to Great Britain have been at a premium since the war started and preference is given over apples to less bulky and more concentrated foods. So apple growers, aided by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, have had to devise other schemes to market that part of the apple crop which cannot be sent abroad.

Campaigns to increase home consumption of attractively boxed top-grade Canadian apples have proved quite successful, but something had to be done about the left-overs. The answer was to process them. Apple pie, apple dumplings, apple turnovers and apple sauce have long been staple Canadian diet, and apples in new modes had to be added.

Some 1,125,000 barrels of Nova Scotia apples will be processed this year, it is estimated, and, like the surplus of the British Columbia export crop, will go to market through new channels.

Best prospect, it has been found, is in fresh apple juice for the breakfast fruit cocktail or for roadside refreshment stands. If the apple industry could capture half of the Canadian market now devoted to imported fruit juices, the problem of what to do with substandard apples would be solved, according to Government experts.

After the juice has been pressed from the apples, the mash that is left at the ratio of six gallons from a barrel of apples can be profitably sold for $3 or $4 a ton as live stock feed.

MORE MARRIAGES.

Vital statistics for November were 52 births, 25 marriages and 4 deaths; as compared with 62 births, 23 marriages and 31 deaths in the corresponding month last year.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

By invading Finland, Russia unashamedly entered the ranks of the aggressor nations, thereby completing the apparent reversal of Soviet foreign policy which has been under way ever since the resignation of Maxim Litvinoff as Commissar of Foreign Affairs last spring.

Under Litvinoff Communist Russia sought to assume the role of a peace-loving nation, eager to promote the settlement of all international disputes by negotiation and arbitration and as a champion of the principles of the League of Nations.

Litvinoff's speeches at the Assembly of the League in Geneva and the activities of Communists throughout the world all followed this line. Imperialism, militarism, Fascism, aggression were denounced unsparingly.

In the Spanish civil war Russia lent support to the Leftist government against the Nationalists, who were aided by Italy and Germany. Communist organs throughout the world were the most vigorous among the denouncers of German and Italian activities in Spain and of the bombing of Spanish cities.

The first concrete expression of the new policy was the Russo-German agreement, negotiated at Moscow by Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Nazi Foreign Minister. Then came the Russian invasion of Poland for which the pretexts of military necessity and recovery of territory formerly seized by Poland were offered. Russia's control over Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania was established without fighting but by threats.

In the invasion of Finland, however, none of the circumstances which might be construed as justifying the invasion of Poland were present. Russia simply wanted Finnish territory and when the Finns refused to yield to threats proceeded to take it by force of arms.

London Troops Wreck Cafe And March Off

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 2—(CP). — About 100 soldiers marched in formation on the Hollywood Dine and Dance Club last night, did $600 damage and marched away.

Two soldiers were reported to have suffered minor injuries in battling with police, who had been apprised that a raid was to be staged. Three plate glass windows, a refrigerator, furniture and dishes were among the articles smashed.

Though military police were warned, it was understood many of the soldiers managed to break through the lines to get back into barracks at Queen's Park.

The riot was said by police to have been provoked by a fracas at the club Thursday night, when a soldier was injured. On police advice, the club was closed early last night in an attempt to avoid rumored trouble.

The highlight of the program was a debate delivered by two teams of men, Messrs. Rowe and Gainer took the affirmative and Messrs Robertson and Woods spoke for the negative. The debate read: "Resolved, That women's place is in the home." The judges were Dr. Bannister, Miss Murray and Mr. Booth. During the summing up of the points, the school had a sing-song, accomied by Miss McDowell. Dr. Bannister spoke for the judges in his criticism of the debaters, and announced the negative as the winning team. The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Suggests Gandhi Be Let Broadcast

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 2. —(CP Cable.) — The Manchester Guardian in an editorial to-day endorsed a suggestion that M. K. Gandhi address Britain by radio.

It said such an address by the Indian Nationalist leader would be "for our good and an act of justice." It called Gandhi the "greatest living Indian and one of the greatest living men."

The newspaper said British democracy "is a poor thing if the aspirations of the Indian peoples and of our fellow countrymen are as remote from the attention of most of us as in fact they are."

Bomber Orders Likely To Be Cut Off By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Belief spread in Washington today that the United States government would follow up President Roosevelt's condemnation of the Soviet attack upon Finland by urging American manufacturers to refuse Russian order for bombing planes.

The Washington Post said that such a "moral embargo" against the sale of bombers to Russia had already been put into effect unofficially.

Reporting that an official Soviet mission had been going from one plane factory to another in United States with cash offers for various types of fighting aircraft, the Post said it was informed by an authoritative source that the unofficial ban was so tight the commission would be unable to buy a single plane.

Another proposed line of action, to aid Finland by voting a moratorium on that country's debt payments to the United States, appeared today to be gaining strong support among members of Congress.

Characterizing the Soviet invasion of Finland as "the worst thing that has happened yet," Senator George Norris, Nebraska Independent, told reporters:

"It seems to me that while Finland is fighting for her life, Congress should cancel the payments of her debt. We have a perfect right to take that action and I think that it is due a country which has been the only one to pay on its debts to us."

Finnish sources have indicated that the $243,693 due this month would be handed over to the United States, despite reports that the Finns are hard-pressed financially.

B.C. House Ends Short Session

VICTORIA, Dec. 2—(CP).—In a wave of patriotic fervor, the British Columbia legislature session was prorogued yesterday with members singing "God Save the King." The National Anthem rang out when a halt was called in the traditional paper fight by which members clear their desks.

Earlier the members were reminded of the war and their duty when Lieut.-Gov. E. W. Hamber read the speech from the throne.

"Although the war is but three months old," the speech said, "there is ample evidence of the privation and frightfulness yet to be encountered and it behooves all of us to be prepared to do everything within our power to assist in bringing the war to a successful conclusion."

During the five-week session, one of the shortest on record and the third of British Columbia's 19th legislature, 67 bills were adopted. Few were considered of major importance.

Major fireworks of the session which opened Oct. 31 were set off by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Premier T. D. Pattullo warned two C.C.F. members that any repetition of statements they made criticizing British and Canadian policy might bring prosecution under the Canada war measures act.

Before the Canadians left measures were taken to render the mines inoperative if necessary and orders were issued to the Finnish troops to blow them up if threatened by the Soviet invader.

It also was reported that peasants, before fleeing their razed homes, slaughtered their livestock and trucked away supplies to prevent them falling into Russian hands.

Immediate danger to the mines was dissipated by a Finnish surprise attack which, according to neutral reports, resulted in the recapture of Petsamo with heavy losses to the Russians.

To-day a quantity of medical stores, including serums and drugs urgently needed for the Finnish wounded, left England by airplane in charge of Laurin Zilliacus, 44, who had sought to enlist in the British army but was rejected because of his age.

Apsley W.I. Ladies End Meat Cookery

APSLEY, Dec. 2 (ENS) — The final lesson of the meat cookery course, sponsored by the Women's Institute, was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Reed, with a record attendance, about twenty-two ladies being present.

A Swiss steak, and a ham mousse, was demonstrated by the leaders, Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. R. Tucker. Some of the former courses were reviewed. During the evening a supper was discussed and planned to be held early in the new year. The different meat dishes to be the main ones on the menu. All the ladies enjoyed a taste of the dishes cooked during the demonstration.

Mrs. W. Lean moved a vote of thanks to which all of the class responded. The meat cookery course has proved a decided success, and the ladies regret that it has come to an end.

Mrs. W. Earnshaw, Sr., and granddaughter Miss Puffer were guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. Hugh McColl on Thursday.

Mr. Hubert James who has spent the past two months in Saskatchewan has returned to his home in Chandos.

Mr. Dunsford, Lakefield was in Apsley on business on Wednesday and Thursday.

A moving talkie show was held in the Parish Hall, Apsley on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Anglican Church. Part of the proceeds are to be given to the church funds.

5 Canadian Nurses Let Train In U.S.

DETROIT, Dec. 2—(CP).—Three nurses from Owen Sound and five from Sarnia hospital were admitted into the United States at Port Huron after a brief delay, United States immigration authorities said today.

It was explained that at first the eight Canadian nurses were held up until officials in Washington were consulted. It was decided that the nurses should be admitted as they were not to receive any pay but only room and lodging while undergoing a period of three months' training at the children's hospital in Detroit. They will make a study of pediatrics, care of children, not available in their Canadian hospitals.

Ladies' Club Honors Keene Grandmothers

KEENE, Dec. 2 (ENS). — An exceptionally fine program was enjoyed by the members of the Ladies' Club when they held their regular Wednesday meting at th home of Miss Lyla Drummond.

The meetin gopened in usual manner with a sing-song led by Mrs. F. Eason, followed by the roll-call answered by Mrs. H. Wright on the life and work of Miss Agnes McPhail. Miss Jennie Plunkett gave Current Events. Mrs. P. C. Gillespie took charge of the meeting, the subject being "Grandmothers." Letters were on hand that had been written a hundred years ago, also photos of some of the grandmothers. Mrs. J. J. Moore read "Homely Happenings." and Mrs. Robert Nelson read "Passing the Parlor." Several ladies sang "Granny left me nothing but her old armchair."

The evening concluded with the serving of dainty refreshments by the hostess.

Warsaw

Mrs. Whetung, Clarina, is in St. Joseph's Hospital with appendicitis.

Dick Crowe is at the home of his sister, Mrs. William Gray and Mr. Gray, laid up with pneumonia.

Howard Parcels met with a bad accident on Tuesday. While felling trees in Edwards' lot one fell upon him. Allan Edwards and Cephas Parcels took him to Dr. Munro, who found no bones broken, but the young man has a very sore back.

Mrs. Fred Crowe and little daughter spent a few days with her father the beginning of this week.

Tax day for Warsaw is December 7, about a week earlier than usual.

The Warsaw cheese patrons' annual meeting will be held in the factory on Friday next at 2 p.m.

Miss Lobb is staying with Mrs. J. A. Crowe.

Miss Dorothy Payne is home with her mother, Mrs. Arthur Payne, who has not been well for some weeks.

Rev. Mr. Walker led the Bible Study Class which was quite well attended, and held at Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Payne's home on Wednesday evening. Next Wednesday the meeting will be at J. A. Crowe's home when Rev. Mr. Walker will again lead.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

Let your Christian citizenship be worthy of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.—Phil. 1; 27 R.V.

Have you the historic sense? It is the gift of modern scholarship to our generation. It means that you throw yourself back in imagination to the days of long ago. Modern research has given us such vivid pictures of ancient times that we can thin kas they thought, and understand words and acts from their standpoint.

For instance, the word "citizenship." It was one of the most valued privileges of the past. It gave a man many rights. St. Paul on more than one occasion exercised that claim. In Philippi he had been scourged and thrown into the deepest dungeon. Next day the Roman magistrates personally came and invited the prisoners to leave, thankful that they would say nothing more about it.

Citizenship meant membership within a body. The Philippian Christians understood St. Paul's appeal: "Let your citizenship be worthy of the Gospel of Jesus Christ." It meant that they were to exercise their duties and privileges and let the world see and judge for themselves that these men who were turning the world upside down were not revolutionaries in the popular sense. Bishop Lightfoot, one of the masters of this epistle, reminds us that the word at this time refers to "public duties of a man as a member of a body."

It was a thrilling and protecting thought for a man of those days to call himself "a Roman Citizen." St. Paul would remind the Philippians that they were members of a greater Empire and of a more valued citizenship. They were members of the Kingdom of God.

Great emphasis was laid in the New Testament upon the privileges and duties of that citizenship. The Bible opens with the story of a couple in a garden; it closes with the vivid picture of "The Holy City, the New Jerusalem coming down from God out of Heaven" with its multitudes of citizens. One of the greatest books ever written was "The City of God" by St. Augustine during the breaking up of the Roman Empire. In those dark days of the middle ages many a great statesman received from it stimulating thought and help for the problems of his generation.

What does your Christian citizenship mean to you? Have you ever used it? Look for a moment at the Chief Citizen of that Holy City. He is a young man, a carpenter from Nazareth. He went up and down the land preaching of the coming of the Kingdom of God, which means citizenship to its members. How did He use His citizenship? He spent Himself for others. "I am come to seek and to save that which was lost" is His astonishing cry. Roman, Greek and Jewish citizens thought very little of the degraded and lost. Quietly He obeyed the voice of His Father and in so doing He knew He would arouse the hatred of the rulers of His church. Yet "He steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem" to die the death on the Cross. He knew He could only save men by offering Himself, the sinless One, for the sin of the world. "If any man will come after Me let him take up his cross and follow Me" is His clear command. Christian citizenship means following in the footsteps of the self denying Christ.

Have you gone to bed weary after tramping the streets looking up and helping someone who needs it? Have you poured out your soul in prayers and supplications for others? Has your soul been filled with the horror of the sins of others, and have you agonized before God for them? Have you united their sins with yours in confession before God? This is exercising your Christian citizenship. The world is only to be saved by self sacrifice.

Men did not love Rome because she was great, but she became great because they loved her.

This also must be your ideal. "The love of Christ constraineth me." Have you spent yourself for others? Only thus is your "citizenship worthy of the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

"CHRIST LOVED THE CHURCH AND GAVE HIMSELF FOR IT."

What Do We Believe Sermon Series Topic

Rev. J. H. Riddell, D.D., professor of systematic theology of Glasgow University has issued a book recently entitled "What We Believe." This book is an unofficial supplement to the "Short Statement of Doctrine" issued by the Church of Scotland a few years ago.

Dr. Riddell's book is being studied by theological leaders of the United Church of Canada in their work of preparing a brief modern statement of the beliefs of the United Church. Dr. E. W. Young will commence a series of morning addresses in St. Andrew's church on next Sunday entitled "What We Believe" and will use the Church of Scotland handbook as a background of his addresses.

In the evening a special service is arranged for the nurses in the city hospitals and their friends. This service will begin at 7.30 and will be followed by a social hour under the guidance of Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge. A similar service was held last year and the arrangements were taken up very enthusiastically by the members of the congregation.

Memorial Window To Rev. A. H. Going

The United Church Observer today reports the unveiling of a beautiful stained glass window in Zion United church, Hamilton, to the memory of Rev. Arthur H. Going and his wife, Margaret M. Hamil.

Mr. Going was a former pastor at Zion from 1910-14. The gift was made possible through a bequest of their daughter, Miss Ambia Lila Going, who was a teacher of art at the Peterborough Normal school for many years. Mr. Going resided in Peterborough following his retirement from the active clergy and died here a few years ago.

In her will, Miss Going requested that a friend of the family, Frank Carmichael, A. R. C. A., president of the Ontario College of Art, be commissioned to design a "Good Shepherd" window. The Zion trustee board complied and the resultant board compiled and the resultant work of its kind in Canada.

Rev. F. W. Dillstone All Saints' Visitor

A special visitor over this weekend in Peterborough will be the Rev. F. W. Dillistone, professor of Systematic Theology in Wycliffe College, Toronto. He has spent all of his ministerial life in college work, first of all in India. He has only been in Canada for a little over a year but has already made a very real place for himself. He was an associate and close friend of the late Bishop Taylor Smith, who was so well known to many people here by his frequent visits. Professor Dillistone will preach at the service of Holy Communion in All Saints' Church on Sunday morning and will address a combined meeting of young peoples Bible classes in the afternoon.

New Zealand is relaxing its restrictions on gasoline consumption by private automobiles.

Miss Anna McNeely spent the week-end with her cousins, the Misses Gladys and Phyllis Elmhirst, of Campbellford.

Messrs. Gerald Morton and Kenneth McNeely motored to Picton one day last week. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Morton and Marina, who spent the week there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Simpson and family, who spent the summer months here, have moved into Havelock for the winter.

Messrs. Philip Fitzpatrick and Joe Quinlan were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick and family of Asphodel.

Mr. Vilnef of Marmora, is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. Joe Lytle.

Messrs. Edward Simpson, Mansell Elliott and Miss Annie Elliott, spent an evening last week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Drain.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Buchanan and family spent the week-end with Mrs. Buchana's parents in Grey county.

Miss Marjorie Cross spent a few days this week the guest of Miss Anna McNeely.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McKay spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Warden Gardner and family.

Cavan Holds Fine Bazaar

CAVAN, Dec. 2.—(ENS).—A very successful bazaar was held in Cavan United church Sunday school rooms on Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the W.A.. A table selling baking and farm produce was in charge of Mrs. Ray Syer and Mrs. Melville Carr. Mrs. McCullough and Mrs. R. A. Sutton, at the apron and knitted goods table found ready sale for their wares. The fancy work table was in charge of Mrs. L. Pritchard and Norma Gillis. Mrs. McCullough was treasurer and received the fees for the sumptuous supper which was served later. The menu of chicken pies, pickles, jellies, biscuits and pies was much enjoyed. A good program followed. Rev. W. E. Honey was chairman; Mrs. N. Fee read 'An Old Sweetheart of Mine,' while Mrs. Brenton accompanied with appropriate music, played softly on the piano. Mrs. Brenton contributed two short readings, 'Little Baptiste' and 'She Liked Him Rael Weel' Stanley Sharpe sang, with accompaniment by Miss Jean Lough; Miss Malone gave a humorous reading; Rex and Frazer Carr contributed an instrumental duet and Frazer sang a solo Ralph Staples read a selection by Kipling.

The receipts were $60 from the afternoon and evening. Mrs. D. J. Hunter, president of the W.A., supervised and had a bevy of capable assistants.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

SPREADING THE GOOD NEWS
By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for December 3 is Matthew 10. The Golden Text being Revelations 22:17, "And let him that heareth say, Come.")

JESUS CALLED His disciples to Him and sent them on their way to preach the gospel to the Jews. "Not to the Samaritans, and not to the Gentiles," He said, but to the "lost sheep of the children of Israel."

It is interesting to learn what we can of the character of these men who had left all and followed Jesus, even to martyrdom. We cannot know much about them, but some things we do know.

Andrew, one of the first to be chosen, brought his brother Simon Peter. Jesus named him Peter, "the Rock," you remember. Peter is often referred to as Jesus' best beloved disciple. He did not always do right For instance, it was Peter who, after telling the Lord how much he loved Him, denied Him thrice. But Peter always suffered terribly after he had done wrong. He was evidently a lovable and impulsive man.

Too Eager for Honor

James and John, sons of Zebedee, were sometimes too eager for honor, but they loved the Master dearly. Philip was afraid to venture; Bartholomew or Nathaniel was never deceitful; Thomas always wanted to be sure. (You know the saying, "Doubtful Thomas.") And Matthew honored his Lord at a feast and wrote a book about Him. Thaddaeus, or Judas, son of James, asked Jesus an important question; Simon was a zealot and was dissatisfied with Roman rule; while Judas Iscariot was not to be trusted, for he betrayed his Master for money, although it brought him only unhappiness and he destroyed himself.

These men were Jesus' chosen companions. After calling them to Him he gave them advice and sent them out to spread the good news. They are not to be worried about their personal needs, for they are to go forth without silver, gold or brass for their purses. They are to have no scrip for their journey, "neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet staves: for the workman is worthy of his meat," Jesus told them. They are to go to any worthy person and be guests of the house. "And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it," He said. If they are not well received in a home, they are ordered to "shake the dust of it off their feet."

It will not be easy to preach the good tidings they are warned. They will probably be arrested and brought before judges, governors and kings, and may be scourged in the synagogues. But they must not fear, for "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall to the ground without your Father.

"But the very hairs of your head are numbered.

Fear Not

"Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows." Jesus knew well that his message of peace and good would not be well received, and that there would be much bitterness and quarreling over it. "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword.

"For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's foes shall be those of his own household."

Jesus must have said that sadly, knowing that it was true and must be told in fairness to the men He was sending out to spread the good news. And all through the centuries it has proved true that no subject has been so bitterly discussed as religion, even by people who profess to be His true followers. They have fought even over the interpretation of His words.

In conclusion, it is written in Isaiah 42:5-6, "Thus said God the Lord, He that created the heavens and stretched them out; He that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and the spirit to them that walk herein:

"I the Lord have called them in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light to the Gentiles."

Spreading the Good News — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 10

Jesus called to Him His twelve disciples and gave them power to heal the sick and to cast out unclean spirits. He gave them their orders, as it were, and sent them to "spread the good news."

He told them to go to the "lost sheep of the children of Israel," and preach, "The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." "What I tell you in darkness," He said, "that speak ye in light."

They were not to take any money or extra clothing with them, said Jesus, "for the workman is worthy of his meat." They were told to go to the house of whomever would receive them.

"Fear not," Jesus told the disciples, for as God careth for the sparrows He would care for them, for "ye are of more value than many sparrows."

Sending Notes To Stalin

President Roosevelt was angry when he was informed that Russia had moved against Finland. His first official move had been to offer to act as mediator. That failed. His next was to send a message expressing hope that neither Finland nor Russia would shell centres of population. That failed, although how or where he expected Finland to do any shelling was not stated.

Reporters on the spot tell that Russia has been driving planes over Finland and machine gunning people on the open roads.

Mr. Roosevelt may protest some more. He probably has done so already.

The protesting business appears to be out of date. Stalin is well aware that Washington is thousands of miles removed from Moscow. He knows too that Washington has not the least intention of stepping into the front line to demand that open murder shall cease. Stalin knows that after one stiff note from Washington the worst he can expect will be another. And they will hurt him not in the least.

Finland Has No Choice

Reports, although confused, indicate that Finland is forming a new government which is favorably inclined toward Russia. Just how or why such a government should look with any degree of favor upon anything which comes from Moscow is one of the mysteries of the day.

The explanation may well be that Finland had no option which she could exercise. That little land could not fight Russia for any length of time; it did not have the men or the machinery. Man for man the Finns are undoubtedly better, but there are too many Russians and too few Finns. It actually comes down to a matter of mathematics in the business of slaughter.

If there is a new government which will do as Moscow says then it is proper to believe it came into existence to save the people of Finland from being wiped out.

Some day it may penetrate through the thick skull of official Berlin that Germany has encouraged the spread of communism through Poland and the independent states of the Baltic and is now helping to spread the same thing in Finland. There is a big bill being incurred and Berlin will some day have to pay by fighting the very thing which its nitwits are today encouraging.

"Listen To God"

Moral rearmament is something about which much has been said but when the basic idea had been changed to the simple words "Listen to God" it became easier to understand what it was all about. In Britain 250 Lord Mayors and Mayors issued a proclamation asking their people to join at the week-end in special services and devotions for that purpose. Actually it is something which need not be undertaken at the week-end any more than at any other season. It's an everyday occupation.

Scotland, essentially a land of Christian thought, has been deeply moved by this new appeal. Major-General the Earl of Athlone, uncle of George VI., is making use of the wide services of the British Broadcasting Corporation, to give impetus to the idea.

It probably is correct to say that the times in which we live have pressed home the need for this wide appeal. In days of stress and uncertainty the natural inclination may be to go ahead and make our own plans. We draw upon our material resources and when these are placed under scrutiny or survey we believe we have strength. We feel we have a sufficiency to meet any situation which may develop, and within ourselves we can then denounce or praise as may seem good to us.

But that is not enough and there are thousands of people who today readily admit it, and now they are turning openly and unashamed to "Listen to God." Possibly it means they will have to keep quiet and search for guidance and direction, but they are on a straight path. We have not made such of a success of things in our own way, and the way in which that feeling is growing throughout the world—"Listen to God"—has gained such momentum that its presence becomes recognized. For a long time we have listened to everything else. "Listen to God" can be regarded as nothing less than a return of spiritual good health, where righteousness exalteth a nation.

Let's Have Peace At Home

There is a ripple on the surface at least about this business of knitting socks for soldiers. Norman Sommerville, head of the Red Cross Society, says he received a letter from Charlotte Whitton, director of the Canadian Welfare Council, in which she said that apprentices in knitting should not practice on the feet of fighting men. Let the starters experiment on the feet of relatives and friends first.

Mr. Sommerville didn't like it. Not a bit. He said the socks which are coming from the Red Cross, washed, ironed and pre-shrunk, are a credit to any organization. He went a little deeper to say that to question the quality of the knitting was nothing short of a slander on Canadian women.

So there you have it. There is something to admire about the manner of the lady who can click away with the needles and talk to friends at the same time. She can turn the heel without batting an eyelash and taper the toe with a technique born of long experience.

But the young thing who starts is bound to blunder. We have a feeling the first heel would not be as deftly inserted as the fiftieth and probably that is what Miss Whitton had in mind when she made her comment. In the interests of peace within our own borders we suggest that Mr. Sommerville might have been a little quick on the trigger when he said the women of Canada were being slandered.

In The Day's Work

There was sufficient evidence of the danger which a correspondent faces when Lynn Heinzerling was sending out his material from Helsingfors at the time of the Russian attack. He is the resident correspondent there of the Associated Press, and was using the phone to Copenhagen as the point from which his message would be forwarded.

The telephone conversation was interrupted and the correspondent explained "A bomb has just fallen outside and people are running." But he continued with his work.

A few moments later there was more noise and the A.P. man said it was another bomb and quite close; the third break came when the sirens of ambulances were heard. In between times he explained that fires could be seen breaking out in the vicinity. He was telling one story while many others were being made close to him. In order to get them all he would need to do would be to take a chance with bombs and fire. Not exactly pleasant being a correspondent in the war zone.

As It Was On The Tenth

We read the other day about a new church building, and there was some discussion regarding how high the windows should be. The contention was advanced they ought to be high enough from the floor that people sitting in the pews would not be able to see anything on the outside. Having low windows would detract attention from the service generally, and would make it harder for the minister.

Probably there is truth in that view, but we recall a time when we had no patience with it. In the church on the corner of the Tenth Concession and the Broken Front Road the windows were made that way. When little folk sat in the family pew on Sunday the service seemed to last a long time. It was not considered right to turn around and try and count how many were there. Grandfather frowned on any commotion in the family pew, and anything on which grandfather frowned was ruled out without the opposition ever having a chance to present its case.

The windows had pieces of red and green glass along the side and on the sunny side there were blinds which could be pulled up from the bottom to shut out the glare. That made it worse than ever because one could then see only the clouds and spend a little time figuring if there was going to be a change in the weather.

In the still moments one could hear a horse and buggy go by on the road outside, but you couldn't very well tell who might be in it. Had it been possible to turn around and look it might have been easy enough to account for the occupants of the buggy by noting the absentees. McGregor's farm was on the opposite corner to the church and his corn field and part of his bushland would be visible if only the church windows had been lowered.

When they stood up to sing the hymns there used to be a habit of standing the little folk up on the seats. We have not seen it done lately, but it was rather a good idea. When one stood on the seat and if there were not too many adults to interfere with the line of vision then it was possible to see what was going on in the outside world. But it always seemed so arranged that no horse and buggy travelled along either the side road or the Tenth itself while the hymns of praise were being sung. It was always after one had become seated and could see nothing but the clouds that the horse and buggy went by and left the individual wondering who could be driving about during the time when respectable people should be sitting in the family pew. Whether the builders of the new church had something like that in mind when discussing the proper height for windows was not stated, but it used to be one of those unmentioned problems which suggested itself to the young mind on the Tenth, and for it there was never a satisfactory solution.

Security For Whom?

The tonnage of munitions made in recent years has been greater than at any time in the history of the world. In the name of security, but for whom? Certainly not for the little nations:

Ethiopia	Poland
Albania	Estonia
Austria	Latvia
Sudeten	Lithuania
Czecho-Slovakia	Finland

NOTE AND COMMENT

In the county jail at Sarnia there are three brothers and they will be there for Christmas. Sort of a family reunion.

One report, although not official, says Germany has been fortifying her portion of stolen Poland from the section which Russia stole. That seems likely as thieves seldom trust each other.

Several speakers have been telling listeners that Canada must begin to think of the future. Fine but the trouble is the average Canadian finds it difficult to thoroughly digest and understand what is going on day by day.

Man in court at Regina claimed he used to be a policeman in Austria and once arrested Hitler. Court should crack down severely on this man for failing to retain his prisoner.

Youth of 17 in Chatham was sent from the store where he worked to deposit $157 in the bank. Up to press time he had not returned and neither had the $157.

It is stated that one military defeat would crush the Nazis, and we have several critics and strategists in town who could tell exactly how this could be brought to pass.

Chicago man was arrested for walking down the middle of the road at night cheering for Hitler. As was to be expected, when they got him to the station it was found he was very drunk.

Unofficial claim is that the population of Kingston increased during the year by 892, so that's what came of taking the census on the day of the Royal visit.

From Stockton, California, come reports of a strike in the large celery beds where Filipino workers want their wages increased from 25 to 30 cents per hour, and at the moment we can think of no good reason for not making the change.

An insurance and a trust company are closing mortgages on Doukhobor lands in British Columbia. Possibly they will secure the land but it would be a waste of time looking over the premises for any old clothing.

British Columbia legislature is considering passing a law against taking straw votes prior to an election, the claim being they influence the electorate on polling day. Well—don't all the spellbinders in the province seek to do the same thing?

The Liberal organizer for the province of Quebec has been appointed chairman of the Liquor Board. Of course the fact that he was Liberal organizer in an election where his party was successful had nothing to do with the appointment.

MIGHT

(By A.H.K.)

¶ A little nation in this day, can never have the right of way, it's just plain out of luck; it's like a flivver on the road, that meets the one with heavy load, piled in a ten-ton truck.

¶ The flivver has the right to go, and all the laws would tell it so, it should go right ahead; the big truck though has got the weight, the little car can't travel straight, so takes the ditch instead.

¶ The driver of that little crate, may never yet suspect his fate, he thinks that he is right; he may be right as right can be, but then it's sadly plain to see, he hasn't got the might.

¶ The little flivver may protest, in point of law he wants a test, he'd take the case to town; the ten-ton truck is built so strong, that it just goes its way along, and mows the flivver down.

¶ A look around the world today, shows plainly that things run that way, makes little nations creep; like little flivvers that are right, and yet because they're small and light, they land up in a heap.

¶ The little nation wants to live, share happiness it has to give, it's neither strong nor rich; and just because it's rather small, it doesn't stand a chance at all—and ends up in the ditch.

• His Job and Pay Now Lacking

TO THE EDITOR of The Globe and Mail: There certainly is no consideration for men who have stood guard on the Welland Canal, and through a D or E rating have had to leave the army after they had volunteered their services. After two months or more of drilling and patrolling said canal in all types of weather with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets, on shifts of two hours on and four off, and in some cases two on and two off, as the case called for. Now we are no use to the Government and are out of work, while some of the men that are now replacing us have worked steadily over a long period of time, and in more than one case are property-owners and now have an added income. With all due respect to returned men that do need these jobs, we men with "D" or "E" ratings have had to sleep in wet blankets in cold weather, and many a day eat cold and greasy stew and meals. Stomachs upset by these meals helped to give us "E" ratings. We had no shacks to stand in out of the weather with a heater as they have now, and we did not have lunch pails with a choice of food or a chance to warm up a drink at 2 or 4 a.m., as they have now. Some had "E" for flat feet, some 1 inch under height, some hard of hearing. In my case a crooked arm which can lift a 100-pound dumbell overhead, but cannot be of use with a 9-pound rifle. All of us, in most case, having good bodies, we men are now walking the streets, and in most cases bitter with the Government. A lot signed up for overseas service, as I did. A few lean days in the past gave me a stomach that can be upset, but now, with a chance of a living wage and a chance of a balanced diet, through the wages of $96 per month as a guard, I am of no use to the Government. Hoping to see this in print for all of us "D's" and "E's" I thank you.

• The Bremen Is At Murmansk

SOME WEEKS AGO H. B. Elliston, financial editor of the Christian Science Monitor, started for Europe. He had his quota of adventure as the vessel on which he travelled was picked up by the British patrol. Now he is in Stockholm and writes saying the Bremen is in the Russian port of Murmansk.

In this war, says Mr. Elliston, Murmansk has taken the place of Przemysl or Mesopotamia as a war name to conjure with. It has become famous as the parking lot for sidetracked German vessels. Somewhere in Sweden—a country which marches with Norway and Finland almost into Murmansk's back yard—I have come across a person who has just been to this harborage in Arctic Russia. He tells me that it is alive with German craft.

Of course, I asked him about the Bremen. At Kirkwall a British bluejacket boasted that the British patrol on the Atlantic actually had watched the Bremen sail through the northern waters enroute for its Russian haven. Believe it or not! He explained that the British did not want the Bremen because such a big boat would take up too much space in a British harbor. "Let the Russians hold it for us," he said with typical British self-assurance. Held for the British or the Germans the Bremen anyway rests for the time being at Murmansk.

But Murmansk attained more notoriety as the temporary refuge of the City of Flint. And it was my informant's remarks about the City of Flint that interested me most. He knew a lot about it. Also he knew his international law and had a deep knowledge of the Russian and Bolshevist mentality.

You already know that the case of the City of Flint came under that part of international law known as the Hague Convention of 1907. Under this convention a belligerent may take a neutral boat into another neutral's harbor as a prize only for fuel, water, food, or repairs. The German excuse for putting in at Murmansk was that repairs were necessary to the City of Flint. Well, under Article 21 of the Hague Convention the Germans could stay at Murmansk long enough to make their prize seaworthy again.

There is no doubt that the City of Flint was perfectly seaworthy. Germany just imagined that in view of its alliance with Soviet Russia the boat could be parked at the Russian port along with the other craft indefinitely. In ordinary circumstances the Russians, having virtually sublet the harbor to the Germans, would not have made any trouble either. What amazed and confused them was the hullabaloo that broke out in America as soon as the American merchantman arrived.

The lack of any awareness of what might happen in America was regarded by my informant as Joseph Stalin's third miscalculation in the war. The other two made history too.

They were the failure to come to an agreement with Turkey and the inability to foresee the extent of Finnish resistance. (Incidentally this person, who happened to be in Moscow at the time said that the Turks put their fountain pens back in their pockets and went home because they were allowed to stay long enough to see such conditions in Russia as everlengthening bread queues and an Army down at the heels and poorly equipped.)

The third error was just as egregious. Mr. Stalin just could not understand why America should make a fuss about such a small matter as the City of Flint.

Mr. Stalin's confusion when he had gotten over his bewilderment was due to the fact that the American to-do put him on the spot. As A. P. Herbert might put it, how could he protest his neutrality and yet assist his co-belligerent? In this case he had to make up his mind that he could not both have his cake and eat it. Accordingly he insisted on making plausible the excuse of the City of Flint's arrival by giving orders that "repairs" should be undertaken at once. For the time being his neutrality was thus protected formally in the world's eyes. Then on the fourth day he ordered the Germans to take their prize out, repairs or no repairs.

Murmansk is a very cold and dreary port but it was very warm and exciting during those four days, I am told. Things hummed without cease. For it is wrong to think that Mr. Stalin was lethargic.

Nichevo is still a Russian excuse for doing nothing, but four days in speeding the departure of that hot potato was pretty fast even for the big boy of Russia.

STORY FOR RIPLEY

HERE'S a grain handling story for the book. It occurred at Dauphin, Manitoba, where a heavy grain crop is being shipped from the district. And the odds against the incident were thirty-three millions to one!

On August 29 four Canadian National Railways grain cars were loaded at Dauphin and routed to the Lakeshead elevators by the Manitoba Pool Elevator. On Sept. 7, within ten days, the same four cars were back under the spouts of the Dauphin elevator for a second load of grain. Records show C. N. cars numbered 504581, 503946, 507934 and 501113 took part in this amazing coincidence.

One of the statistical experts in the Canadian National car service department delved into figures and worked it out that the odds against such a quick repetition of the same four cars turning up at the same elevator within ten days worked out at 33,909,519,118,592 to one, believe it or not.—Canadian National Magazine.

THE DEATH SENTENCE

IF CAPITAL punishment is to be abolished, it should be by legislation and not by the exercise of executive clemency. The order commuting the death sentence of C. W. McDonald, who was convicted of the murder of his wife at Chatham, has nothing to commend it but the jury's usual recommendation to mercy.

The accused had lived on his wife until she was tired of supporting him, and when she turned him out he secured a gun and shot her to death in her beauty parlor. The jury was satisfied that the crime was murder without any of the mitigating circumstances which might reduce it to manslaughter.

In Canada, death is the only punishment a court can impose for murder. In comparison with countries where life imprisonment and pardons are substituted, our record for this type of crime is good. If executive clemency is to be exercised in such a crime as that in question, it must appear that murderers who are hanged are the victims of unfortunate accident. For the principal in this case, it means that after living on his wife for years he can live on his country for the rest of his life or until pardoned.—Toronto Telegram.

ANGUS WASN'T OUT

ONCE upon a time we did take a stand in a municipal election. The candidates were two Scots, one of whom was Angus. We decided that Angus had been reeve of the township long enough and we set out to defeat him. And he was defeated. Then a wise friend came to us and told us that while Angus was down, he was not out, and he would come back. We laughed at him, but we were to learn our lesson. Angus beat our friend at the very next election, and our friend took it so hard that he sold his farm and moved West.

And we were left alone with Angus. And we wanted the township printing. And there was nothing for us to do, but to go and ask Angus for it.

Angus met us with a funny little smile on his broad face. Inwardly he was chuckling all over. But without any hesitation he shook our hand and said the printing was ours.—Treaton Courier-Advocate.

Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have comanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Amen.—Matt. 28 18-20.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Too Difficult

When one of the local pastors was informed that his salary had been increased $300 by his congregation, he replied: "I refuse to accept it; I've enough trouble already, trying to collect my present salary."

Some Problem

A man called on the news editor of a local paper and announced that his uncle had been taking the paper for 55 years.

"That's fine," said the news editor; "I hope he'll continue to do so."

"Oh, yes, he will. I want to tell you about him. He has always been a model of propriety. He has never been mixed up with women. He indulges in no vices and no excesses. And tomorrow he will celebrate his 80th birthday."

"How?" asked the news editor.

WHEN LIONS ROAR

THE LOUDNESS of a noise is measured in decibels, just as heat is measured in degrees on a thermometer. With a meter that enables him to measure anything from the thunder of a railway train over a trestle to the piping of a canary, Walter Mikelson, General Electric engineer, has been going to places where noises are made. Tops, he found, was the crash of artificial lightning in the G. E. exhibit at the New York World's Fair and the blast of a locomotive whistle. Both ran to 125 decibels. Growls of Frank Buck's black-maned lion were good for 115 at two feet, but California sea lions, some cockatoos and a pair of macaws scored 115 also. The bellowing of a prize Holstein bull and the trumpeting of an Asiatic elephant made the needle swing to 110. WHAT KIND OF PEACE?

THE declared purpose of the last war was defeated. Since 1935 international law has been flouted more shamelessly than it was before 1914, and small states have been less secure. It is clear, then, that it is not enough now to tell the world that it is our purpose to put international law on a firm basis and to secure the liberties of Europe. How do we propose to save the world from a second catastrophic disappointment? We have told Germany that we have no quarrel with the German people and that there will be no second Peace of Versailles. We may hope that this means not only that we do not desire anything like a vindictive peace but also that we recognize that the reconstruction of Europe must be attempted this time on much larger lines. — Manchester Guardian.

Hope For Relief

Cleveland's unemployed face an uncertain future, with relief funds entirely exhausted until the first of January. Ontario Begins Forests Probe

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — As the special committee of the Ontario Legislature appointed to inquire into lands and forests Department deals sat for the first time today, Col. George Drew, Conservative leader indicated that he proposed a thorough scrutiny of the department's relations with the bankrupt Lake Sulphide Company and the Abitibi Power and Paper Company reorganization.

Outlining the course which he suggested the committee should follow, Col. Drew said his hope was that a clear, long range policy for administration of Ontario's forest resources could be defined. But in order to do that, he said, it was necessary to learn how the "dictatorial powers" of the minister of lands and forests had been exercised in the past.

He admitted that the cabinet had to pass on the minister's decisions but he held that the real power was the minister and that "a wink from the minister is as good as a nod from the whole cabinet."

Hon. Paul Leduc, minister of mines, is chairman of the nine-man committee. The original membership was 10 but the absence of Hon. Colin Campbell was forced by his enlistment in the army.

When the Legislature assembles in January the committee will request that Mr. Campbell be replaced.

Following Col. Drew's announcement he would first like to question Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, the committee adjourned to assemble again January 12, two days after the Legislature opening.

The committee agreed with Col. Drew's suggestion that he should first pursue his enquiries into the Abitibi Company and subsequently into the Lake Sulphide deal.

Seaway Discussions Under Way In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP).—Discussions continued here Thursday between water power experts of the Dominion Government and Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, on the St. Lawrence Deep Waterways project.

A government spokesman said the discussions ranged over the technical and financial details of the proposed agreement with the United States to develop a deep sea channel through the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes and exploit the Hydro-Electric resources of the inland waterway system.

No forecast has been made officially by the Federal government as to when it might be possible to reopen negotiations with the United States.

So far as has been made public there have been no formal exchanges with Washington on this subject since May, 1938, when the United States government sent a fresh basis for negotiation to Ottawa.

It is believed that a basis for agreement, so far as Ontario is concerned, will be reached shortly after which the Federal government will again take up the question with the United States.

Lake Shipping Busy As Weather Holds

TORONTO, Dec. 2—(CP)—Favored by unusually mild weather for this time of year, Great Lakes shipping continued to move normally today despite the first increase in insurance rates, which annually goes into effect the first day of December.

The forecast was for continued mild weather with occasional rain.

A dozen vessels reported in and out of Toronto harbor overnight and shipping movements were normal throughout the Great Lakes. Heavy shipments of wheat and steel have kept the lake boats busy for some time and although wheat shipments have fallen off since lower lake elevators became jammed many cargoes still await shipment through the St. Lawrence canals.

Boats which cleared harbor before midnight last night got in under regular insurance rates but winter rates apply from today to Dec. 12, after which there will be no insurance.

Some of the lake vessels are expected to be transferred to Atlantic trade when the navigation is finally halted by winter conditions.

Finland plans to establish a special ministry to deal with labor problems.

Air Force Fliers Learn How To Bomb Practicing On Moving Pictures

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TRENTON, Ont., Dec. 2—(CP).—With the aid of ingenious devices, bomb aimers of the Royal Canadian Air Force learn their art before they ever let a bomb drop from an aircraft. They even know a good deal about it before they go up in the air.

In the air armament school at the R.C.A.F. station here the bomb timers start their work indoors. Their first practice is attempting to hit objectives on a moving picture designed to reproduce exactly the conditions experienced in bombing operations.

The initial bomb aimer teaching machine occupies three floors in a building. On the bottom floor is a canvas screen. On the second the bomb aimer student lies on his stomach as a bomb aimer does in an aircraft ready to release his imitation projectile. Above, through the next floor points a projector, from which the picture is cast on the screen below.

Attached to the projector is machinery which tilts it and regulates its speed so that the picture moving over the screen resembles the ground as seen from a moving aircraft. In the practice training the bomb aimer is stationary and the target moves. In the real thing the target is stationary and the bomb aimer moves. The effect is the same.

Every effort caused in actual flight by a dive, a turn, a tilt of the rudder, can be reproduced by a shift in the projector and the student can see exactly how close he comes to his target a few feet below him. It is only a few feet below but in appearance it is the same as a real target in actual flight several thousand feet below.

Uses Flash Bulbs.

Through a hole in the roof a camera-like device is fitted. Below the lense is a round table with a nail in the centre. When a photo flash bulb is flashed in a plane travelling over the building the light is directed to the table. An instructor or another student marks the location of each flash as it strikes the table.

If the bomb aimer releases his bulb at the moment proper for a direct hit on the building if he were using bombs, the light will flash on the nail. Gradually, with practice, by noting the results he achieves, the bomb aimer improves his aim by bringing his flashes closer to the nail.

Real practice bombing usually takes place on water some distance from the air station. There too the bomb aimer has an absolute check on his accuracy. The practice bombing range has four observation towers and a floating target made of cork and capable of standing a blast from the smaller practice bombs.

Observers Check Up.

As a bomb hits the water the observers in the four towers which are connected by telephone calculate its location and its distance from the target. Practice bombs contain a light charge of explosive, enough to throw up a spurt of water and make a bit of smoke.

Wind direction and velocity are important factors in bombing accuracy. During day-time operations a smoke float is dropped on the water. This throws up smoke and by observing the effect of the wind on the smoke the bomber can judge the velocity and direction of the wind. For night operations a flame float, created by dropping a certain chemical on the water serves the same purpose.

Trenton air station is one of the permanent air training schools in Canada. Camp Borden is another important air training centre. Soon there will be many more for the purpose of preparing Canadian, British, New Zealand and Australian airmen in increasing numbers for service in the present conflict.

Preliminary training for flying officers takes place in civilian flying clubs and intermediate training at Camp Borden, near Barrie, Ont.

By the time pilots reach Trenton they usually have their "wings," the symbol of ability to fly with a reasonable degree of perfection. Here they learn about flying in formation and the more precise application of general principles already imparted.

The air station is on the shore of Lake Ontario, providing facilities for sea planes as well as land planes. Barrack and administration buildings are all modern and fire-proof.

ORFUNS TAKE CAGE LOOP LEAD WITH A WIN OVER WESTCLOX

Aces Beat Y Gym As Debs Lose To The Saints

Quaker Aces rallied in the last half to defeat 'Y' Gym 14-10 after trailing 8-7 at the half; St. John's drubbed Quaker Debs 20-4 and Orfuns trounced Westclox 24-11 in last night's Ladies Basketball League triple-header in the Y. W. C. A. gym.

The results tightened-up the league standing which now shows Orfuns in first place, four teams tied in the cellar.

'Y' Gym faded in the final half after being ahead in the first period and Quaker Aces climaxed an uphill battle by jumping into the lead near the end to win 14-10. The shooting of both teams was below par and either could have changed the result by taking better advantage of their scoring chances. It was fast and hard throughout with Aces being called 7 times on fouls and the losers 8. Aces made but 2 tries and 'Y' Gym could score not once in 7 chances. H. Rutter lead the winners with 7 points and R. Dalliday headed 'Y' Gym with 6. The teams.

Quaker Aces:— D. Weese, S. Alexander, M. Duncan, J. Fowler, M. Sullivan, A. Grady, P. Lawless, V. Wood, M. Horton, H. Rutter.

'Y' Gym:— B. DeMaio, I. Young, B. Flynn, S. Zacks, R. Dalliday, F. Craig, B. Pomeroy, S. Zakos, R. Sullivan, S. Florence, F. Wesley.

Referee:—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire:—J. Cooper.

St. John's put on a good offensive display in both halves, to out-play Quaker Debs and take a 20-4 victory, gaining an 11-2 margin in the initial half and adding to it in the final period. The winners had better passing and more consistent checking than the Quaker team. Quaker Debs had 7 fouls called against them and the winners were guilty of 8. Each team made 2 chances. A. Bowler lead the winners with 6 points and H. White with the losers one field goal was their top scorer. The teams:

St. John's:—A. Bowler, E. Clark, V. Douglas, E. Foster, T. Laws, J. Castle, D. Groomsbridge.

Quaker Debs. — B. Fenner, R. Farr, H. White, B. Frizzelle, J. Metcalfe, G. Allen, D. Gibbs, A. Laing, D. Smith.

Refere:—H. Smith. Umpire:—W. Thirnbeck.

Orfuns scored another decisive win, beating Westclox 24-11 to gain undisputed possession of first place in the league standing. They took a 12-5 lead in the first half and almost duplicated it in the last half, out-scoring the Alarm maidens 12-6 to clearly earn the win. Orfuns were guilty of 14 fouls to the losers 9, the winners making 2 throws and Westclox dropping in 5. R. Thompson paced Orfuns with 6 points and A. Flynn led Westclox with 4. The teams:

Orfuns:—A. Livingston, M. Ferguson, G. Mortimer, D. Ackford, B. Blade, M. Clark, M. Wood, R. Thompson, A. Craig.

Westclox:—J. Hair, M. McFadden, V. Britnell, M. Goldie, N. Pammett, B. Saunders, C. Metcalfe, A. Flynn, P. Wolstenholme, J. Crowe, I. Vivash.

Referee:— K. Gillespie. Umpire—H. Smith.

City Carpetball

Since our last week's report we find nine games out of 11 have been won by double-headers and not one drawn game.

The best showing of the week was the lowly No. 9 who until last week had only won one game in 16 starts and then came along to beat the top notchers two straight and followed up by licking the S.O.E. a double. This boosts them out of the cellar position for a day or so at least.

The Curtis Brick Yard gang also went down losing 5 games in the last six.

The teams are trying to catch up with their back games and the schedule this week is twisted around a little to help same.

The results:

B.E.S.L. No. 9 15-17 v. B.E.S.L. No. 8 11-6.

St. Luke's No. 1 20-13 v. S.O.E. No. 3 7-4.

L.O.L. No. 6 12-6 v. St. Luke's No. 1 5-10.

L.O.L. No. 5 7-11 v. St. Andrew's No. 11 16-9.

P.F.D. No. 15 13-11 v. Trinity No. 12 8-10.

S.O.E. No. 4 15-13 v. St. Luke's No. 1 7-9.

P.F.D. No. 15 13-17 v. B.E.S.L. No. 7 7-7.

P.F.D. No. 14 22-17 v. L.O.L. No. 6 8-10.

Bonnerworth No. 13 8-9 v. St. Luke's No. 2 15-14.

Schedule for Week.

Monday, December 4—P.F.D. No. 16 v. P.F.D. No. 14.

Tuesday, December 5 — S.O.E. No. 4 v. Trinity No. 12; B.E.S.L. No. 9 v. St. Luke's No. 1.

Wednesday, December 6 — St. Luke's No. 2 v. P.F.D. No. 14; St. George's No. 10 v. L.O.L. No. 5; St. Andrew's No. 11 v. B.E.S.L. No. 8; Bonnerworth No. 13 v. S.O.E. No 3.

Thursday, December 7— S.O.E. No. 3 v. P.F.D. No. 15; B.E.S.L. No. 8 v. St. Luke's No. 2; P.F.D. No. 16 v. Trinity No. 12.

Friday, December 8—S.O.E. No. 4 v. Bonnerworth No. 13; L.O.L. No. 6 v. B.E.S.L. No. 7.

Skips please make certain regarding last game listed.

Results for teams 4 v. 11 and 6 v. 13 have not been received and the first named will be rescheduled next week if no results are received by Friday noon.

All teams should have copies of schedule by this time, and we hope that any adjustments needed the secretary a few days in advance.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Doug Miller informs us there will be the annual windup meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club on Tuesday night. It's at seven bells in the Dominion Life office on Hunter street, and is open to players and the club officers. The financial statement for the year will be presented at this time. Don't know anything regarding the election of officers, but probably it's just to wind up the 1939 season's business. Lacrossers had a pretty fair season in a good grouping, though not as successful as the previous year—when they copped O.L.A. senior "B" honors. They've got good grounds, a big following, a live executive, possibility of a compact group, but the team needs some rebuilding ere play starts in 1940.

* * * * * *

Another meeting is listed for early in the week, also, the men's City Basketball Loop re-organizing at a gabfest Monday p.m. at seven in the Y.M.C.A. Those interested should be on deck. Team entries will be made and general plans for the coming cold spell lined up. This lively cage loop proves plenty interesting alike to players and fans during the winter months and some top-notch basketball is seen. The gals and guys jam the "Y" gym balcony —one substantial enough to hold a flock of Juliets!—every Saturday eve as the bounce-'em boys battle it out on the floor below.

No Coach Yet

Manager Hap Wilgar is still wating for the Hockey Club to appoint a coach for the junior "B" Colts, and this will likely be done next week. Then, too, the Colts will know their grouping and maybe their schedule for the 1939-40 season. There'll be 15 players signed from 20 or more prospects including nine Colts of last winter and seven ex-Monarchs. While no positions will be known in advance, one can always make a good guess as to several sure-thing prospects. We look for a good junior season this winter with the speedy young Colts making the senior "B" Petes step to edge 'em on fan interest.

* * * * * *

The gent who did the broadcasting down at the Orfuns' home grid games the past fall is Bill Jackson—former coach of the Colts and now a vice-prexy and manager of the Petes' pucksters. It may not be generally known but Bill was a pilot in the British air force last war. Signed up in his teens and saw active service the last part of the brawl. So active, in fact, that he was wounded in the arm and had to make a forced landing behind the German lines, spending the last several months of the war a prisoner of Germany! At that, Bill was lucky enough to land in one hunk on enemy terrain—his safety-belt snapping as he struck ground and Bill being tossed clear of the cockpit. We learned this from a friend of his and thought we'd pass it on to the younger element—maybe the vice-prexy of the Hockey Club will give us the details some time re his imprisonment, return, etc.

Cutting 'Em Down

Following a lively senior "B" drill in Oshawa last twilight, the Petes' squad was whittled down to 16 players — and one more is gonna get the axe next week. Then the 15 players will be signed for the season. Ray Harding and Earl McNabb are the goalies, with five defencemen being picked from Don Crowe, Jack Gardner, Drake Jopling, Jim Ellis, Les Burton and Dude Brady. One forward line has Art Heal, Eddie Starr and Don Coughlin. The other consists of Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon and Joe Blewett. Two extra forwards are Jack Jopling and Cliff Cadd. First casualty of the season occurred last p.m. when Blewett had his lip cut and a tooth knocked loose in a scramble. Petes looked okay, with Jim Ellis bumping incoming puckists around in hearty fashion. Locals may have an exhibition game next week. They practice again on Tuesday eve.

Trenton Fliers nosed out Belleville, 2 to 1, last night in a VanHorne Cup scres struggle in Kingston. The Airmen have another goalie, named Dave Driscoll—who had a trial with Canadiens in 1938; and a forward from Saskatoon by the name of Giddergold. We learn from the Quinte sheet that recruits are pouring into the Fliers' camp so fast now that Coach Toots Holway is having a separate practice in Kingston on Monday solely for new players. No less than 20 new guys have arrived at the Airport recently who claim they're hockey players. Yep, the Fliers will undoubtedly have a classy senior "B" squad this semester. We fear.

Whole Loop Shifts

After 11 years at the old All Saints' rink site on Monaghan Road, the Church Puck Loop has to move this winter. It'll likely follow the rink to the new site on Monaghan Road south of Prince of Wales School. The circuit has enjoyed continued success for 20 years and expects another big entry of 20 teams or so this winter. Annual meeting is Dec. 11th in the "Y" at seven p.m. when officers will be elected and the usual lengthy discussion on rules held. Schedule should start a few days after Xmas. Churches represented in this loop last year were: Mark St., St. John's, George St., Murray St., Trinity, St. Paul's, All Saints, Knox and Park St. These churches—as well as St. James, St. George's, St. Luke's and St. Andrew's—are requested to have delegates on deck at the meeting.

Four teams are bunched tightly in second place after last evening's Girls' Basketball League triple-header at the Y.W.C.A. Orfuns are atop the heap, with both Quaker squads, St. John's and "Y" Gym in a second-place cluster. Westclox are trailing. The Aces last e'en jerked out a 14-10 verdict o'er the Gym dandies —how're we doin' girls?—whilst St. John's swept through Quaker Debs for a 20-4 decision. With the powerful Orfuns doing a 24-11 chore on the Alarm Maidens. Plenty of keen action served up for the customers in this trio of cage tilts.

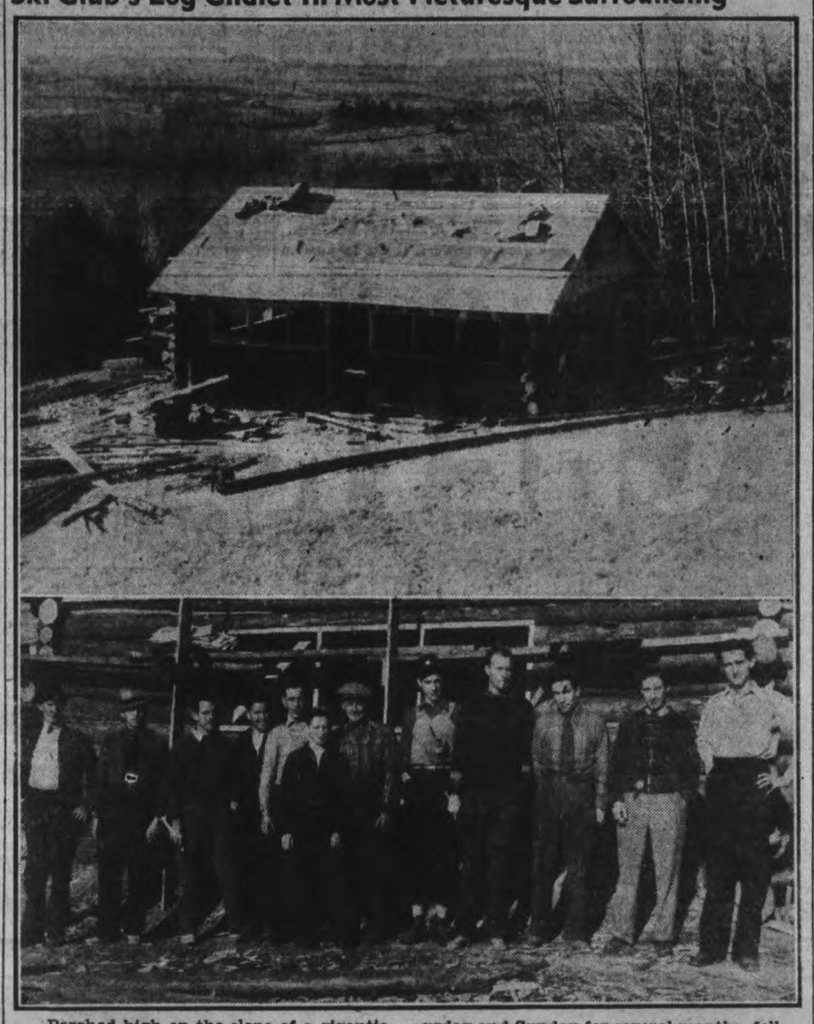
Ski Club's Log Chalet In Most Picturesque Surrounding



Perched high on the slope of a gigantic ski-hill near Bethany, this picturesque cedar log chalet is now almost completed and will afford Peterborough Ski Club members a warm retreat this winter. Overlooking a vast area of country, the new clubhouse is scant yards away from the slalom and downhill ski courses. Members of the club have been working every Saturday and Sunday for several months, felling trees and squaring logs for the purpose. At BOTTOM is a group of many of the regular workers. From LEFT to RIGHT, they are: Ev. Holland, Don Shiner, George Cook, Otto Laderach, Jack Holland, Spike Matthews, Fred King, Gerry Dawson, Toby Westbye, Bob White, Graham Eastwood and Gerry Duffus. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

New Chalet Will Afford Picturesque Retreat

Peterborough Ski Club members are preparing for the most active season in their entire history this winter, and have almost completed a new chalet at Bethany, where increasingly more skiing activity will be seen. Strategically placed high on the slope of a gigantic ski-hill, the new chalet will afford a picturesque retreat when snow falls deep about it.

Following many years of success mixed with adversity, the club succeeded this year in financing the building of this much needed clubhouse. The long chalet has been constructed on 100 acres of the finest skiing territory between Fort William and Ottawa, leased by the club at Bethany from Harry Obrian. It was built of cedar logs cut on the property by club members on weekends this summer and fall. The original intention was to build it out of finished lumber but instead, the members decided to cut the logs on the property in the same fashion as done by their forefathers throughout this part of the country, thereby giving the building a pioneer atmosphere. Fred King and Jack Holland remained on the scene throughout the entire period of construction, the members assisting on week-ends and during the week whenever possible. With the opening of the skiing season, the club plans to hold a gala open house in the new chalet to which the entire public is cordially invited.

In addition to the Bethany property, the club also operates at Jackson Park, mainly in connection with the junior section which, this year, is the largest and most active the club has ever had. Last year, this section numbered some sixty young enthusiasts between the ages of five and fifteen. This year under the able direction of Miss Lahring Parsons and Bob White, a much larger section is anticipated. Instructions for juniors are held every Saturday at Jackson Park, the cost of which is included in the junior membership fee.

The property at Nassau, also operated by the club, is well known for the spectacular jumping meets held on the Class 'A' jump. The hill at Nassau is lighted for night skiing and is popular during the week for this reason.

Senior instructions are in the able jurisdiction of Jack Holland. Classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday evening at Victoria Park.

During the next two weeks, everyone interested in skiing will have the opportunity to take advantage of the facilities offered by the ski club by taking out a membership. The present members have been organized to acquaint those interested in joining with the activities and advantages which the organization has to offer during the ensuing winter. The club is certain that the 1939-40 skiing season will be the biggest and best ever in history. Exclusive of the chalet, the executive is working feverishly on an added feature for Bethany which, in all probability will be completed for this season, and will make the club property there the finest skiing centre in Ontario.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

HEC KILREA
Detroit Redwings

(By Central Press Canadian.)

Next to Hooley Smith the player with the longest record of service in the National League is Hec Kilrea, who broke in with Ottawa Senators in 1926, and this year, his fifteenth, is serving as utility forward for Jack Adams' Red Wings, a role he filled in fine style last season. He and Smith are the only survivors in the N.H.L. of the 1927 Ottawa Stanley Cup champions. Hec comes from a hockey-playing family, and this year was joined on the Wings by his youngest brother, Kenny. Another brother, Wally, has also seen service in the major league. A smooth, effortless skater, who once won a speed test conducted for hockey players at Montreal Forum, Kilrea can still turn it on, and is one of the league's best while playing with his team short-handed. Only 17 years old when he made his debut with Nighbor, Denneny, Connell, and the rest of the great Ottawa stars. Spent first six years in the Capital, then moved to Detroit when the Senators suspended operations in 1931-32. Back to Ottawa for its farewell year in the N.H.L., then two years with Toronto, before again being bought by Detroit in 1935-36. Scored 36 goals 10 seasons ago, and in his career has accounted for 168, with 120 assists.

Thomas Refuses To Answer Questions; No Evidence Of Fight Being Irregular

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP)—Question of whether the New York State Athletic Commission had "one single shred of evidence" to show that "the Harry Thomas-Max Schmeling fight two years ago was irregular came up yesterday at the commission's investigation of Thomas' statement that the bout was "fixed."

Sol Strauss, attorney for promoter Mike Jacobs, asked the question during an argument with General John J. Phelan, the commission's chairman. The commission made no direct answer to the question before closing its session and continuing the hearing until next Tuesday.

The investigation is the result of Thomas' statement in Chicago that his bouts with both Schmeling and Tony Galento, the latter in Philadelphia a year ago, were "fixed." The New York Commission is interested only in the Schmeling fight which was held here.

Thomas was called as a witness at the last session of the investigation but refused to answer any questions concerning the bout on the grounds such answers might "incriminate and degrade" him.

Goodyears Win

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 — (AP). —Toronto Goodyears of the Ontario Amateur Hockey Association defeated Washington Eagles of the Eastern United States Amateur League 4 to 1 in an exhibition game here last night.

It was the third triumph of the Toronto team since coming to the United States last week. Their other Eastern League victims were River Vale and Baltimore.

Badminton Players Hold Round Robin

HAVELOCK, Dec. 2.—(ENS)— A lively round-robin of mixed doubles, a pot-luck supper and business meeting were all included on the program last evening as the Havelock Badminton Club assembled at the local court. Playing from 7 to 10.30 p.m. the members then retired to the council chamber for refreshments.

It was decided that for the month of December the group system would be abolished, all members being free to play at any period on either Tuesday or Thursday evenings. Arrangements will be made to pair the players for tournament play, and it was proposed that either the Campbellford or Hastings badminton clubs be invited here, within the next few weeks.

President Bert Harvett was appointed to interview the council to obtain their permission to have the town hall floor cleaned weekly. Due to the number of dances which are being held, the floor has become so slippery that it is extremely dangerous for badminton.

Bombers May Leave For East Earlier

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Manager Joe Ryan of Winnipeg Blue Bombers said last night the Western Football Champions may leave tonight for eastern Canada to complete training there for the December 9 national final.

A sudden drop in the temperature and a light snowfall caused Bombers to reconsider plans to wind up training here and leave for the east Wednesday.

"Should we decide to leave for the east immediately we will finish training at either Toronto or Hamilton but have not decided definitely yet," Ryan said.

Fight Abandoned As New Rule For Ring Passed

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP)— The Henry Armstrong-Lou Ambers bout for the world welterweight championship was definitely abandoned yesterday and with it went all chance that a boxed will ever again match Armstrong's feat of dominating three weight divisions as titleholder.

After hearing from Promoter Mike Jacobs that he was cancelling the fifteen-round welterweight go which had been scheduled for last night and postponed because of Armstrong's ill health, the New York State Athletic Commission revealed it was amending its rules so that never again could a fighter hold the title in more than one weight division at a time.

"To prevent such mixups as now confront us," General John J. Phelan, the commission chairman, announced "we are going to make it impossible for a fighter to hold the championships in two weight classes at the same time. We are amending our rules so that an individual holding a championship in one class will not be permitted to enter a title bout with the champion of another class unless he relinquishes the championship he holds."

OSHAWA GENERALS BEATEN IN S. P. A. FINAL BY NATIVE SONS

Winning Goal Is Scored In Last Seconds

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Toronto Native Sons tossed another one of their hockey bombshells into junior ranks last night when they upset Oshawa Generals, Memorial Cup champions, by a 4 to 3 count to win the S.P.A. Junior "A" Trophy for the first time in the club's history.

Not conceded much chance against the high-powered Dominion champions, the Sons, with only three players on the squad boasting previous experience in "A" hockey, stuck to their guns valiantly, playing inspired hockey to check Generals into submission, and somehow managed to win out in a game that left a crowd of 1,000 fans limp with excitement.

The Shining Hour for the Sons almost slipped away. After doggedly protecting a 3 to 2 lead for 18 minutes of the final session, the Toronto kids handed Oshawa the tying goal on a platter when Hodgson knocked the puck into his own net after a rush and shot by Roy Sawyer. But, with Lady Luck still smiling in their direction, the persistent Natives came right back and with only 11 seconds of play remaining, Scandrett's attempted passout from behind the Oshawa net struck Goalie McManus' skates and bounced into the net for the pay-off goal.

That goal and one scored a split-second before the end of the second period, were the two big breaks that spelled success for the Sons. Referee Bert McCaffrey ruled a goal on a shot by Allan Percival that hit the net as the blue light, signalling the end of the period, flashed on. Oshawa protested bitterly but futilely against McCaffrey's decision.

To realize their first major hockey success after years of striving, the Sons had to come from behind, conceding Oshawa the only goal of the first period when George Ritchie broke through on a relay from Wally Wilson. Paced by Chick Webster, one of the cleverest juniors in the game, the Toronto team took advantage of a penalty to Nick Knott to tie the score, Webster netting, and 40 seconds later assumed the lead when Percival picked up a rebound and drove it home. Sloppy defensive work enabled Oshawa to tie the score a minute later, Norm McAtee being the marksman. Percival gave the Sons the edge with his goal at the end of the period.

Sheer perseverance on the part of the Natives, plus the acrobatic and sensational netminding of Alex Clow guided the Sons through the first 18 minutes of the final frame without mishap. During that time, Generals were ever pressing and relentless. Twice Norm McAtee hit the post. A third time he shot high over an empty net. Nick Knott, too, hit the post.

Frankie Eddolls, Oshawa defenseman, was chased with two minutes to go for bringing down Webster. A penalty shot awarded Sons on the play was missed by Percival. With a man edge, the Sons appeared safe to protect their lead, but Sawyer broke loose, and with the unwilling help of Hodgson, tied the score. The winning goal for the Sons was set up by Gibbons, who carried the puck into Oshawa territory. Scandrett secured it and cashed the winning goal.

Oshawa—Goal, McManus; defense, Eddolls and Daniels; centre, Hewson; wings, R. Wilson and Peters; alternates, J. McAtee, N. McAtee, Hellyer, W. Wilson, Sawyer, Knott, Smith, Ritchie, Fraser and Turner (sub-goaler).

Referee—Bert McCaffery.

First Period

1—Oshawa, Ritchie (W. Wilson) 7:36
Penalties — Hewson, N. McAtee, Bowers.

Galt Weakens In Third To Drop Game

By The Canadian Press.

Galt Moosemen have plenty of grit and punch, but they just don't seem to be able to match the speed and power of other entries in the senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association.

The Moosemen suffered their seventh straight loss last night, bowing 9-2 to St. Cathraines in a one-sided encounter at St. Catharines.

Galt put up a plucky fight to match the speedy Saints in the first two periods, but weakened in the final in the face of fresh-appearing St. Kitt's forwards. In the wild final period St. Kitts rammed home five goals. Pete Backor led the Saints' attack, scoring three goals.

The victory boosted St. Catharines into a first place tie with the idle Toronto Goodyears. Each has won six games.

Over at Port Colborne the sailors retained third place with a 6-2 victory over Niagara Falls Cataracts. Doug Runion fattened his scoring average with a goal and an assist on four others.

Sarnia Has Been Eight Times Eastern Finals

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — At stake in the meeting of Ottawa Rough Riders and Sarnia Imperials here to-day was the right to battle for the Dominion title which each has won twice in the annals of post-war senior football.

While Coach Ross Trimble of the big Rough Riders and Coach Art Massucci of the lightly-regarded Imperials scanned the sky for a break in the weather, a wealth of tradition sprang up in this renewal of the Eastern Canada final.

The teams have met only once before in this same event. That was three years ago when th Imperials fought back a stern Ottawa challenge to win 26-7 in Toronto. That turned out to be the national title game, too, for the West did not send a challenger East in search of the championship.

But Ottawa has gained the Eastern final three times since the war and gone on to the Dominion championship twice, in 1925 and 1926.

Sarnia has won the Ontario Union championship nine times before this year and reached the Eastern final eight times, losing to the University of Western Ontario in a playoff with the intercollegiate champions of 1931.

Sarnia's first Dominion championship came in 1934, when the Imperials defeated Regina Roughriders 20-12 at Toronto.

That was an indication to Eastern football that the West would send strong challengers for the championship from then on. The following year Winnipeg Tobans swarmed over the proud Hamilton Tigers at Hamilton to take the Grey Cup West for the first and only time.

Lurking in the background of today's game are the successors to the Tobans, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who will move East early next week and play the Rough Riders at Ottawa or the Imperials at Toronto in this greatest intersectional classic of Canadian football.

El Chico Destroyed

El Chico, candidate for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, pulled up lame after a three-furlong gallop. The colt was undefeated in 1938, winning $84,100 in seven races.

Leafs To Meet Chicago Black Hawks Twice

Cuffed by New York Americans and humbled by Boston Bruins in their last two starts, Toronto Maple Leafs will seek to return to winning National Hockey League ways this week-end in a pair of contests against Chicago Black Hawks.

The Leafs went six straight undefeated games before Americans finally took their measure. Then the Bruins' rankling from a 5-0 defeat plastered on them at the start of the season by the Leafs, walloped the Toronto squad 6-2. But the pair of defeats failed to knock the Leafs from the top of the N. H.L. standing.

The Hawks and Leafs play tonight at Toronto and the swing over to Chicago for a game tomorrow night. The Rangers and Americans continue New York's intra-city rivalry tonight while in other Sunday games Montreal Canadiens take on the Red Wings at Detroit and the Bruins play Americans at New York.

70 TO 80 PERCENT OF COST CAN BE BORROWED ON $4,000 HOME

Average Value New Homes Running Lower

With a 15 per cent gain to its credit in the first ten months of 1939, the construction industry in the United States promises not only to complete the year with the best total of awards since 1930, but bids fair to attain still larger volume in 1940, according to Fitch Investors Service.

Outstanding among the various classes of construction gains so far this year is that of 41 per cent. in residential contracts. In October the increase over a year ago narrowed down almost to a negligible percentage in valuation, but the floor area was 8 per cent. greater than a year ago, while the number of new family dwelling units provided in contracts was 12 per cent. higher than in October, 1938.

In the first ten months of the year the cumulative gain over 1938 was 57 per cent. in number of dwelling units, a considerably greater gain than in value of contracts. This is accounted for by the fact that in the first eight months of this year the average value of new dwelling units was $3,600, or $900 less than in the similar period a year earlier.

This trend toward lower unit values, accounted for only in part by the large low cost apartment projects fostered by the Government, is one of the vital elements in the residential picture. The drive in this direction, in single houses as well as in apartments, is a big factor in bringing new dwellings with in reach of thousands of families, and, therefore, is one of the hopes on which expectation of continued building expansion is based.

Apartments Gain Rapidly.

In the first ten months the number of dwelling units in apartment contracts was nearly double that of the similar 1938 period, while the number in one-family houses increased 45 per cent. Large type of residential construction is expected to continue to increase more rapidly next year than one and two-family houses, an estimate of 26 per cent. being made on the former by a Dodge official and 9 per cent. on the latter, making a total residential gain in 1940 over this year of 14 per cent.

So far this year 86 per cent. of residential building has been private, compared with 93 per cent. a year ago. Next year an increase of 5 per cent. is expected in private residential building and 65 per cent. in public, largely reflecting the Government housing program.

Non-residential building in ten months showed a gain of only 1.5 per cent. with a distinct decline in recent months. This decline has been material in such buildings as educational and hospital, where public funds are highly important. Light activity is probable where public funds are concerned next year, but commercial and manufacturing buildings, with fair gains so far this year, are expected to register substantial increases next year.

Defective Car Light

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2 (ENS). —Only one case was dealt with by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in a light Traffic Court here on Friday. Charles Townes was found guilty on his own plea to a charge of driving with defective lights. He was assessed $2.00, and costs. The complaint was made by Chief Constable George Hardy.

Southampton Stands Alert Ready To Give Warning

By GLADYS M. ARNOLD
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Canadians know this busy seat city which receives so many travellers first setting foot on the Old Land. Its low skyline, twisted streets, and noisy popular quarters full of the smells of age, fish and chips and centuries of foreign commerce; it sbeautiful crumbling Bar Gate and slim-spired churches with sudden vistas of green park—an English welcome. (Bar Gate is a landmark of medieval walled Southampton.)

That was Southampton. A different Southampton greets you today in wartime—a grim, sober, quiet, alert but steady Southampton which shocks realization into the eyes fresh from Canadian scenes. In the air above floating silver "sausages" —the "ears" of all British cities today, ready to give instant and insistent warning of approaching danger.

Silently to Sea

Today everything is grey. Dark troopships line the quays, end to end. Their portholes are sealed up. Billows of canvas conceal the snouts of guns pointed skyward. The troopships slip out silently, one by one. Cargo boats are dull grey also, from funnel to waterline. The only touch of color is the flutter of Australian blue at a masthead.

On the wharves sandbags wall up windows and from sandbag igloos peep anti-aircraft guns. Everybody carries a small square box. They are strapped on backs, slung over shoulders or carried like parcels. The newsie has his stuffed in his bag with the papers. The women carry theirs in a basket along with the knitting, baby's bottle and groceries; the cyclists have theirs strapped behind the seat and many are to be seen in the wheeling "prams." At four o'clock dozens of children are encountered, each with his box slung where he used to carry his schoolbag.

Mostly Women

Southampton is now a city of women, children and old people. The young men are in uniform. In not more than one shop in 10 are men to be found. Women behind the counters, bars, cash registers, and account books. There are some strange sights. Women moving the furniture with a baby-carriage. Even a chesterfield can be balanced and transported.

Bus conductors are old, white-haired and their uniforms are a little rusty and shapeless. Traffic signals at the corner have been painted over leaving only a tiny cross through which the light may shine. There are fewer private cars about and all of them have a comical, ghostly air with their white bumpers and running boards.

Business is good and the war has provided new advertising slogans in the papers. "Defend" (in large letters) "your feet with....shoes;" "Beware of strange brands of shoes, always buy...;" "Protect your teeth with...;" "Blackout" paper, 30 inches wide, sells in many stores. Gasmasks are a new line from drugstore to hardware shop. They come in all prices and fashions. There are those in fine "gold" cloth to be worn with evening dress at "eleven and six ($2.53), and those for bicycles and motorcycles.

OFF TO PRISON

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 2—(CP). — Handcuffs clicked about the wrists of two young Hamilton men, aged 20 and 19 years, as sheriff's officers led them away today today to begin penitentiary terms for a series of crimes in the Hamilton district.

Verne Eagles, 20, and his partner in a Dundas grocery store hold-up and other crimes, Peter McDade, 18, were sentenced to 2½ years and two years, respectively, in Kingston Penitentiary.

Judge Schwenger was lenient in view of their youth. Both had been allowed suspended sentence and given reformatory terms on previous offences.

In-Laws To Blame

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2—(AP)—Explaining to a trial board why he was absent from his job, fireman John Carroll blamed it on "in-laws." Six of them, he said, moved in on him in one day and he was "so worn out remonstrating" that he couldn't go to work. The board took the matter under advisement after a member observed that a man with so many in-laws deserved special consideration.

Bancroft Lad Saved From York River

BANCROFT, Dec. 2.—(ENS)—Teddy Kruger, 8, son of Paul Kruger, on his way to school Friday afternoon ventured out on the ice of York River, while tossing stones back of Maxwell's garage, and was plunged into the cold water.

He went down once but was saved when Milton McGee, 11, reached out with a pitch fork and kept Kruger afloat till help from the garage arrived. Oscar Creighton, a mechanic, grabbed a plank and shoved it out on the ice, crawled out and pulled the lad to safety. He was taken into the home of Ed Maxwell and later sent home, little the worse for his ducking.

Citizens Honor Recruits

Bancroft citizens played host to the Bancroft recruits of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment last night by tendering a turkey supper in the Orange Hall. About 35 members were present, it being their last leave.

Immediately after the boys were ushered to the community hall by the Salvation Army band where a dance was held, music being donated by the local orchestra.

South Africa is threatened with a serious locust plague.

Ready To Aid Singer

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (CP Cable). —Evidence that General Sir Hubert Gough, commander of the British Fifth Army in the First Great War, was willing to become surety for Johanna Elly Simon, German opera singer, was given when the refugee was recommended for deportation in Bow Street Police Court to-day.

The opera singer, who wishes to join her husband in Canada, was charged with possession of an irregular passport. She was allowed bail pending consideration of her case by the Home Office.

Friend's Sacrifice Worries Songstress

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP Cable).—Johanna Elly Simon, Jewish opera singer who fled Germany with a false passport to go to Canada with her husband, fretted today over the fate of a friend who aided her escape from the Nazi Reich.

The opera singer was jailed when she arrived in England with the irregular passport, but was released on bail when the Home Office began considering her case. General Hubert Gough, Commander of the British Fifth Army in the First Great War, was reported to have offered to become surety for the refugee.

Mrs. Simon, the former Jeanette Gerwin of the Berlin State Opera, who has played Madame Butterfly before Marshal Hermann Goering and other high Nazis, told the Daily Sketch of the months of ordeal under shadow of the Gestapo before she left Germany.

She said the Gestapo (German secert police) had wrecked her homes in Berlin and Frankfurt.

"I am a Jewess. Because of that the only passport I could get in July to leave German was one we dreaded." (She referred to the special German passport for Jews marked with a large "J").

"But a friend of mine—a real friend who is an opera singer—gave me her own passport. I shall never forget the sacrifice that woman made for me. She risked so much: I have lain sleepless in my cell thinking of what may have happened to her."

Car Crashes Into Millbrook Bus

MILLBROOK, Dec. 2 (ENS). — J. Sullivan of Arnprior, and contractor who is building the new Post Office here, crashed head-on into the school bus owned by J. L. Byam early this morning. The visibility was very poor at the time and the bus was left parked without lights. Both vehicles were badly damaged, but Mr. Sullivan came off with only slight injuries.

730 Home Loans Been Issued In Peterborough

The number of home improvement loans issued in Peterborough up to October 31 was 730 of an aggregate amount of $225,081.88, one quarter of a million expended on the improvement of local residences through the agency of the banks with the Dominion government's security and guarantee in the background.

The totals for some other cities were: Kitchener, 501 loans for $215,586.73; Oshawa, 730 loans for $201,497; St. Catharines, 573 loans for $197,642; Timmins, 1,680 loans for $1,553,164; St. Thomas, 635 loans, $323,428; and Toronto at the head of the list with $3,828,142.

Petsamo Nickel Mine Menaced

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(CP).—The effect Russo-Finnish hostilities might have on the promising mineral property being developed in Finland by the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, was not known to officials of the company here today.

No word has been received lately from officials at the property, located 30 miles southwest of the Port of Petsamo, on the Arctic Ocean.

Work already done at Petsamo by the Canadian Company represents an estimated investment of $5,000,000. It is believed that much more would have been expended by next fall, when the vast deposits of nickel and copper were expected to have been brought into production.

However, the date of prospective production may have been pushed back by the developments of the past few months, which flamed into armed hostilities yesterday.

Third Man Dies In Quebec Crash

MONTREAL, Dec. 2—(CP).—Guy Beaudoin, 18, of Montreal, died in hospital today, bringing to three the toll of an automobile accident on the Quebec-Montreal highway early today.

Maurice Binet and Lucien Laroche of Montreal were killed instantly when the car in which they were riding left the highway near Lavaltrie, 40 miles east of Montreal.

A passing motorist discovered the wrecked car a short time after the accident. Beaudoin was brought to hospital in Montreal, suffering two broken legs and internal injuries.

Provincial police said the car was travelling toward Quebec at the time of the crash. It swerved into the ditch, struck a tree and turned over on its side.

Havelock Anglicans Hold Fine Bazaar

HAVELOCK, Dec. 2—(ENS)— The Parish Guild of St. John's Anglican church held their annual Christmas bazee rand supper on Thursday afternoon in the church basement. The event was well attended, the guests being received by the president, Mrs. H. W. Roche.

Attractively decorated and displaying a large assortment of fancy goods, the sale of work table was in charge of Mrs. James Cook and Mrs. Frank Watson. An appetizing supper was served at 5 o'clock among those who assisted being Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. William Rice, Mrs. T. W. Quinn, Mrs. H. Davies, Mrs. R. F. Covert and Mrs. Lawrence Sanderson.

NEW CATTLE QUOTA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—(AP).—The state department made public today a proclamation by President Roosevelt allocating a quota of 193,950 head of heavy cattle which may be exported to the United States by Canada during 1940.

The proclamation established a quota of 31,060 head for other foreign countries for the same period.

Home Owners Could Save Millions Annually If Buildings Were Properly Insulated

According to a report prepared for the Dominion Fuel Board, Canadian home owners could save at least thirty million dollars annually if all residental buildings were properly insulated against heat loss. Assuming a fuel consumption of one ton of anthractie coal (or its equivalent in other fuels) per capital for domestic purposes, the annual Canadian requirements would be about nine million tons. With coal at $15.00 per ton and an assumed fuel saving at 20 per cent to be effected by insulation, an annual reduction of thirty million dollars in domestic fuel costs would thereby be assured.

On this basis of calculation the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa could save nearly seven million dollars annually in fuel bills alone.

The individual householder can save enough fuel annually to pay for his insulation in about two or three seasons and continue to save fuel money during the life of the building. A survey covering a large number of individual cases indicates that for an average insulated house of 6 or 8 rooms an annual saving of at least three tons of coal or its equivalent in other fuels may be expected, amcunting to about $50.00 per year. This figure may safely be taken as a fair average, although numerous examples of much larger savings have been recorded.

Mineral wool insulation is the most popular because of its high efficiency, low cost, ease of application, and permanence. The home owner who insulates should give particular attention to this latter quality. One mineral wool in particular assures permanence by manufacturing with a "Balanced Formula" of selected minerals which assure all the qualities of good insulation should have. Most leading lumber or building supply dealers carry mineral wool insulation in stock and are able to furnish home owners with complete information by telephone or personal call.

New Army Uniforms Give Troops More Time For Breakfast

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Men of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are eating their breakfasts more regularly these days and the reason is Canada's new regulation army uniform, according to Sergt. C. F. McPherson of the P.P.C.L.I. The boys don't have to spend their early minutes any more polishing brass and winding up yards of puttees.

"The new outfits are a lot easier to slip on," Sergt. McPherson told newspapermen to-day during a visit to the headquarters of the P.P.C.L.I., the rifle unit which will head the Second Infantry Brigade of Canada's First Division overseas.

"There are no puttees and no brass buttons to shine. The new tunics have five buttons just like the old uniforms, but the new issue buttons are made of bone and don't require nearly as much polishing as the old brass ones."

The sergeant thought the new khaki as smart as the former suit, if looked after properly. "The trousers hold a swell crease and they fit like gloves," he said.

Sergt. McPherson believes the entire Pirncess Pat Battalion of more than 900 soldiers could live in the headquarters barracks for an indefinite period without aid from the outside world. Long corridors stretch like arteries through the main section and wings of the building which is partitioned into scores of rooms.

Store Rooms Full.

There are offices for military officers, store rooms filled with meat, canned goods, bread, vegetables, sugar, tea and coffee. Boxes of boots, shirts, underwear, greatcoats, belts, socks and other articles of clothing are piled high.

Preparing meals for about 900 soldiers is the task of Chief Cook Sergt. L. Holten and his eight helpers.

"Everything they get is the best," said Sergt. Holten. "They clean up everything we put in front of them, so I guess it's okay. The boys don't get napkins or saucers, but we serve almost any kind of food on restaurant menus."

"Everything" includes oatmeal, cornflakes, bacon, eggs, beans, tomatoes, sausages, potatoes, turnips, cabbages, carrots, beef, steaks, pork chops, cheese, puddings, jams, and bread, tea, coffee and milk.

Tall, broad-shouldered Lt.-Col. W. G. Colqhoun, M.C., believes the 1939 edition of his battalion, will maintain the fighting tradition of the glorious Princess Pats who almost buried themselves beneath a shower of medals and military honors in the last war.

Good As Of Yore

"My boys are going to be absolutely equal to the Princess Pats of the last war," the battalion commander told a group of newspapermen.

"They are young men, perhaps not as experienced as the boys who joined the regiment in 1914, but they are showing more stamina and enthusiasm."

A visit to the parade grounds accentuated the commander's statement. Their ears tuned to the sure commands of Sergt.-Maj. Instructor C. Leighton, the troops swung through their drill. Khaki-clad knees bent in unison. Strong arms shifted rifles with ease.

"The Pats are good soldiers, anxious to do their best," said the instructor, a veteran of the first great war.

"They are showing the same spirit as the soldiers who came to France from Canada during the last war. I think the best way to describe them is to call them go-getters."

N.Y. Reds Charge U.S. Behind Finn War

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP)—The Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, in front page editorials and news stories today accused the United States government of provoking war against Soviet Russia—"by using Finland as a pawn."

This principal Communist organ in the United States reported the resignation of the Finnish cabinet in a bold letter banner beneath which another streamer headline said:

"Red army hurls back invading Finnish troops, crosses frontier."

A front-page dispatch from Washington was headlined, "U.S. state department files give secret of F.D.R.'s drive to use Finland as war base."

This story referred to state department documents "which cast a most illuminating searchlight on the present-day efforts of the governments of Great Britain and the United States to provoke war against the Soviet Union by using Finland as a pawn."

The editorial was captioned: "Wall street uses Finland for war."

It attacked the American press for "propaganda" on the Finnish situation, and said the press knew that "behind the Finnish ruling cliques stand the mighty forces of British and American imperialism, goading, encouraging, supporting the hostile acts of Finland."

Insulation Is Inexpensive Justifies Use

One of the most essential building products is regarded by the majority of people as a luxury, too expensive for most and far from being a necessity. This commodity is insulation for the home. On the contrary insulation is inexpensive and justifies its use by affecting savings in fuel costs over a four-year period that pays completely for the installation of the insulating material.

Climb out of that comfortable easy chair right now and walk halfway up the stairs of your home and stand there for a few minutes. You will feel warm air coming up around your head and cold air going past your ankles, and if you do feel these air currents you need insulation. Then again if one happens to stand too long on such a stairway he will have a bad cold.

In any home not insulated warm air rises until it strikes the cold ceiling then it is chilled and swings down along the walls to the lowest point. Much of this warm air filters thorugh the ceiling and is lost. A lath and plaster ceiling which has not been painted or papered will show tell-tale marks if there is no insulation above it. Narrow white strips show through the plaster, indicating where the owoden lath and joists are located. Air cannot penetrate these as wood is a good insulator. The plaster in between the lath, however, is porous and the warm air filtering through leaves a dark deposit not unlike soot on the plaster strips.

It is agreed by builders and insulation experts that little heat is lost through the side walls of a home provided the window and door openings are tight, but that as heat rises the bulk of it is wasted through the roof. In a great many homes to-day and particularly in the ones which have been built for some time, it is possible for one to climb into the attic and count the street lights through the cracks in the cornice. All that is required to make these old houses cosy and easy to heat is to place a layer of good insulation between the joists in the attic.

Any householder who wishes to have a home inspected and the cost of insulation obtained may do so without cost or obligation from any of the builders whose advertisements appear on this page.

Milbrook Friends Honor May Patton

MILLBROOK, Dec. 2—(ENS). — The Parish Hall of Trinity Church, the Marsh, west of the village a short distance, was the scene of a happy gathering on Thursday evening when a large number of friends gathered to do honor to Miss May Patton, a bride of Saturday, December 2, when her marriage to Lawrence Bryans, of Campbellcroft, took place.

The hall was nicely decorated for the occasion, and the addreas was read by Melville Wood, while the miscellaneous shower, with the parcels filling to overflowing two beautifully arranged baskets, was presented by Blanche Fallis and Robert Todd.

The bride-elect made suitable reply, and after all had sung "For she's a jolly good fellow," the pleasant task of opening the parcels and reading the enclosed cards was proceeded with, Mrs. Jack Patton and Miss Blanche Fallis assisting the guest of honor with this feature.

Lunch was served, and dancing enjoyed, before the enjoyable party was brought to a close.

Making butter from roots is being attempted in Germany.

Big Push—Somewhere In England

Sappers of the Royal Engineers are shown using muscle power to place a section of a steel bridge in position at an engineering school somewhere in England. Although the role of the engineering corps is primarily technical it is a combatant arm and trained in the use of rifle and bayonet as well as transit and micrometer.

SOME PEOPLE ARE SELF-CONSCIOUS
BUT
Everyone Should Be Penny Conscious

Climb out of that comfortable chair right now and telephone us for a house inspection. It won't cost you one nickel to find out the cost of insulating your house and if the job is done, reduced fuel costs will pay for the installation in four years. Insulation is not a luxury. It is an absolute necessity and it is inexpensive.

Jim Lillico, Barbara Richardson Named Head Boy And Girl Ah The Collegiate Commencement

Jim Lillico was named Head Boy and Barbara Richardson Head Girl at the commencement exercises at Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational school yesterday afternoon.

Lillico is the son of Ivan T. Lillico, president of Lillico Motors, 515 Hunter street west. He is president of the Hi-Y club, and prominent in many student activities and last term took honor standing in 13 out of 14 subjects.

Miss Richardson is the daughter of W. A. Richardson, manager of the Peterborough Canoe Company, 299 Frederick avenue. She has been active in many phases of school life and took honour standing in 11 of 14 subjects last term.

Warm congratulations were showered on both by Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal when he announced the names of the winners of the school's most coveted award, and the school body indicated the choices were popular.

Graduates who trooped across the platform to receive their diplomas and special awards for scholarship were warned by Rev. J. J. Kelly, who delivered the chief address of the afternoon, that they were going out to face a complex world, a more complex world than that which faced their parents a generation ago. It was a world that called for high principle and firm endeavour, he said, but one in which success and happiness could be won.

Preserving of Personality.

He told them that their training had been of the best and that they should carry with them through life the imprint of the minds of their Collegiate teachers. He urged that they use their intellect and will power to preserve their personality. The world of democracy, he said, was one in which individual enterprise played a great part and he believed that if German and Russian men and women were permitted that same individuality there would be a different world today.

A strong character was the first essential of the successful and happy man, he said, and warned against intellectual ability that is not seasoned by that strength of character.

"Your world is different from the one we went out into," he declared. "We in our day never expected to see the wars that have come, the social and economic problems that have arisen." But because of that difference he saw all the more reason to preserve intellectual values. "Don't let your taste go into decay," he said, claiming that much of the art of today is "the cult of the ugly." Follow what you personally feel to be beautiful, to be valuable, he urged.

Chairman Absent.

Mrs. W. R. Morris was chairman in the absence of John R. Marshall, chairman of the Board of Education, who is ill. The school orchestra and the Girls' Glee club both contributed selections and the afternoon's program was closed by a farce-comedy presented by the school's dramatic club. Robert Graham, student at McMaster University, delivered the valedictory address.

PICKED UP BILL.

A little girl dropped a $2 bill on the market square this morning and reported to the police afterward that a woman had been seen to pick up the money and put it in her purse.

ONLY ONE DRUNK.

The arrival of Santa Claus Friday night produced only one arrest when a local young man was arrested on a charge of being drunk. This morning he asked Magistrate Langley for an adjournment and his request was granted.

OVERSEAS MAIL.

As particulars in regard to sailing dates of ships carrying letters and parcels to Great Britain and other countries cannot be announced, your mail for Christmas delivery in Great Britain should be posted at once, so as to be prepared for the first despatch.

FOOTBALL FINAL

Local football followers can tune in on CBL this afternoon at two o'clock for the Eastern Canada grid final in Toronto between Ottawa Rough Riders and Sarnia Imperials. The Sarnia team is known here, playing in the same group as Peterborough, while several of the Riders have also performed in this town at one time or another.

NEW FRONT ON CAFE

Peterborough restaurants are trying to outdo each other with new and fancy fronts. The latest to become completely renovated at the front—with work still being done on the interior—is the Paris Cafe. It adds a bright touch to the main street block above Hunter.

BAND CONCERT.

The Peterboro Brass Band is returning to the Regent Theatre in a concert Sunday evening beginning at 8.30 o'clock. The band made its first public appearance at the Regent last winter, and since then has made a great deal of progress. Ernest Dark, late of Wagner, South Dakota, will be the guest conductor. He is a brother of Walter Dark, the leader of the band.

BOYS' BAND PLEASES.

The Lions Club Boys' Band made a lot of new friends last night in their Santa Claus parade engagement. They returned down town from the park, and after lunch at Payne's coffee shop they put on a little marching program on George street between Simcoe and Hunter streets. The youngsters demonstrated that they have learned to play on the march. Will Ford is their new director.

FINE IS IMPOSED.

Declaring that he did not want the accused to lose his job and had therefore decided to impose a fine rather than send him to jail, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning fined the young man who Friday had pleaded guilty to vagrancy $20 and $3.25 costs, or a month in jail. Crown Attorney McElderry told the court previous to the sentence that the accused had been annoying citizens by looking in their windows. "A Peeping Tom,"

NOT AN ACCIDENT.

Despite the multitude of children on the streets, the heavy motor traffic, poor visibility and wet driving surface, the community welcome to Santa Claus Friday night passed without a single accident. Every member of the city police force was on the job handling traffic and the department had the assistance also of Provincial Traffic Officers McClure and Broughton. "We want to thank the public for the way it co-operated with us in preventing accidents," said Acting Chief Constable Reid this morning.

Head Boy and Head Girl Of P.C.I.

Congratulating each other here are Betty Richardson and Jim Lillico, named Head Girl and Head Boy at the P.C.I. commencement exercises Friday. Their names were announced by Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal, at the conclusion of the exercises in which graduating students trooped across the platform to the applause of the student body and parents. Betty Richardson is the daughter of W. A. Richardson, manager of the Peterborough Canoe Company, and Jim Lillico is the son of Ivan T. Lillico of Lillico Motors. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Old Newspaper Of 94 Years Ago Is Well Preserved

Advertisements in the issue of the Peterborough Weekly Despatch of January 13, 1848, published at the corner of Hunter and Chambers Streets "nearly opposite the Albert House" are farther removed in social implications from the customs and spirit of to-day than in the long flight and span of time, ninety-two years.

More than one generation of present readers may rub their eyes at the feudal overtone in this advertisement copied from that faded number of the Despatch of which G. Haslehurst was the publisher; "STOP HIM.—Ran away from the subscriber last Monday week, James McBean, my indentured apprentice. Any person harboring or employing him after this notice will be prosecuted to the utmost limits of the law. Thomas Bell, Cavan, December 1, 1847."

Young men of to-day may wonder at the significance and the rigor of that phrase "indentured apprentice," and try to imagine the extent of an employer's authority over his servant under the old law of apprenticeship. And they may succeed in reconciling the comparative servitude of an apprenticed farm hand with the lofty guiding spirit of the Despatch as quoted in its masthead, "We have nothing to fear from Prerogative, but everything from undue influence." (Junius.)

That advertisement invites speculation about the rights, whatever they were, of the young man who engaged with a farmer to learn practical farming of a century ago after signing the document of indenture.

But, here's another advertisement that seems to cast a little cloud of doubt over those good old days of the long past: "Notice.—Women, boys and girls as servants and apprentices can be procured at the Widows' and Orphans' Asylum. Applications to be made at the Institute, Peterboro East."

There are no survivors of those years in the forties to locate this asylum or even to explain exactly the geographical import of Peterborough East. And how did those widows and orphans fare in the service of an old industrial era that permitted and sanctioned the harshness of Thomas Bell's "utmost limits of the law."

From Pioneer Family.

The time yellowed copy of the Despatch was shown to the Examiner to-day by W. R. Parker of the Customs Office, grandson of Francis Parker, a pioneer of Dummer Township, who settled in that section of the township known as South Dummer. It was only one of a number of old records that have come down through the family during the last hundred years or more.

The news columns of the Despatch reports the results of a Federal election in which James Hall, Liberal, was elected as the Parliamentary representative of Peterborough by a majority of 81 votes. Other successful candidates in the district were John A. Macdonald, Conservative, Kingston; A. H. Myers, Conservative, Northumberland; Bill Flint, Liberal, Hastings; J. Smith, Liberal, Durham.

At that time Peterborough was still but a corner of North Monaghan, and Confederation probably had not entered the thoughts of the young country emerging from the clearings of the primeval woods.

G. B. Hall had just been appointed Judge in Peterborough. Robert Towns was manager of the Peterborough Woollen Factory. Joseph Shaw was a taylor; William Cluxton was a dealer in groceries and liquors, and a buyer of grain.

The advertising columns announced that G. B. Hall, evidently a man of property in the old town, had mill sites for sale, and the industries he contemplated as possibilities for men of vision and the means to get things going were, grist, saw, distilleries, tanneries, chair factories, foundries, and woollen factories.

When Roads Were Planked.

The following advertisements is eloquent of the long strides that have been made in road building.

"Take Notice,—that an application will be made at the next sitting of the Legislature fo ra nextension of the charter of the Cobourg and Rice Lake Plank Road and Ferry Company to enable them to extend their plank road through Monaghan and Otonabee to Peterborough. By order, John Beatty, Jun., secretary-treasurer, Cobourg, November 10, 1847."

According ot the advertising methods of that time, James Stevenson, father of Colonel Arthur Stevenson, "gives notice that he has stoves received from the manufacturers." Mr. Stevenson was a hardware merchant, later Mayor of Peterborough and Member of Parliament.

Thomas Hurley, was a furniture dealer and undertaker, King Street. His "ad" included this business detail "Hearse with one or two horses as required, with plumes, ready on shortest notice. All kinds of ivory, bone and wood turning done at Hammond's distillery." If there seems to be a mingling of business activities in that advertisement, no information is available to explain the scope of Mr. Hurley's interests.

G. H. Lenno was in dry goods, featuring fur caps, muffs and boas. That last concession to the frills and furbelows of fashions is remembered nowadays only by grandmothers who in all probably used to look at themselves in the family mirrors before walking out with their decorative boas around their necks and reaching down in front the full length of their coats.

Lawyers and Doctors.

James Scott was a barrister and solicitor in chancery, one door north of Mr. Harper's new building on George street, John McNabb was a surgeon and coroner, and there was also Dr. John Gilchrist. G. Douglas was postmaster.

A. McPhail and Company were druggists in Medical Hall, liberal advertisers; in fact one "ad" ran a full column, enumerating a great variety of articles, and incidentally announcing that cash was paid for timothy seed, flax seed and bees wax.

"Stray heifer, light red, rising three, with the subscriber since August 17th last. Stephen Jory, Dummer."

C. Perry & Company had room paper just received from New York.

T. Russell was a boot and shoemaker on Water street. Fred Ferguson was county treasurer and government land agent. Dr. W. Bell's medical dispensary was on Hunter street.

W. Sheridan was district clerk. Probably Sheridan street was named for Walter Sheridan.

James C. Kerr was a painter and glazier. D. Coate was a doctor. J. H. Zielley was proprietor of the Albert House on the south side of Hunter street, somewhere nearly opposite Chambers street. Presumably no one in the Peterborough of today knows anything about these former citizens.

J. T. Henthorn, merchant, advertised for sale the west half of lot 14 in the fifth concession of Otonabee, mostly cleared, with good house and barn. Duncan McLeod was a hardware merchant.

Daniel Wilson had a foundry over James Hall's tanneries, making threshing machines, wagons and sleighs. Miss Conelly was a dressmaker, opposite the Union Hotel. Her advertisement mentions that she made cloth and fur caps.

T. J. Dennehy had recently acquired the North American Hotel, one door west of Mr. Cluxton's store, and was "also continuing as a provincial surveyor."

Only One Funeral.

The newspaper of ninety-two years ago published only one funeral notice. E. K. Cameron, 24, a young Scotsman, died on December 27, and was buried in the Presbyterian burying ground. "He was interred by the Order of Odd Fellows, to whom he belonged."

The subscription rates of the Weekly Despatch were: "10 shillings per annum if paid in advance; 15 shillings at the end of six months."

Hastings To Honor Her Soldier Sons

HASTINGS, Dec. .—(ENS.)— An evening of diversified entertainment will be held in the town hall here Monday night in honor of the local boys who have enlisted with the army. The social evening is being sponsored by Hastings citizens and backed by the village council. Mothers and wives of the men guests of honor, will be given complimetary tickets to the affair as well as the boys thmeselves. Plans are being formulated to-day for the entertainment and lunch. Reeve Lewis Kelly said he expected a large attendance to be present as this may be a farewell evening before the boys go to England with the first division of Canadian soldiers.

Three Vehicles Are Involved In Crash

Over $200 damage in a traffic accident at Romaine and George street Friday, involving three motor vehicles.

Helen Munro, 528 Dickson street, was driving east on Romaine street, and at the intersection of George street her car met in collision with another automobile being driven north on George street by George H. Walton, 712 Ross street. After the impact, Miss Munro's car was shot in a northeasterly direction and collided with Campbell's Dairy truck which had stopped on Romaine street east of George street. It was driven by C. H. Berwick, 112 Aylmer Street.

Miss Munro's car and the dairy truck were each damaged to the extent of $100, while the damage to Walton's car is placed at $20.

Otonabee Woman Is Slightly Injured

Edna Godfrey, R.R. 2, Keene, sustained a cut on her right knee, requiring two stitches, when the car in which she was riding met in collision with another automobile at Perry and George Streets shortly before 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Miss Godfrey was a passenger in car being driven north on George Street by Harry Pinn, 162 Antrim Street, and at the intersection there was a collision with a car driven east on Perry Street by Alex. Thorne, 32 Western Avenue. Both cars were somewhat damaged but Miss Godfrey was the only person injured in the crash.

Santa Claus Is Welcomed By Young and Old

Even the long-overdue shower that the farmers had been hoping for for weeks failed to spoil the triumphal arrival of Santa Claus in Peterborough Friday night. The old gentleman was greeted by thousands of citizens, young and old, who braved the rain and lined the streets many rows deep to welcome St. Nicholas.

Possibly the act that they had just been reading of the different kind of shower that had rained destruction down upon peaceful communities in another country during the day made them philosophical about a few drops of rain. At any rate they laughed at the disagreeable conditions and joined in a noisy and enthusiastic greeting of the community's honored guest.

The program included a welcome to Santa Claus as he stepped off the evening C.P.R. train, a colorful parade in his honor that contained a dozen or more elaborately decorated floats, three bands, a host of clowns in weird and fantastic costumes and a generous sprinkling of pretty girls, and finally a reception in Victoria Park where the smiling man of the hour was officially welcomed by municipal and provincial representatives.

Great Night For Youngsters

In spite of the rain, it was a great night for young Peterborough and for youngsters from all around the district as well for the crowd included hundreds of visitors from outside who joined with the city dwellers in the welcome. The Business Men's Association had worked long and faithfully in preparing for the event and although the weather conditions were disappointing the members of the organization had the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts had been completely crowned with success.

A big crowd had gathered at the station for the first glimpse of Santa Claus and there was an excited roar of welcome when a familiar red costume and long white beard told the youngsters that St. Nick had arrived. Ald. Robert Cotton, Ald. H. I. Bradburn and Ald. R M. Glover, deputizing for Mayor Hamilton, who was out of town, were on hand to extend civic greetings and Santa Claus was escorted to a waiting float where his sleigh and reindeer as well as a bevy of pretty girls, were awaiting him.

A Colorful Parade

The parade was then formed up and headed by a police motorcycle escort and the fire chief's car with Deputy Chief George Smith, moved off up George street, proceeding to the park, via George, King, Aylmer, Charlotte, George, and Murray streets. Everywhere there were dense crowds, the youngsters keen with excitement that reached its peak when the final float disclosed the well known figure of the community's guest of honor, and Santa's attendants tossed candies to the crowd.

Included in the long parade were the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers, the Peterborough Brass Band and the Lions Boys' Band, a fire truck laden with the toys that had been rebuilt by the members of the fire department, ornate and colorful floats arranged by the Peterborough Canoe Company, featuring skis, the A.Y.P.A. float with Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, the Richard Hall float and its escort of unusual military figures, an elaborate General Electric float, handsomely decorated and striking displays on floats by Campbell's Dairy, H. R. Scott, Dick Raine, Sanitary Ice, Canada Packers, and the Peterborough Business Men's Association. Other features were the Moncrief Dairy ponies, a Punch and Judy group, and a flock of clowns representing such well known characters as Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck and a host of others that provided plenty of amusement.

The Park Reception

Hundreds of children gathered round the band stand in Victoria Park where Dick Lush acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers.

Ald. R. M. Glover, on behalf of Mayor Hamilton and the council welcomed Santa Claus and said that the latter had told him that although the weather was not much like what he had left he promised there would be plenty of frost and snow here before long. Ald. Glover congratulated the Business Men's Association upon the success of the undertaking and expressed the hope that none of the children would be overlooked at Christmas time.

Santa Claus then took possession of the microphone and addressed the crowd. "I have come a long, long way," he said. "I could not use my reindeer but I travelled by plane and train to get here on time. "He advised the children to write him to tell him what they wanted for Christmas.

Alex L. Elliott, M.P.P., hoped that every boy and girl would have a happy Christmas and reminded them that Santa Claus would be found in Peterborough stores during the Christmas season.

Al. Sharpe, president of the Business Men's Association, expressed thanks for the wonderful turnout. "We appreciate such a crowd on a bad night," he said as he voiced the hope that Santa Claus would be good to every one.

And on that note Peterborough's welcome to St. Nicholas ended.

Three Soldiers Are Injured

BANCROFT, Dec. 2.—(ENS). — Three soldiers of the Hastings-Prince Edward regiment at Picton were injured last night in an automobile accident thirteen miles south of here, and Ronald Maxwell, 20, who was at the wheel, was arrested on charges of being drunk while driving and also for recklessness.

The three enlisted men were coming to Bancroft from Picton and Belleville for the week-end. They were Gordon Crosby, who suffered head injuries requiring eight clamps; Lawrence Robbins, cuts on the forehead; Wilbert Kellar, wrenched solder, collar bone may be broken. They received medical care in the Bancroft Red Cross Hospiti.

Ronald Maxwell is a resident of Bancroft. His car went off the highway from Belleville to Bancroft and turned over twice in the ditch.

Team Runs Away With Load Of Grain

When a car driven by Hugh Robb, Norwood, skidded on the wet surface of the Locks Bridge this morning and collided with the rear end of a wagon loaded with grain there was a runaway reminiscent of the old days of horse-drawn vehicles.

The team drawing the wagon bolted after the collision and broke loose from the vehicle. They ran west on Lansdowne street for a short distance and then off the roadway into a field where they collided with a tree. One horse was captured there and the other ran into Little Lake cemetery, where it was caught.

The driver of the outfit, Alphonse Coughlin, lit on his feet when the car struck his wagon and was not hurt. The horses also escaped uninjured and the damage to the wagon and automobile was not great.

Military Men Endorse Army Hut Work

The appreciation expressed by General Sir Arthur Currie, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian forces in the last war, and by Lieut.-General Sir R. E. W. Turner, V.C., K.C.B., K.C.M.G., of the effort and work of the Knights of Columbus through their army huts are recalled as approval of the campaign that is being carried on next week to collect funds for the purpose of resuming that auxiliary service in the present conflict.

Excerpts from their letters to the K. of C. are quoted herewith:

"Before the Canadian Corps finally breaks up, I should like to place on record my appreciation of the good work accomplished for the Troops of the Corps by the Catholic Army Huts, and in doing so I know I am voicing the sentiments of Canada's soldiers overseas.

I am, of course, more familiar with the accommodation supplies and the comforts obtained in the chapel tents in the field, but from many sources I have received testimonials of the great good done in the Huts at the base camps and at the camps in England .... I also know that men of every denomination were according the same cordial welcome, and that all received the same treatment as regards free biscuits, free drinks, free smokes, free matches, and free stationery there dispensed....

To me, this co-operation, this each for all and all for each spirit, so characteristic of the Canadian Corps, is a wonderful and inspiring thing, and justifies one in hoping that our national life shall be characterized by a spirit of tolerance, mutual sympathy and support, unselfishness and devotion to duty.

I am sure all those who contributed so generously to your cause will be happy in knowing how much you were able to accomplish, and with what gratitude your efforts were acknowledged.

Ever yours faithfully,

(Sgd.) A. W. Currie.

And the following is a quotation from General Turner's letter:

"The three clubs in London and those in Bramshott, Witley, Seaford, Ripon, Rhyl, Bexhill and cooden have been a Godsend to our men, and I feel sure that I am voicing the opinion of the people of Canada when I thank you on their behalf for providing their boys with such facilities during their absence from their own homes.

As you know, I have at different times visited your clubs and have been much struck with the liberal way you have furnished them. The men I know have appreciated the writing paper, cigarettes and other comforts which have been provided.

I also want to thank you for the assistance you have given us on the transports by providing free cigarettes, games, chewing gum and writing paper.

I can assure you your huts have been the means of gladdening the hearts of thousands of Canadians.

Yours sincerely,

(Sgd.) R. E. W. Turner.

The Rambling REPORTERS

ADVERTISES HIS SCHOOL.

Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of P.C.I., apparently doesn't believe in passing up an opportunity to advertise his school. Yesterday he had a crowded auditorium listening to him and he inserted two free "plugs" for the school's commercial courses.

The first came when several students failed to turn up on the platform for certificates. "Most of them are in employment now," he explained smoothy. Then a few minutes later he returned to the theme, announced that virtually every graduate of the commercial section is now working.—P.

Feeley—Masters

The church of the Sacred Heart was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding at six o'clock on Saturday morning when Andree E., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Masters, 425 Braidwood avenue, became the bride of Roy A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Feeley, 207 Park street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

The bride was daintily gowned in a frock of turquoise blue crepe with wine accessories and a corsage of red roses and lily of the valley. Mrs. Thomas Markwick, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a frock of orchid sheer with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses and lily of the valley.

Mr. Thomas Markwick was best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a mother of pearl locket and chain, to the matron of honor a gold locket and chain and to the best man a gold tie set.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate relatives and later on in the day a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Feeley will reside at 425 Braidwood avenue.

Card Party Held

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 2—(ENS). — Mrs. Percy McFadden was the high lady at the card party in the Orange Hall, Lakefield, on Friday evening. Miss Minnie Charlton carried off the ladies' second prize, while the gents' prizes went to Arthur Duggan first, and Bruce Preston, second. R. T. Charlton won the consolation prize.

A contest which caused much laughter was one in which N. S. Higgins and J. Blakely attempted to carry peas by means of a straw; the former winning.

Seven tables of euchre were played, and following the games, lunch was served by the committee in charge.

FASHIONS

If you would be known for your individuality, your unusual yet impeccable taste in clothes, make this frock your own. It has that very special look of a French importation about it. The simplest of silhouettes sets off an original yoke treatment and a new and flattering neckline. Dress the frock up or down with your own choice of accessories. It's the ideal foil for your gold jewellery. Several necklines from which to choose the most becoming, as well as short, long or three-quarter sleeves.

Style No. 3013 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material; 1½ yards of ribbon.

Lakefield Miss Gives Party

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 2.—(ENS). — In honor of her fourteenth birthday, Isobel Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller, Lakefield, entertained sixteen of her school friends at a birthday supper on Thursday evening.

A color scheme of yellow was carried throughout with yellow cut flowers and crepe paper streamers in the dining room. The young hostess' birthday cake with its fourteen yellow candles centered the supper table.

Jean Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Miller, Lakefield, who was also fourteen years old on Thursday, assisted her cousin in entertaining the guests.

Following the supper hour many pretty gifts were presented to the two girls. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in games and contests.

Collegians Enjoy Annual Dance

The band stand was cleverly decorated in the traditional Garnet and Gray of P.C.I., with ribbons billowing on both sides of the orchestra. Noted among those attending were several former students who once loomed great in the eyes of their classmates—star athletes and members of the Students' Council, G.A.A. and B.A.A. executives, and so on. Among the teachers attending and supervising the dance were Dr. and Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, and Messrs David, Cornell, Toole, Collingwood, and Johnson, and Misses Howson and Lees.

Midway through the evening's activities a variety program was presented by several well known entertainers. The program consisted of a musical number with harmonica and castanets by Robert Eagleton; an exhibition of correct and incorrect ballet dancing, interestingly presented by Miss Leone Comstock, accompanied by Mrs. E. Foster at the piano; a vocal solo, "Over the Rainbow" by Miss Olga Westbye; and a song and dance routine by Miss Jean Miller, who sang "We're Going to Hang Out the Washing On the Siegfried Line." She was accompanied by Mrs. E. Foster. The performers were introduced by Miss Edna Borland. Shortly after the "floor show" refreshments were served to all in the gymnasium and another half hour of dancing concluded a fine evening.

Elsie J. Smith Is Bride Of Sidney H. Storey

St. Luke's Anglican Church was the setting for a charming wedding at two-thirty o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon, when Miss Elsie Jane Smith, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, and Mr. Sidney H. Storey, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Storey, Mark street, were united in marriage by Rev. G. J. Bousfield.

Mr. Nelson Smith gave his sister in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of white crepe fashioned on slender, princess lines. The bodice was fastened at the back with tiny coverd buttons, and the sleeves of her matching jacket were short and puffed. She wore elbow-length sleeves of white lace, and her veil of embroidered silk net was caught with orange blossoms and fell gracefully into a short train. Her bouquet of red roses and fern was tied with streamers of white satin ribbon. Miss Marjorie Reid was bridesmaid, in a frock of pink chiffon with a slim-fitting bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore pink gloves, and a cluster of blue velvet flowers in her hair, matching those worn at the waistline of her frock. Her bouquet was of pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Albert Storey was groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, and later the bridal couple left by motor for Brampton and Toronto. For travelling the bride donned a simple frock of wine crepe under a brown topcoat. Her accessories were wine. Mr. and Mrs. Storey will live at 294 Mark street on their return from the wedding trip.

Norma Killingbeck Guest of Honor At Surprise Party

Miss Yetta Fine was hostess last night at a surprise party for Miss Norma Killingbeck at the Fine home at 616 Charlotte street. Thirteen couples were present and found a most attractively decorated home awaiting them. Tables were beautifully decorated with streamers and colored candles and dainty food. Gifts were presented in a large basket exquisitely bound with pink and white ribbons. After they had been opened games and dancing rounded out an enjoyable evening.

Present at the party were Paul Meeks, Rosie Botnick, William Hickey, Yetta Fine, Harold Florence, Helen Ward, Aaron Black, Joan Rahmel, Isadore Fine, Fannis Gishman, Hannah Florence, Earl Routley, Gordon Beatty, Sadie Land, Louie Cherney, Beatrice Moncrief, Bob Young, Norma Killingbeck, Jack Quirk, Isabel Morrow, Arthur Peeling, Elois Melburn, Frank Gishman, Betty Florence, Jack Hickey, and Gwen Friendship.

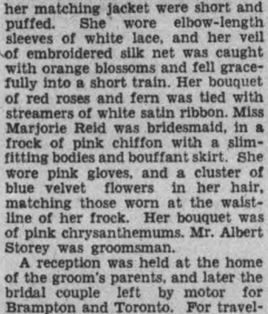
You Must Talk Well to Win Repeat Dates



Here Are Do's and Dont's

Poor Edna's boring Jack stiff. Why? She just hasn't learned how to talk to men—and even by her own sex Edna is called tiresome.

A clever girl realizes that she has only a little while to make an impression on the men she meets at parties — a few minutes after a dance, or during refreshments. So in her talk to men she follows these simple don't and do's:

Don't strain to be funny . . Don't preach or find fault. Don't talk about your troubles or appear to be hard-boiled. Don't hesitate to be spunky.

Do be light-hearted and appreciative of HIS wit. Find out some little thing about which you can flatter him. Be a little playful — and to lightly-made sentimental remarks reply gaily in kind.

And with anyone you can be a charming conversationalist if you know little ways to start a conversation, keep it going pleasantly. Our 32-page booklet helps you succeed in any conversational role—as hostess or guest, in business, in serious conversation or in small talk. Gives pointers on topics for talk, a pleasing voice, how to get that me-to-you spirit in your conversation.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of SECRETS OF GOOD CONVERSATION to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Branch Notes

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH

The branch held an indoor sports night with a fairly good attendance. There was a short business meeting to begin with, followed by the introduction of new members. The meeting was then handed over to Grace Hutchinson and Eva Clarke, who were in charge of the program. Intelligence tests were passed around and the result, of course, was that all the members excelled themselves. Then followed a couple of much more strenuous games, such as musical chairs and "blow-out." And as usual ,the evening came to a close with a bit of dancing.

Members are reminded that this coming Sunday morning there will be Corporate Communion for the A.Y.P.A. with breakfast afterwards. A large turn-out is hoped for, and those of you who delight in sleeping in on Sunday mornings, forget about it this time, and be out there with the rest of us at the early service.

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH

The regular Thursday night meeting opened with prayer, and a short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. F. Curtis.

Twenty-five members answered the roll call. Miss Clemena Long was appointed for social service work, and Mrs. F. Curtis and Ralph Mason were chosen as members of the executive to the district council.

The remainder of the evening was spent playing games led by Vic Sedgewick and Jack Davies. Prize-winners were Dot Green, Rita Butler, Bill Hill, Margaret Minty, Jessie Bell, Bessie Delong, Art Sayer, Amy Curtis and Clemena Long.

ST. GEORGE'S BRANCH

On Thursday evening the Literary and Social committees held a combined meeting, opening with hymn and prayer by the president, Miss B. Curtis.

The guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Alex. Runnett was introduced by W. Anderson, convener of the literary committee. Mr. Runnett spoke on "Our Flag and the Royal Coat of Arms."

The president, on behalf of the branch, thanked Mr. Runnett. A short quiz contest followed after which refreshments were served by the social committee with Miss Edna Millard in charge.

The members are to please be reminded that bowling starts at 7 p.m. sharp on Saturday nights.

CHRIST CHURCH, OMEMEE

Christ Church, Omemee A.Y.P.A. met in the basement of the church on Monday at eight p.m. The meeting was opened by a devotional period, conducted by the president.

During the brief busines speriod, the branch decided to contribute regularly to the district council bulletin, and to endeavor to report each meeting to the Examiner A.Y.P.A. column.

The remainder of the program was in charge of the rector, the Rev. G. H. Johnson, who gave a very instructive address on "the Church—Its Present Situation in Europe and America."

J. W. Beatty Opens Exhibition Of Paintings By Gertrude L. Cox

One of the brightest spots in the art life of Peterborough for some time was the exhibition of paintings by Gertrude L. Cox Friday evening in the Recreation Room of the Y.W.C.A. The exhibition was opened with an introductory talk by Mr. J. W. Beatty, R.C.A, principal of the Port Hope School of Art, under whom Miss Cox received instruction.

Explaining that the exhibition was a revelation to him, since seventy-five per cent of the pictures he had never seen, Mr. Beatty remarked that Miss Cox "is one of the real coming painters, and an artist of whom Peterborough should be proud."

Looking upon the splendidly arranged pictures, one could not fail to be impressed with the artist's interpretation of the countryside, expressing as it did the pure spirit of a Canadian, and the true spirit of the country. Her feeling for landscape and still life is exceptionally pronounced, and her flower studies are very fine.

Miss Cox, who presented Mr. Beatty, referred to him as a teacher and painter of note—one of a few artists who has helped establish a distinctive Canadian style of painting which is suited to the ruggedness of the country, and a style which is laying the foundation upon which Canadian artists will build for years to come.

"Everybody should have an art education," Mr. Beatty said, hastening to add that he did not make the statement in the spirit of professionalism or advertising, but simply because he believes such an education makes for better human beings. Illustrating this point, he spoke of going into the homes of his students and invariably finding therein a place where "you can walk around without getting the jitters," you simply say to yourself, "this is home," and revel in an atmosphere that has come about through an art education.

He warned, however, that once the art germ "gets you," and you become thoroughly inoculated, it is a worse disease than tuberculosis, for instance, and one which three or four years' rest cannot cure."

Mr. Beatty gave a brief history of the evolution of art from the time of the old masters to the present day, and in his closing words referred to "seeing the truth and then painting it" as the real foundation of art.

The gold and bronze of Chrysanthemums arranged about the room were effective touches of color against the creamy walls, and the lace-covered tea table was lovely with an amber glass bowl of the same flowers in flame tone, and ivory tapers in ambers holders.

Receiving were Miss Doris Armstrong, Miss Amy Matthews, Miss Leith Johnson, Mrs. Ken McPherson, Miss Evelyn Scott, Miss Irene Cox, Miss Ellen Eagleson, Mrs. Harold Baker of Toronto, and Mrs. Roy Lewis. Coffee was poured by Mrs. C. S. Thompson and Mrs. C. Goldman of Toronto.

The paintings will continue to be on display for the next few days.

DOROTHY DIX

If You Have Fallen In Love With a Man Who You Just Know Is All Right, Hold Fast To That Faith, No Matter Who Tries To Come Between You.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 18, but mentally I am years older. I am miserable because of my mother. Through the years she has instilled in me the belief that I have no talents and that I cannot possibly succeed. But, more than that, she has poisoned my mind about all men. She made a mess of her own marriage because she never believed in my father or trusted him and she has made me believe that all men are rotters.

I dont want to believe this, but years of this kind of thing have put my mind in a rut. I am in love with a boy, but, although my mother knows nothing about him, she calls him all the lowest things in creation. I know what she says is not true, but it keeps me unsettled.

I have been advised to go into service as a stepping stone for commercial work, for which I am qualified. Would that be the right thing for me to do? Or shall I stay home and have my mind poisoned against every one and so lose my chance of ever marrying and having a happy life?—DESPONDENT.

ANSWER:

The thing for you to do is to leave your mother and strike out for yourself. That will make for the happiness of you both, for probably you get just as much on her nerves as she gets on yours and both of you will be relieved to have the friction ended.

In tradition and story the relationship between mother and daughter is made the most beautiful and tender and sacred one on earth. Mother and daughter are depicted as always adoring each other and as having a perfect sympathy and understanding and living together in peace and harmony. But this alluring picture of mother and daughter love frequently doesn't jibe with the facts. In real life mothers and daughters are often diametrically opposite in temper and taste, and, as the common phrase goes, rub each other the wrong way. Both mother and daughter may be fine women and anxious to do their duty toward each other, but they just simply can't live together without fighting.

Every one of us can recall cases of antagonistic mothers and daughters who made each other perfectly miserable and who seemed to actually hate each other while the daughters lived at home, but who were turned into admiring and adoring friends as soon as the girls married or got jobs in some distant city. So you needn't think you are doing your mother an unkindness when you leave her to lead your own life. She will be as relieved as you are at having the pressure removed, and if she takes the attitude, as she probably will, that you are an ungrateful and undutiful daughter, and that raising a child is a thankless task, don't let that worry you. She has a new grievance and is having the time of her life wallowing in woe.

Certainly a mother who develops an inferiority complex in a child has done it a terrible wrong, because we can only do as much as we think we can do, and to have our faith in ourselves destroyed defeats us before we ever begin.

It is too bad for your mother to have tried to poison your mind against men, but evidently her warnings were not fatal, as you have fallen in love with a nice chap and just know he is all right, no matter what Mamma says about the other men. Hold to that faith, and in the meantime get a job and prove to yourself that you do have the ability to do things and make a success of life.

DEAR MISS DIX—My fiance is 30 years old. Says that he is deeply in love with me, but that the more he thinks about marriage the less he think of it. Four months ago he wanted to get married, but called it off one week before the wedding date because he thought I wasn't quite sure enugh of my love for him. Now I want to marry and settle down, and ever since I have been trying to convince him of my affection, but I am getting nowhere with him and I am wondering if he will ever change his mind. I have opportunities to go out with others. Do you think I had better try to forget this man, even though I am very much in love with him? — PERPLEXED GIRL.

ANSWER:

If you want to get married you had certainly better transfer your affections to some more promising matrimonial prospect, for this re-creant lover who let you down on your very wedding eve will never come up to scratch. Perhaps he did once contemplate marrying you, but when the fateful time of doing so drew near and he got to thinking about the responsibilities of marriage and having to work and support a family, and having to sacrifice his own tastes and habits to please a wife, and saw his freedom go glimmering, why, he just simply got cold feet. And that was that, and it is going to stay that way, and no art or artifice of yours is ever going to drag him to the altar.

Surely you are not silly enough to be taken in by the flimsy excuse he made for calling off the wedding — that he wasn't sure enough of your love. Men have broken engagements for a million things, but never for that, because no man ever suspicions that a woman isn't in love with him. He just knows she is because she couldn't help being.

The best cure for the loss of an old love is to put in a new one, so don't wear the willow for your ex-fiance. Get a new dress that is gay and cheerful and get into circulation again. But don't make the mistake of letting the man who has told you that his attentions are without intentions hang around. He is a dog in the manger who will keep suitors who mean business away from you.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married less than a year to a man fifteen years my senior. I am 36. He is a good provider. He is strong and healthy and doesn't have to work. Sits around the house all day. Doesn't even go out for a little air. Sleeps until 11.30 and expects his breakfast to be waiting for him the moment he makes his appearance. Doesn't believe in love. No use for dogs. Kicks every one that comes across his path. He is as cold as steel. Curses if the slightest thing goes wrong. Never looks at me. Never addresses a word to me. He has got me so nervous that I cannot act natural. Is there a solution to this mess?—MRS. W. B. F.

We Noticed

...That red handkerchiefs to take care of the lipstick problem are the latest leading fashion.

...They come in different shades of red, patterned with black or white or both, in distinctive motifs. There are, for instance, tanagralike figurines silhouetted in black in one corner of a scarlet hankie; and another in darker red has two large fans outlined in white.

...Several have little mottos written out, such as one with a lipstick motive across which is written: "Quelques secondes d'entreacte pour un petit raccord," which means in English: "A few minutes off for light repairs."

Municipal Vote Campaigns Draw To Close

(By the Canadian Press.)

Candidates for municipal offices in scores of Ontario municipalities wound up their election campaign today and awaited voting Monday that will determine citizens' representatives, possibly for long terms.

Qualification deadline for most voting municipalities was one week ago tonight with acclamations comparatively few in view of Premier Hepburn's announcement that the government plans to make terms of all authorities elected Monday, or at the balance of municipal elections January 1, last two years or for the duration of the war, as an economy measure.

Such cities as Belleville, London, Galt, Stratford and North Bay and a score of towns returned mayors by acclamation. Mayor H. G. Robertson, the entire council and other officials of the town of Barrie took power by acclamation, thus making an election unnecessary.

Other acclamations came in various positions of townships and villages but in most municipalities elections are necessary to determine representatives.

Some Hot Spots

Voting battles of interest for the position of Chief Magistrate were promised at many points, including Chatham, Kitchener, Niagara Falls, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa is opposed by S. L. Declaire and Finley McCrae. At Hamilton, William Morrison after four years as mayor is opposed by Controller B. W. Hopkins.

Carl D. Hanniwell stepped from the mayor's seat at Niagara Falls and qualified to run as Hydro commissioner against Thomas Barnes. Three persons seek his position, including Alderman Clara W. Dwidale.

Victor Lauriston, noted author, seeks election as mayor of Chatham while Major J. J. Zink watches from the sidelines. Lauriston will be opposed by Ald. Douglas Kerr and W. C. Hubbell. Mayor George Gordon is not running for the position at Kitchener where Ald. Joe Meinzinger, who instituted a police department inquiry several months ago, is seeking the office against A. J. Cundick and A. Schaefer.

Many other points, including the City of Toronto, will not hold elections until New Year's Day.

Slices Off Hand It Offended Him

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 2—(AP)— Elbert Snyder, 24, said yesterday "the Lord told me to cut off the hand that offended my body," —so he did.

Calmly smoking a cigarette, he displayed the stump of his arm and told interviewers at a hospital:—

"Shortly after my hand offended me, I prayed and asked the Lord what to do. Somehow I recalled that it says in the Bible to cut off the hand that offends the body.

"I knew it was a message from God, so I rushed out into the yard and grabbed up the axe. I put my right hand—the hand that had tried to blacken my whole body—on the chopping block and cut it off."

The youth said the hand's "offence" was in misusing some church literature. He related he did not mind the pain and added:—

"The minute I had chopped off my hand I began to feel better."

British Air Defences Stand Test Of All German Raids To Date

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP-Cable)—After a survey of Britain's air defences, military authorities said Friday they are "quite satisfied with what has happened up to date."

So far Germany has directed only desultory raids on Britain, most of them for intelligence purposes, but enemy casualties have been relatively high.

Even when naval stations like Rosyth have been raided fighter planes and ground guns had comparatively little trouble beating them off and limiting damage from the bombs.

The military lull which has existed almost since the first day of the war has been of great benefit to the air defences of Britain because it has given time to build up a fleet of fighter planes which are the primary weapon against sky raiders.

Authorities maintain strict secrecy of the number of planes built and pilots trained in this period, but there can be no doubt that the figures are surprisingly high.

Military authorities, illustrating the advance in aerial defences since the last war, said it takes far less ammunition to destroy a plane today. Hundreds of rounds were used in 1914-18 to bring down a plane but nowadays, due to the latest types of detectors, range-finders, altitude calculators, speed indicators and other mechanical gadgets the saving of ammunition is considerable.

In addition, of course, there has been great improvement in the design of the guns themselves.

The air defences of Britain are designed to deal with wave after wave of bombers attacking the country in a desperate attempt to win a blitzkrieg for Germany. Although the German high command has not attempted this intensive form of aerial warfare yet, the defences are being maintained at that pitch and even strengthened.

ships was made by G. Wilson Craw, member of the Board of Education, and Ald. James Dutton presented the W. G. Morrow scholarships. Mr. Dutton, member of the Advisory Vocational Committee, voiced appreciation of the generosity of Miss Nicholls and Mr. Morrow in establishing scholarships at the Collegiate. He said they ha drealized a responsibility to their community in establishing a fund to make yearly awards to successful students and that they were still contributing to the progress of this city. He reminded the scholarship winners that the success they attained in securing the awards was only the fore-runner to even greater success in after life if they applied the same characteristics they had shown in school life.

Members of the staff presented graduation diplomas and certificates and Dr. A. Moir, chairman of the Board of Education's Committee on Appointments, presented the Edith Murphy Memorial scholarships. Dr. F. C. Neal presented Captain Bill Hurl with the Neal Football trophy, emblematic of the championship of Central Ontario.

The importance of a thorough knowledge of the history of Canada and the British Empire was stressed by Mrs. D. Loucks, regent of the Peter Robinson chapter of the I. O. D. E. when she made presentation of history prizes on behalf of her organization. Miss Margaret White and Miss Helen McGregor presented staff prizes, and Dr. Kenner made the award of the Mellville C. The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 3.

Sunday's horoscope is a favorable one for social, affectional, group and organization activities, but these may be made inharmonious and ineffectual by over-indulgence, recklessness, or impulsive words and deeds. Be particularly careful not to offend superiors or elders, and also be discreet with all correspondence and other writings.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very lively and prosperous year in domestic, social and affectional matters, or in those forms of business relating to them. Artistic and musical affairs thrive, but writings are under an adverse sign. Impetuous, rash and tumultuous moods are perilous, particularly where elders, superiors or employers are involved. Keep calm and poised.

A child born on this day may be social and artistically inclined, with many talents and charms, although it may have its moments of rash, impulsive and turbulent moods. It may have fair success if it exercises self-control.

For Monday, December 4.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of extremely sudden and surprising events, probably of far-reaching effect on the future destiny. Events of major importance bound into being with the force and unexpectedness of a whirlwind. These make for definite progress or unprecedented prosperity, perhaps in connection with large corporations, diplomatic, political or fraternal organizations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a sudden avalanche of events, descending with precipitancy and breath-taking surprise. These events may have far-reaching developments, making for unexpected progress and prosperity, with corporations, secret bodies, political or diplomatic groups figuring conspicuously. There is hint of a bequest or other windfall in this swift-moving visitation.

A child born on this day may be progressive, of large ideas and ideals, especially for reform. It may be reactionary, original, and independent. It may have fine scientific or inventive abilities. Perhaps it may be a bit spectacular or erratic.

French Chamber Seeks Easier Budget Voting

PARIS, Dec. 2 (P).—Parliament, having approved Premier Daladier's power to govern France by decree for the duration of the war, turned its attention today to providing funds for the conflict.

Resuming its session parliament had before it a bill to simplify the method of voting on the budget during hostilities, foreshadowing discussion of Finance Minister Paul Reynaud's first war budget, scheduled for next week.

Daladier was the winner last night in twice staking his office on the decree issue. The chamber of deputies first voted confidence in his government, 309 to 198, then approved, 318 to 175, continuation of the decree power which otherwise would have expired last night.

Le Populaire, newspaper of the former Socialist Premier Leon Blum, interpreted the opposition votes as a "warning" that parliament "does not intend to be held a negligible quantity."

The Socialists objection to the decree powers is based partly on fear that the deputies might be excluded from participating in peace negotiations — a subject on which they have their own particular ideas. They argue that Daladier's power runs for the duration of war, and that a war does not end until a peace treaty is signed.

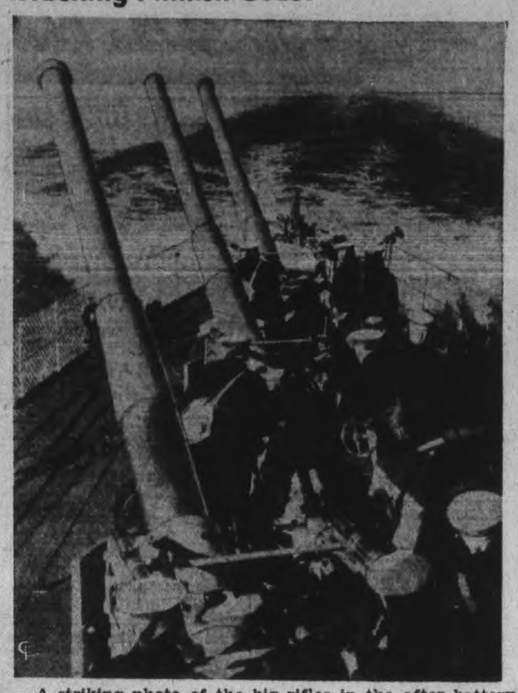
Blum, who led the opposition in the day-long struggle in the chamber of deputies, declared, "I do not intend to play politics but I refuse to accept the text of a law that would transfer totalitarian powers into the hands of the government without any control by the chambers."

"Democracies," replied Daladier in this statement, "find themselves in the presence of other regimes which can act rapidly and in secret.

"I cannot continue my task unless the powers I ask are voted."

Parliament will be asked to ratify his decrees every month, provided it happens to be in session at the time, Daladier promised. Further than that he declined to go.

Attacking Finnish Coast



A striking photo of the big rifles in the after battery of the Soviet warship Yakov-Sverdlov as they went into action against a mythical foe during recent manoeuvres in the Baltic. On November 30 these guns again went into action as Russia began to "defend itself" against Finnish "aggression" by bombarding Finnish cities and towns from the air, land and sea.

50 P.C. Standing On Year's Work Needed To Pass Middle School

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Students in Ontario High Schools must attain a 50 per cent standing on their year's work in order to obtain a Middle School pass in 1940, according to a statement issued by the Provincial Minister of Education, Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, yesterday, in connection with the recent announcement that Middle School examinations are to abolished.

Upper School pupils will have to attain a 66 per cent rating or they will have to write examination if they wish to gain a departmental certificate. In 1941, all Upper School students will have to take examinations.

"There shall be no appeal to the minister from the decision of the principal and his staff, but the special revising board will give consideration to cases in which, by reason of illness or other special circumstances, such consideration is warranted," the statement said.

OBITUARY

HOWARD F. JACKSON

BANCROFT, Dec. 2 (ENS) — Howard Francis Jackson, aged 71 years, colored, was found dead at his home on Tuesday afternoon when his son returned from a trip to a grocery store three miles distant.

About a year ago Mr. Jackson came with his 14-year-old son from the United States and purchased the farm which is known as the "Leanit Ranch" and is situated three miles west of Green's Corner. He was in his usual good health when his son left home.

Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson pronounced death due to a heart attack.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon. Rev. W. J. Davis conducted the services at the home and at the graveside. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Dewan Advises Short Courses Upon Farm Work

TORONTO, Dec. 3—(CP).—The more farm folk elevate rural life, the less legislation will be needed, Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, said yesterday in an address to the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario.

He urged that women interest themselves and young rural dwellers in the short courses in agriculture and home economics conducted each fall by the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

The Federation decided that the local W.I. branches and the Provincial Board of Directors will be registered under the War Charities Act for war work. The provincial board will raise a special fund for emergency services.

Mrs. Ernest Duke of Port Carling was elected president of the Federation. Lady Tweedsmuir is honorary president and Mrs. T. J. McDowell of Milverton and Miss Mary A. Clarke, superintendent of Ontario Women's Institutes are honorary vice-presidents.

Executive directors named included: Mrs. T. L. Nickle, Madoc; Mrs. J. D. Stewart; Mrs. J. D. Ewart, Thornton; F. Fell, Proton Station; Mrs. E. L. Clarke, Kenora.

Additional directors named included: Mrs. W. D. Payne, Kemptville; Mrs. Thomas Scanlin, Tamworth; Mrs. Noble Perrin, Cameron; Mrs. L. S. Eller, Falconbridge; Mrs. J. Lothian, Monteith; Mrs. William Hilliard, Kagawong; Mrs. C. J. Russell, Port Arthur.

FDR Sees Seaway Needed Now More Than Ever

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—(AP).—President Roosevelt said Friday at a press conference that he believes a St. Lawrence waterway power treaty between Canada and the United States is more necessary than ever.

An upturn in manufacturing on both sides of the border led to the belief, he said when questioned about a treaty with Canada.

The St. Lawrence waterway, he added, embraced the potential future shortage rather than existing needs in both countries.

A proposed waterway treaty was rejected by the United States Senate several years ago.

The president said there was no immediate emergency in the electric power supply for the United States and that private power companies, in planning expansion of supply, could find needed funds at the reconstruction finance corporation if they failed to get the money in Wall Street.

The power question arose at the president's press conference when a reporter sought Mr. Roosvelt's views on conferences planned this week by private companies to survey power needs both as to defence measures and as to normal requirements.

Howard Block Is Sold In Hastings

HASTINGS, Dec. 2 (ENS).—Announcement was made here yesterdty of the purchase by Arthur Fleming of the Howard Block, previously owned by Mrs. Nora Watt of Montreal. The building is located on the south-west corner of the main intersection at Bridge and Front Streets here, and is one of the larger constructions in this village. The sale was made last week but the price paid for the three-storey building was not revealed by Mr. Fleming. He said one of the large second-storey rooms would be turned into a public hall.

Why Army Huts?

To Bring Help and Comfort to Our Boys In France!

Canadian people will remember with satisfaction the work of the Knights of Columbus in the last war in establishing religious and recreational facilities and providing Creature comforts for soldiers of all nationalities and creeds, where the widely accepted slogan was "EVERYONE WELCOME AND EVERYTHING FREE."

To-day, the same urgent need exists and His Excellency the head of the Canadian Catholic Chaplain Service approved and urges the campaign with the significant words: "I make a very special appeal to all to help the Knights of Columbus reach their objective."

DECEMBER 3rd to 11th

Are the dates on which a nation-wide campaign will be sponsored and led by the Knights of Columbus in the name of all Canadian Catholics in an endeavour to raise the sum of

$200,000 For Canadian Army Huts

TIME IS BRIEF, YOUR HELP IS VITAL

While the appeal is made primarily to Catholics, the humanitarian nature of the undertaking will doubtless receive the financial support of peoples of all denominations.

THE PRESENT WAR IS AGAINST CHRISTIANITY AND YOUR HOME

True Patriotism a Matter of Deeds Rather Than Words. This campaign is conducted under the provisions of the War Charities Act 1939, and the Secretary of State has issued a certificate of registration.

All Will Share Alike

A quotation from one of the many letters from the Canadian Hierarchy, "to the many who can help in no other way, the giving of a substantial contribution towards the moral care and the material comfort of our soldiers, should be counted a privilege and a duty."

Honorary Officers

Great Humanitarian Effort

No more eloquent tribute could be offered for the generous and equitable distribution of the Knights of Columbus Catholic Hut Fund in the last Great War than the words of the late General Sir Arthur Currie who said: "I know that men of every denomination were accorded the same cordial welcome, and that all received the same generous treatment."

JOHNSON.—On November 21, 1939, at St. Joseph's Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. F. Johnson, the gift of a daughter, Doyne Sharlene.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edgerton, 337 St. Joseph street, wish to announce the engagement of their third daughter, Emma May, to Arnold Willard Thompson Cinnamon of Tofield, Alta (formerly of Bailieboro), son of Mr. John Cinnamon and the late Mrs. Cinnamon of Clarke, Ont. The marriage to take place quietly the end of December, in Edmonton, Alberta.

The engagement is announced of Gwen. Kelly, daughter of Mrs. James William Kelly and the late Mr. Kelly of Peterborough, to Mr. Gerald Andrew Gordon, Schumacher, son of Mrs. E. L. Gordon and the late Mr. Gordon, Kenora. The marriage will take place on January 1, in Peterborough.

DIED

DOHERTY, Mrs. John. — At her residence, Lot 22, Con. 9, Otonabee, on Saturday morning December 2, Mrs. John Doherty (Elizabeth Heffernan). Funeral Monday morning from the residence, to the Sacred Heart Church, for Requiem Mass at 10 o'clock. Interment St. Peter's Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

HARRIS. — In loving memory of Evelyn Isobel Harris, who departed this life December 2, 1936.

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again
Where parting is no more;
And our dear Evelyn, we loved so well,
Has only gone before.
God knows how much we miss you
And counts the tears we shed,
And whispers, "Hush, she only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead."
Some day, some time, our eyes will see
The face we loved so well;
Some day, some time, her hand we'll clasp
And never say farewell.

—Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Sisters, Brother Bill.

RICHMOND.—In loving memory of a dear wife and daughter, Mrs. Harold Richmond, who passed away one year ago, December 3, 1938.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
Her weary trials and sorrows are past;
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.

—Lovingly remembered by her Husband; parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Revoy, and Family.

KROGH. — In loving memory of Leif E. Krogh, son of Brigadier and Mrs. Edward Krogh of Norway, who entered into rest December 3, 1935.

The heavenly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said, "Come";
And with farewells unspoken,
He gentle entered home.

—Lovingly remembered by his wife, Muriel Krogh.

McCULLOCH. — In memory of mother, Mrs. Hugh McCulloch, who died December 3, 1935.

In Little Lake peacefully sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
The one we could not save.
And deep in our hearts is a picture
Worth more than silver or gold,
It's a picture of you, dear mother,
Whose memory will never grow old.

—Ever remembered by her Sons and Daughters.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

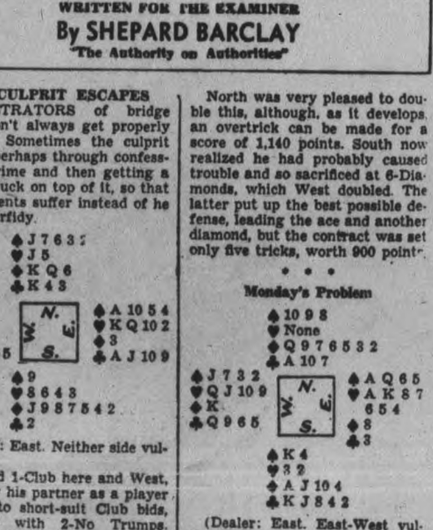
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE CULPRIT ESCAPES

PERPETRATORS of bridge crimes don't always get properly punished. Sometimes the culprit escapes perhaps through confessing his crime and then getting a break of luck on top of it, so that his opponents suffer instead of he for his perfidy.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East bid 1-Club here and West, who knew his partner as a player addicted to short-suit Club bids, responded with 2-No Trumps. When East now bid 3-No Trumps, South stuck in the absurd call of 4-Diamonds. This only egged West on with his big hand, and he went to 6-Clubs.

North was very pleased to double this, although, as it develops, an overtrick can be made for a score of 1,140 points. South now realized he had probably caused trouble and so sacrificed at 6-Diamonds, which West doubled. The latter put up the best possible defense, leading the ace and another diamond, but the contract was set only five tricks, worth 900 points.

Monday's Problem

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If East bids 1-Heart, South 2-Clubs, West 2-Hearts and North 3-Diamonds, why should East not now bid Spades?

Marmora Boys Of Hastings Unit Honored At Send-off Banquet

MARMORA, Dec. 2.—(ENS)—Marmora town hall was filled to overflowing on Friday evening for the farewell banquet given in honor of Marmora district members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and other branches of military service, tendered by citizens of Marmora district under direction of Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion.

Catering was in the capable hands of Marmora Women's Institute, the Ladies' Auxiliary and volunteer helpers. So large was the attendance that two sittings were needed at the banquet.

At its conclusion Col. A. V. Yates, M.C., V.D., presided as toastmaster. After "The King" had been duly honored, T. E. Pritchard, song leader, led in community singing with Mrs. Gordon Davis at the piano and Mr. Davis accompanying on the traps.

Following an address of welcome by Reeve W. R. Linn, Miss Flora Sanderson sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" in pleasing voice. In proposing "Our Empire," Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher struck a note of enthusiasm which was sustained in all succeeding speeches.

The Empire As A Unit

Dr. Fletcher remarked that though he was proud of his Canadian blood as others might be it was not enough. He must think of the Empire which was made of units and was all the stronger thereby. Canada is a strong part of this Empire. No Empire is so able as the British to do the world such good as it does because no Empire has such widespread people. Referring to his visit to many of the States of the Union and also to his visit to each Canadian province, the speaker said: "The states isn't any more democratic than we are. We are still able to criticize ourselves. They cannot do this in Russia, Germany, Japan and Italy.

"The best days of our Empire are not the golden days of the past. We do not look back except to learn the lessons of history. We look forward to the better days ahead. It will have dividends to reap from its investments in manhood that will made the angels sing songs of joy and gladness."

Homeland To Be Proud Of

Col. C. H. Ackerman, replying to the toast, pointed out that since he had last addressed a gathering in Marmora, he had seen more of the Empire to which we belong. He turned from his visit to South Africa a better member of the Empire and a greater admirer of Canada. To the younger people who had chosen to start off on a great adventure, he would say that in addition to the adventure they were carrying the responsibility of representing the senior empire of the commonwealth of nations.

Col. Ackerman next referred to his good fortune to have served with Lt.-Col. Sherman Young, OC., of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment as a fellow combatant in the 2nd Battalion and gave his hearers an intimate sketch of this commanding officer. A further brief allusion to his South African visit and his interview with General Smuts was followed by his concluding reference to the bands on the British ships welcoming the convoy of the 1st Canadian Division in the last war with "The Maple Leaf Forever." He anticipated a repetition of this the first Canadian troops again near the shores of England and said to those being honored: "I hope if you have that experience you will record it and let us have your description of the reaction when you come back."

A comic song, "We'll Never Hell Hitler" by Charles Cummings with "I Love A Lassie" as encore had a mirth-provoking effect upon the large gathering.

"We Are Not Afraid."

A striking speech was given by Rev. Father H. J. Farrell in proposing "Canadian Active Service Force." At the outset Father Farrell referred to the insecurity of many events in life which were received with complacency. "We take it for granted that day will follow day in an unbroken chain like the sun sets in the west to rise again at the dawn of another day. Then we are shaken by a catastrophe which comes across our beaten path and that catstrophe is war.

"We are not afraid," he declared, "but we are rudely shocked because we have gone so long in peace and harmony. For us there is no questioning of our duty and what we must do. Ours is to obey, for our nation is at war as England is at war."

Speaking in particular to the soldiers present, Father Farrell said, "Active service will take you away from your homes later aercss the boundless deep to the welcoming shores of England, after that to France and the battlefield. To all in active service we will say, 'God-speed,' and place them in the hands of God to protect them and bring them back to the harbor of peace."

Finishing a Job.

Response to the toast was made by Captain George Gimblett, Peterborough, who asserted that the men on active service to-day were going to carry on what the fighters in the last war failed to finish. Addressing the honored guests, he said: "You are going to have your eyes opened in more ways than one. In the last few days we had had another instance of what we are fighting. Every Canadian with red blood in his veins was shocked to read of Russia attacking Finland. It is a case of religion fighting against atheism." Captain Gimblett concluded by extending greetings of the Canadian Legion of Peterborough to the Marmora Branch.

Praying For You.

The toast to "Our Boys" to have been proposed by Reeve T. B. Wright of Deloro, was taken in his unavoidable absence by W. L. Rigg who referred to similar gatherings during the early months of the last war, and as the boys filed before his said, "We shall be thinking and praying for you." Coupled with the toast was the name of Nursing Sister Nancy Wright, who was also present. The presentation of wrist watches from the residents of Marmora and comforts from the residents of Deloro was then made by Mrs. S. B. Wright after the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows." Sergeant R. C. Gray, one of the recipients, spoke briefly in appreciative terms, after which George Woodhouse was applauded for "It's a Dear Old Land is the Motherland," rendering as an encore, "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall."

Following short speeches by Capt. D. A. Loomis, Peterborough, Reeve J. A. Bell, Marmora Township, and Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, the gathering broke up to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne."

accepted a request by Kruusinen that Moscow establish diplomatic relations with his government.

The news agency published a declaration by this group indicating it considered itself a provisional government with plans to re-organize on a Soviet pattern "immediately upo narrival in Helsinfors."

(Publication of the statement by Tass gave it color as a likely description of Russia's aims for the future of Finland.)

Kuusinen's statement attacked both the Government of former Premier Aimo Cajander and its successor, headed by Premier Risto Ryti.

"Having sold the interests of the country's independence," it said, "the plutocractic rulers of Finland and Soviet peoples ceaselessly hatched plans of anti-Soviet war provocations and finally plunged our country into the furnace of war against the Soviet Union—the great friend of the Finnish people.

Finn Toilers Revolt.

"In this critical situation, wide masses of the Finnish toiling people who always desired and desire to live in peace with the peoples of the country of the Soviets, consider it their elementary right and their sacred duty to take the fate of the fatherland into their own reliable hands."

Already, it said, "the first Finnish army corps" had been formed.

Inviting aid of the red troops, the statement said the "People's" Government "regard them as invaluable assistance to the Finnish people on the part of the Soviet union for the purpose of eliminating as soon as possible by joint effort the most dangerous seat of war created in Finland by the criminal government of war provocateurs."

The new Finnish cabinet headed by Premier Ryti came in for denunciation by Commissar Molotoff also. He said its formation "unfortunately does not improve matters."

Molotoff said Vaino Tanner, finance minister in the old cabinet and retained as foreign minister in the new one, was "and undoubtedly remains the evil genius in Soviet-Finnish negotiations."

Tanner was a member of the Finnish delegation to Moscow in negotiations preceding the conflict. Molotoff said his participation "spoiled the whole matter."

Premier Risto Ryti declared:—

"We are willing to negotiate every issue that may arise between two neighboring nations, but we will not consent to barter away our independence, nor our right to decide our own affairs."

Ryti, whose speech was read by an assistant, asserted, "ours is a struggle of peace-loving people for everything that they hold dear in life.

"The whole world is our witness that this defensive struggle is justified and is in keeping with every law that governs the existence of a nation. For this reason, the people fight with a pure conscience."

As the premier announced Finland's determination to carry on, flames crackled through the capital, where 30 women and children were reported killed yesterday as Soviet warplanes bombed and machine-gunned the working class district.

There was no naval bombardment of Helsingfors but cities elsewhere on the southern coast were reported to have been shelled heavily by the Red fleet.

Early today snow began falling on the capital, raising hopes of the populace of a "whiteout" which would hide objectives from enemy bombers.

Reports from the battle zone on the Karelian Isthmus, between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, indicated that Finnish troops were holding fast without serious losses. Official sources said 36 or more Soviet tanks had been destroyed on this front.

To cheer the embattled Finns came word a Russian warship had been sunk by shore batteries in a heavy bombardment of the Russaroe fortress at the strategic city of Hango, which guards the entrance to the Gulf of Finland.

(Dispatches from Stockholm said the vessel had been identified in a Finnish broadcast as the 8,500-ton cruiser Kirov with 500 men aboard.)

(Later Reuters news agency said it appeared an unidentified Soviet destroyer had been sunk, but that the Kirov still was afloat.)

A defence ministry communique said the Hango fort had not been damaged, but that the Russian naval bombardment had set fire to two towns on the island of Sourssaart in the Gulf of Finland.

On the 800-mile frontier, extending from the Gulf of Finland to the Arctic Ocean, the communique reported three separate battles in two of which, it said, the Finns had repulsed the Russians.

Russians Pay Dearly

Finnish casualties were reported small. The Russians were said to have suffered "large" losses.

The heaviest fighting, according to the communique, occurred at Soujarvi, about 65 miles north of Lake Ladoga, where Finnish machine-gun fire was said to have "annihilated two enemy companies to the last man."

The communique reported a Russian assault "was thrown back with heavy counterfire" south of Myllyjarvi. Hundreds of Russians were said to have been captured in the fighting on the southeastern front and 16 Soviet tanks put out of action.

"At least 16 and perhaps 18 or more" Russian planes were shot down during the day—including several over Helsingfors, while the Finnish air force suffered "no losses at all," the communique added.

Roads outside Helsingfors were crowded with trucks, automobiles, and wagons carrying women and children from the danger area. Railroad stations were jammed with refugees seeking less precarious residences inland.

Business was almost at a standstill in Helsingfors. Only a few stores were operating.

An air raid alarm was sounded this morning but no planes appeared over the city and an all clear signal quickly followed.

Sight 40 Captive Ships

Ploughing through the spume-swept waters along the Chalk Cliffs of the southern coast we sighted 40 ships held by the contraband control with many more so far back in the haze we could not count them reliably. But we didn't catch any mines.

A group commander, the man in charge of our sweep, explained that the sweep mechanism clung fairly close to the seabottom, catching mines in the wide arc it tracked and cutting their mooring with wire.

Unmoored mines, he said, floated to the surface and there were exploded by a gunner on his lookout or that of some following ship. Earlier we saw naval officers who are in charge of these new recruits for Britain's sea might.

On the wharf the commander appeared among a group of trawler crews who lounged around with cigarettes in their mouths and hands in their pockets—in sharp distinction to the attention-snapping naval lads.

The commander told us that soon after the war started and the rum ration was issued he received a letter forwarded by his chief from a trawler skipper which read:

"Sir, me and my mates is seeing rats in our ship.

"Respectfully,

"John Johnson,

"Master."

The commander promptly cut off the rum ration thinking that the lads were suffering from D.T.'s.

It was found subsequently that they were not drinking rum but had rats in their hold. He got the local rat-catcher to round them up, restored the ration, and everybody was happy.

Claim Red Arms

The Red army is really three armies. Only the western force was hurled against the Finnish frontier. The others are in the south and in the Far East.

Altogether, the Soviet land forces consisted not long ago of 1,500,000 men, supported by 16,500,000 trained reserves, according to the United States Army's official command and general staff school quarterly. Those called to the colors in recent months have swelled the number under arms beyond 2,000,000, it is believed. Neutral military professionals say the Soviets have 3,000 to 5,000 tanks in service.

Carefully-weighed official reports credit the Soviets with nearly 8,000 military planes of all types.

One small detachment of Finnish infantry, surrounded by the Russians near Petsamo mountain, was said to have fought its way through the Soviet lines.

A steady stream of Finnish refugees continued, meanwhile, to pour over the border into Norway. Approximately 300 women and children, crowded into trucks driven by boys 12 or 14 years old, crossed ice and snow to reach the Norwegian border town of Svanvik yesterday.

Most public buildings in Svanvik and other frontier villages have been converted into barracks for refugees. Schools, in some instances, have been converted into hospitals in expectation of an influx of wounded Finnish soldiers.

Naval and aerial bases on Finnish soil and title to some islands in the Gulf of Finland also were demanded.

The red army reported it had "passed" the town of Terijoki, on the Isthmus. (Finns said they still held the town.)

It was there that the so-called "people's government of the democratic republic of Finland" was established, with the Finnish communist Otto Kuusinen as premier.

This regime, announced by Tass, Soviet news agency, and over the Moscow radio station, was said by these sources to have "invited" the red army to help it overthrow the present Finnish government.

He is Flying Officer Reginald C. Graveley, seen with Mrs. Graveley and son John. He won the Order of the British Empire (military division) for his heroism in a burning plane. The ship he was piloting was shot down by an enemy fighter and as it crashed, it burst into flame. Graveley, though badly wounded, dragged his unconscious observer to safety and then ran back to rescue the gunner.

Money Plentiful So Bank Says

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP).—Money is plentiful in Canada to-day and possibly never before has there been so many bank notes in the pockets of the people, in office tills and safes and in the proverbial sock.

The monthly summary of the Bank of Canada placed the daily average active note circulation of Bank of Canada and chartered bank notes at 251,000,000,000 for October.

The average has jumped $44,000,000 since August when it was $207,000,000, and in October a year ago it was $220,000,000, with the average for the 1938 being $205,00,000. These figures do not include bank notes in possession of the chartered banks.

Financial experts here emphasize that this increase does not indicate inflation. The huge wheat crop brought large amounts of money into circulation, it was explained, and payment to troops on active service contributed to putting additional sums into the hands of the public. Slight increase in commodity prices also assisted in producing the upswing.

The Bank of Canada figures do not include United States' currency in circulation in Canada and with the Canadian dollar at a discount, U.S. dollars normally in Canada have returned across the border and Canadian bank notes have taken their place. This is another factor entering into the increase.

Of the $251,000,000 in circulation in October, $154,300,000 were Bank of Canada notes and the balance notes of the chartered banks. The increase in note circulation was largely responsible for the steady increase in the total liabilities and assets of the Bank of Canada since Canada entered the war.

Russia's relations with many important countries for years will be colored and influenced by her indefensible treatment of Finland."

Moscow Says Troops Only In Finland To Help The People

MOSCOW, Dec. 4—(AP).—Russia claimed today her army was advancing both in the north and south against the Finns and that her navy was making sweeping attacks in the Baltic and had captured a group of strategic Finnish islands in the Gulf of Finland.

Simultaneously the press at home denied she intended to convert Finland into a dependent country and attacked "the democracies,' naming Great Britain, France and the United States.

Pravda, Communist Party organ, said editorially that the mutual assistance treaty signed Saturday between Russia and a Communist-led "people's" regime "eliminates for ever the causes of mutual distrust and lays the foundation for a firm and indestructible friendship."

It added: "It would be unnecessary to prove that none of the "democratic' powers, let us say Britain, France or the United States, had ever agreed to sign a similar pact with such a small and weak country as Finland.

"Any of the 'democratic' countries would have preserred to use their strong armies for occupation of Finnish territory and for the conversion of Finland into a dependent

Finland Seeks Peace But With Honor; Army Fights Fiercely

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 4—(AP).—Finland sought a peaceful way today to settle her differences with Soviet Russia without sacrificing her independence or vital interests.

But while an answer from Moscow was awaited, Finnish forces reported inflicting heavy casualties on the invaders, and the civilians left in this capital steeled themselves for air raids they feared would be the most destructive of the war so far.

The Finnish command said the Russians had lost heavily when their troops crashed through the thin ice along Finland's lake-studded frontier, or had been mowed down by sharpshooters and machinegunners guarding the frozen lakes.

Several thousand Red army soldiers were reported killed also when they advanced across ground which retreating Finns had mined at Terijoki, alleged birthplace of the Communist-led and Moscow-endorsed Finnish "people's government."

The Finnish radio disclosed the peace effort last night, announcing the Helsingfors government had asked the Swedish legation in Moscow to consult the Kremlin on the possibility of a settlement.

Independence First

A heavy snowstorm which started last night continued this morning, protecting Helsingfors and environs from any repetition of Russian Air raids. Up to early afternoon, no air alarms had been sounded, and none were expected until the weather changed.

The city, however, was almost empty. Such was the fear of new bomb attacks that only soldiers and civilians entrusted with vital tasks remainder.

A Finnish spokesman said he could not deny a report that Elias Erkko, foreign minister during the long negotiations with Moscow, was en route to Stockholm to become

Canadians Flee From War-Torn Petsamo

With their machine-guns chattering, Soviet planes are reported to have dived down on refugees fleeing from Petsamo, Finnish Arctic port, where the International Nickel Company have a plant. Several Canadians, employed by the company, are reported to have reached safety in Norway and reported that Petsamo was in flames as Finnish and Soviet troops engaged in field fighting. Later reports stated the Finns had beaten back the Russians and that the only Russians in Petsamo were 150 prisoners. Petsamo is shown with the International Nickel plant indicated by the arrow.

Conant Supports Barlow's Court Shakeup

TORONTO, Dec. 4 — (CP). — Measures may be introduced at the January session of the Ontario Legislature to implement at least some of the proposals made by F. H. Barlow, K.C., Master of the Supreme Court in his report on the judicial system in Ontario, Attorney-General Gordon Conant indicated today.

"I have in mind the possibility of submitting to the Legislature at least some of the suggestions made by Mr. Barlow but at the moment I cannot specify which they will be," the Attorney-General explained.

He said he "agreed strongly" with some of the Barlow recommendations, considered other suggestions to be matters for more mature consideration and study and, in the case of a few of the proposals failed to recognize their desirability. "However, I can say that I am in accord with the greater part of the report," he added.

The Attorney-General indicated his belief that Ontario's judicial system, a creation of the "horse and buggy days" was "due of a complete revamping."

He indicated he considers the Barlow proposal for the creation of "Assize Court districts" each to include several counties, to be the most important recommendations in the report, and it is considered probable that this suggestion may be incorporated into an amendment to the Judicature Act.

Both Criminal, Civil.

Mr. Conant probably would go even farther. Mr. Barlow proposed only that district assize courts should be set up only for the trial of criminal cases. The Attorney General, at the moment at least, is considering the possibility of separate district assize courts for both criminal and civil cases. Such a course, he explained, would permit adoption of the English practice in which certain high court judges specialize in the trial of criminal cases and others hear only civil cases.

"Such a system would not only make for the better administration of justice but would effect very considerable economy,' Mr. Conant said. In order that county towns would not suffer any loss of prestige through the plan, Mr. Conant said that the assize court sittings could be held in turn in each of the counties included in the "assize court district."

However, he said that the fundamental advantage of the proposal

3,000 Red Troops Start New Petsamo Attack

SVANIK, Norway—(At the Finnish Frontier)—Dec. 4—(AP)—Three thousand Soviet Russian soldiers were reported today to have been landed at various points on Petsamo Fjord, northernmost Finland, while immense clouds of smoke were sighted over Nickel Works near Salmijarvi.

The report of the new landings was brought into Norway by I. J. Simcox, manager for the International Nickel Company of Canada in the Salmijarvi area, who reached Kirkenes after a tour of inspection of the properties.

The smoke over the Salmijarvi nickel properties could be seen from Svanvik. They appeared to be ablaze. The smoke was sighted after Simcox returned to Kirkenes. Earlier he had found the nickel works still undamaged.

Fighting continued in the region around Petsamo, at the head of Petsamo Fjord, about 30 miles east northeast of Salmijarvi, accompanied by the flight of civilians.

Among refugees arriving at Svanvik this morning was a mother with a baby born on the way across the border over a snow-drifted road.

Rome Students Menace Soviet Embassy

ROME, Dec. 4.—(AP). —Grenadiers and Carabinieri guarded the Soviet Russian embassy to-day as a throng of students marched on it to demonstrate against the Soviet Union.

The students gathered first in front of the Finnish Legation, where they cheered Finland. It was the second such demonstrations in 3 days.

Uniformed Fascists were among the throng estimated at 3,000 which on Saturday shouted anti-Bolshevist slogans in front of the Soviet embassy for a half hour before marching to the Finnish legation for sympathetic manifestations.

A crowd of about 1,000 before the Finnish Legation to-day cheered Finland and Booed Russia.

"Resist! Fight!" demonstrators shouted.

The Finnish Minister appeared three times on a balcony, bowed and thanked the youths for their sympathy.

The demonstrators, unlike those of Saturday, were not in uniform.

Following the minister's third appearance the youths moved off in the direction of the Russian Embassy, shouting "Long Live Finland!" and "Down with Russia, Stalin, and Bolshevism!"

U.K. Offers 9 Cts. For All Bacon Canada Can Sell

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 — (CP). — Canada undertakes to supply Britain with 4,480,000 pounds of bacon weekly under an agreement with the United Kingdom Government, provisions of which were announced by the Dominion Government today. The price agreed upon for Wiltshire sides will be $20.88 for an English hundredweight of 112 pounds f.o.b. Canadian seaboard.

The British Government undertakes to pay the ocean freight and insurance and to accept from Canada up to 5,600,000 pounds of bacon and hams weekly if Canada finds itself able to exceed the volume it undertakes to provide.

(A report in London was to the effect that Canada would have a weekly market in the United Kingdom for 500,000 pounds of bacon and ham, but here this figure was viewed as erroneous.)

To insure that Canada will be able to keep up the weekly deliveries agreed upon, it will be necessary for the Dominion Government to build up machinery to control the bacon market in Canada. This machinery will deal with the packers. While Britain will pay a fixed price, Canadian hog prices will vary having regard to the seasonal costs of producing hogs ready for the market each month.

Some Figures.

As an indication of how greatly Canada's exports of bacon and hams must be increased to fulfil the agreement, Canada's entire exports to the United Kingdom in October, the last month for which figures are available was 17,204,100 pounds for the entire month and for the past 10 months of this year the figure was 138,731,500 pounds.

It was explained that it is cheaper to produce hogs ready for the market in November than in May, so if the hog price were uniform there was be a big surplus in the fall and a deficiency in May. Prices will be adjousted to make movement of hogs on market as nearly uniform as possible.

The agreement will extend until October 31, 1940. The weekly deliveries the Dominion undertakes to provide will mean shipping bacon and hams to the United Kingdom at the rate of 233,000,000 pounds a year, which is still within the quota of 280,000,000 pounds fixed in

Crosses Aboard Destroyer To An Undisclosed French Channel Seaport

Brother Duke Of Gloucester Goes As Escort, Length Of Personal Tour, Secret; Imitates Father Who Made Many War Trips

LONDON, Dec. 4— (CP)— The King has arrived in France on a visit to the troops, it was announced officially today.

The King landed in France this afternoon from a British destroyer.

The King was accompanied by his brother, Major-General the Duke of Gloucester, who is chief liaison officer to Viscount Gort, Britain's commander-in-chief in France.

The communique said the King "intends to make a personal tour of the troops in France during his stay in that country," but did not give the length of his visit.

The King is following in the footsteps of his father, George V, who made repeated visits to troops in Belgium and France in the last war.

The King, as Duke of York, spent the early years of that war at sea and then joined the Royal Air Force and went to the western front in October, 1918.

During a visit to the front in 1915, a horse which George V was riding became startled by the cheering of soldiers and fell back upon the monarch. He was returned to England under medical supervision and was confined to his bed for some time.

Lost Six Ships.

In the week ending December 2, Britain lost six merchant ships totalling 23,272 tons, the Admiralty announced. Six neutral ships aggregating 30,932 tons went down during the same period.

Tonnage sunk during November was one third of that lost in the first month of the war, the announcement said. The improvement was attributed to Britain mine-sweeping and anti-submarine operations.

Since the war began Britain has put out of service 33 German merchant ships with a tonnage of 170,390, and has captured 144 crew members of German submarines, according to the Admiralty statement.

While Germany's policy of attacking merchant ships has cost the lives of 410 British non-combatants, only four German civilians have been killed at sea through hostilities. Their death was caused by the fire of their own submarines, which torpedoed the captured North German Lloyd freighter Borkum last Monday as a British naval prize crew was taking in into port.

Steamer Blows Up

LONDON, Dec. 4—(CP)— The 3,829-ton British steamship Eskdene was sunk today by a mine, it was announced here. The crew of 29 was landed in Scotland.

At the same time it was announced the 1,276-ton Scottish steamship Lairdsglen and the 1,064-ton Findhorn were damaged in mysterious collisions off the west coast during the week-end.

Forts At Last

Helsingfors, Dec. 4 (AP)

FINLAND is fortifying the strategic Aaland Islands guarding the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, it was announced tonight.

A message to this effect has been sent to Joseph Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations, it was stated.

These islands had been the subject of a diplomatic quarrel between Finland and Russia. Finland and Sweden had appealed jointly to the League of Nations for approval of their plan to fortify the islands, but Russia objected on the ground that such a step would bottle up the Russian fleet in the Gulf of Finland.

The issue was debated last June. The league council took no action.

Russia Keeping Diplomats At Fever Tempo

TORONTO, Dec. 4—(AP).—Russia is the big question mark in a Europe marked by unprecedented diplomatic complexities, Prof. G. S. Graham, of the department of history at Queen's University, today told members of the Canadian Club.

Never in history has diplomatic activity been so complex as at present, said the professor, who passed last summer in the Balkans. He said Rumania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria would feel much more secure if they could be certain Russia's recent expansion meant the checking of German ambitions in the Balkans. But the obscurity of Russian designs leaves open the possibility that Moscow and Berlin intend to co-operate in dividing the smaller nations of Europe.

Prof. Graham said his own belief is that Russia has checkmated Germany in the Balkans.

During his tour of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria, Prof. Graham found popular feeling in favor of the Allied cause and strongly anti-German.

"They know a German victory would mean los sof their political independence and they would be squeezed dry as Bulgaria was during the last war," he said.

Primate Advises Peace Terms To Stir Germans

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Most Rev. William Temple, archbishop of York, called on the Allies in a letter to the Daily Telegraph to make clear the basis on which France and Britain would be ready to negotiate peace.

The archbishop said the government was justified in refusing to announce any detailed scheme for a settlement but said Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement on defeat of the "aggressive mentality of the Nazis" might be further clarified "with regard to what would constitute proof of the requisite abandonment of that mentality."

The archbishop recommended that Allies declare they would agree to an armistice only after restoration of free Polish and Czech states, effectively guaranteed. It should be agreed in advance that all unsettled frontier questions be placed before an impartial arbitral body and other issues should be referred to a world conference, the letter said. Partnership in colonial responsibilities under an improved mandatory system would be open to Germany.

Though admitting that such proposals would have no chance of being accepted by the Nazi Government, the archbishop expressed belief that "many Germans may answer 'yes!' in their hearts. And then after a grave military disappointment there may be a real response from Germany."

300 Gdynia Pole Hostages Dig Graves, Then Shot

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(CP-Havas)—Massacre of 300 Polish hostages was charged against German authorities at Gydnia in an official communique issued today by the Polish Government in exile.

According to the statement, 350 Poles from all walks of life, a number of priests among them, were sent from Gdynia to another city. About 300 of them were said to have been shot down singly and in groups in the prison courtyard.

Similar mass executions were reported staged in a number of cities in Pomerania and Posen. At Lendzin Nazis were said to have torn out the tongue of a former Polish deputy in the Danzig parliament.

Those condemned to death were forced to dig their own graves, and then were shot one after another through the head. Those who were to be slain later were obliged to watch, it was said.

Many of the victims died with the cry "Long Live Poland!" on their lips, according to the communique.

Russian Invasion Of Finland Alarming Nazis London Hears—May Toss War Wide Open

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Dec 4.—(CP Cable.)—Reports reaching London from Berlin indicate widespread alarm and consternation exists among the Nazi leaders over Russia's invasion of Finland. Especially is this true in naval and army circles.

Although it is still difficult to assess the relationship between the Russian-Finish war and the bigger conflict between Germany and the Allies, there is a conviction growing in diplomatic quarters here that it will result either in a closer military and economic tie-up between Russia and Germany, or lead to a definite split among the German people over the question of Soviet imperialism in eastern Europe.

If Russia cannot subdue the stubborn resistance of the Finns in a comparatively short time, Joseph Stalin may call on Adolf Hitler to come to his assistance and it is doubtful if the Nazis could afford to refuse.

Sweden, if the conflict continued, might find it impossible to stay neutral and if she took an active part it might throw the war wide open. In that event it would be almost impossible for Europe to conduct two independent wars against the aggressor nations and the tendency would be to consolidate forces against Germany and Russia.

One thing seems to be emerging clearly: Italy has been given the opportunity to turn her back on the Rome-Berlin axis and save her face in the process. Italy, a Catholic nation, has no love for Communism, particularly the world revolution doctrine of the comintern.

Meanwhile there is no indication as to what the British government will do as a result of the Russian action. There is a possibility she will break off diplomatic relations witht the Soviets, but a decision may be delayed until after the meeting of the League of Nations council at Geneva Dec. 9.

The official communtion sent by Joseph Avenol, secretary general of the League, summoning a special meeting of the League Council and of the assembly, is now being considered by the British government. A statement will be made early in the week by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons.

U.S. Treads Easy On Severing Tie With Russia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP) — The United States government was reliably reported today to be proceeding with caution and looking well in the future in studying the possibility of severing diplomatic relations with Russia.

For example, it was said, the United States might be in a better position to participate in a peace conference if relations are maintained. If relations are severed, some persons contend, the United States might make an enemy which would not be desirous of having the United States sit in at a peace conference.

Too, the state department regards as valuable its present channels of information, reports and intelligence.

The government was described as believing that recall of Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt from Moscow for consultation and report would be considered merely a rebuke and be considered merel ya rebuke and not a severance of relations. There is a precedent for such action in the recall for consultation of former Ambassador Hugh Wilson from Berlin.

Reds Blame Dies "Witch Hunt" For N.Y. Raiding

ABERDEEN, Wash., Dec. 4—(AP) —City officials and the "witch hunting campaign of Martin Dies" were blamed today by a communist party official for Saturday night's mob raid on a communist hall here.

Four hundred or more persons besieged communists in the "Workers' Hall" and during the -hour demonstration virtually wrecked the building. No one was injured.

"The Communist Party," said H. P. Huff, county executive secretary of the organization in a statement, "vigorously condemns the wrecking of the hall as an attempt to create war frenzy among the Finnish people, which they have failed to do so with lies and distartion spread by the press and radio in connection with the Finnish-Soviet Union situation."

He blamed city officials for "failure to take action" to prevent the raid and added: "Every thinking citizen knows now that this outbreak of lawless destruction of property is the ripening fruit of the witch hunting campaign of Martin Dies (chairman of the United States House of Representatives committee on un-American activities), the local so-called better business leaders and the local press."

The raid on the hall culminated a week of ill-feeling which arose when communists advertised a "victory" dance in competition with a patriotic meeting of Finnish immigrants and sympathizers—even pasting their posters on top of the Finnish posters. The patriotic meeting was held as scheduled.

Visitors and Comforts Make Pitcairn Islanders Greedy

BOSTON, Dec. 4 — (CP). — Passing ships have brought "greed and unrest" to Pitcairn island, famed haven of the Bounty mutineers, a fifth generation descendant of the little band of Fletcher Christian said today.

"Whereas our forefathers were happy and contented, also sociable among themselves, today the island is full of selfishness," reported David Young, great-great grandson of midshipman Young, one of the 18th century mariners who sought refuge on the south seas island after seizing the Bounty and setting their commander adrift.

"Our contacts with the outside world have increased; more ships call; and discontent is the result," he said in an article in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Review.

Although cultivation of the soil is easier than it was when the mutineers landed and "our privileges are more," there is "a detriment to our well being," he asserted.

Two Cruisers, 6 Destroyers In Centre Of Attack; Nazi Warplane Shot Down

British Patrol Flier Blows Sub To Bits Surprised Cruising In North Sea; Total Blockade Goes In Force Today

LONDON, Dec. 4 — (CP). — Great Britain and France clamped on Germany to-day an almost total blockade, one of the most powerful weapons at their command.

From today on, the Allied blockade will be working two ways—striving to strangle Germany's export trade and continuing to intercept her imports, as it has since the start of the war.

The beginning of the attempt to isolate Germany from overseas markets shared attention with the raid yesterday by Royal Air Force bombers near the German naval base at Heligoland, hailed as the most successful air offensive of the war so far.

The Air Ministry announced that the British fliers had scored "direct hits" in an attack on Nazi warships, and an unofficial announcement said one of the ships bombed near the North Sea stronghold was a cruiser.

The Air Ministry also announced one bomb from a Royal Air Force plane destroyed a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday, and other reports listed four more German submarines as sunk in recent days.

(In Berlin, DNB, the Nazi news agency, said a British air raid on Heligoland was driven off with only a fishing boat sunk and a few bombs dropped.)

All Planes Return Safely.

The number of planes participating in the Heligoland raid was not disclosed, but it was described as a "strong formation."

Despite heavy German anti-aircraft fire, the British communique said, all the planes returned to their bases. One German Messerschmidt plane, "the only enemy fighter encountered," was said to have been shot down.

The unofficial report said that when the British planes swooped through a gap in the clouds and began dropping heavy bombs, two German cruisers were lying close to a flotilla of six or seven destroyers.

In the submarine sinking, the Air Ministry said, a plane on patrol over the North Sea surprised a submarine on the surface and hit it "on the base of the conning tower" with the only bomb it released. An authoritative account said there were no survivors.

"When the U-boat crew heard the engines of the aircraft," it said, "they made frantic attempts to close the conning tower hatch and crash dive, but it was too late.

Sub Blown to Bits

"A direct hit was scored. Parts of the submarine and other wreckage were thrown high by the explosion, and the surface of the sea became coated with oil over a large area."

Indications of further anti-submarine blows came in the announcement that "a number of U-boat prisoners" had been landed at a Scottish port as the result of recent naval operations.

The Orders-in-Council providing for the seizure of German exports—whether carried in German or neutral ships—was signed just a week ago by the King.

Prime Minister Chamberlain had announced it six days earlier as a decision for retaliation against indiscriminate mine warfare which still is taking a toll of British and neutral shipping.

The 2,159-ton Swedish steamship Rudolf was disclosed to have sunk yesterday after striking a mine off the British coast on a voyage from Bartiepool to Malmo, Sweden. Her crew of 23 escaped in lifeboats.

(Two persons were killed yesterday when the 7,030-ton French steamship Floride struck a mine and was beached near an unidentified port.)

the Ottawa Agreements of 1932," but the total volume Britain is willing to accept from Canada will be 291,000,000 pounds.

While a despatch from London to-day stated this agreement would mean a price of nine cents a pound liveweight for hogs, officials emphasized the price would vary as between seasons.

The agreement, it is understood, is the outcome of negotiations carried on for several weeks since the Canadian mission headed by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Mines and Resources Minister, arrived in England.

Britain Offers 9 Cents.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(CP Sable)—The British Government has agreed to buy all the bacon and ham Canada can produce during the war and to pay the equivalent of nine cents a pound for live hogs.

Canada will have a market for 500,000 pounds of bacon and ham a week at a price of 102 shillings a hundredweight. All purchases will be made through the Canadian Bacon Board, which will act for the British Government.

Negotiations with the British government have reached the stage where agreement has been reached on all pertinent points, leaving only a few minor considerations to be straightened out.

It has been estimated that the bacon price of 102 shillings means a live hog price of nine cents a pound, or slightly less. The bacon will be bought f.o.b. Canadian seaboard ports, which will mean the British Government must take shipping risks.

Canadian bacon exports to the British market have never reached 500,000 pounds weekly, but it has been represented to the British Government that this total can be reached if a fair price is guaranteed.

For years Britain has relied mainly on Denmark for bacon supplies. Disruption of shipping in the Baltic area has played havoc with this trade. Agricultural experts here believe Denmark will be forced to reduce shipments still further because of the difficulties of importing feeding supplies from the Balkans, South America and North Africa.

was that it would be possible to send out to criminal assizes, judges particularly qualified to try criminal matters.

Mr. Conant emphasied that few of the Barlow recommendations would be considered innovations since most of them were already in practice in England or in other provinces of Canada.

The suggestion, for instance, that litigants in civil actions should be required to pay jury costs, was already practised in England. He admitted that it might be contended that such action would bar poor people from the right to trial of their actions by a jury but he pointed out that this difficulty could be overcome by allowing judges the discretion and permitting them to dispense with the payment of such costs in special cases.

The question of the establishment of a central place for executions in all cases where capital punishment was directed, Mr. Conant said, was more a matter for consideration by the provincial government. While the Attorney General is technically responsible for executions through the sheriff, actually the arrangements are made through the Provincial Secretary's department which has supervision over all prisons.

"To have a central place for the execution of criminals in any provincial institution would make it the Sing Sing of Ontario," Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon said. "It would be called the death house. You know how they carry on at Sing Sing with the banging of cans and tins as a man goes to his execution."

Mr. Nixon said he never was in favor of casting a cloud over any one place and that there never had been any trouble at hangings, no undue publicity and no more morbid curiosity. Even the press were not admitted.

Although the attorney-general, through his sheriffs, is technically responsible for executions, actually the arrangements are made through the prisons and reformatories' branch of the provincial secretary's department.

C. F. Neelands, deputy provincial secretary, said the question of a central place for executions had been debated for 26 years. He said there was permanent equipment in all large and in all the new jails as well as in some of the smaller ones.

"Hangings are carried out just as efficiently in county jails as they would be in a central place, and there has been no bungling of cases in Ontario," Mr. Neelands said.

Describing present day life of the island's 216 inhabitants, Young wrote that goats furnish the principal meat supply. The natives fish from canoes fashioned out of tree trunks, and the catch is dumped into a community fishery for all to share.

There are no horses nor tractors hence all the farm work has to be done by hand power, but the soil is so rich, very little cultivation is necessary. All sorts of tropical vegetables and fruits are raised, in such abundance that "mush of the fruit rots on the trees or the ground."

Men of the island, when not out fishing, do woodcarving. Young says their specialty is turning out models of their ship of destiny—the Bounty.

Young Canadian Declared New Oats King

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Bill Skladan, 20, of Andrew, Alta., was crowned oats king of the twenty-first international hay and grain show Saturday.

His sample of Victory oats, weighing 49 pounds to the bushel, gave the grand championship to Canada for the twelfth time in twenty years.

Skaldan received the honor "In Absentia." Show officials prepared to send news of the award to his farm.

The reserve grand championship went to Alex M. Stewart of Ailsa Craig, Ont., who was the oats king at the international in 1937. Stewart exhibited a sample of the Alaska variety.

The champion grain grower in the oats class last year, K. Justyn Rigby, 22, of Wembley, Alta., placed sixth.

With the oats kings crowned, the judges set to work at onec on the the wheat samples.

The purple ribbon awarded to Skaldan brought to five the number of championships won by Canadians to date in the hay and grain show and the fortieth annual international livestock exposition.

She Hoarded

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP).

FRIENDS and relatives who called Mrs. Jeannette Lincoln a "poor" widow were just about $500,000 wrong.

The 56-year-old widow who was living on $5 a week before her death Nov. 15 left hidden riches of at least $436,300.

Yesterday investigators discovered one of her safe deposits boxes. It held $103,000 in cash and stocks and bonds with a face value of $98,000 and a market value of $46,000.

First evidence that Mrs. Lincoln's frugal existence was of her own choosing came a week ago when investigators found $279,000 in a safe deposit box and $8,300 in bank accounts. Virtually all the cache was in $1,000 bills.

Ontario Mishaps Cost 8 Lives Over Weekend

(By the Canadian Press.)

Violent death claimed 11 lives in Ontario during the week-end. Eight persons succumbed through injuries suffered in traffic accidents, a Toronto fireman died following a fight with another man, a soldier died at Windsor under mysterious circumstances and a man was killed by a team of bolting horses.

Cornelius Cooney, 41, member of the Toronto fire department, died in hospital early Sunday from injuries suffered in a fight. Last night after intensive investigation police arrested John Ewasuk, 28, Toronto, at his home on a charge of manslaughter.

Police said the dispute, which started with an argument in an alleged bootlegging establishment, ended after a running fight with the collapse of Cooney at a downtown intersection. Cooney was said to have chased Ewasuk after a slugging match during which Cooney suffered wounds including a slash that extended from the right eye to below the breastbone. His clothing was torn when he was found.

Found unconscious with a fractured skull in a doorway last Wednesday, Albert Miller, 34, of the Essex Scottish Regiment, Windsor, died in hospital there late Saturday. Police are puzzled as to how he received the injury and lean to the theory he may have been attacked and robbed.

Urge Simplified County Court System

TORONTO, Dec. 4—(CP).—Organization of Ontario's complex system of county courts along simpler lines, more suited to the needs of today, is an early prospect if the provincial Legislature implements the recommendations of F. H. Barlow, master of the Supreme Court of Ontario, in a special report released at the week-end.

The report, embodying the results of a year's study of the administration of justice in Ontario, proposes sweeping changes in the set-up of the courts themselves. If it is acted upon, the present county court, court of general sessions of the peace, county judges' criminal court and surrogate court will be merged into one, to be called "the county and probate court of the county of ——."

Other recommendations made by Mr. Barlow are:

Abolition of coroner's juries, except where death occurs in a public institution under suspicious circumstances.

Provision and payment of lawyers to defend "poor prisoners."

A system of small claims courts with simple, inexpensive procedure, to take the place of the present multitude of division courts.

Creation of judicial districts composed of several counties.

Reds Claim Army In Finland Over 18 Miles

MOSCOW, Dec. 4.— (AP).— The Soviet Union claimed to-day the occupation, by force of arms, of a group of Finnish islands which she failed to gain through the diplomatic pressure that preceded the Russian invasion of Finland.

Units of the Baltic fleet, after "successful battles," captured the Gulf of Finland islands of Suursaari (Hogland), Seiskari, Lavanssaari and Tytaersaari, according to a communique from the staff of the Leningrad military area covering operations of yesterday.

The communique used the phrase "small and big" in listing Tytaersaari, which would indicate a smaller island nearby bearing the name Pien-Tytaerari also was occupied.

The island group lies along Russia's line of communication through the Gulf of Finland into the Baltic, the nearest of the group, Seiskari being about 45 miles west of the Soviet Union's island naval base, Kronstadt.

The Leningrad staff communique also claimed continued advances into Finland, along her middle eastern border, and in the Karelian isthmus north of Leningrad—advances to points 18 to 28 miles within Finland.

Sheep brought $2.50 to $6 cwt.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Dec. 4 — (CP). — Improved buying power and lighter offerings lifted wheat futures prices back to the plus side of the ledger in the last half of today's session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Quotations were off nearly a cent at the start but the late recovery left them ⅛ to ¼ higher, December at 76¼, May 80⅛, and July 81¾ cents.

Cash wheat operations held to the quiet side as only terminals showed any inclination to buy. Price spreads weakened a little.

In the coarse grain pit mills were credited with purchasing about 300,000 bushels of oats which appeared to be the lifting of hedges against export sales of oats and oats products.

Saturday's Quotations.

Miss Gala Rogers of the Peterborough Normal School has returned from Lindsay, where she was the week-end guest of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edgerton have announced the engagement of their third daughter, Miss Emma May Edgerton, to Mr. Arnold Williard Thompson Cinnamon of Tofield, Alberta (formerly of Bailieboro), son of Mr. John Cinnamon and the late Mrs. Cinnamon of Clarke, Ont. The marriage is to take place quietly the end of December in Edmonton, Alberta.

Mr. Allan Brown of this city and Mr. H. G. Burke of the Lindsay Highway attended the Beekeepers' Convention, held from Tuesday until Thursday in Toronto. Mr. M. J. Deyell of Medina, Ohio, was a guest speaker. Mr. Deyell, who is editor of "Gleanings in Bee Culture" in Medina, is a brother of Mrs. A. E. Barrie, Water Street.

Mr. George Millard of Belleville, formerly of Peterborough, and his bride, the former Miss Edith E. Hogle, of Trenton, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. Millen, 525 Parkhill Road, and visited other friends in the city. They left this afternoon to continue their honeymoon in Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Millard were married Saturday afternoon by Rev. C. V. Freeman, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville.

The exhibition of paintings by Miss Gertrude L. Cox, pupil of J. W. Beatty, R.C.A., which opened Friday evening in the Recreation Room of the Y.W.C.A., will be on display all this week at the Y.W.

Mr. Wm. Boddy is home from Wycliffe College, Toronto, to spend several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Boddy, 450 Park Street.

Youth in all its gaiety was again supreme ruler at the weekly Y.M. C.A. dance Saturday evening, when 150 couples kept time to the music of Mose Yokum's orchestra. Miss Barbara Pearson won the mystery man novelty dance prize, and spot dance winners were Miss Ruth Ellis and Gerry Seabrooke. Door prizes were won by Miss Rose O'Reilly and Gene Irwin.

An interesting wedding will take place at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, December 16, when Miss Ruby Cavell Miller, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Miller of Keene, and Mr. Donald David Fife, only son of Mr. Edwin Fife and the late Mrs. Fife of Indian River, will be united in marriage. They are to be married in Bethel church, directly across the road from the farm on which the famous Fife wheat was cultivated by the late David Fife, great grandfather of the groom.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Gwen Kelly, daughter of Mrs. James Willan Kelly and the late Mr. Kelly of Peterborough, to Mr. Gerald Andrew Gordon, Schumacher, son of Mrs. E. L. Gordon, Kenora. The marriage is to take place in Peterborough on January 1.

Mrs. E. Vernon Morphet is spending the week in Picton, the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred Preston.

Decorating Course Will Be Welcomed By Housewives

At this time of year, when most housewives feel an irresistible urge to do something about brightening up their homes in preparation for the rather gloomy months that lie ahead—something which will help create an atmosphere of cheerfulness and comfort that will make evenings around the fireplace a constant source of pleasure, the Y.W.C.A. Interior Decorating course, a new educational feature of the organization this season, will be of inspiration, and a practical aid.

The course, which commences on Tuesday and is being held three afternoons this week, will be conducted by Mrs. Bertha L. Stavert of the Community Welfare Council, Toronto, and includes instruction in color; making of slip covers, drapes, planning a room around a control object, and types of furniture. The three afternoons include practical demonstrations and will cover every room of the home.

For the past week Mrs. Stavert has been directing craft classes in the Y.W.C.A., which are continuing until Thursday. Classes for school girls are after school; for business girls, in the evenings.

Russell Merrifield Heads McGill Students' Society

Recently the Montreal Daily Star carried the photo of a handsome young man who had been elected president of the McGill University Students' Council. The picture with its accompanying news item was particularly interesting to Peterborough readers because the subject was Russell Merrifield. (Russell's mother was formerly Maude Stevens, daughter of George Stevens of 364 Mark Street, Peterborough).

Russell (Buster), is studying law at McGill and making a good job of it. He is, we are told, a blonde young giant who has gained considerable fame on the football field. That he has been elected head of the student body proves that he is a young man who possesses not only a strong physique and a keen mind, but who has also the character and personality which wins the respect and confidence of his associates.

Many of our readers will be interested to know that Mr. Russell Merrifield, Sr., is with the C.P.R. at Calgary. "Buster" has a sister, Jean, several years younger than himself.

All Saints' Choir Elects New Officers

At the annual business meeting of All Saints' Anglican Church Choir reports were read by the various officers and a brief but encouraging address was given by the chairman, George Chandler.

It was decided that a letter of thanks be forwarded to Mrs. J. Black expressing appreciation of her splendid work in making choir robes.

Officers for the forthcoming year were elected as follows: Honorary president, Canon J. D. Paterson; first honorary vice-president, Mr. P. Hooper; second hon. vice-president, Mr. T. Pitchford; president, Mr. D. Weir; vice-president, Miss W. Lord; secretary, Mrs. B. Hall; recording secretary, Mr. J. Raybold; assistant recording secretary, Mr. F. Roberts; publicity secretary, Miss E. Chambers; treasurer, Mrs. V. Chandler; librarian, Mr. F. Hill; assistant librarian, Mr. B. Rose; road mistress, Mrs. Watkins; visiting committee, Miss M. Pitchford, Miss E. Boddy, Mr. L. Cavalier, Mr. T. H. Boddy; social convener, Miss E. Glover.

FASHIONS

Night or day this dress is bound to be your favorite. Tiny, tiny waist, inverted pleats that flare and a youthful collar close under your chin. The four-gored skirt fits snugly over the hips and then breaks into graceful ripples at the hem. For daytime festivities, a dark silk crepe with a white collar is lovely. For holiday parties you will need a long dress, preferably one with the new covered-up look. A velvet skirt and a silver lame blouse couldn't be prettier.

Style No. 3024 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for street length dress; ¼ yard of contrasting for collar.

Will Live in Peterborough

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cherney, who were married recently at the Embassy Hotel, Toronto. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 111 Wembly Road, Toronto, following the ceremony. Mrs. Cherney is the former Miss Sylvia Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Green. The bride and bridegroom will live in Peterborough on their return from a wedding trip.

was lovely in a white taffeta wedding gown made on delicate princess lines with a demure collar and short train. Her tulle veil fell to the floor in cloud-like folds from a headdress of tiny white ostrich plumes, and she carried a beautifully bound white prayer book, its long ribbon markers caught with white rosebuds and fern.

Miss Marjon Shaughnessy was bridesmaid, in a graceful full-skirted frock of turquoise blue taffeta trimmed by narrow bandings of velvet, its little jacket having pushed-up sleeves. She wore a tiny hat fashioned of flowers and feathers in the same shade as her gown, and white kid gloves. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses. Mr. Edward Prete, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Vernon Shaughnessy, and Mr. Louis Prete, brother of the groom.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate families of the bridal couples was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Prete left for Hamilton, the bride wearing for travelling a simple black frock with touches of gold under a belted coat of wine wool with vestee of nutria, and black accessories. They will live in Peterborough.

Flappers Warned About Cocktails

HOBART, Tasmania, Dec. 4. — (CP). — Cocktail drinking among "flappers" was condemned by Dr. C. R. D. Brothers, medical superintendent of a Tasmanian mental hospital.

"It is all right to have a cocktail, but it makes me annoyed when I see girls of about 18 to 19 years in society 'swiping up' cocktails," he said. "I can assure you of the bad results in a few years.

"I also condemn the popularity of flats," he added. "My chief objection is the attendant curtailment of families or the curtailment of the liberty of the child. They are ideal for the elderly retired couple, whose family has grown up, but disastrous to the young married couples, because they tend to do away with family life."

DOROTHY DIX

Early Schooling In The Art Of Being a Gentleman Is One Of The Most Important Phases In The Training Of Boys—Good Manners Always An Asset.

A MOTHER asks: "If you had a little son to rear, what would you teach him?" Well, after I had taught him to fear God and keep His commandments, and wash behind his ears, I would try to teach him to be a gentleman. I would tell him that that is about the finest thing that any human being can be and hold it before his eyes as an objective toward which he must always strive. I would teach him that being a gentleman is not a matter of money, or position, or even intellectuality, but that something within a man's own soul that makes him gentle and kind, and true and loyal, and incapable of doing a mean act. I would tell him that a gentleman is a man who does not think too much of himself, nor too little of the other fellow.

I would teach him good manners, which are a letter of credit that is honored at sight the world over and that will carry a man farther than any other one thing. The boy who can enter a room without falling over his feet; who shows respect to his elders and courtesy to every one; who stands when women speak to him and helps old ladies out of their cars, has a thousand more chances to get a job than the uncouth boor has who knocks women and children down when they stand in his way, and sits on the boss' desk and smokes in his face when he applies for work.

And inasmuch as a civilized world is run by conventions, I would ground my boy from his cradle up in his etiquette. I wouldn't delude myself with the belief that you can rear a boy like a savage and then when he is grown have him suddenly turn into an elegant and accomplished man of the world. I would know that you have to tell a boy 999,999 times about taking off his hat when he enters a room, or speaking to a guest properly, before he does it on the millionth time of his own accord, because the custom has been drilled into him.

I would teach him to be clothes-conscious. To be not only neat and clean but appropriately dressed. And I would see to it that his table manners were above reproach, for after all the way we look and the way we eat are all strangers know of us, and are the things by which they judge us. Many a door of opportunity is closed to the chap who looks like something fished out of the ragbag, and I have known more than one young man who failed to get the position he desired and that he was otherwise fitted for because he gargled his soup and ate pie with his knife.

I would teach my boy how to get along with people and how to make friends. I would surround him with other children as soon as possible and from the time he could understand anything at all I would teach him that he must play fair, that he must give and take, and that he must adapt himself to others. I would teach him to be a good loser, and that when others beat him in the games he must take it like a sport. To be a good mixer is one of the most valuable accomplishments that any man can have, for it makes him friends who are his greatest asset in all his undertakings.

I would teach my boy self-control. I would teach him that what we are in the world, whether we are respected or despired; whether we succeed or fail; whether we are miserable or happy, depends upon our mastery of ourselves. I would show him the murderer in his cell, and say: He is here because he couldn't control his temper, and he killed a man in anger. I'd say: This drunkard couldn't control his appetite. I'd say: This tramp and beggar is what he is because he couldn't make himself work. And I'd say: If you don't want to be like these, you must stop when you know you have had enough cookies; you must bite back the tears and cries when you get hurt; you must laugh instead of going into a tantrum when you feel that you are losing your temper.

Finally, I would teach my boy the three things upon which all success in life is founded. They are all habits and I would start forming them in him from his earliest years. I would teach him the habit of industry, which makes work a pleasure, an interest, an excitement that never fails. Any boy who is brought up to always be doing some constructive work can never turn into an idle loafer. He would be bored to death with nothing to do. I would teach my boy to finish whatever he began. The failures, the ne'er-do-wells are those who give up whatever profession or business they have gone into as soon as the sledding gets hard or they get tired of it. The people who win fame and fortune are those who stick to their jobs and see them through.

And I would teach my boy thrift; how to make money and to save it; how to spend money wisely and well so that he may be independent himself and able to help others.

DEAR MISS DIX—My wife is so jealous that she makes my life perfectly miserable with her suspicions, which are groundless. What can I do about it?—FOUR X.

ANSWER:

Nothing, unless you can kid yourself into thinking that her jealousy is a compliment and she thinks you so fascinating that every woman must be after you. There is no curing jealousy. You have to take it or leave it.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, December 5

A day of "mixed influences," in astrological terms, is read from the prevailing astral forces. Things are likely to move at a rapid pace, possibly with sudden changes or disruptions, but not in an entirely welcome or profitable way. There are omens of loss, fraud, duplicity, extravagance or other extremes, but such may be felt more in the domestic, social, affectional realm than in straight business transactions. With proper vigilance all may flourish.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there may be conflicting developments. Matters may be lively and productive, but there are signs of menace in social, domestic or intimate affairs which seem subject to treachery, deceit, loss or unwarranted expenditures. With care and prudence all interests may be made to thrive and give happiness. Make changes with due deliberation.

A child born on this day may be clever, versatile and progressive, particularly in literary, musical or entertainment lines. Youthful training in thrift and economic wisdom would not be amiss.

Speak Well in Public and Win Prestige

Gain Poise in Home Course

No wonder the newest forum member is impressed as the charming woman beside her rises to voice an opinion. Such poise, confidence!

But speaking in public is simple if you learn the principles, know parliamentary forms.

What to do at a forum when you want to gain the attention of the chair? As at a club meeting you raise your hand or rise half-way. When you have been recognized, stand erect and say, "Mr. (or Madam) Chairman: I should like to ask the speaker——."

To appear delightfully at ease, stand with your weight evenly distributed on both feet. Be still—but not stiff.

To enunciate clearly, practice tongue twisters at home, pronounce every syllable. Say "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers." "She sells sea shells by the seashore." And what an aid you will find public speaking in your club, business and social life!

Our 32-page booklet gives pointers on voice training, a platform manner. Has sample speeches for many occasions, parliamentary forms. Tells how to prepare, write, deliver and address. Includes tips for toastmasters, radio speakers.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of PUBLIC SPEAKING SELF-TAUGHT to Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Beast Can Slaughter

Even one who is optimistic and cheerful as a rule might well give way to a feeling of hopelessness and despair when looking at affairs today. We say that after noting what might be termed the reaction (perhaps not a good word at best) of the world to the plight of Finland.

Naturally one looks to Britain first because that centre is the place where freedom lives. Britain is annoyed, disgusted, dismayed, and says so plainly. But Britain can fight but one dragon at a time. France is much the same.

United States is outspoken, and its newspapers in cartoon and written word vie with each other to secure the most bitter denunciation of Stalin and all for which he stands. But that is all.

Sweden is much like Finland; it shares the same climate and geography; her people do much the same things in order to wrest a living from soil, sea and forests. But Sweden is not going to take any chances, and the Premier in announcing the neutral position of his country expressed the hope "that the well-known wisdom and prudence of our Finnish brothers" would limit the war and bring it to a speedy end."

There is not much chance of mistaking the tone of the Italian press. Writers there are as outspoken as can be; outspoken to a point which approaches and attains open hostility toward Russia. But official Italy knows that Russia is a long way off and so is Finland, so there is not much to be said about it. Italy's ox is not being gored at the moment, so Finland receives sympathy and nothing else from official Rome.

The press in Japan is sympathetic toward Finland, but officially not a word is said. The reason is that Japan is considering fixing up some sort of a deal with Russia. It would simplify matters in the conquest of China, and if such a deal could be signed, it would cause no surprise to find Japan break off abruptly with Britain and United States. So Japan, with her own irons in the fire, has no intention to bother with the scorching or burning of Finland.

So even in that sketchy and hurried survey we find something of the manner of the world's life and outlook today. It can become indignant in sections, speculative and noncommittal in others, but actively combative in none at all when a great wrong has been done. The beast can arise and go forth to his slaughtering and there is no strong arm to force him back to his lair.

What Of Sibelius?

Jan Sibelius might easily enough be acclaimed the greatest of living composers. His compositions include over 100 songs, seven symphonies, and much for the piano which is remarkably good. He is one of Finland's greatest gifts to the world.

At the moment reports from Helsingfors are unable to state definitely where he is or what has happened to him. He has a home near the city, but on December 2 when the Russians were bombing Helsingfors the 74-year-old composer proceeded to the city, saying he wanted to be near his people in their distress. And all that has been reported since it was in a Stockholm newspaper which said he had been injured.

Neither Stalin nor Molotoff would be interested in what became of Jan Sibelius. He was merely the creator of beautiful music in which he incorporated at times the dreams and traditions of his own land. He was not interested in robbing other people nor yet in suppressing them or causing them to do things which they detested.

If Jan Sibelius happened to be on the road when a Russian plane swept down with machine guns open then he would be regarded as just another Finn who was planning an attack upon Russia.

Molotoff and Stalin would have no concern for a Sibelius, but the world in general has. It knows him for the beauty he has created—rather than for the anguish and suffering he has visited upon others.

Are Orders Being Placed?

One industrial manager in Peterborough when speaking of war orders desired to have it plainly understood that he had none. He had not been asked to submit tenders or anything like that. He took the attitude of caution because he did not desire workers to feel there was going to be an immediate taking on of men; he did not desire to have them disappointed. That feeling is quite easily understood and it is quite the right way to deal with the situation.

From information which comes from other sources that is the experience of a good many manufacturers. Particularly in anything related to the steel industry. Three months ago, about the times the war began, there were indications that a great deal of business would be placed in Canada, and there were inventories made of the equipment and capacity of many of our plants so that those in charge of purchasing would know without delay or uncertainty just where they might go to place their orders.

There was talk for a time of placing what they call "experimental" or "educational" orders in some of the Canadian plants, the idea being in this way to determine just what such plants would be able to do in case larger orders were given which would have to be turned out hurriedly. But if these orders have been placed no one appears to know where they went.

It has been publicly stated that large orders for airplanes have been placed in United States, and already some of these have been delivered in Canada. In some of our wool goods establishments there are orders and the extent to which such places are operating is governed only by the amount of raw material which can be secured.

Otherwise the industrial plants of this country are just in the position of waiting to see what is going to be done. It is a matter of public interest and one which should be spoken of officially in order that the Canadian people and Canadian plants might know just what to expect.

Money In The Pockets

It was only this morning we met up with a citizen who was talking about how hard it was to get hold of any money. He runs a business so we took it for granted he knew something of the situation, and what he had to say was about as sad as words could make it. People didn't have any money; they wouldn't pay their bills; there was no use suing them because all you'd get would be a judgment and then the next thing would be to try and collect it. But through it all this gentleman appeared well dressed, and looked as though he had been fed and watered before going forth for the day.

After that we started reading some statistics sent out from Ottawa. Statistics are all right if you can understand them, and this information from Ottawa was of the variety that the average mind could grasp. We learned that money is plentiful in Canada today and that probably never before had there been so much money in the pockets of the people.

Apparently there is some method in existence which can tell at any time just how many bank notes are running loose, and the Bank of Canada says the amount is $251,000,000. In the pockets, hidden in the sock or the sugar bowl or in the tills of the country. And that's a lot of money.

It may be—likely is—a fact that a good many folk find they are not getting their share, but there is that large sum, 251 millions, in possession of the people. And that has nothing to do with what they have stored away in the banks. So we clipped that bit of information out to send along to the worried gentleman who was telling us there was no money in the land.

Treatment Needed

There were alarming stories coming from Toronto a few days ago telling of two girls who were jabbed with a needle on their way to school. The feeling was that some individual was seeking to apply drugs of some sort or other to the girls by needle injection.

In due time came the explanation. Two juveniles were arrested and confessed they had used a hatpin to jab the girls, doing it as a "prank." There is not much to be said in favor of their selection, as it was something which might cause a good deal of fear and apprehension in the entire neighborhood.

The story looked doubtful in the first place because the girls were described as having been wearing coats over their school clothing. Any individual who has ever seen a hypodermic syringe needle or who knows of the skill required in its use would discredit the report that it could be successfully jabbed through a coat and clothing and driven home so that its contents could be successfully discharged. But that was the impression those smart boys in Toronto wished to create. If a city the size of Toronto has such a thing as a woodshed attached to homes then the youths of the needle mind could with profit to themselves be asked to report there for treatment.

When The Tongue Goes

It was to be expected that our courts would find themselves dealing with people who had been talking rather loud about the war and our right to participate in it. The sensible man knows there are seasons for saying things and seasons for not saying them, but the trouble is that this sort of sense is not always evenly spread.

Toronto had two such cases. In one there had been a fine of $50 and 30 days in jail, and the appeal judge set this aside as unreasonable. The accused had been in a beverage room and there talked with a couple of men in uniform. When asked if he were a communist he had replied that he was. The man's statement had been taken seriously and in a few days he was rounded up. Evidently the individual had never had anything to do with communism.

In making his announcement the judge said it was essential above all else that we do not become panicky because it might lead on toward a season of mob psychology. It was necessary in all such cases to show that an offence had actually been committed.

The second case had to do with a native of England, 28 years of age, who secured for himself a soap box and proceeded to make a speech, and his theme was that one was blundering and making a serious error by joining the Canadian army. He was fined $300 or six months. He also appealed his case, but with no success. It was pointed out that an offence had clearly been committed.

There may be times when it is difficult for our cours to clearly draw the line to show where an offence has been committed. The individual citizen blessed with his share of common sense and discretion can see at once that his nation is at war, and war is something where the burden falls upon the individual. If he is bent on giving aid and comfort to the enemy then he must anticipate the trouble for which he is evidently seeking. We believe we can trust our courts to interpret accurately and well so that the feeling of panic will not fall upon us by too great enlargement of the views of those who should not at any time be taken seriously.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is one thing certain. It is possible to write or say anything one pleases about Russia and not be placed under arrest in this country.

Bull fighters in Mexico are on strike, and they demand more fights, tougher bulls and more pay. All of which reads curiously similar to much of the news from the troubled world of today.

A man over 30 making saxophones in Britain can keep on working instead of going to war. If he went to war and took some of his instruments with him he might accomplish something or other.

A freighter headed for Germany carried with it sufficient coffee to last the French army for six months. Contradictory statement you say? It's this way—the French captured the vessel.

The story is told of the British sailor who dived into the sea in order to secure an unexploded German mine so it could be taken ashore and examined by experts. He risked his own life but the chances are he saved many others.

It is true that Germany enjoyed trade privileges and a general business prestige in Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, and now they are all pretty much in Stalin's bag. Hitler had a mutual help understanding with Stalin and the latter is helping himself.

Mayor Bone of Belleville is retiring from office, and at the annual civic meeting he reviewed the work carried on during his term. We believe we understand exactly what he had in mind when he said: "Our efforts at flood control proved to be a complete washout."

SKEPTICS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I've lived with skeptics long enough to make my outlook rather tough, but in my tracks I pause; they tell me I'm a crazy frill, when I announce out loud I still believe in Santa Claus.

¶ I'd like to move back years and years, to miss their laughter and their jeers, way back to '82; when I had faith this time of year, that my old friend was coming near, I'd write a letter too.

¶ My wants were never very great, with joy most anything I'd take, and I'd be thankful too; strange things took place throughout the night, by sleep quite hidden from my sight, I knew they all were true.

¶ And I believed in reindeer then, along with other little men, when night began to fall; how Santa popped down chimneys then, and just as fast popped up again, yes I believed it all.

¶ I never knew just what he'd bring, my stocking was an empty thing, when I went off to bed; it wasn't so when come next day, no matter what the skeptics say, for it was full instead.

¶ Yes Santa Claus was good to me, that makes it hard for me to see, why I'd join jeering men; that's why I'd turn the long years back, and get a hammer and a tack—and try the thing again.

Japan Insists She Can Conquer Chinese Empire

(By Frank H. Hedges, in The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post, London)

THERE is much talk of "peace" in the air of Japan, and along the China coast which I have recently visited. The question on the lips of nearly every foreigner, Japanese and Chinese are: "When will the war end?" and "How can peace be achieved?"

Talk of peace at the moment seems idle to me. As long as neither Japan nor China has been effectively defeated in the field, as long as the morale of both sides continues at its present high level and the determination to fight the matter out at all costs remains adamant, as long as both sides can command the finances, war materials and men to go on fighting so long there is no prospect of peace.

Such conditions exist today. Despite her heavy losses of territory and men, China is far from being a defeated nation. Despite her own losses in men and the heavy drain on her economic system, Japan is nowhere near the end of her rope nor will she be in the foreseeable future. How, then, can peace be expected now or shortly?

Undoubtedly the desire for peace exists in both camps, but the will to fight is still burning strongly. To think that Japan would capitulate to peace demand is ridiculous. It is almost equally ridiculous to believe that Chiang Kai-shek might do so. Wang Ching-wei's recent abortive peace offer and his subsequent repudiation by every Chinese of consequence and by the Chinese masses are proof of this statement.

JAPAN desires peace but sees in victory the only way to obtaining it. An almost insurmountable barrier was erected in January of last year by the Imperial Conference, the decisions of which have been confirmed again and again. The Premier at that time declared that Japan would never deal with Chiang Kai-shek. The hope must have been entertained in Tokio that, as a result of this declaration, the Chinese people and many of their leaders would turn against Chiang, drive him from office an make peace.

Such a hope was not based on facts and has failed to materialize. Chiang Kai shek is China today and possesses the unswerving loyalty of his subordinates.

Tokio can, of course, conclude peace at any moment with the puppet regimes set up in Peking, Nanking and elsewhere, but this would not be concluding peace with China, for these areas despite their extent, are not China. As one wise Japanese statesman told me months ago: "To deal with Peking and Nanking now is like dealing with ourselves, and that will get us nowhere. If we are to have peace, we must deal with that part of China which is still in arms against us, and that means Chiang Kai-shek."

Japan is not ready, and may never be, to accept the loss of prestige abroad, and even more so at home, that dealing with Chiang would now involve.

There are other Japanese obstacles to a genuine peace. The exact number of troops sent to the China fronts since July 7, 1937, is a secret, but is believed to exceed 1,000,000. Many are dead, some having fallen on the field of battle and even more having fallen before pestilence and disease. Some have been returned to Japan and demobilized. But many remain, and Japan would scarcely risk the conclusion of a peace that was unacceptable to this army in China.

These soldiers have, as the Japanese phrase runs, sacrificed their "blood and treasure" to "bring China to her knees," and peace falling short of what they believe to be Japan's just desserts would appear in their eyes almost as an act of treachery by Tokio. Already the discipline of the Japanese Army in China has broken down to a degree that is perceptible. Such an army can become dangerous if its wishes and ambitions are flouted.

TALK of the possibilities of a revolution in Japan is preposterous and scarcely worth denying. There is not a single indication that any Japanese harbours such a thought. The concept of revolution simply does not exist in Japan at present, and no one gives it a moment's consideration.

It is true, of course, that the war has not been and is not popular in the sense that the first Sino-Japanese wars were popular. The same burning enthusiasm is not to be found. In the Russo-Japanese war the Japanese felt they were fighting for their life as a nation; in the present war many Japanese fail to perceive that even absolute victory will bring any great gain to the Empire. There prevails something of a bewildered feeling of "What are we fighting for?"

Despite this, there is not one Japanese to be found who is not ready and willing to support the war, to make any sacrifice of life or of the material things of life that his nation may demand of him. Enthusiasm may not be strong, but support of the course Japan is pursuing is united and unshakable.

Similarly, talk about an impending economic collapse in Japan is a false scent. The war has dug deeply into Japan's gold reserves and will dig still deeper, but Japanese currency is in an eminently sound position and can stand a far greater strain than has yet been put upon it or is likely to be put. Inflation exists, but it is not an inflation of the currency. It is an inflation of credit, especially of bank credit.

It should be emphasized that Japan is financing the war entirely by herself. Not a penny of help has been extended in the form of foreign loans, and Tokio knows it could not float a bond issue abroad today.

BREAKERS AHEAD

"I'm very sorry, sir, but our new assistant handed your holiday snaps to your wife by mistake."

—London Opinion.

• Lincoln Was Like Chamberlain

RAYMOND MASSEY sees a striking similarity between the present times and those of Lincoln. To the latter, history attributes the conviction expressed in the words: "This Government cannot endure permanently half-slave and half-free." Change "government" to "continent" and the line, Mr. Massey thinks, might be spoken by a statement of France or Britain today.

Those interested in such parallels, says the Toronto Telegram, might find others in a comparison between Lincoln and Chamberlain. Lincoln hated slavery but would not fight to force abolition on slave-holding states. Chamberlain hated tyranny but would not fight to force democracy on other nations. Both hated war but both were forced to fight. Neither shrank from the conflict when the cause was compelling.

Lincoln was infinitely patient, untiringly persistent and unshakenly tenacious in pursuit of his goal. That will be said of Chamberlain. The President was his own man, and when he had made up his mind on a course, kept on it quietly and determinedly, sure he was right. That is the way of the Prime Minister. Waging war, the American statesman looked ahead to the peace that was to follow. In war, the British statesman has never for a moment lost sight of his great goal, which is to bring order out of the chaos in Europe.

Lincoln was long, lank and lacking in good looks. The words might be used of Chamberlain. In both there is seen the same keen sympathy, the same deep humanity, the same understanding of the feeling of the men and women that make the nation. In one respect Lincoln had an advantage as, coming from the people, he could be idealized as "Honest Abe." It may be said that his opponents denied him the quality of honesty and denounced him as a hypocrite.

In the controversy that raged round both the parallel is close, and instructive. By his critics, not only in the South but in the North, the Great Emancipator was vilified, slandered, misrepresented and misunderstood. Honest men disagreed with him and the ruffians of politics traduced him. Like Chamberlain, he was subjected to abuse such as few rulers have to face. In his own life his wisdom was doubted. Not till long after his death was his fame fully established and his stature clearly seen. Now he is recognized as one of the great men of all time, a man whose foresight equalled his courage. His critics, by comparison, appear as pygmies. These facts, in times like the present, are worth a moment's reflection.

• Fighting Hitler And Gout

A STILL-SMARTING convalescent from the occupational disease of British prime ministers was Britain's prime minister last week. Hobbling gingerly after his first bout of gout (podagra) in 18 months, Neville Chamberlain presided over a cabinet meeting, his left foot swathed in an enormous flannel boot. Outside, London was whistling the newest hit tune: "God Bless You, Mr. Chamberlain." What consolation he could the prime minister took from echoes of this ditty and from the list of his distinguished gouty predecessors: Derby, Disraeli, Palmerston, Melbourne, Canning, the Pitts. Several of these statesmen courted gout by stuffing themselves with mutton chops and port. But hard-working Neville Chamebrlain is no high liver. Said his sympathetic friends: His trouble was "poor man's gout," a hereditary chronic disease (his father, Joseph Chamberlain, had it) which may torment even teetotalers.

Chief cause of gout is imperfect elimination of uric acid, and attacks may be caused by heavy consumption of rich food, malt liquors, or by mental shock. Although 50 per cent of gout is hereditary, over-indulgence usually aggravates the underlying weakness. Rare in the whiskey-drinking U.S., gout is most common in aley Britain and beery Germany.

Uric acid retained in the bloodstream is likely to form chalky, stony deposits in the joints and in the cartilage of the ears. Frequently first to suffer is the joint of the big toe, thin ankles, knees, hands and wrists. Common symptoms: Cramps, inflammation, fever, headache, neuralgia, together with hot, itching feet (known to ancients as "the lisping of the gout").

"Once gouty always gouty" is an old medical maxim, yet doctors believe that clean living and plenty of outdoor exercise can reduce attacks to mere demonstrations in force. Standard treatment, besides wrapping the throbbing foot in cotton wool, is a diet with plenty of water, and strangely enough, fat especially fresh butter. Many doctors also rely on injections of colchicine (from the root of the autumn crocus) to relieve the agonizing pain, and cinchophen (a complicated synthetic acid) to promote uric acid elimination.

Even doctors, some of whom have been "terrible sufferers," find it hard to speak of gout with a straight face. Some, like their patients, pride themselves on their virile infirmity. Osler quotes approvingly Germany's Willibald Pirkheimer (translated into English in 1617): "I take no pleasure," he wrote, "in those hard, rusticke, agresticke kind of people who are never at rest, but....are moyling and toyling, do seldom or never give themselves to pleasure, do endure hunger, which are content with a slender diet."—From Time.

TURN TO ELECTRIC AUTOS

THE HIGH COST of gasoline and the rationing of the supply are causing users of automobile transport in the British Isles to look toward electrically driven vehicles. The type is almost unknown in this country, but they are fairly common for commercial purposes in England, especially in London. There were about 5,000 in service before the war broke out, and the companies producing "electromobiles" are planning to make 50,000 within a year.

These cars are operated by batteries, and will do 35 miles on one "charge," costing one-third the price of gasoline for the same distance; there is no wastage in starting and stopping, they start at once in the coldest weather and they run with absolute silence.

They are exceedingly reliable, the Savoy Hotel baggage car averaging 40 miles a day for 18 years without once requiring overhaul. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

RADIO DIRECTED DOGS

A NUMBER of Alsatian dogs are being trained by the New South Wales police to obey commands given by radio. In a demonstration at Sydney, one of the dogs, with a small wireless receiver and loud speaker strapped to her back, was given commands by a policeman in a garage 150 yards away. In obedience to the first command the dog climbed a ladder to a platform and then descended on the other side. She waited for her next message and interpreted it perfectly; she turned on a tap, drank some water, and turned off the tap.—World Radio, London.

Finnish Demand For Action Stirs Up League

GENEVA, Dec. 4.—(AP).— The League of Nations was stirred today by Finland's demand for action on the Russo-Finnish conflict.

The council, guiding body of the League, was summoned directly by the League secretariat to meet next Saturday, and Eamon De Valera, of Ireland, president of the Assembly, was asked to issue a formal call to Assembly members to meet two days later.

Finland, invoking the League's seldom-used machinery for settling international disputes, demanded "necessary measures to put an end to this aggression." Russia is a League member.

When war broke out between Germany and the Allies Sept. 3, League leaders agreed their role should be an inactive one, so far as political matters were concerned. They called off regular council and assembly meetings.

Since September, League employees worked principally on no-political matters, such as health, economy, finance and narcotics control, and left such questions as disarmament and collective security untouched. Yesterday morning all that was changed.

Rudolph Holsit, former foreign minister of Finland and one-time Stanford University professor, presented Finland's demand to Secretary-General Joseph Avenol.

Avenol immediately called his entire staff back and set the machinery in motion for the council and assembly meetings.

Geneva was jolted by the activity. Some observers said it looked as if many league members rejoiced at the chance to force Russia to submit to League arbitration, or get out of the League. Russia's Geneva spokesman said she was still loyal to the League.

Ever since the Soviet Union joined in 1934 her delegates have demanded forceful action against "agressors" and have made bitter attacks when other members disagreed.

Bluntly, the Russians have defined an aggressor as a state which first sends troops into another's territory.

Armed Forces Of Tiny Finland Put Up Gallant Struggle

Denouncing the newly formed Finnish government, Soviet Russia continued to hurl the might of her army, navy and air force against the tiny republic whose new premier, Risto Ryti, declared that Finland would not consent "to barter away our independence." Putting up a stubborn and gallant resistance, the Finnish armed forces claimed to have downed sixteen Soviet bombers, sunk the Soviet warship Kirov and to have captured hundreds of prisoners. The Finnish soldiers were reported as saying that the Russian resistance had been surprisingly weak. The ABOVE pictures taken during recent manoeuvres, show Finnish machine-gunners in action from the roof of a house, TOP LEFT, infantrymen deployed in combat formation through a wooded section of the Karelian isthmus, TOP RIGHT, a small field howitzer also operating on the Karelian isthmus, BOTTOM LEFT, and a motor torpedo craft, used mostly for coastal patrol work. None of the experts expect tiny Finland to put up much resistance on the sea or in the air and predict that the Russian might will soon crush the gallant, but small, Finnish army which is reported to be bitterly resisting every mile of the Soviet invasion.

22 Chaplains Appointed To Army Service

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 — (CP). — The Department of National Defence to-day announced the appointments of 22 chaplains to the Canadian chaplain service, listing a Protestant and Roman Catholic chaplain for each military district.

The appointments are effective from Nov. 16, and are temporary, pending receipt of necessary documents and subsequent confrmation through the Canada Gazette by which the chaplains will be granted the acting rank of honorary major while so employed.

They will carry out the duties of district chaplain in addition to those normally assigned to them as chaplains, Canadian active service force.

List of appointments follows:

Military District 1—London, Ont., Protestant-chaplain and honorary major, H. F. C. Cocks, M.C.; Roman Catholic-chaplain and honorary captain (Honorary Major G.M.) T. J. McCarthy, M.C.

Military District 2—Toronto, Protestant-chaplain and honorary Lt.-Col., G. O.-Fallis, C.B.C., E.D.;; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Captain (Hon. Maj. C.M.) J. Knox, O.B.E.

M.D. 4 — Montreal, Protestant-chaplain and Honarary Captain (Hon. Major C.M.) W. E. Kidd, M.C.; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Captain J. R. O'Gorman.

M.D. 4— Moontreal, Protestant-chaplain and Honorary Major J. B. Hunter, M.C., E.D.; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Major C. E. Chartier.

M.D. 5—Quebec, Protestant-chaplain and Hon. Lt.-Col. A. M. Gordon, D.S.O., M.C.; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Major J. G. Cote.

M.D. 6—Halifax, Protestant-chaplain and Honorary Major G. M. Ambrose; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Captain R. C. MacGillivray, M.C., E.D.

M.D. 7—Saint John, N.B., Protestant-chaplain and Honorary Captain H. S. Bland; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Major F. M. Lockary.

M.D. 10 — Winnipeg, Protestant-chaplain and Honorary Captain W. G. MacLean; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Captain J. K. MacIsaac.

M.D. 11 — Victoria, Protesant-chaplain and Honorary Majoh W. R. R. Armitage, M.C., E.D.; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Major A. Madden, D.S.O., M.C.

M.D 12—Regina, Protestant-chaplain and Honorary Captain W. C. Mawhinney; Roman Catholicchaplain and Honorary Major J. C. Keohan.

M.D. 13— Calgary, Protestant-chaplain and Honorary Captain W. H. Morgan; Roman Catholic-chaplain and Honorary Captain W. B. Carleton.

Of the 11 Protestant clergymen named as district chaplains five represent the Church of England, four the United Church of Canada and two the Presbyterian church.

The great majority of the district chaplains ministered to the spiritual welfare of troops in active service during the First Great War and all but one are veterans of that war. A few served in that war as combatants prior to their ordination.

Anglican Bishop Consecrated

For the first time in the history of Ottawa an Anglican bishop was consecrated when the solemn ritual of the Church of England was invoked in all its colorful dignity as Rt. Rev. Robert Jefferson was consecrated the third bishop of the diocese of Ottawa. Bishop Jefferson is pictured here standing before his episcopal throne with his pastoral staff following the enthronement ceremony.

Where You Find Them

WISCASSET, Me., Dec. 4 — (AP) —Herbert Leavitt left his wife near their automobile to be "out of danger" while he and a companion stalked the woods in search of deer. They returned empty-handed after several hours—and found Mrs. Leavitt pointing proudly to a 175-pound buck she had bagged on the spot.

Horses On Road Ditch Motorist

TWEED, Dec. 4—(ENS).—A car driven by Burton Thompson of Tweed, was ditched whn the vehicle hit two horses on Highway No. 37 at 3 p.m. Saturday morning, when the driver was returning home from Belleville. The accident occurred in the vicinity of Thomasburg, and one of the horses was killed. The animals were roaming at large on the highway, and upon investigation by Constable J. C. Hayes of Tweed, were found to belong to one, Charles Bailey.

A heard of cattle belonging to Bailey, at large a short time ago, caused an automobile driven by Mr. Keith of Tweed, to be ditched resulting in a passenger, Mrs. Joseph Fobert, receiving injuries, the nature of which caused her death in Belleville General Hospital.

Chief Constable Hayes states that as the resulting of the horses being at large on the highway, charges will be laid against Bailey.

Roughrider Charged

Sam Barbaro, a member of the Ottawa Roughriders rugby team, Ottawa, was charged with careless driving, upon investigation by Constable Hayes, on Friday night. It is alleged that Barbaro failed to have his car under control, when it collided with another car driven by Rev. A. E. Durst, Rosenthal, Ont.

A Close Call

The automobile owned by A. W. Leman, of Tweed, received considerable damage on Saturday evening. It appears that Mr. Leman had just driven up in front of his residence on Colborne street and had stepped from his car, when a motor vehicle driven by Lyman Moon, collided with the rear fender of Leman's car, and caused considerable damage to the rear fender, the side door and running board of the car. Leman had stepped onto the running board of his car to avoid being struck, and ended up on the hood of Moon's car. Fortunately, Mr. Leman was not injured.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

The first attempt to occupy territory with troops dropped from aircraft by parachutes has failed according to reports from Northern Finland. Russian parachute troops seized the town of Petsamo but held it only a short time. They were conquered by the Finns.

The Germans employed parachutes to some extent in Poland but not for the purpose of dropping organized bodies of troops. They dropped men in civilian clothes or in Polish uniforms, usually by stealth, for the purpose of sabotage or espionage.

The annual Russian army manoeuvres for some years have included tactical exercises in which sizeable numbers of soldiers, fully armed, were dropped on a given objective with a view to seizing and holding a key point or attacking enemy forces in the rear.

At Petsamo, apparently, a serious attempt was made to use parachutists against the Finns. Military opinion inclines to regard parachute attacks as suicide for the attackers, except under especially favorable conditions. Such conditions might prevail when an army is beaten in the field, and retreating in more or less disorganized fashion. Parachute fighters then might be effective in preventing the reorganization of the retreating forces.

While the Russian army devoted more attention to parachute attacking than others and appears to be the only one which has trained any considerable number of men for it, the British and French have taken defensive precautions to meet it should the Germans try it out in France.

Doctor Arrested In Wife's Death

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4. (AP)—Dr. George K. Dazey, 41, prominent Santa Monica physician, was arrested Sunday on suspicion of murdering his actress wife, Doris Sukow Dazey, 31, four years ago.

She was found dead of carbon-monoxide gas poisoning in the garage of their Santa Monica home October 4, 1935.

For eight years Mrs. Dazey played the title role in the noted Ramona Indian drama pageant at Hemet, seventy miles from here.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said he had a statement from Roland Seal, 31, that he saw Dr. Dazey carry his wife from the house to the garage while he (Seal) was making his rounds as a night watchman. Fitts said Seal declared he had not reported the matter before because Dr. Dazey threatened his life.

Typhoid Victim

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 4—(CP). — Alma Latta, seven, of Stephen Township, Huron County, died in hospital here yesterday of typhoid fever. The condition of four other members of the family also suffering from the disease was reported "fair" by hospital officials today. The four are Stephen Latta, 37; Mrs. Latta, 36; Harvey, 14, and Norma, three. Four other children in the family apparently have escaped the disease.

Casualties

With the British Expeditionary Forces in France, Dec. 4 (CP-Reuters)

VIOLET LORRAINE and Binnie Hale, in France to entertain the troops, were injured in a car accident last night.

Miss Lorraine received head injuries which necessitated some stitches being inserted. Miss Hale has had three stitches inserted in her cheek, which was badly cut.

The two actresses were on their way to take part in a concert at a town near the front when the accident occurred.

Marmora Troopers Attend Church

MARMORA, Dec. 4—(ENS)— A men's choir, nineteen strong led the singing at St. Andrew's United church on Sunday at the morning service attended by the local members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and Marmora Branch 237 Canadian Legion.

The choir rendered as an anthem. "Eternal Father Strong to Save" and G. Woodhouse rendered "God be With You Till We Meet Again."

Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher preached to an overflowing congregation on the subject of the old testament's compilation. At the evening service the choir rendered "Light of a Lonely Pilgrim's Heart." Continuing his treatise on the Bible, Dr. Fletcher discoursed on the new testament.

Canadian Signallers' Encampment One Of Most Warlike In Dominion

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

BARRIEFIELD, Ont., Dec. 4.—(CP)—The training establishment of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals here is the largest concentration of troops in all Canada to date in the Second Great War.

Men from all parts of the Dominion are gathered here. There are actually more men at other points, but they are in different units. The Signalmen here are all under one command and so form a concentration in army terminology.

This hilltop village just east of Kingston is one of the most warlike appearing spots in Canada.

Military training is particularly intensive just now because the Signalmen destined for the First Division must be ready to serve the division and put their training to practical use as soon as the division is assembled whether in training camp or elsewhere. Other troops in the division need not know so much about their own jobs in war. They will master their jobs in training after the assembly of the division.

Many Things To Do

But signalling is essential to the efficient performance of any large body of troops whether in training or on the battlefield. Hence the efforts being made to make the Signalmen efficient in the different methods of communicating messages on the field, by flags, lights, telegraphy, and telephone, by wireless and by wire, and in setting up and operating the instruments required.

An army signalman must first of all be a soldier. So his first training is similar to infantry training. He learns to take and obey orders, to march, to hand a rifle, to keep his equipment and his quarters in the state of neatness and cleanliness demanded by army life.

Many volunteers come with some civilian training as telegraph operators, wireless experts, or mechanics. They need to adapt their civilian knowledge to military use and themselves to the army routine.

A signalman on the field lives with his rifle. He must be ready to defend himself and so must know how to shoot. He must also know something about guns and anti-tank guns. In modern war enemy light tanks may be used to destroy communications. Thus they may make direct attacks on signal stations and signalmen must be ready for them.

Highly Motorized

A divisional signals establishment in a mechanized army employs large and small trucks of different kinds, passenger cars and motorcycles. The latter are used by dispatch-riders in delivering messages by hand.

Learn by doing is guiding principle of training in signals. A 60-line telephone exchange is nearing completion at Barriefield. All the work on it is being done by the troops.

The number of signals personnel in a present-day division is about three times the number employed in the last war. For instance last war the artillery had no wireless. Now each battery has about 20 wireless sets.

Generally wireless is used to a much greater extent than from 1914 to 1918. The mcehanization of the army is partly responsible for this change. A more mobile force requires more directions.

Signallers are to be distinguished from signalmen. Each battalion of infantry and each battery of artillery looks after its own communications within its own sub-divisions. The members of the unit who attend to this are called signallers.

Signalmen belong to the corps of signals and look after communications between the battalion of battery headquarters and brigade headquarters, between divisional headquarters and corps headquarters and so on.

Assuming the First Canadian Division were in the field the First Divisions Signals would be responsible for all communications between units in the area occupied by the division. If the division formed part of a corps of two or more divisions there would be corps signals, first division signals, second division signals and so on.

The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals functions actively in peacetime as well as in war and has peace-time duties. It maintains a system of wireless communication for the use of the Dominion government between all parts of Canada.

First Division Signallers and Gunners Prepare For Overseas

Artillerymen and signalmen of the Canadian Active Service Force are quietly but methodically going through their paces near Kingston as they prepare for service overseas. Known as "the father of Canadian signals," Col. E. Forde, LOWER RIGHT, has under his command the men who will act as signalmen with the First Division, while Lieut.-Col. C. V. Stockwell LOWER CENTRE, is in charge of the men of the First Division stationed at Fort Frontenac. Artillerymen are shown, UPPER LEFT, loading an eighteen-pounder. Signalmen are shown operating from a movable van, UPPER RIGHT, while a signaller is shown, LOWER LEFT, using a wireless telephone in the field.

Abolition of the office of court crier.

Mr. Barlow would also establish a right of appeal from the rulings of boards and commissions now regulating matters formerly referred to the courts.

A central place for the execution of all death sentences pronounced in thep rovince is urged, likewise as a means of overcoming several difficulties and undesirable features connected with the carrying out of hangings in local communities.

The report submitted just now to Attorney-General Gordon Conant is in addition to an interim report submitted last July in which Mr. Barlow recommended abolition of Grand Juries, in a genera lexamination of the jury system.

Considerable savings were seen in the elimination of many court offices, as orginally suggested by the County and District Judges' Association.

Mr. Conant was confident substantial economies could be effected without prejudicing the rights of litigants.

"A great deal of our practice and procedure is the same as it has been for 100 years and very often follows precedents in England, which have long since been abandonded (there). The substance and not the form is the essential thing and we may even well consider the attainment of this objective," he said.

Gesture of Neutrals.

The delay in putting the two-way blockade into force was a concession to neutral nations following complaints from Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Italy and Japan.

Meanwhile, a demand was growing that Britain buy up all markets accessible to Germany across neutral frontiers and at the same time increase British exports.

The blockade was expected here to wip out Germany's trade with South America, and British business groups have been pressing the government for aid in capturing those markets.

Discussion of such measures is scheduled for this week in the House of Commons, which also is to hear war reports from the Prime Minister and Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty.

The advisability of holding secret sessions of parliament during wartime also will be considered.

Jeffrey's sample of Mandarin beans won the blue ribbon in the Region 1 and 2 (yellow or greenish-yellow beans) and then were awarded grand championship honors.

Gohn's small yellow field peas were selected as best in the show. Other Canadian winners in the field peas division were:

Large yellow—J. Decker, Pemberton, B.C. (also reserve championship); Nicholas Ducres, Mildmay, Ont.; W. J. Dover, Kinistino, Sask.

Hamilton's beans won both the Great Northern class ribbon and first prize for all other varieties. J. Brindley, Lethbridge, Alta., was second in the "all other varieties" class of field beans.

Ontario awards included the early oats title, which went to James T. Grant of Cottam, Ont. Others were: White corn (Region 1)—1, R. C. Henry, Turnerville; 2, Ames M. Smith, Merlin; 3, Alva Weaver, Turnerville. White corn (Region 2)—3, William R. Beattie, Staples. White winter wheat—3, Maurice Hamill, Markham. Corn, any other varieties (Region 1)—3, R. Bruce Cumming, Turnerville. Oats (Region 2)—3, James T. Grant, Cottam. Early oats (Region 1)—1, Alex M. Stewart, Ailsa Craig; 2, George C. Chambers, Fenwick. Soy beans (Regions 1 and 2)—1, Hugh Jeffrey, Whitby; 2, R. H. Peck, Canard.

The Ontario Agricultural College's live stock judging team from Guelph, competing in the intercollegiate event for the first time, finished seventh. G. R. Dobson, R.R. No. 4, Denfield, took second place in the individual ranking.

town of Terijki and the other to the "first corps of the people's army of Finland."

At the same time, the Russian press devoted considerable space to a defence of the five-day invasion of Finland on the grounds that "it was necessary to take Finland out of the orbit of influences hostile to the U. S. S. R.

"They (the Helsingfors Government) were always ready to fall into the power of any hostile country, including Britain," the press declared.

Recapitulating Soviet demands in Finland and achievements since the invasion started by land, air and sea, newspapers printed maps showing territorial changes agreed upon by Russia and the new Terijki "People's Government" for Finland, proclaimed from Moscow last Friday in opposition to the Helsingfors regime.

These changes included "transfer" of about 1,530 square miles of Finnish territory in the Karelian Isthmus north of Leningrad in exchange for about 27,000 square miles of Soviet Karelia.

Russia also was given a 30-year lease on the Hango peninsula, surrounding waters and nearby islands, and the right to purchase other islands in the Gulf of Finland and parts of the Rybachi and Sredni peninsulas on the Arctic coast.

Besides the transfer of Soviet Karelian territory, the deal provided that Russia pay about $8,400,000 for railways gained and for the territory ceded or leased.

Princess Louise

Refused to Leave London.

Princess Louise had been in ill-health for a long time. She remained in seclusion in her apartment in the palace, attended by her veteran servants. So complete had been her retirement from public life that few Londoners who strolled through Kensington grounds realized that within the palace walls lived a daughter of the Great Queen.

The Princess, who had lived through many wars, took the present war philosophically. At its outbreak she intimated she intended to stay on in London, even if bombs rain on the city. There was no array of sandbags and no gummed paper on the windows of Kensington Palace. Dark blue blinds, used during the First Great War, were put up for the blackout.

At Rideau Hall

An underground tunnel near the kitchens served as an aid raid shelter, and the only air raid precaution the Princess insisted on was that the palace gas supply be turned off immediately a warning was given.

Ottawa knew Princess Louise as chatelaine at Rideau Hall from 1878 to 1833, when her husband, the Marquis of Lorne, was Governor-General The Marquis subsequently succeeded his father as Duke of Argyll and died in 1914.

The Princess was 30 when she went to Ottawa. She always maintained great interest in the Dominion.

The Province of Alberta was named after her, that being one of her Christian names.

She was born in Buckingham Palace March 21, 1848, and reared under the strict discipline imposed by the Prince Consort who died when she was 13. Thereafter she was for many years the close companion of her bereaved mother.

She married the Marquis of Lorne in 1871, the wedding to the Scottish nobleman being most popular in Britain where it was regarded as a happy reversal of the usual order of Royal unions which saw many British Princesses marry continental Royalty. The Duke and Duchess were childless.

Lord Beaconsfield — Disraeli — persuaded the young couple to go to Canada where Lord Lorne was the fourth Governor-General after Confederation, holding office during the second administration of Sir John A. Macdonald.

Interested in Troops

It would be impossible to indicate the range of the Princess' manifold activities in the public interest over 60 year sand more. There can harly be any branch of charitable civil, religious and social duty in which she has not borne her part; and the fact that a few months before her eighty-second birthday she was the most cheerful and hearty of a group assembled on a wintry day at a London station in January, 1930, to bid Godspeed to the Prince of Wales on his recent African trip, was a remarkable example of what a remarkable old lady can and is prepared to do out of regard for others.

Many gracious acts and speeches testified to her special interest in the troops, Scottish regiments in particular. She was Colonel-in-Chief of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, to which are allied two Canadian militia regiments, the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada (Princess Louise's) and the Calgary Highlanders.

Millbrook Fair Board To Pay Sixty Per Cent of Prize List

MILLBROOK, Dec. 4.—(ENS).—The Agricultural Society held its December meeting on Friday at 2 p.m. with the president, I. W. Larmer, in the chair.

The receiving of financial reports from the secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill, was the principal business. These, however, will be given in complete detail at the annual meeting, set for Wednesday, January 31. A feature of peculiar satisfaction was the report that the note, held for several years by the Bank of Toronto against the Society, has now been paid in full.

Originally the note was for $1,900; by careful planning an amount has been paid off each year, the approximately $500 received in insurance after the grandstand had been burned at the fair grounds last summer, making it possible to finally liquidate the entire note of $646.30.

Committee Thanked.

On motion of Past President Robert McCamus and ex-Warden Percy Stinson, a hearty vote of thanks to the finance committee for their support in signing their names to the note year after year as guarantee at the bank for its payment, thus doing an act of signal service to the Agricultural Society, was passed unanimously and with a vigorous handclap as special endorsement.

Appreciation of the vote was expressed by past presidents H .A. Fallis and Jas. McCamus, the other members of the finance committee including: W. T. Donaldson, A. J. Henderson, N. Belch and G. A. Fair.

May Withdraw Fair.

After full discussion, it was decided to pay 60 per cent. of the prize list, with regret expressed that, owing to having to use a sufficient amount of the funds available to pay off the note at the bank, the entire 100 per cent for prize winners at the 1939 fall fair could not be met. All exhibitors will be particularly invited to attend the annual meeting in January when the matter of continuing the annual fall fair, or of letting it drop for a year or two, possibly until the war is concluded, will be fully discussed, and suggestions of a practical nature asked for.

A. J. Henderson and P. Stinson were appointed a committee to wait on the Millbrook council at its next meeting and ask for the usual grant. The annual visit to the home of the oldest member of the society, W. T. Donaldson, for over sixty years a director, will be on Thursday, December 7, if this is found convenient for the family; the time and place for presenting the diploma, donated by the Government, to the member holding a record for outstanding service, and length of time connected with the local organization, will be decided upon at Mr. Donaldson's. Last year the veteran director was the recipient.

Judge S. L. Smoke Endorses Hut Campaign

One of the first contributions received by the Knights of Columbus in their campaign this week to raise in Peterborough $3,000 for the Canadian Army Huts as an auxiliary war service was from His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke.

In an accompanying letter to V. J. McElderry, K.C., Judge Smoke expressed his commendation of the appeal as follows:

"From many of my friends who are veterans of the last war, I have heard much of the comforts which they received through the "Army Huts." I have, accordingly, no hesitation in endorsing your campaign.

"As a tangible expression thereof I enclose my cheque in your favor, and I wish you and your officers success in your campaign."

Lieut.-Colonel R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, officer commanding the 57th Prince of Wales Rangers, said the Army Huts conducted by the Knights of Columbus in the Great War filled a great need splendidly.

"The friendly, cheerful atmosphere of the Army Huts is a vast change to the men coming out of the line," he said. "It brings back at once a touch of the world the boys have left behind, and contributions to that kind of service can hardly be understood by those who have not been at the front. There were no distinctions of class or creed or anything of that nature, and I am glad to say a word of approval of this campaign."

Appeals were made in the Catholic churches of the city on Sunday for the support of this appeal to provide the amount required to set up again the service of the Canadian Army Huts. No charge is made to soldiers for the accommodation that can be supplied to the men in uniform. The slogan of the K. of C. is "Everything Free."

Bans Firearms From Residence

On the condition that he keep no firearms in his house during his term of probation, Russell Hill, Havelock, was allowed to go on suspended sentence for two years by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to having had possession of a rifle in a manner dangerous to the public.

Hill's arrest followed an incident when Provincial Constable Rogers and Constable Aikin had gone to the accused's house in connection with a complaint. Hill was said to have flourished a rifle on the arrival of the officers.

This morning W. J. Arthur Fair, who appeared for him, said that Hill had gone "berserk" for a few minutes but had soon cooled down. He suggested that he should be allowed to go on suspended sentence on condition that he keep no firearms and refrain from drinking wine.

Crown Attoney McElderry said that perhaps suspended sentence would give better control over the accused and Constable Rogers remarked that he was confident he would have no more trouble with Hill.

Magistrate Langley agreed with the suggestion and suspended sentence for a period of two years, warning Hill that if there were any further trouble he could be brought back and sentenced for the offence to which he had pleaded guilty.

Minor Injuries Are Received In Crashes

Two persons received minor injuries in traffic accidents here late Saturday night.

Helen Davey had her leg injured when a car driven by William Dwyer, Fairbairn street, crashed into a telegraph pole at the corner of McDonnel and Park streets. David R. Rogers, driving another car west on McDonnel street, was making a turn onto Park street and Dwyer, thinking he was going to hit the other machine, swerved his own car and it struck the pole and was badly damaged.

At Park Hill Road and Water streets cars owned by Lawrence Charlton, R. R. No. 4 and George Cooper, 243 Euclid Avenue, came into collision and were damaged. Cooper sustained a cut over his eye which required three stitches.

Bancroft Child Hurt

Liquor Purchase Raises Question

Maxwell Vincent was charged in police court this morning with having liquor legally purchased by him in a place other than his residence, and after the evidence had been heard Magistrate Langley adjourned the case for a week.

The reason was that the court found that a difficulty had arisen inasmuch as Vincent had been charged in connection with liquor legally purchased by him while it had been shown in evidence that he was on the interdicted list and therefore could not purchase liquor legally.

Mrs. William Hunt, 268 Hunter Street, testified that she and Jean Stevens had met Vincent in the beverage room of the American Hotel one night and he had asked if he could come to her house and if it would be "all right to bring some beer." They had gone to her house and Vincent went out and returned with four bottles of beer.

Jealous Of Vincent.

To W. J. Arthur Fair who defended Vincent, she admitted that her husband was jealous of Vincent and that it was he who had been responsible for the charge against the accused.

Jean Stevens, 268 Hunter Street, corroborated the evidence of Mrs. Hunt in regard to Vincent bringing beer to the Hunt place.

Vincent in the witness box said that he had gone to Mrs. Hunt's on the invitation of the women but denied flatly that he had brought any beer there. Further, he swore that the night he went to Mrs. Hunt's place was November 13, not the 14th, as the Crown witnesses had sworn.

Magistrate Langley pointed out the difficulty in regard to the wording of the charge and the possibility of the charge being amended. He adjourned the case in the meanwhile.

Baby's Condition Remains Critical

Scant improvement has been noticed in the condition of 7-months-old Helen Lytle, only one of four children to survive a fire in Dummer township three weeks ago, it was reported at Nicholls hospital today.

Hospital authorities said the child had improved for a short time, but that her condition was now returned to near the same critical stage it had been on admittance.

Meanwhile generous response has been accorded an appeal made on behalf of the destitute parents who lost their all in the fire. At the Examiner several bundles of clothing and household articles have been received and a total of $12.50 in cash. Last donation of $5.00 reached the Examiner office today from the Westwood Presbyterian Sunday school.

Obituary

MISS ANNIBELL HARRIET YORK.

The death of Miss Annibell Harriet York occurred at her home at 340 Charlotte Street at noon to-day after a lingering illness. She was in her 32nd year.

Daughter of Mrs. Ethel York and the late Herbert York, she was born in Fenelon Falls and had lived in Peterborough since she was an infant.

Surviving are two brothers, Cecil and Wilfred of Peterborough and one sister, Mrs. Geoffrey Feeley of Peterborough.

The funeral will be on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the late residence. Rev. F. C. Craik of St. James' United Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

COLLIDE AT CORNER.

Cars owned by N. Northey, River Road, and George Rutherford, Crawford's Grove, were damaged Saturday in a collision at the corner of Water and Hunter streets. No one was injured.

Farmers Asking To Be Given A Fair Chance

"The farmers of Canada are seeking today what the manufacturers were able to do sixty years ago. Sixty years late they are asking for an agricultural policy that will give their industry a fair chance."

This statement by Dr. J. B. Reynolds of Port Hope, former president of the Ontario Agricultural College, at Rotary luncheon at the Empress Hotel, summarized to the representative group of the city's business and professional men the main theme of H. S. Arkell's address to one hundred and seventy-five farmers of Peterborough county at the Court House last week.

The "national policy" was inaugurated in this country exactly sixty years ago, Dr. Reynolds said. It was devised for the benefit of infant manufacturing industries, "but they haven't grown up yet for the national policy is still going as strong as ever. I have no fault to find with it, except that it was too one-sided.

You men here in Peterborough should be interested in the proposal of a national policy for agriculture. I want you to believe that your prosperity depends on the prosperity of the farmers living around and about your city, and generally in Canada."

Dr. Reynolds pointed out that agriculture should be of greater interest to the people of Peterborough than to those of Toronto and even Oshawa, because it was not so broadly industrialized. "You are a country town more largely dependent upon the farmers of your district."

Farmers contribute to the prosperity of an urban centre like Peterborough by their production of food, by raw materials such as the commodities required by the local packing plant, canning factories and mills; also by the transportation of farm produce, by railway trucking interests; by the merchandising of farm products, such as the implement agencies; by the manufacturing of machinery needed in farm work, such as the products of the De Laval Company. Dr. Reynolds also mentioned in this classification the companies making household conveniences, such as the Canadian General Electric Company, whose output to rural consumers was very largely dependent upon their income from the products of the farms.

Price Parity.

Dr. Reynolds briefly explained the phrase price parity as the ratio of exchange between one group of commodities and another group, such as the price of the commodities produced by farmers on the one hand and the price of the things they have to buy, on the other.

As an example he cited the experience of a farmer as related in a recent letter to a Toronto paper. Thirty years ago this man's father bought two implements that cost $100, when hay was selling at $10 a ton. The ratio in that case as between the prices for the implements and the hay was 10 to 1.

On replacing the implements after thirty years' use their cost was $250 and hay sold at $5 a ton. The ratio had changed to 50 tons of hay for one set of implements.

"If the first instance represented a parity of values, then the second one showed a disparity against the farmer by 5 to 1."

Dr. Reynolds said he could not definitely determine the reason for this displacement that reacted adversely to agriculture. Either the raw materials entering into the implements were costing more, or the labor element, or the cost of processing in manufacture, or manufacturers were making a larger profit than those of thirty years ago.

Concentration of industries from the small towns and villages in the large cities should have had the effect of lowering the cost of their products, but the result as pertaining to farm implements was that they have cost more.

Steady Level of Costs

Most other commodities, Dr. Reynolds said, kept on a steady level of costs. There had been no extreme changes in the price of bread during the year. Mechanical services as at garages, and professional services did not undergo wide changes in their charges to the public. The violent swings seemed to be confined to agriculture. A year ago, for example, red clover seed sold at $7 a bushel, and in the previous fall the price was $28.

"The potato crop of Canada in the year 1925 amounted to 42,000,000 hundredweight, its value was $51,000,000, and the yield per acre was worth $66. By contrast, in 1934 the crop was 52,000,000 hundreds of pounds, or an increase of 25 per cent as between those two years; the total sale price was $40,000,000, a drop of 20 per cent; and the return per acre was $68, or 30 per cent less than in the earlier year.

The larger yield net the Canadian potato growers a lower return, which is not according to common sense."

Dr. Reynolds said this unbalance was happening in other parts of the world, even under the planned economy of countries in Europe. One reason was that farmers cannot control production, "not in Canada at any rate. It is exceedingly difficult because we have 700,000 farmers, and we would have to obtain the consent of all of them before production could be reduced. They are divided on racial, religious and political lines, and to unite them on an agricultural marketing program presents an enormous difficulty. Another factor is the uncertainty of the weather and pests, something that is beyond their control."

As an evidence of the farmer's customary policy of increasing production even against adverse marketing conditions, Dr. Reynolds recalled the statistics of wheat production in Western Canada during three five-year periods.

From 1921 to 1925 there were 22,000,000 acres of land in the West seeded in wheat. In the next five years to 1930 this area increased to 24,000,000 acres; and from 1931 to 1935 the total was 25,000,000 acres. At the same time the prices dropped from 96 cents during the first five years to 85 cents from 1926 to 1930, and to 49 cents from 1931 to 1935.

"Farmers do not readily respond to the discouragements of price." Dr. Reynolds observed. "He can't let his acres go idle, or his stock go without feed. He is obliged to continue production, and as in the low price years of 1932 and 1933 farmers actually increased production."

Comparison With Industry

By comparison, Dr. Reynolds said that the prices of agricultural machinery declined 15 per cent from 1929 to 1932, while the prices of agricultural commodities were declining 63 per cent, "showing that manufacturers have a greater power of control over their products.

In the field of production, the output of agricultural machinery from 1929 to 1932 was 80 per cent, and the decrease in the production of agricultural commodities was only 6 per cent.

In 1929 farmers bought $52,000,000 worth of agricultural implements, because they were relatively prosperous; but in 1932 the Canadian farmer bought only $6,000,000 worth of implements, for the reason that the price ratio had gone against him.

Dr. Reynolds was introduced by F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative. He was accompanied by his son, Walter Reynolds, prominent farmer of Durham, living near Welcome. The thanks of the Club was extended to Dr. Reynolds by the chairman, E. L. Sackville.

FACES TWO CHARGES.

William Harris-Smith, former temporary member of the Ontario provincial police faced two charges in police court this morning when he was charged with stealing a fountain pen from W. Kenneth Hill and also obtaining $5 under false pretences from the same complainant. Harris-Smith was arrested in Toronto Saturday and brought down to Peterborough by Detective Sgt. W. E. Meagher and Constable C. J. McGillen. This morning he pleaded not guilty and was remanded for a week on bail of $200.

"GOD THE ONLY CAUSE AND CREATOR"

"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist of Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast." (Psalms 33:8, 9) Selections from the Bible included the following from Genesis 1: 31, Genesis, 2: 1, "And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day. Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them." Correlatives citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following. "All that is made is the work of God, and all is good. We leave this brief, glorious history of spiritual creation (as stated in the first chapter of Genesis) in the hands of God, not of man, in the keeping of Spirit, not matter,—joyfully acknowledging now and forever God's supremacy, omnipotence, and omnipresence."

Harwood Swimmer Chops Hole In Rice Lake Ice Daily, Takes Dip In Cold Water

HARWOOD, Dec. 4—(ENS).—Another one has turned up here!

Every year as winter sets in some community or another boasts one citizen more hardy than his fellows in the rest of the province. He dons a bathing suit, chops a hole in the ice and goes in for a dip while by-standers shiver deliciously. With two inches of ice lying over Rice Lake, Gordon Tharold, former entry in the C.N.E. marathon swim, daily dons his swim suit and strolls down to the water, chops a hole in the two-inch ice and goes in for a dip. He doesn't seem to mind it and doesn't shiver as much as the spectators.

Price Of Hogs Be Pegged At $9.00 Cwt.?

Announcement to-day "the British Government has agreed to buy all the bacon and ham Canada can porduce during the war and to pay the equivalent of nine cents a pound for live hogs," means that farmers in this country will receive approximately that figure for the duration of the war, was the belief expressed to-day by Graham Eastwood of Canada Packers.

The British Government is offering a price of 102 shillings a hundredweight, all purchases to be made through the Canadian Bacon Board. The bacon will be bought f.o.b. Canadian seaboard ports, which will mean the British Government must take shipping risks.

A price of one hundred and two shillings a hundredweight means that the English wholesaler is paying $20.18 for an English hundredweight of 112 pounds plus the heavy transportation costs across the ocean—a vast spread from the $6.00 or a little less that it is estimated the Canadian farmer will be paid.

But even at that, the price is a considerable increase over the price of hogs in this country to-day. Canada Packers this morning quoted dressed hogs at $11.40 a hundredweight, which is equivalent to a live weight price of $8.50.

It is not definite that the Canadian farmer will receive $9.00 for the duration of the war. Gordon S. Matthews, general manager of Canada Packers here, said. He pointed out that if equal shipments are to be made week by week, there will be storage charges to be taken into consideration, and that probably other items will have to be considered. But he believed the price would be approximately that figure.

Stuart Saunders Is Boy Member

Stuart Saunders, 9 Denistoun Avenue, was elected president of George Street Boys' Council Sunday, defeating Earl Armstrong, 669 Water Street, who will be vice-president.

The council is composed of representatives from each of eleven organized classes in the Sunday school of George Street United Church. There are more than 100 boys over nine years of age registered, and 64 took part in the election.

Stuart Saunders will also be Peterborough's representative at the 19th session of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament which will be held in Toronto from December 26 to December 31.

Reg. Kingdon was returning officer at the election and K. Burnham and L. Parnall were deputies. Leo Copp, superintendent of boys' work in the Sunday school, took charge of the election.

Youths Being Held On Vagrancy Counts

Four youths who were picked up by the police early Sunday morning in an automobile parked on George street with the lights out pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court today to a charge of vagrancy.

The quartette were Joseph Heffernan, Gerald Whatman, Jack Harran and Harry Jones.

Inspector Reid asked for a week's remand for sentence. "There are a lot of things to be looked into," he told the court. "That is not a particularly strong reason," remarked Magistrate Langley. He however remanded the four until December 11.

Former Hastings Banker

HASTINGS, Dec. 4—(ENS). — A news story from Cardinal yesterday told of a daring robbery in the Bank of Toronto branch there when two gunmen made off with an amount of money believed to be between $800 and $1,000. Four customers and three of the staff were tied by the hands and feet. The gunmen attempted to lock them in the safe but were foiled when the safe refused to lock. The story adds that G. D. Gowans, the manager, and a customer, were not tied. The story has particular interest to Hastings owing to the fact that G. D. Gowans was manager of the Bank of Toronto here for several years and was transferred to Cardinal from Hastings in early summer.

A native of Southport, Eng., F. Johnson, ABOVE, vice-president of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, has been appointed director of administration of the British purchasing commission in America. The commission will arrange all purchase of war and other supplies for Great Britain for duration of the war.

Two Drivers Are Given 7 Days

Two men who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to drunken driving charges were sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to seven days in jail.

One was George Cuthbert, Peterborough, whose offence took place on Charlotte street a week ago, and the other Thomas Peake, street foreman, Campbellford, who was arrested Sunday by Provincial Constable John A. Rogers and Constable Aikin of Havelock on a charge of drunken driving on the Hastings-Norwood road.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that he would be satisfied with the minimum sentence in each case as there had been no accident.

Cuthbert was driving a car owned by his firm so in his case there was no order for impounding the machine. Peake's automobile was ordered impounded for three months.

At the close of the meeting, a very dainty lunch was served in the dining hall.

Veteran Merchant Marks 84th Birthday

HASTINGS, Dec. 4—(ENS). — Alex Wilson, Hastings oldest native resident and prominent merchant, is to-day observing his 84th birthday.

Friends of Mr. Wilson, who has been confined to his home through illness for over a year, will be pleased to hear he is sufficiently recovered to be able to take short walks and an occasional car ride and visit his store. It is here he delights to meet his old friends, for he has a keen memory and his reminiscences of Hastings' early days have been enjoyed by many.

Mr. McCrae was born in Sweaburg, Oxford County, and moved here in 1898. He was a member of the town council for several years and was a prominent member of the Rotary and Canadian clubs of Lindsay. He is survived by his wife and four children.

Band Program Pleases Large Audience

The Peterborough Brass Band entertained a capacity audience in the Regent Theatre with a pleasing program, assisted by Mrs. L. Groombridge, soprano; Walter Farr, baritone, and Mrs. Helen Galvin and her Aloha Serenaders.

This band has not yet rounded out the year since it made its first bow to the public in that auditorium, having sprung almost unannounced from their common desire to have a part in the musical life of the city. Since then they have been gradually winning friends and enlarging the company of their well-wishers, and Lieut.-Colonel C. H. Ackerman, chairman last night, said they deserved to be taken under the public's wing and given adequate support.

Building up and establishing a concert band in Peterborough appears from long experience to be a difficult undertaking that is bound to strain the patience of any persons expecting long strides in only twelve months. The band has made several favorable impressions during the summer, but opportunities are limited. The audience Sunday night was one of the largest to which the Peterborough Brass Band has played, that is indoors, indicated by only a few vacant seats upstairs.

There was nothing pretentious about the program that was made to please. One of the numbers, a medley of operatic numbers, was directed by Ernest J. Dark, brother of the band's conductor, Walter Dark, who is visiting in Peterborough after quitting several musical engagements in South Dakota to enlist again in the Canadian Army. He is convalescing from an operation he underwent in Vancouver.

A difference in personality between the two brothers was reflected in their manner of directing, and the first glance at Ernest Dark's attitude facing the band indicated that he was at home on a podium. The band has developed a fine dynamic quality, but the polishing of harmonies in adagio and piano moods still requires attention. Its selections included a march, "S.I.B.A."; overture, 'Naiad Queen'; the opera melange; waltz, "Bliss Eternal"; and the hymn, "Deep Harmony."

One of Mrs. Groombridge's songs was a charming melody, "Stars are Memories," sung with a great deal of charm; the others were "Land of Hope and Glory," by Elgar, "You'd Better Ask Me," and "Sleepy Hollow Tune."

Walter Farr contributed four fine baritone solos, including "Bedouin's Love Song" and the "Count of Luxemburg," and contributing an attractive melodic feature was the instrumental group Aloha Serenaders directed by Mrs. Helen Galvin. The Hawaian flavor of their guitars and also their singing were exceptionally pleasing. Mrs. Galvin played an electric guitar and here assisting serenaders were Miss Velma Scott, Miss Grace Hunt, Miss Jean McElwain, Wilfrid Galvin and Jim Sands.

Mrs. E. Foster played the piano accompaniments for Mrs. Groombridge and Mr. Farr.

Carrier Boys See Hockey Game

Thirty-four Peterborough Examiner carrier boys howled with glee in Toronto Saturday night as they watched the Toronto Maple Leafs battle the Chicago Black Hawks to a tie in overtime.

The boys were city paper carriers who had won a subscription contest offered by the paper and they were accompanied by another 13 from the Kingston Whig-Standard. The game climaxed a day of fun in the Queen City and it was a tired crowd that arrived back in Peterborough in the early hours of Sunday.

They left Peterborough by bus on Saturday morning and stopped first at the Royal York hotel. They saw Toronto from the top of the lofty Bank of Commerce building, had lunch together and then went bowling. After the hockey game they met most of the players on the Maple Leaf line-up and were photographed with famed Red Horner. Piling into their special bus they returned to Peterborough, stopping en route at Bowmanville for lunch.

HAMILTON CENTRAL BEATS RUNNYMEDE FOR SENIOR SCHOOL TITLE

Cops A 17-7 Win To Take Round By 27-22 Score

HAMILTON, December 4.—After seeing Runnymede increase their lead to nine points on the round by scoring a converted touchdown in the first minute of play at Scott Park on Saturday afternoon, Central Collegiate struck back with lightning-like rapidity to tally three major counts, two of which they converted, and defeated the Toronto Redmen by a score of 17-7. On the round it was 27-22 for the Hamilton youngsters as they dropped a 15-12 tilt in the Queen City on Wednesday afternoon last.

Handicapped somewhat by the slippery ball and the heavy going, the Toronto collegiate team was blocked almost every move, while Central, favored slightly by the breaks which they were quick to take advantage of, played heads-up football all afternoon. After Graham had struck for Runnymede with a try from forty yards out, Central came right back before the initial period was half over and on a combined run in which Zavadowsky gave Gow the ball, and an open field, Central's starry flying wing raced twenty-seven yards to the goal line.

On a Fumble.

In the third period a Paisley fumble on his own ten saw Robinson dribble across Runnymede's line for a converted touchdown, and five minutes later in the period Mel Lawson intercepted a Runnymede lateral and raced forty yards unmolested for the final major score of the game.

For the visitors it was Harrison who stood out. The husky flying wing for Runnymede, by far the best player on the field, ripped Central's front wall wide open and played himself into a state of exhaustion, being forced to retire in the last ten minutes of play, when the visitors had Central on the run.

Webber's booting and the catching of the entire Central backfield outshone anything the visitors had to offer in these departments.

Central—Flying wing, Gow; backs, Zavadowsky, Newlands, Marshall; quarter, Webber; snap, Robinson; insides, Freeman, Wills; middles, Macdougall, Todd; outsides, M. Lawson, Maxwell; alternates, Bowes, Soden, Armer, Moxley, Henderson, Martin, Kerrison, Beasley, G. Lawson, Barnard.

Referee—Seymour Wilson; umpire Bobby Coulter.

Trophy Winner In O.R.F.U.

Winners of the Imperial Oil trophy, awarded annually to the player judged the most valuable and sportsmanlike in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, was Eddie Thompson, great running back with Balmy Beach, and only non-Big Four player to make the Canadian Press eastern all-star team. Second in the voting was Don Crowe, who played a bang-up game with the losing Peterborough team. Crowe is shown Above, Thompson alongside.

ORFU President Gets Tilt By Radio

TORONTO, Dec. 4 — From his sick bed at St. Joseph's Hospital, President John DeGruchy of the Ontario Rugby Football Union followed progress of the Sarnia-Ottawa football playoff game with keenest of interest over the radio on Saturday. Mr. DeGruchy has been confined to the hospital since Monday because of illness.

"The thoroughness with which Mr. DeGruchy kept tab on the game was typical of his football nature," Secretary-Treasurer Harold Bailey of the O.R.F.U. declared after the game. He remembered more details of it than I did, and I had a good seat at Varsity Stadium. He was particularly pleased with the courageous showing of Art Massucci's Sarnia team, probably the youngest ever to represent our Union in Eastern Canada playoff competition."

Volleyball Team Beats Kitchener

Peterborough Whites won a friendly round-robin volleyball series with a Kitchener-Waterloo team and the Peterborough Blues at the "Y" here Saturday. The Whites won three of four games, as the Blues broke even with two and two, while the visitors won one and had three reverses in some neat competition. Whites beat the Blues 15-9 and lost 15-9, Kitchener won over the Blues 15-11 and lost to them 15-13, and the Whites beat Kitchener 15-9 and 15-13.

Must Ante Up

BUFFALO, Dec. 4—(AP)— The Buffalo International Baseball League Club must pay $4,000 to St. Louis Browns of the American League for Outfielder Ray Pepper, voluntarily retired since 1937, under a ruling by Commissioner Kenshaw Landis made known Saturday.

Commissioner Landis held that Pepper became permanently incapacitated only after joining the Buffalo club, which must pay the balance of the purchase price.

A Close Call

Fresno, Calif., Dec. 4. (AP) A shotgun charge tore a hole through the cap of Monte Pearson, New York Yankees' pitcher, yesterday.

Pearson was in a duck blind with a 15-year-old Fresno High School Boy. A flock of geese landed nearby. Pearson said he raised up and fired at the same moment the boy likewise shot.

The blast from the boy's gun cut a hole through the cap and knocked it from his head.

"That's as close as anything ever could come without actually happening," Pearson remarked.

Ottawa Juniors Are Ready To Meet Imps

OTTAWA, Dec. 4—(CP).—Ottawa Gladstones, junior champions of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, will travel to Sarnia to play Sarnia juniors if all expenses are guaranteed, Club officials said last night.

The game between the local team and the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions for the Eastern Canada junior title probably will be played next Saturday if Sarnia agress to Ottawa's terms.

Monday

Final standing of the St. James' Y.P.S. for the first section show Miss Zaida Harvie's team nosing out Miss Mary Gregson's team by two points for first place.

Standing:	Points
Miss Z. Harvie	42
Miss M. Gregson	40
Miss D. Freeman	34
Miss N. May	34
Miss V. Freeman	32
Miss G. Langton	28
Miss J. Meeks	8
H. Fife	6

This week's results:

A. Fife	586	570	577—1733
N. May	767	775	856—2398
G. Langton	678	699	790—2167
D. Freeman	760	776	607—2143
M. Gregson	939	849	750—2538
V. Freeman	863	724	768—2355
Z. Harvie	736	844	801—2381
J. Meeks	656	669	570—1895

John Hickey had high three for the night and was the only man over 600 with 633 (234-222). Quite a number of single games over 200 were rolled as follows, Lew Evans 208, Dot Freeman 201, Fred McGovarin 224, Vera Leggitt 205, Bill Garvey 206, Jack Tarkington 213.

Tuesday

Results of the Dominion Woollens League were as follows for last week:

E. Deyell	706	858	807—2371
A. Armstrong	633	665	641—1939
E. Jenkinson	755	697	815—2267
V. Lazure	865	628	755—2248

A. Wedlock	661	752	770—2183
J. Heffernan	698	746	710—2154
M. Doris	581	950	855—2386
G. Pryde	736	685	694—2115

With the first section two-thirds over Tommy Williams' team continues to mow down the opposition like professional bowlers. Al Lester's team who are considered pretty good in this league were just shaded by the Williams' aggregation and lost all eight points. George Gurnett poured in 729 to take high three for men to date with consistent singles of 279, 219, 231. Mike Doris who seems to run in tough luck for one game each week had a nice 641 (275, 217) to be the only other male bowler over 600. Amelia Lazure gave the lady bowlers something to shoot at when she rolled 624 with singles of 237, 213. Miss Lazure also holds ladies' high average and high single game in this league:

Standing to date:	Points
T. Williams	48
E. Jenkinson	40
E. Deyell	40
A. Lester	32
M. Doris	30
G. Pyrde	29
V. Lazure	29
A. Wedlock	22
G. Gurnett	22
P. Hillier	22
J. Heffernan	18
A. Armstrong	4

Wednesday

Results of the Wednesday Night League show Joe Anthony leading the way with a big 841. Joe had 304, 306 to start and finished the third with 231. Headpins in the first and third frames of the last game spoiled an opportunity to pass 900. Warren Ferguson had a big 340 in his 763 string, a split in the fourth costing him a possible 400 game. Bill (Rosebud) Masters was the only other man with over 699 having an exact 700 (218, 261, 221). Other scores over 600 as follows: Joe Mattucci 663 (212, 257). Ed Johnston 633 (246, 244), Charlie Clarke 614 (213, 211), Art Dowen 681 (228, 233, 220), Red Fisher 682 (218, 223, 241), Bill Harris 697 (253, 239, 205), Turk Walton 696 (249, 271), Ray Clifford 654 (292), G. Milton 618 (259, 215), Fred Martin 615 (248), Ed Rishea 623 (217, 213), Don Lazure 632 (208, 234), Pat Blodgett 610 (270).

Team Results:

C.P.C.	937	919	929—2785
Lansfield's	1056	958	1030—3044
DeCarlonis	888	993	950—2831
Coca Cola	798	849	747—2394
Downers	1034	1072	1068—3174
C.G.E.	1087	996	1040—3123

Johnson M.	1087	987	844—2918

Thursday

The K. of C. League wound up the first section of their schedule this week and the finish finds Babe Anthony's team and Freddie Meagher's team tid for top honors with 20 points each.

Final standing:

First section	Points
B. Anthony	20
F. Meagher	20
J. O'Brien	16
B. Jones	14
F. Pepe	14
F. Jones	12
J. Legrow	8
T. Anthony	8

The boys turned on the heat on the last schedule night of this section and some very fine scores resulted with the veteran Tommy Ryan showing the way with a nice 782. Tommy had a high three of 810 which only lasted a week and he seems determined to get up in the lead again. His singles were 275, 246, 262. F. Meagher was second with 727 with a nice single effort of 311, his other two games being 216, 200. Alex Berardi had 703 (211, 267, 225). Others scores over 600 were: Shag Shaughnessy 658 (201, 280), Don Coughlin 696 (236, 210, 250), John Legrow 623 (233, 216), B. Jones 679 (286, 200), Joe Marino 647 (212, 228, 207), Alf Pepe 630 (238, 204). Fred Jones 669 (295, 203).

Only Minor Injuries

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 — (CP). — Injuries suffered by Tony Golab, Sammy Sward, and Bunny Wadsworth at Toronto on Saturday when Ottawa Rough Riders defeated Sarnia Imperials 23-1 to win the Eastern Canada football title were described to-day as of a minor nature and will not keep them out of Saturday's Dominion final against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers here.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Bending the ear toward the radio broadcast Saturday of the Eastern Canada senior grid final in Toronto, one got the impression that Sarnia Imperials made as good a showing against Ottawa Rough Riders as could be expected. They lost 23-1 but it was not unexpected. After all, the Imps are just in process of rebuilding with a flock of young punks whilst the Riders are definitely at their peak, after building up for several years. One can feel fairly safe in predicting the Ottawa team to begin slipping in one or two more years, whereas the Sarnians will prove tougher and tougher the next few football seasons. Sounded like a fair game in the rain with the Imps extending the big Ottawa tanks plenty in spots, though there was never any doubt of the outcome. Winnipeg Bombers wind it up 'gainst Ottawa this coming Saturday in the Dominion final.

Senior "B" puckists practice again in Oshawa on the morrow and may arrange an exhibition tilt for later in the week. The squad is practically picked for the 1939-40 campaign and the boys are skating fast and puffing less and less as the schedule opener approaches. They'll be fit and ready, with no lack-of- practice alibis this winter. At a long-distance guess, we'd say the Petes will be some better than a year ago—when they made the O.H.A. round-robin final serial—having more speed and a little more weight. Plus the early conditioning. Seven of last year's regulars will be aboard again.

* * * * * *

A Bunch O' Names

The Buckland bunch lost Gray, Nichol and Creighton—who left for other spots—but obtained Ellis, the two Joplings, Blewett, Heal, Burton and Cadd. All local lads, but they weren't with the 1938-39 team. Dude Brady is still a prospect, too. The seven left-overs from a year ago. (no offence meant at the term, mes heartles!) are Harding, Crowe, Gardner, Starr, Coughlin, Tompkins and Kingdon. With Earl McNabb as second goalie. It sounds like a good outfit, but will have to be plenty potent as the four-team group is very likely to be faster and better-balanced than a year ago. Which is okay for the fans. They like tight tilts.

* * * * * *

Two well-known players here for some years won't be playing this semester and they'll be missed. Shrimp McDougall decided to hang 'em up and hasn't tried out with the gang at all. Archie Weir went out several times but was bothered by a sore foot and finally figured he'd forget it and try his hand at refereeing or coaching this winter. Team won't look just the same the first few games without the tricky little ex-pro up on the attack or the big defenceman back there on the blue line. Shrimp returned here several years ago after being re-instated to amateur ranks—having helped Owen Sound to a Dominion junior title and then taking a crack at pro company. Not so young any more—and always a lightweight—McDougall nevertheless played some swell hockey and went over big with the fans.

* * * * * *

Weir left here as a junior, playing with St. John's, and dished up a lot of fine puck-chasing in Niagara Falls ere returning here. Believe that was about eight years ago. He consistently led local defencemen (and often those in the whole group) in scoring up until two years ago. And he has always been a first-class defenceman, including last winter. However, both he and Shrimp are giving the game a pass this year. And with so many other prospects trying for berths, they're not needed so badly this winter. But they'll be missed by fans. Joe McNulty is another—though a newcomer here a year ago — who hasn't tried out for this year's squad.

O.H.A. executive, busy these days lining up groups all over the province, announces several new clubs entered. One including Norwood in the intermediate "B" classification. Among transfers granted were two from Prescott to Belleville, Herb Windsor and Leo Yates. The O.H.A. also plans to recommend to the C.A.H.A. that the rule limiting the length of hockey sticks to 53 inches be enforced rigidly. We wouldn't be surprised if the groups were announced by Tuesday, the sub-committee of the Ontario Puck Assoc. holding another huddle this eve. Once the, groupings are known, the districts can immediately hold their meetings to arrange schedules.

* * * * * *

Come, Come, Eddie

This from the Belleville sheet: "Eddie Thomas says he isn't too interested in the matter of including Oshawa into a group that will embrace Peterborough, the Air Force and his Redmen in the O.H.A. 'The jump to Oshawa is too far for working boys to take,' contends Eddie, but we feel that the inclusion of Oshawa would mean new faces in the group and undoubtedly increased local hockey interest." Yeah, this writer also thinks it's a good bet for this winter, at least. Incidentally, Oshawa could use their junior "A" players one or two at a time in senior "B" games—within the rules, of course.

* * * * * *

Gord Minty took some of his young swimmers to the open junior championship meet in Hamilton on Saturday and they made a good showing gainst the pick of the junior swimmers in Ontario. Ralph Rogow came second in his heat to qualify for the 50-yard free-style championship race and then finished fourth in a field of two dozen—a good piffawmance, indeed. Lorne O'Brien, Don Pinch, Jim Brown and Rogow lost out in the relay go, while O'Brien, Pinch and Brown were beaten in the 50-yard race heats. Len Smith and Bruce Campbell were on hand but did not compete. It was fine experience in tough competition at the big meet in the municipal pool, the show being held under auspices of the Hamilton Aquatic Club. Local swimmers may compete at Toronto Central "Y" this week-end.

Ex-Pitcher Dies

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 4.—(AP). — Frank Killen, 69, former major league pitcher who played with teams in Pittsburg, Washington, Beston and Chicago, was found dead in an automobile in suburban north park yesterday. A physician said death was due to a heart attack. While with the Pirates in 1893, Killen, a southpaw, set a National League record of 36 victories in one season.

Leafs Make Swap For Outfielder

TORONTO, Dec. 4— The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues opens its annual meeting today at Cincinnati, but Toronto Maple Leafs beat the trading gun by one day. Business Manager Arthur Leman of the Toronto Club yesterday announced a straight player trade whereby Outfielder Johnny Tyler, a switch-hitter, joins the Leafs from Buffalo in return for Outfielder Mayo Smith. At the same time Manager Tony Lazzeri announced the signing as coach-player of Sad Sam Jones, former pitcher with New York Yannkees. Smith ends a seven-year term as a Leafian chattel. He was signed in 1933 from Florida sandlots.

Becoming A Habit

DETROIT, Dec. 4—(CP).—The dream of all bowlers—a 300 game—didn't rouse much interest for Andy Varilpapa, the bowling expert from Brooklyn, N.Y., who knocked them all down 12 times in a row for a perfect game. He explained casually it was the forty-seventh time he had performed the feat.

Remember When—

Georges Vezina, one of hockey's alltime great goalkeepers, was ordered to quite the game 14 years ago today. Despite a temperature of 102, the Canadien netminder played his last match Nov. 28 and in the following week lost 30 pounds. He died at Chicoutimi, Que., March 28, 1926.

Junior Girls Preparing For Swim Cups

At the Junior Sports Hour Friday afternoon, the members were busy preparing for the coming trophy competition, which will be held at the Y.W.C.A. pool next Friday at 4.30 p.m. The junior diving: Hamilton Trophy, for 11 years and under has many entries and the competition will be very keen. For the Junior Life Saving: Gordon Trophy, all entries under 14 years of age, must be registered by December 7th. The Wood Trophy: Junior Sports Hour 1939 Cup will be presented to the winner on Friday, also the Walker Trophy for the seniors sports' winner of the highest aggregate points during the season. The Public School finals of the shuttle relay race and the school diving competition for the Cruikshank and Littlefield Trophies will also be held Friday afternoon.

A splendid program of races, includes free style swimming, under water, candle race, spoon race and umbrella race with prizes for the lucky winners, and the popular treasure hunt for a finale.

The public is cordially invited and the admission will be a silver collection.

Joe Louis Wins

Detroit, Dec. 4, (CP).

JUDGE W. McKay Skillman withdraws all claims as the champion window pole lifter-upper of the Municipal Courts Building.

For years he has prided himself that nobody could duplicate his feat of working one hand under the butt-end of a heavy, 12-foot window pole and raise it over his head in the palm of his hand with a minimum of grunting and groaning. He challenged one and all without discretion—until Saturday. A tall, rugged individual did the trick—and Joe Louis took over another championship.

Louis was visiting the judge to make one of his annual charitable contributions.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN AND DRAW WITH BLACK HAWKS ON WEEK-END

Two Top Teams Will Meet Thursday Night

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

The first month of the 1939-40 National Hockey League schedule has slipped by, leaving Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens as the leaders and providing a perfect setting for their first clash of the season on Thursday night.

Up to now, the N.H.L. play has been highlighted by the brilliance of these two clubs and the dismal showing in the early days of Boston's Stanley Cup holding Bruins and the highly-rated New York Rangers. The Leafs and Canadiens have been consistent all the way, while the Bruins and Rangers are showing signs of perking up in their play.

Two Point Lead.

Conny Smythe's Toronto forces are out in front with a two-point edge over the Habitants, but with a game more played. The Leafs have won six, lost two, and tied two in 10 starts, while the Flying Frenchmen have won a game less and have the same record as the Leafs in the lost an dtied columns.

To provide even greater interest for their initial encounter at Montreal on Thursday night is the fact that both teams put an end during the week-end to two-game losing streaks.

The Leafs, after losing to New York Americans and Boston, gained a 3-3 overtime draw over Chicago Black Hawks on Saturday night in Toronto with a great third period rally. Then they defeated the Hawks 3-1 in overtime last night at Chicago. Canadiens, who dropped contests to Detroit Red Wings and Americans, turned on the Wings last night for a 3-0 victory at Detroit.

During the week-end the Rangers stretched their unbeaten streak to five games by playing to a 1-1 overtime draw on Saturday night with the Americans and the Bruins extended their undefeated string to three games by walloping Americans 6-2. It was the same score by which the Bruins had toppled the Leafs in their preceding contest and gave them a record of 14 goals in their past three games.

Schriner in Form.

Outstanding in the week-end developments was the brilliant return to form of Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, obtained by the Leafs in a trade that sent four players to Americans. Schriner, a brilliant star with the Amerks, played his best hockey of the season in bagging two goals—one of them the winner in the extra session—in the Leafs' victory at Chicago.

Schriner was one of five players who bagged a pair of goals in the two nights. Herbie Cain and Mel Hill of the Bruins and Harvey (Busher) Jackson of the Americans turned the trick in the Boston-New York clash, while Joffre Desilets of the Hawks scored a goal on Saturday against the Leafs and then got the lone Chicago tally last night.

The Gordie Drillon-Syl Apps-Bob Davidson line brought Leafs their Saturday tie, each getting a goal in the third period after the Hawks had built up a 3-0 lead on tallies by Desilets Mush March, and George Allen. Schriner and Desilets scored in the regulation time of the Sunday game and then Schriner and rookie Hank Goldup tallied for the Leafs in overtime.

Santa Anita To Use Magnetic Starting Gate

In turf circles 1939 will probably go down as "starting gate year," what with the Puett gate finding widespread favor in United States and being used regularly in British Columbia, the Cowell gate being exhibited in the east and receiving hearty approval after a season's operation in western Canada, and now Santa Anita has announced that when its next meeting starts at the end of this month the Westinghouse control gate will be used to start all races. This gate differs from Puett and Cowell gates in that gates are locked by magnetism and involve no mechanism; each stall can be closed individually. A soft-webbing closes the rear end of the stall, while, as in the Puett gate, a mesh front allows the horses to see the track ahead before they break. Assistant starters are seeh in the picture at the LEFT closing one of the gates, while a horse sprints out with the opening of the gate at the RIGHT.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 — (AP). — Billy Conn, now in Hollywood, can sign with two film concerns if he'll talk business..Babe Ruth, looking very fit, saw a pro football thriller here yesterday. When the Babe stood up to root it was just too bad for those behind him..Broadway will bet Petey Scalzo is wearing the lightweight crown before January 1, 1941.

Eddie Anderson (he's Jack Benny's Rochester) is managing Eddie Matthews, a red-haired negro middleweight, on the side....Marshall Goldberg has checked into Pittsburg for the winter.

To-day's guest star:

R. G. Lynch, Milwaukee Journal: "Ken Keltner has had a lesson in public relations..All he can do about it now is hope baseball fans will forget by next spring—and try harder than ever to play top notch baseball."

Henry Armstrong's picture, "Keep Punching," will be previewed here to-morrow and have its premier in Harlem on Thursday..Mike Jacobs and his lawyer will attend the Harry Thomas confession hearing in Chicago....Add fairy tales: Ted Williams is alleged to have told friends that if he can get into the San Diego Fire Department he'll quit baseball....Now you tell one.

The University of Arizona football team is the United States' undisputed hot and cold champ.... Starting October 14, 1938. Arizona has made a specialty of one-game streaks, winning and losing every other game.

Ottawa Defeats Sarnia 23-1 In Eastern Final

TORONTO, Dec. 4. — (CP).— Come sunshine, high winds or rain, Ottawa Rough Riders have been found fit for the national football final with Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Ottawa next Saturday. About the only test the Riders haven't undergone is a heavy snow storm.

The big, swift Ottawa team scurried through mud in a continuous rainfall here Saturday to subdue Sarnia Imperials 23-1 before 7,000 brave customers in the eastern final.

All the knifing charges of the Sarnia linesmen and all the sound catching and brilliant running of little Mike Hedgewick, the Windsor flash, couldn't match the distributed strength of this big Ottawa club. The Imperials scored their point first and then the parade started.

Tony Golab, who played with Hedgwick in Windsor and Sarnia, worked the Riders' favorite smash off inside wing for consistent gains and Sammy Sward kicked another first-rate game with a soggy ball. One of Orville Burke's passes brought the first touchdown and he caught the kicking of Hank Galloway and Mike Meikle fautlessly, contributing the biggest share of the 133 yards the Riders made on runbacks.

The alert Imperials lived up to their reputations as ball-hawks in setting up the first point. When they got behind, though, they didn't have the attack to catch the Ottawans. Desperaely they tried 24 passes and made only six good.

Sarnia's Only Point.

Captain Cliff Parsons pounced on Bunny Wadsworth's fumble at the Ottawa 39-yard line in the opening minutes and when the Imperials couldn't work towards touchdown territory Galloway kicked 60 yards to Burke, who ran the ball to the deadline to concede a single point.

Joe Woodcock's fumble gave the Riders an opportunity to hit out and, after Golab hit the line for five yards to the Ottawa 37, Burke fired a 27-yard touchdown pass to Tommy Daley. Tiny Herman converted from placement, as he did on the two subsequent touches, and the tanks were rolling.

Just before the interval the Imperials made their longest march of the game on the passes of Hedgewick and Bernie Moroz and a run by Hedgewick, moving the ball fro mtheir own 25 to the Ottawa 22. There Tremblay intercepted Hedgewick's pass as the second quarter ended.

Doomed as they were, the Imperials fought back desperately. Two minutes from the finish Hedgewick came out, coated in mud, after playing the game of his career for 58 minutes and keeping Sarnia from a thorough trouncing.

Hopes To Be Back In Majors

Seen on his "Cardinal Chicken Farm" in this new picture is Bill Delancey, rookie star of the 1934 world series for St. Louis Cardinals, who was forced to the sidelines with a lung ailment shortly after his team's triumph, but now hopes to make a comeback with the Cards next year, after spending the intervening years in arid climates, tending his farm and managing one of the Cards' minor league teams in the Arizona-Texas League.

Four Long-Shots Win Races At Dufferin Winter Meet

TORONTO, Dec. 4.— Long shots found Dufferin's mud much to their liking Saturday and four of the six heats raced on the curtailed harness racing program were won by horses paying choice prices.

Most notable were the victories of Sharkey Bellini and Kay Harvester. The payoffs on these two were 100 to 1 and 8 to 1, respectively.

Betty Boop and June Grattan, winners of their particular heats, paid off at 3 to 1. Only two favorites to win were Mack Abbe and June Grattan.

Harry Fields, Hamilton driver, performed the time-honored hat-trick, winning behind Betty Boop, Mack Abbe, and June Grattan.

In view of the treacherous condition of the track, officials limited racing to only one heat in each class. The remaining heats will be completed to-day, with a free gate.

First Race, Class "F" (one heat raced)—1, Kay Harvester; 2, Chief Grattan; 3 Rex Grattan; 4, Donetta; 5, Rosabelle Lee; 6, Tillman; 7, Dick Powell; 8, Peter Harvester; 9, Judy Signal; 10, Ray Peters. Time, 2.24½.

Second Race, Class "E" (one heat raced)— 1, Betty Boop; 2, Bruno Dewey; 3, Hollywood Puck; 4, Jimmy Grattan; 5, Miss Peter Grattan; 6, Gracie Grattan; 7, Ginger; 8, Jack Oakie; 9, June Harvester; 10, John A. Time, 2.26¼.

Third Race, Class "A" (one heat raced)—1 Mack Abbe; 2, Bert Patch; 3, Tom Grattan; 4, Mart Harkaway; 5, Chestnut Bars; 6, Bing Crosby. Time, 2.22.

Fourth Race, Class "B" (one heat raced)—1, June Grattan; 2, Walter Grattan; 3 All Grattan; 4, Adrian Grattan; 5, Lee Henley; 6, Albert E. Grattan. Drawn, Todd Britton. Time, 2.23½.

Fifth Race, Class "D" (one heat raced)—1, Laurel Watts; 2, Calumet Brady; 3, Reta Bars; 4, The Guy; 5, Princess Lee; 6, Florence Powell; 7, Win Aubrey. Time, 2.27½.

Sixth Race, Class "C" (one heat raced)—1, Sharkey Bellini; 2, Swift Direct; 3, Kathleen Grattan; 4, Berry Direct; 5, Saki; 6, Lee Oliver; 7, Wireless Hal; 8, Bud Wenger; 9, Jane Axworthy; 10, Baron Grattan. Time, 2.26¾.

Trojans Defeat Washington In Late Rally

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—(AP).—Barring two vital games next Saturday between Southern California and University of California at Los Angeles and Tennessee and Auburn, and the Southern Methodist-Rice battle which will be important only to the parties concerned, 1939 college football in the United States now is material for the historians and the experts who select the year's No. 1 team.

As prospective opponents in the Rose Bowl come New Year's Day, Tennessee and U. S. G. whipped through the season's last big week in commendable style. The Knoxville Volunteers blanked Kentucky 19-0 Thursday. The Trojans came from behind for a 9-7 victory over Washington Saturday.

It was one of the top thrillers of the coast season. Put in the hole by Dean McAdams' runs and passes for a firstquarter touchdown and kept there for three periods by the same McAdam's punts, U.S.C. finally rolled in the last quarter.

Tennesee must whip Auburn not only for a Bowl bid but also for a third-share in the Southeastern Conference championship. One share already has been clinched by Georgia Tech, which lost sparkplug Johnny Bosch in beating Georgia 13-0 Saturday, to end its Conference campaign undefeated and immediately accepted an invitation to Miami's Orange bowl. The other goes to Tulane, which beat out Louisiana State 33-20.

Duquesne's all-winning record finally was checked as they had to come from behind to get a 10-10 tie with Detroit. Texas A. and M. San Jose and Colorado Mines finished off in fine style. The aggies turned back the Texas sophmores 20-0, San Jose cracked the Drake line for a 12-0 triumph.

DIED

YORK, Miss Annibell Harriet.—At noon on Monday, December 4, 1939, at her home at 340 Charlotte street, after a lingering illness, Annibell Harriet York, daughter of Mrs. Ethel York and the late Herbert York, in her 32nd year. Funeral on Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock from the late residence; Rev. F. C. Craik of St. James' United Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

BORN

McCALL.—On November 28, to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McCall (nee Olive Hutchinson), the gift of a son.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Miller of Keene announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Ruby Cavell Miller, to Donald David Fife, only son of Mr. Edwin Fife and the late Mrs. Fife of Indian River. The wedding is to take place in Bethel United Church on Saturday, December 16, at two p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS.—In loving memory of Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Ennismore, who passed away December 5, 1935.

Just when her life was brightest,
Just when her years were best,
She was called from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
We shall meet her some bright morning,
Waiting by the waters fair;
She is watching for our coming
In the upper garden there.

—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brother.

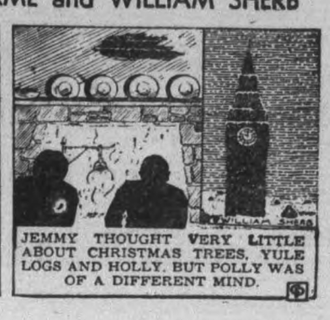
A Christmas Fantasy [Part 1]

By DAVID ORME and WILLIAM SHERB

HOW IT STARTED. JEMMY JACKMAN, A LONDON CHIMNEY SWEEP, DIDN'T KNOW. ALL HE KNOWS IS THAT IT WAS ON THE DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS

AS JEMMY SAT BEFORE THE FIRE, HIS GOOD WIFE POLLY, OF GENEROUS PROPORTIONS AND A HAPPY NATURE, BUSTLED ABOUT, PREPARING A HOT CUP OF TEA.

AFTER THE TEA WAS BREWED POLLY SAT BESIDE JEMMY, AND THEY WATCHED THE SMOKY FUEL TRANSFORM ITSELF INTO A THING OF FLAMING BEAUTY.



JEMMY THOUGHT VERY LITTLE ABOUT CHRISTMAS TREES, YULE LOGS AND HOLLY. BUT POLLY WAS OF A DIFFERENT MIND.

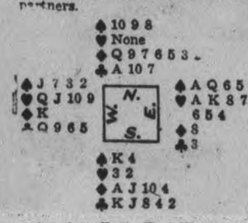
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T AID THE ENEMY

SOME PLAYERS, during the bidding, act as if they have forgotten the fact that they are up against a pair of opponents. Those opponents are looking for every scrap of information which may be of value to them in either their own bidding or their own play. It therefore behooves each of us to consider whether any additional information we give will be of more value to them than to our partners.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East began the bidding here, at all tables of a duplicate game, with 1-Heart, South overcalled with 2-Clubs, West bid 2-Hearts and North 3-Diamonds. All of the East players now gave a slam invitation, some of them by bidding 5-Hearts and some by bidding 3-Spades, with the idea of later getting into Hearts.

None of the East-West pairs reached a slam contract, as West was in all cases prepared to refuse any invitation. At most tables South sacrificed at 6-Diamonds, which East doubled.

The worst scores obtained by East and West were where East had made the spade bid. Because of that North counted West for club length and consequently finessed the suit correctly, thus successfully making a slam contract, which was originally intended to be a sacrifice.

Water Situation Serious In Tweed Area

TWEED, Dec. 4 (ENS).—Rapidly approaching what is termed by the majority of district farmers, a critical stage, the acute shortage of water in this district is causing rural residents grave concern.

While those adjacent to or within a reasonable distance of large bodies of water have not suffered anything worse than inconvenience, those farmers dwelling in the remote sections of the district are being faced with the problem of hauling water, in some cases five to ten miles.

Creeks of the district, at least those which are not already dry, are at a dangerously low level. Swamps and other low lying lands, usually inundated at this time of the year, are said to be almost dry, or containing nothing but muddy slime.

Northern Prince Edward County and lower Hastings County farmers have been hauling water for both domestic and agricultural purposes for the past two or three weeks, with other districts rapidly falling in line. Lack of the usual autumn rains has been the cause of this situation.

The rainfall in the lower Hastings County districts has been approximately below the average for November, being only about 25 per cent. of normal.

Beavers Return.

Several Rawdon farmers have been viewing the beaver dams along Rawdon Creek. The dams are built on the Fifth Concession near the woodlot of C. M. Sine, John McMullen and John Pauley. One dam is completed and the beavers have used good sized trees, trimming off all small limbs and evidently they started on the south side of the creek and worked north.

The other dam is partly finished, but the beavers when inquisitive humans appear on the scene, slip out of sight, and as yet no one has been able to see these busy animals at work. It has been many years since beavers were at work in Rawdon Township.

U.S. Navy Blimp In First Sea "Rescue"

Four miles off Manasquan, N.J., the U.S. navy blimp J-4 is shown filling a new page in dirigible history as it hovers 50 feet above the Atlantic Ocean to "rescue" a "stretcher patient" from the sea. The blimp is anchored by the white ballast bag, filled with water. Grappling ropes from the blimp are attached to the rubber lifeboat containing the "stretcher patient," who is being hauled up into the blimp. In the background is the blimp G-1. The blimp can also drop its own rubber raft to effect rescues. The raft being hauled up here was placed overboard from one of the vessels taking part in the demonstration.

Stokowski Predicts Conductors To Change Orchestral Seating

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4—(AP).—In the role of musical prophet, Leopold Stoknowski looked ahead through the years yesterday and saw symphony orchestras of the future playing only in acoustical reflectors—some with the aid of electrical amplification.

The eminent maestro, whose recent experiments with the seating arrangement of the Philadelphia orchestra have caused controversy, predicted other conductors would follow in discarding the familiar orchestral seating used for at least a century.

Under the traditional arrangement the strings are at the front of the stage and the wind instruments at the back. Stokowski reversed this a few weeks ago, placing the strings at the back, the woodwinds immediately before the podium and the other instruments at the side.

"But," he said today, "the new seating can only be properly heard with a modern acoustical reflector such as we have in Philadelphia. We have built another in Santa Barbara, Calif., and a still more modern reflector in Paris."

The reflectors, or shell in which the orchestra plays, is shaped like an old-time phonograph horn. Its force of reflection is most intense at the back where it is narrowest. It is only logical, Stokowski contends, that the most delicate instruments should be placed where they will benefit most by the shell's reflective powers.

"These reflectors," he said, "greatly enrich the tone of an orchestra, making it fuller, richer and giving it more variety of color.

"This is only the beginning of a new development which in my opinion will take years of experience to realize its full potentalities. The musical results obtained with acoustical reflectors are so remarkable I am sure American conductors will adopt them, as well as the new seating. But the European conductors may perhaps keep to the traditional methods."

One purpose of the new seating, Stokowski said, is to "blend and balance the tone of the entire orchestra." He added:—

"These reflectors are essential in large halls up to a seating capacity of 10,000. With more than 100,000 seats, it would be better to have good electrical amplification."

Performances of the Philadelphia Orchestra after the new seating received cheering aproval from audiences in Philadelphia and New York.

Many of Shakespeare's plays are seen in Russia's theatres this season.

Market Glutted With Chickens; Prices Tumbled

"What will you give me for them?" asked a farmer as he laid out four chickens on the counter in the F. & G. Store on George street early Saturday afternoon.

"I can get them for fourteeen and fifteeen cents, but I hate to take them at that price. I'll give you fifteen cents a pound," said the man behind the counter, presumably the manager.

And he didn't mean a barter deal either. No taking it out in trade. He paid the farmer out of the till. And that's the story of the chicken section of the farm produce market here Saturday. You would like to believe that those prices the women from the country were quoting from ten o'clock until half past eleven were typical of the morning, 22 and 20 cents. You would like to think too, when the day was done that the world was made up of people like that F. & G. man who, at least in that incident related above, was ignoring the business principle of supply and demand.

Such an abundance of chickens fresh from the townships, suggested a great deal of work; but the whole produce market had been weak for days according to the Montreal reports, with the tag end of cheese production showing the only strong spot; and finally the morning's splash of rain had no doubt discouraged a lot of buyers, and the result of those factors took no heed and reckoning of the work and the care those chickens represented. At the noon hour a restaurant man told the Examiner he could get all the chickens he wanted at 15 cents.

How to avoid gluts and surpluses! A problem of international agriculture, one of the interesting topics in the Arkell address at the Court House last week.

Heaps of Poultry.

Poultry was offered literally in heaps on the market Saturday, and prices actually were 22 cents and 20 cents until the supply overtook the demand, and apparently from that stage until business folded up the price slipped down to fifteen cents a pound.

Turkeys held the 25 cent level for most of the morning, but eased off toward the close, the last of them going at 20 cents. Geese were 21 and 20 cents; and there were a few ducks at 20 cents.

Butter was 28 to 30 cents. One woman said she heard it was only 25 cents across the aisle, and her neighbour commented "and likely dear at 10 cents."

Eggs were generally 30 to 35 cents, but other prices suggesting the range were from 28c to 38c.

Wants Tables Changed.

George Fife of Otonabee declared that some of the women who have been selling for years on the market haven't got all their customers back since the fire last June.

"With all the shifting about the customers couldn't find the women they always bought things from," Mr. Fife, "and now it's worse than ever the way they got the tables. Put them back length ways."

"Let's ask some of them," Mr. Fife suggested, and the first person to be interrogated was a young farmer who said he preferred the cross-the-hall lay out. But, he didn't count, Mr. Fife remarked, because he hasn't been coming to market long enough. "I can give you the names of Otonabee women who have told me they haven't seen some of their old customers since before the fire," Mr. Fife insisted, and he mentioned some of them, but "I don't want their names dragged into print."

Potatoes Steady.

Potatoes were 90 cents and a dollar for 75 pound bags, but these were only piebean stuff compared with Erle Tully's pedigreed and blue-blooded stock from certified seed. His prices were: Irish Cobblers and Chippewas $2 a bag; Katahdins $1.75, and Warbas $1.50. He says the Chippewa, a new variety, is considered best. Mr .Tully sees no weakness in the potato market, especially in view of information indicating a substantial shortage.

One producer had Green Mountains at 90 cents; another White Stars at $1.

Harry Gill reported a lively demand for meat, beef 12 and 14c; pork 14 and 16c; lamb 18c and 20c; veal 14c and 16c.

Harold Doig extolled his Imperator carrots, which he described as coreless and 'half long', and incidentally 25c a peck, turnips three for 10 cents and onions $1 a bag of fifty pounds.

R. R. Dixon, Otonabee, included at his covered wagon the old favorite "Seek No Further" apples at 20 cents a peck.

N. Moncrief's apple quotations were: McIntosh Reds and Northern Spies 35c a peck; $1.25 a bushel. Snows 30c a peck or $1 a bushel; Talmans $1 the bushel; Baxters 50 cents a bushel. core them and bake them in the oven, embellish them a bit, too, and add cream, usually, and you've got something. Milwaukees were ticketed at 75 cents.

Ben Isaac of Warkworth sold a well filled hamper of Spies at $1.50 and his McIntosh Reds were $1 the bushel.

Fresh herring from Lake Ontario were 8 for 25c, and siscoes 10 cents a pound. E. Mahood of Smith had a load of pork at 14 and 16 cents. His comment was that business was good in spite of the rain in the first hour of selling.

Fred Stinson quoted turnips at 50 cents a bushel; onions $1 a bushel; cabbage 5c each; beets and parsnips 25c for a large basket.

Young pigs, Yorkshire seven weeks old, were sold by W. H. Covert, Otonabee, at $10 a pair. Vincent Hickey of Douro had them at $4.50 to $5.50 each.

Big Wood Market.

The biggest wood market of the year filled up the north half of the square. At three o'clock in the afternoon there were still more loads of all kinds and sizes of wood than were usually seen at the business hour of recent Saturday mornings. H. A. Shearer from the Buckhorn district offered a truck load of body hardwood at $7.50; the three cords for $22.50. As a matter of fact the feature of Saturday's market was the wood section, even it it is mentioned last.

Hastings Endorses Two-Year Plan For Councillors

HASTINGS, Dec. 4—(ENS).—Appointment of municipal officers by election for a two year term as planned by the Provincial government was approved unanimously by the village council here at their monthly meeting Friday night. Three distinct advantages were pointed out by the council. In the first place, it would save the municipality $75 to miss one year without an election or nomination It was believed it would create a greater local interest in the elections and would bring out a larger vote.

Reeve Lewis Kelley said if municipal officers were elected for a two year term, he hopd no election here would reject all of th previous year's council who were elected for a one year term, he hoped no election here all members of the council were elected for two years but half the council was automatically out due to the expiration of their term each year.

Members of the council expressed great satisfaction in the results obtained by the renovating of the council chambers The walls and ceiling have been lined with beaver board and a coat of paint has been applied the walls, ceiling, floor and chairs. The ceiling is in white, the walls in cream and the baseboards in buff. A new stove was installed.

By-law confirming the appointment of J. W. Buck as tax collector for this municipality. was given its several readings. It was revealed that Jack Wineberg, proprietor of the pavilion here, had sought permission to stage a mid-night frolic on New Year's even but was refused. Reeve Kelley said the dance in question would begin about the same minute the new by-law, prohibiting mid-night frolics, went into force.

By-law Amended.

Two clauses in the by-law governing dance places here were amended after lengthy discussion. Reeve Kelley said he believed there should be some relaxation in the case of a supper dance staged by local societies where dancing would under ordinary circumstances, go on until two o'clock in the morning. The by-law as originally prepared, stated that dancing must cease at 12.45 with no exceptions. On a motion of Iden Bond, and seconded by Charles Lynch, clause Number Eleven was amended to read: "No extension of time later than specified shall be granted unless a written permit has been secured from and signed by the treasurer and sanctiond by the Reeve and Council.

Th second amendment dealt with the right to refuse or grant permission to anyone seeking a licence under this by-law.

Election Officials.

The several motions were made in preparation for the appointment of deputy returning officers and poll clerks for the election if held and the necessary papers prepared for nomination day on December 22 from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

J. C. Wilson was appointed deputy returning officer and Gilbert Herrington, poll clerk in Polling Sub-Division Number 1. Thomas Lynch was appointed deputy returning officer and William Whitred in Polling Sub-Division Number 1A.

When members of the council inspected an out-of-town by-law dealing with the same matter, they observed there was the stipulation that refusal to grant a license could be given by the council of the municipality but, on the by-law drawn up here at the last meeting, it was conspicuously absent. The amendment reads to the effect that the council shall have the right to grant or refuse permission to grant a license to anyone auplying for a license under this by-law

Thomas Richardson was appointed deputy returning officer and J. L. Doherty poll clerk in polling subdivision Number 2. The next statutary meeting will be held in the council chambers on December 15 at the regular hour of 7.30 in the evening. An election, if necessary, will be held on New Year's Day.

White Bros. Lead In Shorthorns

TORONETO, Dec. 4 — (CP). — White Brothers of St. Mary's and Parker & Edwards of Watford took major honors in Shorthorn cattle classes on Friday as judging continued at a special live stock show and sale at the Union Stock Yards here.

The show was arranged to replace the annual Provincial Winter Fair at Guelph and the Royal Winter Fair here, both of which have been cancelled because of the war.

In the class for 1,000 to 1,100-pound Shorthorn steers, White Brothers' entry took first place. The next five awards in the class went to J. E. Leask, Seagrave, Ont., McKenzie M. Hall, Ayr, Ont., Parker & Edwards, Watford, G. Burt & Sons, Hillsburg, and G. H. McKay & Sons, Tiverton.

Parker & Edwards won first place award in the class for Shorthorn steers, 1,100 pounds and over, with the next five prizes going to J. E. Leask, Parker & Edwards, White Brothers, J. W. Maus, Ayr, Ont., and Cockburn Brothers, Puslinch, Ont.

J. W. Maus took first prize with his entry in the class for Hereford steers weighing between 1,001 and 1,100 pounds. P. W. Reicheld & Son of Jarvis was second, and Maus was third.

Silver Stream Farms of Richmond Hill, Ont., took first, third, fourth and fifth places in the class for pen and five wether lambs averaging not over 95 pounds each. In second place was the T. H. Paisley entry from Stouffville, Ont.

Tweed Office Is Wrecked By Dynamite

Blast Followed Announcement Of Election Results

TWEED, Ont., Dec. 5—(CP) — Police believed today that the explosion which partly destroyed an office building here on election night was aimed at Samuel B. Rollins, newly-elected councillor and former Warden of Hastings County.

A charge of stumping powder, a low grade dynamite, was placed in the foundation of the building directly underneath the place where Rollins' office chair usually is situated. The explosion, shortly after eight o'clock last evening, blew one side of the building, smashed several windows and shook nearby houses.

Twenty-five people had been in the immediate vicinity of the explosive five minutes before it went off.

"The persons who set off the charge apparently were hurried in their efforts," Chief Constable Clare Hayes said today. "The charge was loosely packed and had blown outwards instead of upwards. It looks like the work of amateurs."

It was believed a reward would be offered for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons involved.

Secret Sessions Sanctioned By Chamberlain

LONDON, Dec. 5—(CP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that the action of Finland in requesting a meeting of the League of Nations to consider Russia's invasion of the little republic was made on Finland's own initiative.

Mr. Chamberlain added that Richard Butler, Foreign Undersecretary, would be Britain's representative at the league meeting and would make a statement there on behalf of the British Government.

Replying to a question by Clement Attlee, Labor leader, Mr. Chamberlain said he would agree to a one-day secret session of parliament to consider supply measures. The date of the session is to be arranged.

Mr. Chamberlain replied "No," when asked if Britain had protested to Moscow and Berlin against violation of Finnish territory.

Meanwhile it was announced an enemy warship believed to be the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer sank the 10,086-ton refrigerator ship Doric Star in the South Atlantic with a cargo of meats from New Zealand and Australia.

This raider has been mentioned previously in the sinking of two ships, the British freighter Clement in the south Atlantic October 2, and the British tanker Africa Shell in the Indian Ocean off East Africa November 16.

Torpedoed

London, Dec. 5 (CP)

TORPEDOING of the London steamship Horsted, 1,670 tons, was reported today after 13 survivors and the bodies of three crewmen were landed. Five of the crew were reported missing after the sinking in the North Sea.

The Horsted, a coal ship, was enroute to a northeastern port to pick up a cargo when a submarine attacked her off the eastern coast yesterday, it was said.

A British warship picked up the survivors and the three bodies.

Sweden Alarmed Calls 40,000 To Colors; Norway Seeks Peace Conference; Red Bombers Raid Finn Arctic Districts

KIRKENES, Norway, (At the Finnish Frontier), Dec. 5—(AP)—Three Soviet Russian bombers raided Salmijaervi and the nearby nickel mining area today in a renewal of aerial operations in the war on Finland.

The bombers could be seen from Kirkenes, and detonations reverberated across the border, but it was not learned immediately what damage and casualties resulted.

Properties of the International Nickel Company of Canada lie in Salmijaervi area.

At the same time reports of continued Russian landings in the Petsamo region, northernmost Finland, about 30 miles east northeast of Salmijaervi, were received.

These reports said Russian warships were observed in Petsamo Fjord this morning. These were believed to be convoying troopships bringing troops from the Russian arctic garrisons of Alexandrovsk, Murmansk and Kola.

It was reported the Russians first attempted to land at Liinahamari but failed. Later they were reported landing on both sides of the mouth of Petsamo Fjord. The Finns apparently were unable to prevent this, but were believed to be waiting until the invaders reach Petsamo, where strong defence positions have been built. Petsamo is Finland's chief arctic port.

Strong detachments of Finns were moving northward from Rovaniemi toward Petsamo.

Finns Rush Forts

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Soviet Russia renewed bombing operations against Finland today as the hard pressed Finns feverishly fortified the Aaland Islands in order to keep sea communication with Sweden open.

(Bombers raided Salmijaervi in the far north, observers at Kirkenes, Norway reported.)

(A Stockholm dispatch said a Russian bombing squadron north of Lake Ladoga had lost its way in a snowstorm and crashed.)

Renewal of aerial warfare after a lapse because of unfavorable flying weather, came as the Finns with the aid of heavy snowfall, appeared to have slowed the Russian advance.

SWEDEN ALARMED

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 5.—(AP).—Sweden, alarmed at the Soviet Russian incursion into Finland, called more troops to the colors to-day and for the first time acknowledged "partial mobilization."

About 40,000 men, including artillerymen, engineers and commissary detachments, were ordered into service, bringing to about 150,000 the number under arms —as against a normal standing force of 20,000.

A million kronur (nearly $250,000) has been collected in Sweden for the preliminary financing of a volunteer corps to aid Finland. However, it was not yet clear whether volunteer fighters from Sweden, Norway and Denmark would be permitted to leave their countries.

When such volunteers helped Finland win her independence against Red forces in 1918, Soviet Russia was not a formidable military power. To-day the U.S.S.R. might choose to interpret volunteer action as action of the governments.

The troops called up today are for "wartime service" published notices said. Previous military orders referred only to "preparedness."

Although the number of Swedes enlisting in volunteer corps or service with the Finns passed 1,000 today, Sweden continued to direct her efforts toward neutrality, one official informant remarking, "We may be wealthy, but our forces are too small to send to the aid of another country."

Finnish refugees reaching Haparanda, on the Swedish side of the frontier, said they were machine-gunned by Russian planes which they rushed out to greet near Petsamo in the mistaken belief they were Red Cross craft.

Among about 250 Finns and Swedes arriving from Helsingfors and Abo yesterday was Eljas Erkko, former Finnish Foreign Minister, who is to be Charge d'Affairs in Stockholm. Erkko and the Swedish Foreign Minister, Richard Sandler, conferred until after midnight.

Russia Shuns League Session Says Parley Needless "Not At War With Finland"

League Circles Hint Russia Likely To Be Tossed Out

GENEVA, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Soviet Russia, in the opinion expressed today in League of Nations circles, faces the choice of leaving the League, or being thrown out.

These quarters took one or the other eventuality for granted following the Finnish appeal Sunday for action to check the aggression of the Soviet Union and yesterday's demand from Argentina and Uruguay for immediate ejection of the U.S.S.R.

(Foreign Minister Alberto Guani of Uruguay proposed, moreover, that all American members of the League withdraw from the body unless Russia is expelled. Besides Argentina and Uruguay, these are Bolivia, Colombia, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Haiti, Mexico, Panama and Peru.

(Brazil's foreign minister, Oswaldo Aranha, said his nation, not a league member, was prepared to support any common continental action based on the League pact as a result of Russia's war on Finland.)

League sources professed to foresee the rebirth of the league as a power in world politics, and

MOSCOW, Dec. 5 — (AP). — Soviet Russia has given notice of withdrawal from sessions of the League of Nations called to act in Finland's charge of aggression.

(At Geneva, League circles took for granted, in view of the Russian response and a movement among Central and South American League members for expulsion of Russia, that the Soviet Union would withdraw completely from the League, or be forced out.)

As Leningrad military headquarters last night claimed deepening advances into Finland, Tass, official Russian news agency, announced rejection of the League invitation on grounds that "the Soviet Union is not in a state of war with Finland and do not threaten the Finnish people with war."

League machinery for sessions of the Council and Assembly, starting next Saturday and Monday, respectively, was started on the request of Rudolf Holsti, Finland's permanent League delegate, that the League "take all

Hitler Mistrusting Slippery Pal Stalin Forced To Move Troops East Again As War Noose Tightens On Nazi Dictator

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(CP).—The military correspondent of the Yorkshire Post and Leeds Mercury said to-day that Adolf Hitler, finding Joseph Stalin a "bad enemy and a perfidious friend," has been forced to move troops to the east despite the Soviet-Nazi friendship pact.

Unrest in conquered territory also forced an increase in eastern garrisons, the correspondent said.

"Some fresh evidence shows that Germany has moved still more troops east," he wrote. "There are 90 German divisions in the west, and those in the east and others in course of formation in the west are perhaps 30 more.

"Hitler is believed to have become reconciled to the view that the two fronts are permanent and the chance of full strength on one is at an end. Every action of Russia balks Germany and drives her openly to accept Bolshevism —as it is intended to.

"Hitler's secret wish must be to end the present war and fight the Soviet with such allies as he might get for the purpose."

The Fuehrer's nightmare "is Stalin and his terms," the article went on, and "all Hitler's efforts to entangle the Russians in a major war have been deftly parried.

"The force in the Czech country has been strengthened because of internal unrest. There are probably 100,000 men there. Poland still requires an army, and East Prussia has had to have additional men."

Boon To The Allies?

The ill wind that is sweeping Finland may be blowing good to the Allied cause.

It is becoming increasingly clear that Red Russia's invasion of the little Finnish republic is placing a strain on the Rome-Berlin axis that once was known as the pact of steel.

The Axis started to bend the day Fuehrer Hitler discarded the anti-Communist pact to sign a treaty of non-aggression with Moscow. That it continues to bend seemed certain today when Italian students, for the third time in four days, attempted to stage anti-Russian and pro-Finnish demonstrations in Rome.

The good nature with which Fascist troops dispersed the demonstrators indicated the Mussolini government was not out of sympathy with the students' cries of "Finland resist."

Finland's determined resistance of its liberty against a Russia 50 times its size was seen by the New York Times as "Reawakening the conscience of the world." The newspaper viewed the war in the north as clarifying the issues at stake in the larger war Great Britain and France are waging against Nazi Germany. It said:

"We can measure what has happened in the quickened interest of our own people in this struggle.

"A month ago there were many who professed to find 'no moral issue' in the war in Europe. We were told, sometimes by members of the United States senate who spoke with great conviction, that this was merely a new struggle for power on the part of larger nations, another weary chapter in the long story of Europe's squabbles.

Liberty Really At Stake

"The voices of those who expressed this view, even as Germany was overrunning Poland, are silent now. It has taken Finland —Finland after Poland, after Czechoslovakia, after Austria—to drive home to skeptical minds the fact that liberty is at stake in Europe."

The American man-in-the-street is not overly impressed by the menace of a Nazi Germany that is considered far from his doorstep. But Communist Russia, whose northeastern tip almost touches America's Alaska, is viewed as right on his doorstep. When the Communists and Japan, still the No. 1 menace in every American closet, drew closer together after the Russo-German rapprochement, it caused a distinct shudder in the United States.

Each step the Russians have taken to extend their influence into Poland, the Baltic and the Balkans has seemed to make Italy cooler toward Germany. Mussolini regards the Balkans as his special sphere of influence. If Dictator Stalin should attempt to retake Bessarabia from Rumania that might bring Il Duce and his Fascist Legions into the war picture in double time.

Sixty Planes Said Burned At Murmansk

Claim Fires Burning In Leningrad And Russ Navy Base

By LYNN HEINZERLING
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 5 — (AP). —Finland was reported to-day to have struck back at Soviet Russia by air bombardment of Paldiski, the Baltic port which Russia leased from Estonia for a naval base. The reports lacked confirmation, however, and gave no details.

Finns had declared that Paldiski was the base for some of the Soviet planes which raided Helsingfors last week.

Despatches from the Norwegian-Finnish frontier told of unconfirmed reports that 60 Russian planes had been destroyed by Finnish fliers dropping incendiary bombs at Murmansk, Russia's ice-free Arctic port.

Bremen's Hideout.

Murmansk, east of North Finland, was the port of refuge for the German liner Bremen on its Eastern Atlantic dash at the beginning of the war.

The reports, attributed to semi-official Finnish sources, fixed 60 as the maximum number of Red Army planes accounted for by Finnish raiders in the Murmansk zone.

Unverified reports said large fires were burning in Leningrad and the British Jobless Drop 28,000 During October

LONDON, Dec. 5 (CP) — Great Britain's unemployment figures "are the most exact, the most comprehensive and the most honest in the world," Ernest Brown, Labor minister, said tonight during a broadcast.

"If I were using some of the devices which Germany has used to reduce its unemployment figures, my task would be easy," Mr. Brown said. "I have no desire to imitate our enemies in this field, but if by a mere decree I could prevent the registration of married women, of men over or under certain ages, of people belonging to certain faiths or creeds and fill concentration camps with citizens opposed to the government, I could come to the microphone next month and tell you that unemployment had been reduced by 40 or 50 per cent.

"I could claim like the German Dr. Ley (head of the Reich labor front) to be the most successful of all ministers of labor. But our people love the truth and I doubt whether even with the vast propaganda machine at our command, the people in this country could be deceived as the multitudes have been in Germany."

Suitable Field For Airport Is Hard To Find

"I think the aviation officials are as eager as we are to find a suitable flying field near Peterborough, but we can't remake th country." J. J. Duffus, M. P., told th city council, last night, in reference to a prerequisite by engineers of a terrain that affords ample level places for safe landing by young men learning to fly.

"The country around Peterborough is not regarded as ideal for beginners. If anything went wrong in the air, there are not enough good fields on which young men would have a good chance of landing in safety."

As a former mayor, Mr. Duffus was invited by Mayor Hamilton to a seat on the dais while he reviewed the interview which Mayor Hamilton and City Engineer Parsons and himself had with civil and military aviation officials in Ottawa on Saturday.

"If we get an airport it will be because of the good work done by Mayor Hamilton and Mr. Parsons in preparing the information which they presented to the officials on behalf of the council," Mr. Duffus said. "The facts provided by Mr. Parsons certainly helped our chances, because he left a splendid impression which may go a long way with the engineers in their decision. They told us that Peterborough has industries and qualified mechanics who would be a real asset; but—"and at that point Mr. Duffus turned to the

U.S. Ready To Join Pan American Slap At Russia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — (AP).—Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, announced today the United States government had notified certain Latin-American nations it would be very glad to participate in a joint pan-American condemnation of Russia's invasion of Finland.

Certain Latin-American nations, which he did not name, have approached the United States government in support, Welles said, of the principles of international law and with reprobation of force as a means of settling international difficulties.

This government, he said, has replied that if all other American republics undertake to formulate such a declaration the United States would be very glad to take part.

Welles recalled that many Latin-American governments already have made their position on the invasion clear through statements and messages.

Other officials expained that charges against Soviet Russia brought before the League of Nations by some American republics did not concern the United States since it is not a member of the League.

Earlier Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, called on President Roosevelt to ascertain whether the Soviet government had kept its pledge to stay out of political activity in the United States.

Bund Chief Kuhn Sentenced To Over 2 Years

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 5—(AP)—Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, was sentenced today to a prison term of from 2½ to five years. He was convicted last week of Grand Larceny of Bund funds.

The sentence was imposed on the count of Grand Larceny in the James Murray transaction and on two counts of forgery in that connection.

Sentence was suspended by Judge James Wallace on the transaction involving the alleged payment of the Moving expenses of Mrs. Virginia Camp, the "blond angel" of Kuhn's love letters.

Murray testified during the trial that he had never received $500 which Kuhn claimed to have paid him for legal services.

The other charge of larceny concerned $717 allegedly given Mrs. Camp.

"This man is not to be sentenced because he is a hate dispenser or a rabble rouser, for there are thousands of others in this country," Judge Wallace said before he pronounced sentence.

Kuhn's attorney Peter Sabbatino, contended during the trial that political persecution lay at the bottom of the case.

The judge denied a defence request to suspend sentence.

Sabatino made no motion to defer execution of sentence pending a possible appeal. The state contended at Kuhn's trial that he altered his records to conceal the disposition of the $500 in the Murray matter.

Rome's Students Held Off Russ Legation

ROME, Dec. 5 (AP)—Carabinieri and other troops blocked today a new attempt by student groups to stage an anti-Russian demonstration in front of the Soviet embassy. There had been demonstrations there Saturday and yesterday.

Hundreds of students marched through rain-drenched streets, crying: "Finland resist!"

Troops blocking off avenues leading to the Russian embassy forced the demonstrators to turn back. Instead of dispersing, the students marched off through the rain toward the Finnish legation to repeat sympathetic manifestations of Saturday and Monday.

Several hundred soldiers from artillery and cavalry regiments stood in doorways around the Soviet embassy, bearing rifles. They were supported by police.

When the marchers approached the embassy they poured out into the rain and with good humor on both sides persuaded the demonstrators to turn back.

Unopposed, the students, 1,000 strong, moved to the Finnish legation and there renewed their cries of sympathy for the country whose resistance to the Red forces, mean-

LONDON, Dec. 5—(CP Cable) — W. Dobbie, Labor member of parliament, stamped from the House of Commons today rather than apologize as demanded by Speaker, Captain Fitzroy.

Shouting that the wives of soldiers in his constituency, Rotherham, had been forced to pawn their possessions, Mr. Dobbie told the speaker who had threatened to name him: "I don't care a damn. The need of these wome nand children is more important than the prestige of this house."

Later in the midst of a general hubbub the Labor member exclaimed: "In the name of these hungry women I cannot give an apology to anyone in this country."

With that he turned and stamped from the house.

Protest Gets Court Order For Night's Fun, $57 Bill Sets Noisy Builders Worrying

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(CP).—The James C. Lewises appear in Magistrate Henry C. Curran's court today to tender the bill for last night's fun—$57, of which $32 was for dinner.

They go to court after a quiet night's sleep in a swank hotel, the first good night's slumber they've had in many a week. It cost $25.

Just possibly they risked a contempt of court charge, because they didn't go to the theatre as ordered by the magistrate. But as Mrs. Lewis interpreted Magistrate Curran's judgment:—

"The judge told us to have the most wonderful time, and we can think of no better evening than to get a good night's sleep."

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis went to court yesterday to complain bitterly of nights rendered sleepless by the noise of derricks and steam shovels working on East River Drive near their home. Specifically, Charles Richardson, engineer for the company doing the work, was charged with violation of New York's anti-noise ordinance.

After the company said the noisest part of the job would be over today, Magistrate Curran told Lewis:—

"You and Mrs. Lowis go out to dinner this evening. With the dinner have a Burgundy. I'd suggest Clos Vougeot, 1923. Have all the trimmings. Then go see "Life With Father,' or 'The Man Who Came to Dinner.' They're the best shows in town.

"After the show stop at a club and have another snack and a drink. Then go to a good hotel and have a good night's rest away from the noise. Then come back here with the bill for the night's entertainment."

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis dined at the Colony Club. They had one of the best tables. As their glasses clinked they toasted Magistrate Curran.

For some time the waiters were kept busy at the Lewis table.

Rumania Cuts Her Exports Busy Stocking Own Army

BUCHAREST, Dec. 5.—(CP-Havas)—Strict control of Rumanian exports to prevent further drainage of goods essential to national defence has been ordered by the army general staff, it was disclosed her today.

The move came amid concern created in the Balkans by fears Russia will demand Rumanian Bessarabia if she disposes of Finland.

No supplies of which the army does not have stocks available for two years will be allowed to leave the country, according to the new regulation. Further export of fats and oats has already been prohibited.

Germany, Rumania's principal client, will be hit especially hard by the new restrictions, which add to trade difficulties resulting from the war. Big purchases by German firms in the Rumanian market have provoked price increases in raw materials and food products. Speculation, gaps in the country's own supplies and prob-

UK Calls In Ships To Run Food From Canada, US

LONDON, Dec. 5 — (CP Cable). — The British Government has started to requisition British ships for the North Atlantic trade route with Canada and the United States, Sir John Gilmour, Minister of Shipping, announced to-day in the House of Commons.

Sir John's announcement follows: "With a view to ensuring regular importation of cereals by the North Atlantic route, I now am requisitioning British ships for the conveyance by this route of food cargoes bought by the Ministry of Food."

He was replying to a question by E. Shinwell, Labor, who asked if the Government was requisitioning British tonnage for carrying essential Government imports.

This announcement emphasized the importance of Canada as a food reservoir for Britain in wartime. Britain will be a heavy buyer of such products as wheat, bacon, cheese, fruit, and other food products which ordinarily come to Britain from all over the world.

This is in addition to vast shipments of munitions, planes and guns which will complicate peacetime shipping facilities, making it necessary to requisition extra tonnage.

Early Victory In U. K. Policy Says Bennett In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(CP)—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Canada's former prime minister, arrived from Europe today with the observation that Great Britain's war against Nazi Germany" is not an adventure but the discharge of a great duty."

The military and naval operations of the Anglo-French Allies, he said, "are following a sound course, best calculated to assure an early victory" and "aimed at conservation of manpower and the perfection of a system to remedy defects caused in the previous war by hasty preparations."

Mr. Bennett, who retired to England after resigning the leadership of the Dominion Conservative party in March, 1938, and who has been directing efforts of the Canadian Red Cross in the United Kingdom the past several weeks, arrived at Hoboken, N.J., aboard the Holland-America liner Statendam.

Single Ontario City Ousts Mayor Of 1939

TORONTO, Dec. 5—(CP)— Most Ontario cities will be governed for the duration of the war by their 1939 Mayors, providing Premier Hepburn's proposal to suspend municipal elections until the end of hostilities is passed by the legislature next month.

Only one mayor of all who sought re-elected in cities of the province yesterday was defeated. That notable exception was Mayor Norman Perry of football fame, defeated at Sarnia by Alderman John T. Barnes.

Several towns turned out their 1939 mayors but the trend even in the smaller centres was towards expressions of confidence in the sitting officials. The only other changes in the chief magistracies will be in those places where mayors did not stand for re-election and possibly in some places which hold elections January 1.

But, though Premier Hepburn has expressed determination to call off municipal voting during the war as an economy measure, four cities voted disfavor with the scheme. Given an opportunity by their city councils to express an opinion, Hamilton, London, Brantford and Chatham voters said they didn't approve of the principle.

The Premier had warned that to submit the matter to the voters would be useless, no matter what the outcome, because of his desire to reduce expenditures wherever possible. The bill to go before the BIG BOWEL In Trouble?

That's Where Most Constipation Occurs, and Where First Help Is Needed

The next time you feel constipated, dull, headachy and out of sorts, remember this and take CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS to feel better!

Most constipation occurs when waste jams-up in the big bowel (marked X). So when you take calomel, salts or oil for relief, you're starting the action somewhere else in the bowels and possibly upsetting the whole intestinal tract! The wise thing to do is to take a laxative that concentrates its action where the help is needed. That means CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS!

Because they contain cascara, said to give "nearest to natural action" of any cathartic, these good-tasting chocolaty tablets act directly on the big bowel—moving that clogging waste those few inches and bringing blessed relief overnight. If you haven't tried them, get a tin now at your nearest drugstore. Or if you like, take your first ones free. For free sample write "Cascarets," Windsor, Ont.

OBITUARIES

ALFRED WEST

The death of Alfred West occurred this morning at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Clarence Morris, 796 George street. He was in his 77th year.

Mr. West had been living in Peterborough since October 15th of this year, having come here from Hyde Park, near London, Ontario. He was a retired farmer and was a member of the United Church.

A son of the late William West and Christine Beverley, he was born in Ilderton, Ontario. Surviving are his wife, formerly Jennie Edwards, and two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Morris and Mrs. Melbourne Hynes, both of Peterborough; also one brother, William West of Ilderton; and four sisters, Mrs. George Taylor and Mrs. Charlotte Morrow of London, Mrs. Hannah Maynes of Toronto, and Mrs. George Mitchell of Komoka, Ontario.

The remains will rest at the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, and will be conveyed to London by C.P.R. train, leaving Peterborough at 5.05 Wednesday morning for London where the funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Logan Funeral Home, Rev. Mr. Oliver of Arva officiating. Interment will be at Edwards' Cemetery, Lobo township.

MRS. ELIZABETH DOHERTY.

The funeral service of Mrs. Elizabeth Doherty, who died on Saturday morning at her home on Lot 22, Concession 9, Otonabee Township, after a long illness, was held on Monday morning. Mrs. Doherty was one of Otonabee's most widely known and highly respected citizens, a life-long resident of Peterborough County. She had been ill for a long time.

The large funeral cortege left the family residence and proceeded to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Dr. Grant. Rev. J. C. Maloney addressed a large congregation that attended, and also officiated at the Libera. Interment took place in St. Peter's cemetery beside her husband, who predeceased her in May of 1938. Services at th graveside were in charge of Rev. Father Maloney.

Pall-bearers were Joseph Fitzgerald, Joseph Porter, John Casey, James Heffernan, James Garvey and Thomas Heffernan.

The number of spiritual and floral tokens also gave testimony to the esteem Mrs. Doherty had enjoyed among her host of friends. Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the church, and Rev. Paul Costello of Hastings were also present in the sanctuary.

Mrs. Doherty was born Elizabeth Heffernan, daughter of the late Patrick Heffernan and Elizabeth Slattery, in Douro Township. She went to Otonabee when a young bride and lived the remainder of her life in that township. She was a member of the Church of the Sacred Heart and of the Altar Society of that church. She was possessed of a kind and cheerful disposition and gathered about her a large circle of friends who will mourn her passing.

Surviving are two sons, Frank, at home, and James of Peterborough; four daughters: Mrs. Elizabeth Moher of Douro, Mrs. John Cleary of Hastings, and Minnie and Marguerite, both at home; also one sister, Mrs. Ellen Conroy of Otonabee and one brother, John Heffernan of Douro.

New Bacon Offer Held Boon To The Farmer

The new bacon and hog agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom was generally received Monday by agricultural authorities as a war-time boon to the Canadian farmers.

The scheme calls for Canada to supply Britain wth 4,480,000 pounds of bacon and ham weekly until October 31, 1940, with Britain paying a fixed price for Wiltshire sides of $20.18 an. English hundredweight of 112 pounds. This would amount to about nine cents a pound live weight for hogs, it was reported from London.

Agriculture Minister John A. McDonald of Nova Scotia said the price guarantee "should prove a considerable stimulus to hog production in the province."

Nova Scotia is closest to the British market and should be in a position to reap the fullest benefit from the new arrangement, he said. "We should be grateful for this action on the part of Britain and can only hope such a definite price basis may be applied to other products of the farm."

Roy Grant, secretary of the Canadian Livestock Co-operative at Fredericton, N.B., said the agreement is "a very fine thing for the Canadian bacon industry; it looks as though we are assured of reasonably satisfactory prices for all we can produce." The new agreement

Typical Russian Story.

A Finnish Government spokesman, discussing Moscow's statement that Russia is at peace with Finnish people, declared that "the world's diplomatic history knows no document as cynical as this."

"All that the Russian Government has to say about the Government based on Finland's parliamentary system consists of lies and false allegations," he said.

"This document better than anything shows the real face of the Soviet Government which declares itself protector of small nations and creator of the independence and liberty of small nations."

(Rejecting participation in league of nations meetings on a Finnish arbitration appeal, Premier Molotoff yesterday declared Russia "maintains peaceful relations with the democratic republic of Finland with whose Government on December 2 it signed a treaty of mutual assistance and friendship."

(He referred to the Communist-sponsored "People's Government" set up at the Finnish border village of Terijoki).

Up to late afternoon there were no reports of the progress of fighting on the Finnish war fronts.

Then they went to the Waldorf-Astoria where they had engaged a sitting room and bedroom for the night at a cost of $25.

Meanwhile, a disturbing question as being discussed by officials of the construction company and the borough for which the company is doing the work. Who is going to pay the bill?

Lester G. Hammond, chief engineer of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, termed the situation "ticklish" and "delicate." It seems about 1,000 other residents of the Lewis neighborhood also have been complaining. Said Hammond:

"I'd pay the bill myself if all those people would quit hollering. This is ticklish. We're in a delicate situation. We have to go easy on this or we may have to take everybody on York avenue out to dinner."
